CANDYTUFT

Our stock of this popular hardy annual is the best possible to procure. Where grown in rows for cut flowers, best results can be obtained only by setting the plants at least a foot apart in the rows and 1½ feet between the rows.

S. & W. Co.'s Giant Hyacinth-Flowered. Immense spikes of pure white flowers. ¼-lb., $1.25; lb., $4.00; trade pkt, 15c; oz., 35c.

Empress. Flat heads of white flowers. ¼-lb., $1.00; lb., $3.00; trade pkt., 10c; oz., 30c.

MIGNONETTE

S. & W. Co.'s Triumph. This Mignonette is one of the choicest varieties for winter forcing. In type similar to Allen's Defiance, except that spikes are more compact and the individual florets are much larger in size. Seed of this grand variety is grown in our greenhouses, and is saved from the best spikes. Plants grow from 2 to 3 feet high, producing flower-spikes up to 20 inches long. Pkt. (about 1000 seeds), 50c; ⅛-oz., 75c; oz., $5.00.

FLORISTS

SEE OUR EXHIBIT FOR BASKET NOVELTIES

Ever since we began to import florists' baskets several years ago, we have made a close study of the styles that were most in demand; therefore, in presenting our novelties to you at this time it is practically a foregone conclusion that you will find them decidedly popular with your trade. Last winter Mr. Curtis Kindler, a member of our firm, spent over two months visiting our factories at Ebersdorf and Weidhausen, Germany, selecting the samples for the coming year and getting things in shape to give you a showing of florists' baskets that would be hard to equal. This advertisement shows only six out of hundreds of attractive styles. You should visit our exhibit without fail and see the entire line, but if you find it impossible to get to the Convention, you are sure to be interested in our catalogue and literature. Why not write for them anyway? Remember, this is the only exclusive basket house in Chicago, and, being specialists in that line, we are always able to give the best values at the lowest possible prices.

STANDARD STYLES ALSO WILL BE SHOWN

Of course, novelties are a good thing; they act as leaders and attract the high class trade, but, after all, it is really the standard styles that provide the bread and butter in any line of business. Baskets are no exception to the rule, so we have been careful in planning our exhibit to show a complete line of the good old standbys; styles you need in your every-day work, for weddings, receptions, gifts, etc. You are cordially invited to visit our exhibit even if you are not yet ready to select your fall line of baskets. You will see many new things and many that will seem like old friends, but they are florists' baskets, every one of them, and it is this close attention to only one line that always puts the Raedlein baskets first in the consideration of the modern, up-to-date, progressive florists. In justice to yourself and in justice to your customers, investigate the merits of Raedlein baskets before you buy your fall supply. It is our aim to please every buyer. Come—and let us try our hand at pleasing you. We'll be glad to see you.

VISIT OUR NEW FACTORY

We want every florist who attends the Chicago Convention (as well as those who may be in the city at any other time) to visit our new factory and see how Schack Flowers are made. We will be glad to see you and show our latest importations and our method of making artificial flowers.

OUR NEW DISPLAY ROOM

is fitted up to show our flowers and other decorative materials as they will appear when in use, and our expert designer will be glad to offer suggestions, and help you in every way possible.

For the Fall and Christmas Seasons we have the finest line that has ever been offered by any dealer. It includes a great variety of European novelties that have never been shown before, and which will make a sensation wherever used.

TO REACH OUR FACTORY

By Elevated—Take Metropolitan Elevated Railway, Logan Square or Humboldt Park cars at any Station, ride to Robey Street and walk one block west.

By Surface—Take Armitage or Milwaukee Avenue car at State and Madison Streets to 1739-41 Milwaukee Avenue.

PARADES AND OTHER EVENTS

call for special decorations and this offers the live florist a chance to make a good bit of extra money if he knows how. Our Parade Circular R. 25 contains 150 automobile and float decorations and will be sent you, free, upon application. Our experts are at your disposal, and can give you many valuable suggestions. Write now for both the Parade and Fall Catalogues free. Tell us your needs.

The White Company,
2635 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:—The White ¼-ton Truck purchased from you a few months ago is giving me absolute satisfaction. It is exceptionally economical in the consumption of gasoline, and there has been practically no expense whatever for repairs.

I consider the White ¼-ton Truck an ideal car for florists and, just as soon as my business demands it, I shall purchase another. No other make of trucks will be considered, for my experience with the White leads me to believe it is the highest grade truck on the market today.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Chas. A. Samuelson.

Florists! Make Your Delivery 100% Efficient

It is service that spells success. Guard against punctures and blowouts and the dangers of delay. Have your flowers delivered on time. Get them to their destination when wanted.

Essenkay

"ENDS TIRE TROUBLES"

ESSENKAY makes service efficient by guarding against punctures and blowouts. It is the greatest substitute for air ever invented—absolutely different from any tire filler you have ever known. There is not a drop of rubber in it. It won't rot, run or crumble. Nothing affects it. It is neither a fluid nor a semi-solid. It is put into your tire casings in a moulded cylindrical form—eliminates the expense of the inner tube entirely—lasts indefinitely—can be changed from tire to tire whenever desired, and pays for itself in what it saves. It actually cuts tire bills in half. It eliminates all tire trouble and does away with all tire expense bills.

Scores of florists in Chicago are using it. Each one of them is an enthusiastic endorser. Read some of the evidence in these two letters.

ALBERT F. AMLING CO.

Maywood, Ill., May 7, 1912.

The Essenkay Co., 2120 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Replying to your inquiry about the satisfaction we are getting from the use of Essenkay, we are free to state that we have had no tire trouble—no punctures or blowouts—since we put it in. We have used Essenkay on our one-ton Buick truck since October 1, 1911, making daily trips from the greenhouses at Maywood to the commission house in Chicago. While using air we never were safe from tire trouble, but since using Essenkay have had no difficulty whatever on that score. In even the coldest weather we have found the resiliency satisfactory.

After having given Essenkay a three months' test on the truck our Mr. A. F. Amling put it in the tires on his touring car. Of course, it gets a much less severe test here but has given the same satisfactory results.

Very truly yours,
ALBERT F. AMLING CO.,
Per A. F. Amling, Treasurer.

SMYTH, FLORIST.
Michigan Blvd. and 31st St., Chicago.

Chicago, April 19, 1912.

The Essenkay Co., 2120 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: We want to praise you for the excellency of Essenkay. It certainly kills tire troubles. Previous to last January, when we first inaugurated the use of Essenkay in our tires, we had constant trouble with punctures. These punctures, of course, as well as other tire troubles, did not expedite deliveries, which in this trade must be executed with dispatch. Since last January we have had absolutely no trouble whatsoever, and we attribute this to your most excellent discovery. Even during the coldest weather, when the thermometer was below zero, it was impervious to the cold. We have found it the same in regard to moisture, friction or pressure. What more could we ask?

We will be glad to recommend this to any florist who is desirous of eliminating tire trouble.

Yours truly,
W. J. SMYTH.

INSTALL ESSENKAY TODAY

Now, while the thought is with you, go to the Essenkay dealer in your town and have him put Essenkay into your tire casings. Let Essenkay show you the real meaning of efficiency. Let it show you how easily it prevents punctures and blowouts. Let the great reduction it makes in tire upkeep prove its economy. And, let time prove how Essenkay lessens your delivery cost.

If you find we have no dealer in your town, clip this coupon and send it to us today. We will send you the full story of Essenkay and tell you where you can obtain real Essenkay.

Fill out the coupon NOW, before you forget it.

August 20th to 24th is the date set for the Florists' Convention in Chicago. While in town stop in and let us demonstrate and explain Essenkay to you.

ARTIFICIAL AND PAPER FLOWERS

Prepared FERNS, PALMS and DECORATIVE MATERIALS

Our display will include some of the most important novelties ever shown in this country. A great many new importations brought back from Europe will be exhibited for the first time at the Coliseum.

We are the largest importers and manufacturers of artificial, paper and prepared flowers in this country, and we extend a cordial invitation to those who come to Chicago to visit both our exhibit at the Coliseum and our salesrooms and five-story factory building, which is located in the downtown business district.

Those who do not come should write for our new catalogue, the color section of which is the most complete ever published.

RESULT

DAHL PUNCTURELESS TIRES

These are the figures that have been established from actual service by users of the Dahl Punctureless in almost every State in the Union.

THE FURTHER FACTS HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED CONCLUSIVELY:

The Dahl Punctureless tires have been in use for over three years continuously in all kinds of weather and under all conditions—Summer, Winter, Spring and Fall; rain, shine, heat and cold, and today the thousands of satisfied users of the Dahl Punctureless proclaim to the world that "they are perfectly satisfactory."

WHAT IS THE DAHL PUNCTURELESS TIRE?

To those who have not tried it and do not know, we explain that it is a secret chemical product made to take the place of and to provide a substitute for air in automobile tires.

With your casings equipped with Dahl Punctureless, the months go by and your tire up-keep is at the minimum. No blow-outs, no punctures, no wasted time by the roadside, no toil in the heat and in the cold changing casings. Just one continual round of pleasure and that is all.

Over three years ago the Dahl Punctureless Tire Company commenced the manufacture of this product.

ITS FAME HAS SPREAD LIKE WILD-FIRE.

It makes motoring a pleasure. It makes it possible to run your pleasure cars and your business cars at a profit instead of a loss.

DAHL PUNCTURELESS TIRES HAVE BEEN TESTED UNDER ALL CONDITIONS.

They have been tried on heavy cars and on light cars and over all kinds of roads.

Do not take our word for it; friends of the Dahl Punctureless are scattered by the thousands throughout all of the states. We can show you voluntary testimonial letters from people everywhere. Ask them.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS!

The success of the Dahl Punctureless has led others to imitate our product, but do not be misled or humbugged into believing that there is anything else that can compare with the Dahl filler.

INVESTIGATE.

Before you put a filler into your casings, be sure that you are putting in one that will give you satisfaction. Be sure that you have a filler that will stand up and give you the resiliency and the service that you have a right to expect.

The Dahl Punctureless Tire Company is represented in all of the large cities in the United States.

We are establishing agencies as rapidly as we can get out the product to supply them with.

This season the demand on us has been so great that we have been unable to supply it. This speaks for the popularity of the Dahl Punctureless.

WE WANT AGENTS IN ALL UNOCCUPIED TERRITORY.

We want only good live men, men who have ability and are capable of handling a big proposition. The demand for our goods is unlimited. Every automobile owner is a prospective buyer. Secure this agency before someone else gets it. Next week or next month may be too late. Write today; ask us for full information and printed matter. We send you testimonial letters from people in all parts of the country and you can get full information regarding the Dahl Punctureless on application to the Home Office.

CHICAGO IS READY FOR THE S. A. F.

THE WEATHER OF CONVENTION WEEK

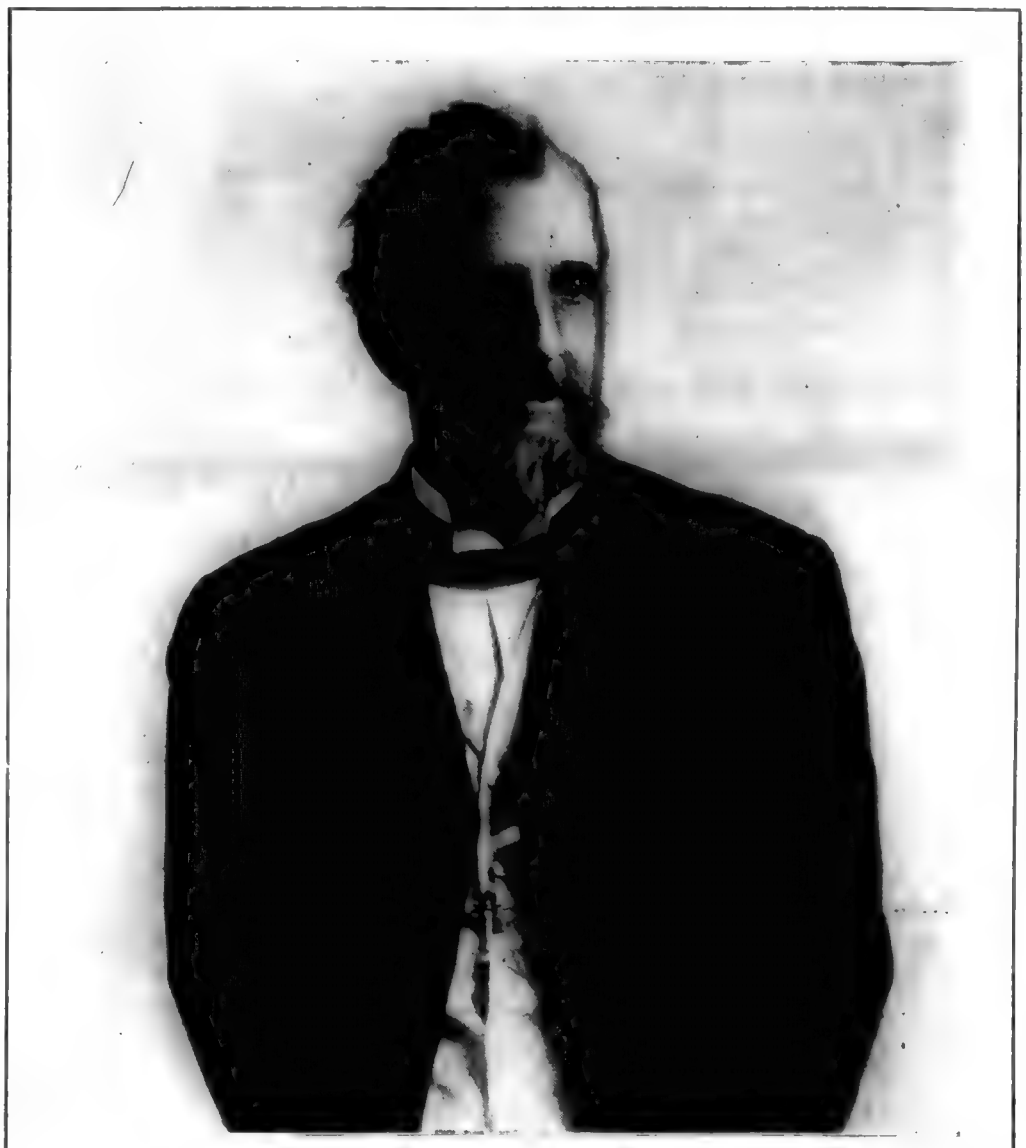
The United States Weather Bureau supplies the following:

"Under average conditions the temperature in Chicago August 20 to 23 fluctuates ordinarily between a maximum of about 79 degrees in the afternoon to a minimum of about 65 degrees in the early morning. The chances for rain are about one in three, under ordinary conditions; during the past 40 years in Chicago it has rained on fifty-five days of the one hundred and sixty days, counting August 20 to August 23 inclusive.

H. C. FRANKENFIELD, Professor of Meteorology."

WITH confidence that the twenty-eighth annual convention of the S. A. F. will break all records for attendance, the trade committees in "the great central market" have made their arrangements on a scale much greater than has been customary. Chicago, the great summer resort, the city of big things and strong men, the city of never ending variety, expects an attendance of 2,000 at this convention — and preparations have been made with a view to caring for a possible 2,500. Chicago will be keenly disappointed if its sanguine expectations are not realized.

Early Start.



Appreciating that the large attendance and the many outside points of interest make the situation rather different from what it usually is, the convention will be lengthened half a day by starting the business sessions at 10 a. m. Tuesday, instead of at 2 p. m., as is customary. This will give more free time later for visiting. It has been arranged that business sessions shall be held Tuesday morning and afternoon, Wednesday morning and Thursday morning. If the work falls behind there also will be a business session Wednesday evening following the stereopticon lecture on floral designing by Fred C. W. Brown.

Entertainment.

The entertainment features begin with the President's reception, to be held in the Venetian room, on the ninth floor of the Auditorium hotel, Tuesday evening, August 20. There will be music, dancing and refreshments.

Wednesday afternoon the visiting ladies will be taken in automobiles for a ride through Chicago's famous parks, to the South Shore Country Club, one of the finest of its kind in America, where luncheon will be served. The men will be left free to devote the afternoon to the trade's display, which is expected to be much the largest on record, or to visit such points of interest as suit individual preference. The lecture by Mr. Brown in the evening deserves to be classed as an entertainment feature, although it is at the same time highly educational.

Thursday evening the Ladies' S. A. F. will give a reception and dance at the Auditorium hotel, in the same room used for the President's reception Tuesday evening. This has become one of the established and most enjoyable features of the convention.

R. Vincent, Jr.

[President Society of American Florists.]

Bowling.

Bensinger's new alleys, on Randolph street, have been engaged for Thursday. The ladies will bowl in the morning, the inter-city teams in the afternoon and the individuals during the mid-day. There will be a prize list numbering seventy-two trophies at last accounts, with still others probable. E. F. Winterson is locally in charge of this feature.

Peter Reinberg, himself a fine shot, has arranged for the gunners' contest at his farm, at Kedzie and Devon avenues.

The Outing.

The annual outing on the fourth day of the convention will this year be at Ravinia park, a pleasure resort a half hour's ride from the city. This is Chicago's most high class outdoor amusement place, with the best music and many fine entertainments. The baseball game and other events will occupy the entire afternoon. Luncheon will be served, and dinner in the evening, making a full day's outing.

Trade's Display.

John Young, secretary of the S. A. F., is superintendent of the trade's display. He has been in Chicago for nearly a month, at work on the details of the exhibition, so that everything will move smoothly when the exhibitors begin to arrive. He says every foot of floor space in the great Coliseum will be taken, and that it long has been assured that the show will exceed in magnitude even the largest in the society's history. Not only will there be more exhibitors than usual, but a greater variety of stock and appliances will be shown. The trade's display always has been one of the greatest features of the convention, and steadily gets bigger and better.

GREAT IS CHICAGO

In the Florists' Trade

¶ Cook County (Chicago) has more glass than any other county in the United States; approximately 10,000,000 square feet.

tions are not exhibiting this year and offer as a reason the charge of 40 cents per foot for space. It should not be forgotten that in big cities great halls are not to be had for nothing. This year the S. A. F. pays $2,000 rent, as against nothing at all in recent years. Trade exhibitors at the National Flower Show at New York next spring will pay $1 per square foot for space.

Next week's convention will be held in the same building that housed two recent national political conventions. The trade's display will be in the great hall where the republicans nominated Taft and the progressives nominated Roosevelt and Johnson. The hall in the second floor of the annex, where the S. A. F. business sessions will be held, is where the Taft credentials committee used the famous steam roller that made the Bull Moose party necessary.

THE TRADE AND THE PUBLIC.

The following is an extract from the printed Proceedings of the Twenty-fourth Annual Convention of the Society of American Florists, 1908, pages 87 and 88:

"Mr. J. Otto Thilow, of Philadelphia, obtained permission to make a statement and said that the exhibitors in the trade display had been much hampered by the public freely passing through the exhibition rooms and overcrowding them so that neither the exhibitors nor the florists could do any business. He said this had occurred every evening during the convention; that the exhibitors came to the convention for a specific purpose, and for that reason were charged for space for their displays; that they did not come for the benefit of the public of Niagara Falls or any other city, but to meet the visiting florists and exhibit their goods to them, while the local public were not interested in the convention, but encroached upon the property on exhibition and interfered with the transaction of business. He presented a petition which, he said, contained the signatures of forty-three exhibitors, asking that the public be excluded. It read as follows: 'We, the undersigned exhibitors in the trade display of the S. A. F., respectfully petition the society to hereafter exclude the general public from the annual trade exhibition, except on Thursday afternoon.'

"He also offered the following resolution: 'That the society will hereafter exclude the general public from the annual trade exhibition, except on Thursday afternoon.'

"Mr. John Westcott suggested that some arrangement might be made for the admission of the public by ticket. He said he was opposed to admitting anybody and everybody indiscriminately, and he thought some regulation was necessary.

"Mr. W. F. Gude expressed the opinion that the exhibitors were entitled to have their request granted as a matter of justice to them. He said that this morning he had noticed two baby carriages being pushed through the aisles in one of the rooms which was already much congested with visitors and uncomfortable for the people in it.

"The president stated the question, when the resolution of Mr. Thilow was adopted without objection."

Philip J. Foley.
(President Chicago Florists' Club.)

LADIES' S. A. F.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' S. A. F. will be held at the Auditorium hotel, on the sixth floor, Wednesday, August 21, at 10:30 a. m., free for all. The Ladies' S. A. F. will also give an informal reception and dance at same hotel, Thursday evening, August 22, at 8:30 p. m., to all friends. The secretary will be at exhibition hall, Coliseum, all day Tuesday to receive dues and members. Ladies, please wear your badge pin. Mrs. Chas. H. Maynard, Sec'y.

RHODE ISLAND TO CHICAGO.

Louis J. Reuter, of Westerly, R. I., state vice-president of the S. A. F., has addressed the following to the florists of that great little state:

Your state vice-president is endeavoring to make arrangements with the Boston party in regard to the trip to the S. A. F. convention in Chicago August 20 to 24. After going over the matter carefully it has been thought best to leave Boston on the 2:00 p. m. train Sunday, August 18, which arrives in Chicago Monday afternoon. A special car will be provided if enough signify intention of going and we hope that all that can go will notify us at the earliest possible moment.

This matter may be taken up direct with E. Allan Peirce, of Waltham, Mass., or you may write me. We will do all possible to assist you in the arrangements and make reservations for you on the special car.

To amend Article V, Section 1

"Section 1. Meetings.—The first annual meeting of the Society shall be held at Buffalo, New York, on the first Tuesday of August, 1901, and thereafter the annual meeting shall be held on the third Tuesday of August in each year, continuing for three days or until all business is completed, the location of the next following meeting to be selected by ballot at the morning session of the second day of each annual meeting."

by striking out the words "morning" and "second" and inserting in place thereof, respectively, the words "evening" and "first."

Reports of Secretary, Treasurer, and Committees.

FIRST DAY—AFTERNOON SESSION, 3 P. M.

Report on National Flower Show, by Charles H. Totty, Chairman National Flower Show Committee.
Paper by Mr. Wm. Gourlay, Assistant to the General Manager of the American Express Company.
Discussion.
Consideration of Invitations for Next Place of Meeting (if the amendment to By-Laws is adopted at the morning session).

FIRST DAY—EVENING SESSION.

Reception to President Vincent, at the Auditorium Hotel. Music, Dancing and Refreshments. Strictly informal.
Amendments to Constitution and By-Laws to be acted upon:

To amend Article II, Section 2 (a)

"Sec. 2. Elections and Appointments:—

"(a) The president, first vice-president, secretary and treasurer shall be elected by ballot at the annual meeting of the Society, and their term of office shall begin with the first day of January next succeeding the election and shall continue for one year, or until their successors are duly elected and qualified."

by striking out the word "secretary"; and by adding: "The secretary shall be elected by the directors at the annual mid-Lent meeting and shall serve for one year. Seven (7) affirmative votes shall be necessary to elect, and nine (9) votes to remove him from office before the expiration of his term."

To amend Article III

"GOVERNMENT, EXECUTIVE BOARD

"Between the sessions of the Society its government shall be vested in an executive board, consisting of the president, junior ex-president, first vice-president, secretary, treasurer and six directors. A regular meeting of the board shall be held each year about mid-Lent, at the call of the secretary, upon such date as the president may direct, etc."

by striking out the word "secretary" in the third line, after "vice-president" and before "treasurer."

To amend Article V, Section 5

"Sec. 5. Exhibitions.—There shall be held, whenever practicable, in connection with each annual convention, an exhibition of materials and manufactures used in and products of horticulture. It shall be in charge of a superintendent, who shall be appointed by the executive board at its preliminary annual meeting, and shall be governed by such rules and regulations as the executive board shall adopt. Judges shall be appointed by the president and secretary at least one month before the exhibition."

by striking out the words "and secretary."

Resolution:—Be It Resolved, That the records of the proceedings of this Society for the year 1909, in convention at Cincinnati, Ohio, be corrected by adding the following, as adopted at the time:

"All members after paying dues continuously for twenty-five (25) years shall be known as 'Pioneer Members.' They shall be entitled to all the benefits and privileges of other members; shall be exempt from the payment of dues for the balance of their lives and their names shall appear in a special list under an appropriate heading in the annual volume of the proceedings of the Society."

Amendment:—To amend Article IV, Section 2, covering fees and assessments, by adding the following:

"Annual members after paying dues continuously for twenty-five years shall be known as 'Pioneer Members,' and shall be exempt from all future assessments."

THOSE S. A. F. AMENDMENTS.

It is natural for us, in matters which do not touch us vitally, to say, "Let well enough alone," and a reasonable amount of conservatism is a good thing. The conservatism which insists on being "shown" before acting is one of the best of good qualities, but the conservative who refuses to be shown or, after being shown, refuses to act, must be given another and harsher name.

The amendment changing the manner of selecting the city in which the meeting is held should hardly have any opposition. At present we vote on this important question from the floor, and there is no way of checking the results or of preventing anyone in the room from voting, whether in good standing or not. The vice-president must be a resident of the city where the meeting is held; hence it is evident that the city should be selected on the first day, so that all officers may be nominated at one time on the following day. The balance of the amendments are practically one amendment; that is, they cover the various changes in the wording of different parts of the by-laws necessary to make the secretary's office appointive instead of elective, and to take away from the secretary the right of voting at meetings of the directors. Of course it would be highly improper to allow him to vote at meetings of the body which appoints, and may discharge him.

It seems to me that this proposition is simply a business one, to be carefully considered in all its bearings, and to be decided by each member as he would decide any important business matter coming up in his own business.

There is no occasion for hysterics or for impassioned bursts of eloquent hot air. The society will not go to the "demnition bow-wows" if we make no change, neither will the bulwarks of our freedom be overthrown, nor will we become slaves under the lash of the despots who are engineering this dark and despicable conspiracy, should we adopt the wise and businesslike course of taking the secretary out of politics.

The admitted fact that the society prospered years ago under an elective secretary is no argument, unless it can be shown that conditions are the same now as then. They are vastly different now, and every member of the society knows they are.

The secretary may today be considered our head bookkeeper and business manager combined. Within seven years we have had five secretaries, and it is rumored that another candidate is in the field—not because the present incumbent is not doing well, but because the other fellow wants the job.

What would happen to a business concern which changed its manager five times in seven years?

Twenty-five years ago no one dreamed that the trade exhibition was, or would be, a valuable asset, but it will this year, without doubt, yield a revenue running into the thousands of dollars.

This exhibition is a big thing and requires tact, skill and experience. We have heretofore had little gain from this source, because we have had new and inexperienced men to handle it. Under the present plan of placing the secretary in charge, better results will be had; but if we do not change officers, this year's experience will teach him much of value for next year. We all know that when it comes to elections, being a "good fellow" often counts more than business ability. Being a "good fellow" gets votes, but the "good fellow" is not always the man whom you and I want to handle our money and transact our business.

Take the present year, for instance; the secretary has on his hands the whole management of the trade exhibition, on top of his other duties at the convention, and yet, with these duties requiring every minute of his time and every particle of his attention, he is forced into a political fight because some other fellow thinks it a nice job and wants to get it.

In a great business concern such as our society now is, there must be some one employee who holds over and keeps in touch with business details, which a new man can not master, fully, for six months or more.

Two presidents of the society have considered this matter of so much importance that they have recommended it in their annual addresses. The whole present board of directors has recommended the change. Here is the list of names: J. A. Valentine, ex-president; Geo. Asmus, ex-president; Richard Vincent, Jr., president; Wm. F. Kasting, ex-president; Robert Craig, ex-president; W. N. Rudd, ex-president and ex-secretary; E. Allan Peirce, director; Harry A. Bunyard, director; C. H. Totty, director; John A. Evans, director; August Poehlmann, vice-president.

These are the men who are "backing this movement" and who, Mr. O'Mara intimates, have something or some person "up their sleeves."

These men know from actual experience the present business needs of the society.

They strongly recommend this change.

Shall the sober judgment of these men be considered?

Let us take the secretary's office out of politics and put it into business.

W. N. Rudd.

GOOD SPANISH IRISES.

Kindly give us the names of several varieties of Spanish iris which are adapted to outdoor culture and which are good sellers in the markets. Also at what time should iris be set out?

W. E. K. C.

Spanish irises should be planted just before the ground freezes up. They will frequently start to grow late in the fall and it is a common sight to see shoots four to six inches long before winter sets in. They are, however, perfectly hardy and the most severe frost will not injure them unless they are in ground where water will stand. A few first-class varieties which are good market sorts are: British Queen, pure white, extra large; Louise, porcelain blue, a beautiful sort; Cajanus, clear golden yellow; Belle Chinoise, deep yellow; Alex. Von Humboldt, light blue; Midley, pale blue; Thunderbolt, dark velvety bronze, large flowers.

If you want a succession to the Spanish iris, try some Iris Anglica; they are bulbous varieties also, bloom eight to ten days later and have larger flowers. One or two excellent sorts are: Mont Blanc, pure white; Grand Vanguard, pale blue; De Lamartine, white with rose blotches. These English irises are just as valuable for cutting as the Spanish varieties.

AT PILGRIMS' LANDING.

Historic Plymouth, the old and picturesque landing place of the Pilgrims in New England, boasts of at least one enterprising and up-to-date florist in the person of Charles T. Stevens. Although not long in business, Mr. Stevens has built up an excellent trade. He has now sold his horse and put on a twenty horse-power delivery auto and wonders how he got on without it so long. By means of it he can readily cover several adjoining towns and villages in a short time.

July 2, Mr. Stevens' son, Alton, who has worked with his father for a year since graduating from school, and his grower, Fritz Schlecht, sailed together on the S. S. Rotterdam for England. From there they will go to Holland, Germany, Italy and France, returning in September. After a strenuous season, the trip will do them a lot of good.

PARK MEN MEET.

Officers Elected.

President—James B. Shea, Boston.

Vice-presidents — F. C. Steinhauser, Denver; G. A. Parker, Worcester, Mass.; Alexander Stuart, Ottawa, Ont.; H. I. Richards, Chicago; E. F. A. Remisch, Topeka; C. G. Carpenter, Milwaukee.

Secretary and treasurer—J. J. Levison, Brooklyn.

Next meeting place—Denver.

The Proceedings.

The annual convention of the American Association of Park Superintendents was auspiciously opened at Boston August 12, with 100 members in attendance and many visitors. At the opening session Supt. James B. Shea welcomed the visitors in the absence of Mayor Fitzgerald. He referred feelingly to Mr. Pettigrew's death. Mr. Pettigrew was the first president of the association, which met in Boston in 1899. Supt. Dunn, of Kansas City, presided. At this session twenty-three new members were elected. Park and Cemetery was adopted as the society's official organ. Jens Jensen, of Chicago, wanted all politicians debarred from membership. This created considerable discussion. Theodore Wirth, of Minneapolis, and Mr. Fiske, of Racine, defended the society's membership.

John Farquhar, at the Horticultural Club, entertained all visitors at lunch. Later twenty-five autos conveyed them over the park system and Arnold Arboretum, where E. H. Wilson, Jackson Dawson and R. W. Curtis received them. In the evening E. H. Wilson gave an illustrated lecture on Chinese and Siberian plants. J. J. Levison, of Brooklyn, spoke on trees. D. W. Cotterill, of Seattle, spoke on the Seattle park system.

At Tuesday's session Mayor Fitzgerald gave an address of welcome. G. A. Parker presented resolutions on Mr. Pettigrew's death. Mrs. Pettigrew was elected an honorary member. At the evening session John Farquhar lectured on the International Show at London, with stereopticon.

Many visited the large private estates and public playgrounds, with special outings for the ladies attending.

THE RETAIL FLORIST.....

GALVESTON GATES.

The gates ajar shown in the accompanying illustration was made by Mrs. N. Updike, of the Galveston Floral Co., Galveston, Tex. The flowers used were White Killarney roses and lavender sweet peas. The green was adiantum, with galax and some cut fronds of Boston fern in the base.

BASKETS FOR FUNERALS.

Are They a Good Innovation?

The Review of August 1 contained, in its Retail Department, a picture of a basket of American Beauties that had been arranged by a designer in Springfield, Mo., for use at a funeral. Accompanying the picture was a short article which drew attention to the fact that the employment of the basket for such a purpose was a comparatively new idea and therefore had at least the one merit of originality. It was stated that the basket illustrated had proved to be especially pleasing because it was different from all the other offerings at the funeral. In this case, though the basket of flowers is generally associated with more happy circumstances, it did not seem to convey any incongruous suggestions to the minds of those present. The article concluded by inviting communications from any readers who might feel disposed to express their opinions on the subject. The following are some of the responses to the invitation:

From E. L. Newton, Baltimore.

In your issue of August 1 I noticed that you had an illustration of a basket of roses for funeral use, and expressed a desire to hear from retail florists regarding their views as to the use of baskets for this purpose. I put up a basket, similar to the one pictured, for a funeral last spring. It was covered with Asparagus plumosus and smilax and filled with Radiance roses. The tall handle of the basket was twined with smilax and at one side was fastened a long-stemmed rose, with a large bow of ribbon to match the flower. It was much admired and has been kept on the grave all summer and kept filled with plants and cut flowers.

From E. H. Harvey, Kansas City.

In reply to your inquiry as to whether baskets should be used as funeral offerings, I, for one, say no, for their use in that way would mean the elimination of their use as centerpieces for table decorations, as well as their presentation to debutantes and their use for buffets, for home decorations at receptions, for churches, graduations, etc.

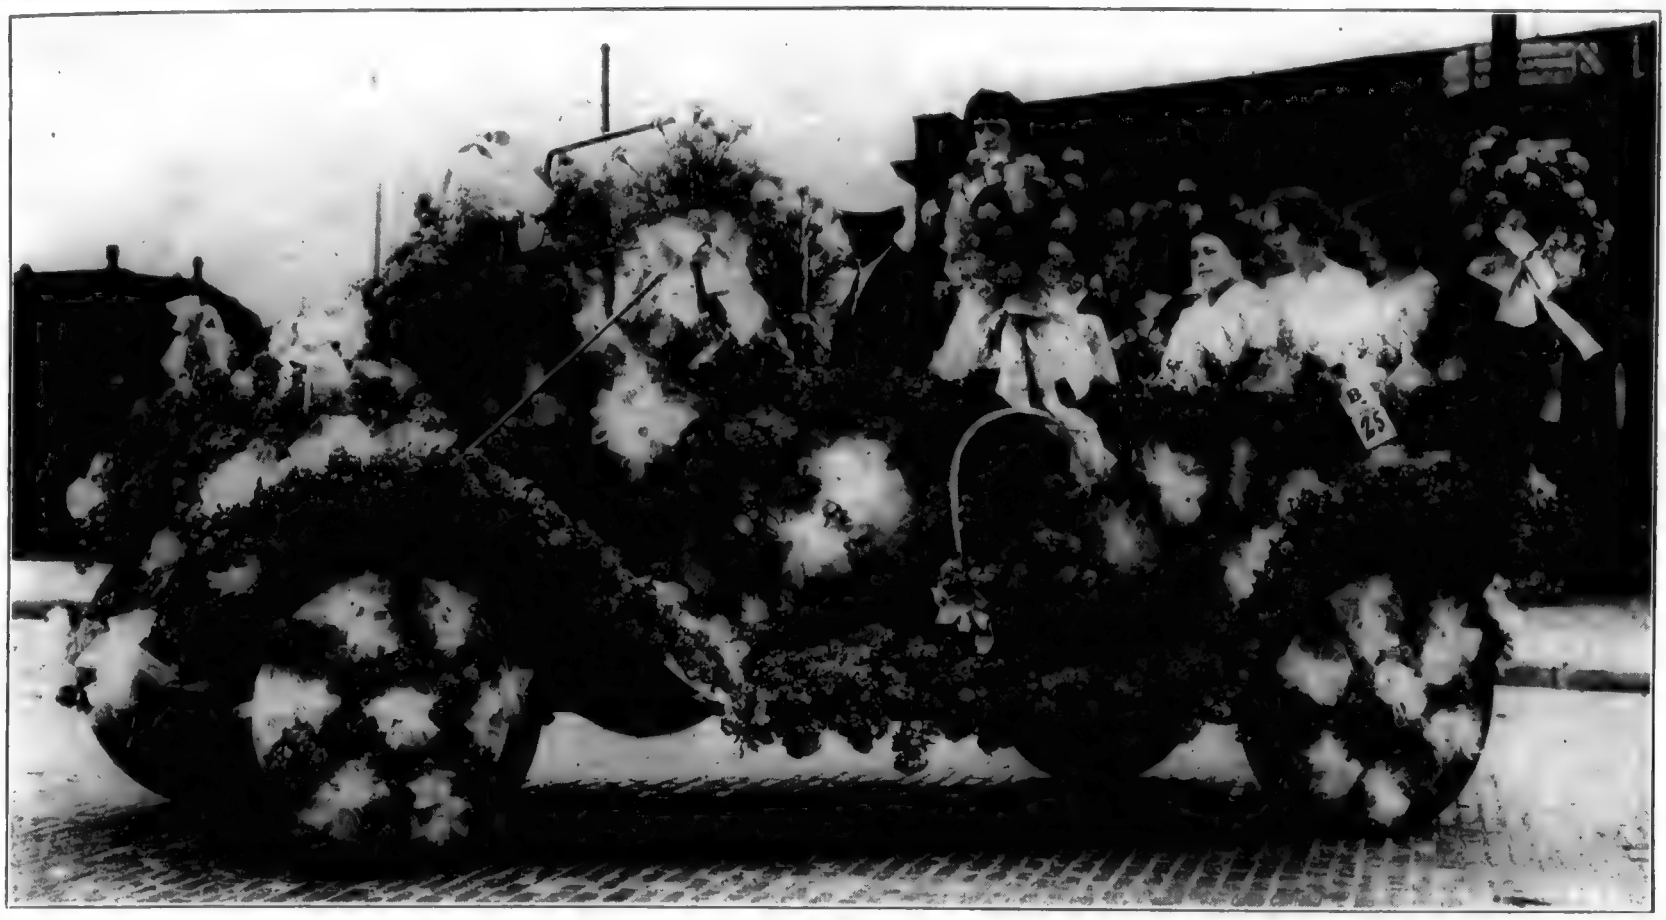
I know of no reason for advocating the use of this floral piece as a funeral offering. Yet some will say, "If a customer wants it and will pay the price, what is the difference?" The difference is this: If it is to fulfill its natural purpose or mission, that of congratulation or well-wishing, it should be confined to such use. It is the duty of the designer or salesperson to inform the purchaser with reference to this fact. It is safe to say that ninety-nine per cent will yield to the argument, if such it can be called. If, however, any of them insist upon the purchasing of this piece and will pay its value, give it to them, but first impress upon their minds the fact that it is inappropriate as a funeral offering.

Without doubt, the basket can be, and often is, the most beautiful product of the florists' art. To both master artist and novice it offers the greatest opportunity for originality, as well as a chance for variation. No design or set piece can be made to give more graceful and realistic effects than the basket may produce. But there are numerous floral tributes, other than the basket, that carry a more specific message of love and sympathy. For instance, there are the cross, wreath, pillow, anchor, triangle, broken circle or column, lyre, harp, etc. Pause for a moment and think of the numerous and beautiful fraternal emblems that carry a paramount expression. These, if studied with regard to their meaning, will assist in the execution of some idea which may or may not be original, but which will express the idea intended.

My opinion may be summed up emphatically in the few words: Do not use the basket as a funeral design or offering.

From H. L. Bennett, Sewickley.

In regard to the use of baskets for funerals, I think the idea is a good one, as the spray and design have been in use so long that people will like something different.



From Meredith Flower & Vegetable Co.

We are pleased to note the advent of the flower basket for funeral purposes, as it gives a greater range for display than any other design we know of. We have introduced the basket and find that it has given more satisfaction than we anticipated. It gives an opportunity for arrangement that does not appear in other designs.

Another advent in our design room is the floor mat, which is made from common grass, found in every greenhouse. We use a piece of burlap, to which we sew common grasses thickly, with here and there a bud of some small flower, representing the lawn. The mat is placed on the floor in front of the casket and is intended to be trod upon, making a pretty contrast to the usual funeral arrangements. It can also be placed on the grave after the services, thus producing a pretty effect. It is made from waste material that has to be disposed of in some way, and thus, with the exception of the labor, involves no expense. We have made the mats in two sizes, 2x4 and 2½x5 feet.

From W. J. Baker, Fort Worth.

I noticed the article on "Baskets for Funerals" in The Review of August 1, and want to say that, according to my judgment, it is one of the best lines for development in the near future.

The custom is a good one and is here to stay, for there are many people who are much prejudiced against designs, and perhaps justly so, because many florists are making them stiff and grotesque, seeming to think it is their rightful opportunity to unload a lot of junk, though it would be real economy to throw it away. Many customers also say that a casket bouquet is so flat that it does not show up well.

So what is more logical than to turn to the basket for comfort? It can be made elaborate and showy with fewer flowers than almost any other form of work. A nice basket, some good green and a handsome piece of ribbon—all of these can be kept on hand at times when one is practically out of flowers, and, if well arranged, will not necessitate the use of many flowers; a few of good quality will suffice.

To a funeral recently I sent three baskets, all sold to customers who wanted something nice, but would not take a design. Of course baskets at funerals will soon cease to be a novelty with us at that rate, but the more quickly they become a staple the better. The near future will, no doubt, show great strides in this direction.

USE OF THE EASEL.

There has been considerable discussion of late with regard to the use of the easel for floral designs. Some design-makers think the easel should be obscured by a winding with smilax or some similar material. Others consider that the covering of the easel only emphasizes its presence; these think that the easel is merely a support for the design and not a part of the design, preferring to use it without covering. Of course they paint it dark green, never exposing the bright copper wire.

In this connection the accompanying illustration will be of interest. It shows a large anchor with American Beauties and cycas leaves arranged on an easel. It is the work of Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., and was for the funeral of the long dead members of the crew of the Maine. The use of the easel was essential to the proper posing of the piece. It is inconspicuous. Without doubt the wrapping of the easel with smilax would have detracted from the appearance of the arrangement instead of having improved it.

BEALL'S DECORATED AUTO.

The accompanying illustration is reproduced from a photograph of the automobile owned and driven by L. C. Beall, Jr., secretary of the H. Harrington Co., Seattle, Wash., as decorated for the automobile parade during the Golden Potlatch. Dorothy Perkins roses and pink carnations were used over a groundwork of light blue, with pink ribbons and chiffon. The effect was much admired. There were about 200 decorated cars in the parade. The florists were kept busy for several days, although most of the cars were decorated by their owners.

WHY ASK THE EDITOR?

We did some work the other day that I think no other florist ever handled: We decorated a dog's grave. A lady in a town near by lost a favorite dog. She put him away in a $30 casket and called on us to fix his grave lovely with roses and other fine plants. We did so, and now our whole force is anxious to know if she expects to meet that dog in a future world?

SOWBUG EXTERMINATORS.

Along with the renewal of my subscription for another year, I will give a little experience. Sowbugs became so numerous that all kinds of seedlings were nipped in the seed leaf, though I trapped them by thousands in potato and turnip traps. With the first warm days of spring I let the small boys know that toads were worth 5 cents each, and now it is seldom a sowbug can be coaxed out into sight. W. L. Leeka.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Lilium Candidum.

As soon as the bulbs of Lilium candidum arrive, unpack them. Some will already be making leaves, and nearly all will have roots. Do not leave them a day longer out of the soil than is absolutely necessary, as, like all of their family, they lose vitality every day they are exposed to the air. Do not grow these singly in 5-inch or 6-inch pots. You will get much finer spikes by growing three in an 8-inch or five in a 10-inch pot. Use quite sandy soil and be sure there is no fresh manure in it. After potting, give a watering if the soil chances to be dry. If not, postpone it for a day or two. Place the pots where you can protect them from heavy rains, which will sodden the soil and not infrequently rot the bulbs. Do not stand them in a dark place, but give full sun all the time.

A word as to the type to grow: There are two distinct forms in commerce. One has a large bulb, somewhat hollowed in the center; thin scales, rather flat on the upper surface. This produces narrow leaves, thin spikes and a few narrow-petaled, undersized flowers. More of these are cultivated than of the good type, which usually comes from the north of France, has rounded but smaller bulbs, thicker scales, produces broad foliage and robust flower spikes which carry as high as twelve to fifteen flowers each, which have broad, thick petals. This is the only candidum worth growing. It costs more than the poor type, which latter is dear at any price. It always pays, however, to grow the best.

Lilium Harrisii.

Coming, as Easter does, unusually early next year, more Harrisii bulbs are being bought for 1913 than for a number of years. The bulbs generally used for early forcing will do well in 5-inch pots singly, or three of the smaller ones to a 6-inch pot. Somewhat large bulbs, which it may be intended to hold back for Easter, should have 6-inch pots each. It seems a long time ahead until Easter and in the warmer states it will be difficult to hold bulbs, received and potted now, until that date, but for winter flowering the bulbs cannot be potted and started any too soon. The cold storage bulbs will start into growth much more rapidly than the newly imported stock. Whichever kind is grown, it is important to give them a place on a cellar bottom, in a coldframe or shed, and to keep pretty dark until growths appear, when light may be given. There is a good demand for lilies right through the winter, and a few dozens a week are acceptable to every country florist who has design orders to fill.

Summer Lilies Under Glass.

At this season, when roses are puny, carnations practically nil and asters almost dominating the markets, really good quality flowers are not at all plentiful. The several forms of speciosum and auratum lilies which were fall potted will now be giving a fine crop of flowers, which, with a little judicious retarding, will furnish a succession for many weeks. L. speciosum album is the most useful of all. Be sure to keep the pollen masses removed as the blooms expand, as, once discolored, their beauty vanishes. The flowers are much improved in quality if some liquid manure is afforded when the buds have formed. It will pay to keep these lilies in a cool, shaded house. In addition to being valuable for cutting, the plants themselves are splendid for the decorator of hallways and piazzas. The odor of L. auratum is almost too heavy in a dwelling, but on a well protected and shaded piazza they will be found decorative.

Outdoor Lilies.

During the hottest part of the summer lilies in the garden are not abundant. It is, perhaps, just as well, as in periods of heat and drought their lasting properties are reduced to a minimum. At the present time L. Henryi, popularly but incorrectly called a form of speciosum in some catalogues, is making a grand show. This is a remarkably fine lily, which, while still rather scarce and high priced, will in a few years be quite cheap, for no lily possesses more vigor or is more immune from disease. The speciosums proper are now coming into flower, also L. auratum. If a mulch of well decayed manure or some similar material has been given, the flowers will be much finer. There are many failures in the culture of lilies in the open ground. The principal cause is too shallow planting. Such varieties as auratum, Henryi and speciosum should go ten to twelve inches deep. When set half this depth they always suffer acutely from droughts.

French Bulbs.

The earliest shipments of Roman hyacinths, Paper White narcissi and trumpet major narcissi are now due. The hyacinths are of inferior quality and are higher priced this season. Narcissi are more moderate. Some of each variety should be placed in flats at once. The Paper Whites can remain in light all the time, but the Romans and trumpet majors are better kept in a cellar, or, if in a lighter place, given a coating of coal ashes after being well watered. The Paper Whites are easily flowered in November, but the hyacinths and trumpet majors come later, usually being in good shape for Christmas.

SCALE ON FERNS.

Can you tell us what these insects are on our ferns, and how to get rid of them? H. & C.

The insects on the fern fronds are scales of an extremely troublesome character, and are quite frequently found upon nephrolepis and pteris. The best treatment would be to cut off all the fronds that are as badly infested as those submitted for examination, and then to dip the plants about once a week in a solution consisting of one part by measure of one of the nicotine extracts to 400 parts of water, or you could spray with the same solution. The plants should be protected from the sun after treatment with the solution. W. H. T.

TO CLEAN FERNS.

Please let me know the best thing to use on ferns to kill the army worm or other eating pests. Of course it must be something that will not injure the fronds of the ferns. H. V. B.

Try one of the forty per cent nicotine liquids, used as a spray. A solution containing one tablespoonful of the nicotine to one gallon of water is not likely to injure the ferns, but will kill the caterpillars that are within reach of the spray. If used too strong, or too frequently, the nicotine solution is liable to injure the young fronds of the ferns, but it is the cleanest insecticide one can use for such a purpose. W. H. T.

CATERPILLARS ON BOSTONS.

For several years we have been troubled with green caterpillars on our Boston ferns and have not found any means of thoroughly checking them. We have used the commercial tobacco extracts with good results, but cannot keep the plants clean. These caterpillars are like cabbage worms; when full-grown they are about an inch and a half long and when they are older they turn a brownish green. Any information that will aid us in keeping these pests down will be greatly appreciated. L. W.

There are several poisons that may be used to destroy these caterpillars, but most of them have the disadvantage of making the foliage of the ferns dirty. This is the fault with powdered hellebore and also with Slug Shot, either of which would kill the caterpillars. Spraying with the commercial nicotine solutions is the cleanest remedy I know of, but as the nicotine soon evaporates, the spraying needs to be followed up at regular intervals in order to catch the successive broods of the worms. W. H. T.

PROPAGATING.

While it would be the height of folly to start any general propagation of geraniums in the warmer states, in some of the more northerly ones frost occurs as early as the end of August and there it is necessary to take cuttings during the present month. Opinions differ as to the best method of propagation. The writer has seen large batches rooted in flats outdoors exposed to the elements, and others have equally good results by keeping them under glass. I always advise letting the cuttings lie on the bench a few hours before placing them in the sand or soil, as the danger of damping off is thus considerably reduced. Shade is not necessary for the rooting of geraniums unless there should be a spell of intense heat, when a light covering may be necessary. As the cuttings grown outdoors contain a great deal more sap than such as are produced under glass, it is well to water carefully for a time to prevent damping off. There is, of course, far less danger of this happening with the cuttings placed in clear sand than in sandy loam. Last year I tried charcoal passed through a fine screen and freely mixed with the sand, and this seems to make an ideal rooting medium, reducing at the same time the likelihood of any damping off.

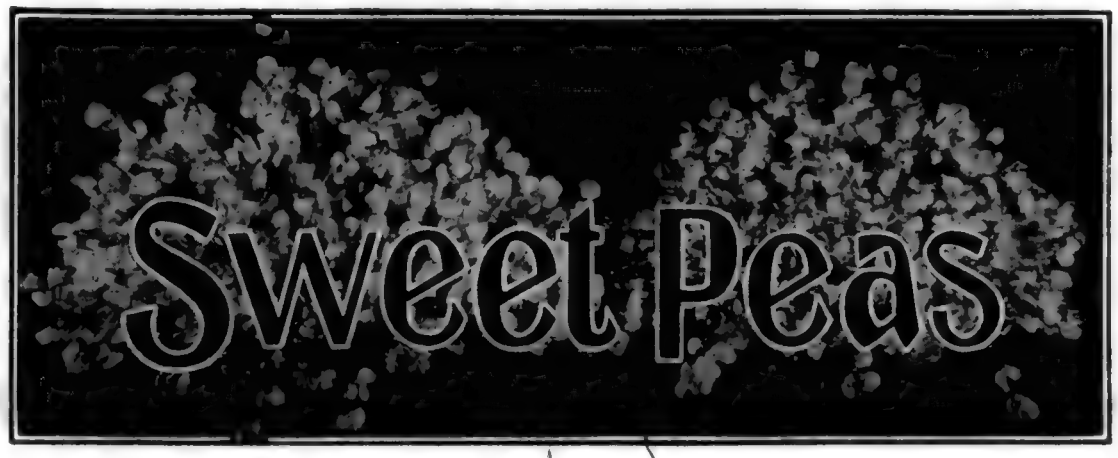
SCENTED GERANIUMS.

Shoots of the scented geraniums are a common feature in the large markets nowadays and in order to have them of good length, some plants should always be carried over summer in pots outdoors. Where this has not been done, if cuttings are put in at once they can be grown along and will give some nice shoots for cutting toward spring. The cuttings will root readily in flats in a coldframe and should be potted off as soon as rooted.

WINTER-FLOWERING GERANIUMS.

A recent query received was, "Where should I grow my winter-blooming geraniums during the summer, outdoors or under glass?" While there are some who claim to have better results by keeping the pots outdoors during the hottest months, I have seen some batches badly attacked by bacteria when this had been done. With plants kept constantly under glass, no disease has appeared, to my personal knowledge, and the plants flower just as freely as if they had been kept outside during the hot months. Some pinching may be necessary until the middle of September to make the plants neat and bushy. In giving the last shift, some well decayed cow manure or a little spent mushroom manure may be added to the soil, also some fine bone. Do not, however, make it too rich, as that means a soft growth which always flowers poorly. Pot firmly always; this in itself helps to promote a hard and shorter-jointed growth. Spread the plants out occasionally. Keep all flower trusses and dead leaves removed and scratch over the surface soil if it shows any signs of "scumminess."

USE FOR CHARCOAL.



We have a way of getting all the fine charcoal we want and would like to know the different ways we can use it to the best advantage. S. B.

Fine charcoal is useful for mixing in soil for such plants as cyclamens, primulas, begonias, gloxinias, calceolarias and others of a soft-wooded nature. It may also be used to advantage in compost for palms and ferns. It holds and gives out moisture and helps to keep the soil pure and sweet. It may also be advantageously used in propagating benches when mixed with the sand. It prevents fungous growth from appearing. In a lumpy state it may be used in compost for orchids, gardenias, eucharis, pancratiums, amaryllis, nerines and many stove plants requiring rather porous soil. It may be freely used in soil for hyacinths, tulips, narcissi, freesias and other bulbs. C. W.

PLANTS FOR AMERICAN FLAG.

Kindly let me know the best plants to use for an American flag bed about four feet six inches high, red, white and blue. We are going to put a flag in front of our home next spring for advertising. D. & F.

For red, use Alternathera brilliantissima. This is better than A. paronychioides major, which grows rather too robustly. In white-foliaged plants, Santolina maritima, if well sheared, is satisfactory. Alyssum Little Gem is frequently used, while Echeveria secunda glauca will grow well in dry locations and can always be depended upon. Blue plants are limited in numbers. One of the lobelias, such as Emperor William, single, or Kathleen Mallard, double, would be the best for your purpose. C. W.

KEEPING THE STEMS LONG.

Why is it that the sweet pea stems gradually get shorter after the first crop, when liquid manure is fed regularly? W. S. S.

In order to have stems of good length throughout the season, it is necessary not only to feed with liquid manure, but also to apply top-dressings of fine bone or pulverized sheep manure. After applying a top-dressing, loosen the surface with a digging fork or hoe before watering. It is not possible to have long stems the entire season through, but a proper temperature and judicious feeding will much improve them. C. W.

SOIL FOR WINTER SWEET PEAS.

What is the proper method of preparing the soil in solid beds for growing winter-flowering sweet peas? W. S. S.

Good drainage is essential. Provide this by using a good layer of stones, so that water will pass away freely. The best soil is a medium heavy pasture loam, well enriched with cow manure. I also like to add some bone meal. If your loam is heavy and retentive, horse manure should be used, but cow manure seems to suit sweet peas better than any other. Now, as to depth, you can grow good peas in eight inches of soil, but if you make it eighteen inches there will be no need to change the soil each year. If given a liberal coating of cow manure and well trenched over before planting, the sweet peas will do well in it year after year, as specialists have proved. Considerable is heard of the ground becoming "sweet pea sick." If one crop is continuously grown in the same soil year after year, this is likely to occur, but if you follow your sweet peas with early and midseason chrysanthemums, tomatoes or cucumbers, all of which can be cleared by the last part of October, you will find that the change of crops puts the soil in an excellent condition for the next sweet pea crop. You can start your seed in flats or pots in another house and have them ready to plant when other crops are cleared and beds prepared. C. W.

SWEET PEAS IN MUM HOUSE.

Can sweet peas be grown successfully in a mum house, run at 45 to 50 degrees, night temperature? W. S. S.

Sweet peas will grow well in a house run at 45 to 50 degrees at night. Maintain the lower temperature until the flowering stage is reached, after which hold the night readings as near 48 to 50 degrees as possible, with a rise of 5 to 8 degrees on dull days and 10 to 15 degrees on sunny days. C. W.

RAILROAD GARDENING

WORK ON THE READING.

Few of the people who whizz by the railroad stations in lightning expresses know the skill and labor that is required to produce that little patch of color on which their eyes rest so pleasantly. Few of those who wait at wayside or terminal stations for their trains give more than a passing thought to the handsome beds that brighten the neighborhood of the platforms like an oasis in a desert—of rails. The fact stands unchallenged, however, that people do enjoy these little gardens; they want them and they feel more kindly toward the railroad company for providing them. The railroad men know that gardens help to popularize their stations. They provide them from a purely business standpoint; the more profitable the station, the more attention is paid to its hedges, its grass and its flowers.

With this thought in mind an interview was secured with Paul Huebner, gardener for the Reading Railroad Co., at his headquarters at Wayne Junction, Philadelphia. Mr. Huebner is a past master in the art of railroad gardening and his ideas are of unusual interest. He has three greenhouses, probably 23 x 100 each, under his care; to these may be added a number of coldframes. From these three greenhouses and the frames he annually brings out 150,000 bedding plants, which are distributed over something like 120 stations lying between Williamsport on the west and Cape May on the east. Bethlehem, Boundbrook and Reading are all within his bailiwick. To furnish these plants and plant these station beds, Mr. Huebner has exactly three men at his command; just three—one, two, three; with these three men he plants these plants in their beds in five weeks or less, beginning as early as the season will permit and ending by June 12. Suppose that you had to set out 150,000 plants in large and small lots, stretching over miles of space, do you suppose you could do it easily in five weeks?

Mr. Huebner accomplishes this result by system. He lays out his beds beforehand with great care, allotting to each just the number of beds that they require; he then plans the campaign for each day in advance, so that his men know what train to take, how many minutes they have to plant, where to go next, and so on. To avoid errors, each bed has a separate page in his account book in duplicate, thus: "Cape May, 1 Dracæna terminalis, 60 Geranium John Doyle, 60 Geranium Mme. Salleroi." The men know that the plants start from the center of the bed, so that this means that the dracæna is surrounded with scarlet geraniums and edged with variegated geraniums. They know that the duplicate slip they hold insures accuracy and safeguards them against loss. Mr. Huebner modestly lays little stress on the all-important point of generalship, a quality he must possess in no mean degree. He says, however, that to get through the planting season on time it is necessary for the men not to mind a soaking now and then, because the beds must be pushed through regardless of weather.

Mr. Huebner sketched the year's work briefly as follows: "We are awfully busy, of course, during the planting season. When the beds first planted must be gone over, the coleus trimmed, the cannas and geraniums kept in shape, and so on. Then we have the painting in greenhouses for wet days, while on clear days there is the shrubbery and the hedges. Our cuttings must be put in in September, to be followed by the lifting of the plants. There is plenty of work in the greenhouse during the winter and on the snowbreaks outside, and before we know it spring is here again, with its tremendous rush."

Mr. Huebner depends on standard varieties of geraniums, coleus, cannas and alternantheras, some flowering plants, such as petunias, and on shrubbery. Most of his beds are planted for effect, but there are half a dozen carpet bed designs in which he takes great pride. The varieties of plants are chosen for their effectiveness at a distance and for their ability to stand the trying railroad conditions. Anyone who wishes to judge of Mr. Huebner's success in his work may do so by looking at any of the stations within the radius described, and noting how well the flower beds are planned and executed. RAILWAY GARDENERS MEET.

The sixth annual meeting of the Railway Gardening Association was held Tuesday, August 13, at Roanoke, Va. President Patrick Foy was in the chair. The program was as follows:

TUESDAY, AUGUST 13.

Address of Welcome, F. H. LaBaume, A. & I. A., N. & W. Ry. Co.
Report of officers.
"Good Fellowship and How Best it Can be Maintained," by Geo. B. Moulder, Illinois Central R. R.
"Insect Pests on Trees and Shrubs and Remedy for Same," by E. F. A. Reinsch, Santa Fe R. R.
"Are Live Snow Brakes More Economical than Lumber and What Should They be Composed of?" by J. E. Smith, Pennsylvania R. R.
"Which Gives the Best Results; the Theoretical or Practical Railway Gardener?" by J. E. Byrne, Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
"Should Railways Establish a Landscape Department?" by N. S. Dunlop, Canadian Pacific R. R.
"The Propagation by Seed and Cuttings of Nursery Stock," by John Gipner, Michigan Central R. R.
"How Do Railway Gardeners Compare Mentally, Physically and Morally With Men of Other Professions?" by E. A. Richardson, Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
"What Relationship Should Exist Between the Agricultural and Industrial Department of Railways and the R. R. Landscape Gardener?" by Dr. E. A. Schubert, Norfolk & Western Ry.
"Duties of a Railway Gardener," by C. H. Tritschler, N. C. & St. Louis R. R.
"To What Extent Can Aquatic or Water Gardening be Carried on by the Railway Gardener?" by V. Wickles, Illinois Central R. R.
"The Construction and Maintenance of Driveways Approaching Railway Stations," by C. J. Andrews, Pennsylvania R. R.
"The Best Trees for Railway Parks," by J. K. Wingert, Cumberland Valley R. R.
Open discussion on all subjects.
Selection of next meeting place and date.
Election of officers.
Miscellaneous.
Adjournment.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14.

Auto trip over principal streets of Roanoke.
Reception by Mr. and Mrs. Churchill.
Trip to Mill Mountain over Incline R. R.
Lunch at Rockledge Inn.

CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION

SAVE SACKS AND SAVE DIMES.

S. A. Jamieson calls attention that by florists along with others a lot of good money is wasted every year through the practice of using cement sacks to cover concrete. The sacks are frequently sprinkled with a hose in order to keep them moist and prevent the concrete from drying out. Sometimes, in freezing weather, concrete is covered with sacks upon which manure is piled in order to keep the concrete from freezing. The result is that the sacks are destroyed. Such treatment, acting in conjunction with the cement dust with which the pores of the cloth are filled, causes them to rot, so that they are no longer strong enough to make a proper package for cement. A rotten sack is worth much less than a torn sack, because a sack which is only torn can be mended, whereas nothing will bring life and strength back to decayed cloth.

A recent bulletin of the Universal Portland Cement Co. said: "The area of a cement sack spread out flat is about three and one-quarter square feet, so that the cost of covering concrete with 10-cent cement sacks is at least 3 cents a square foot. The price of tarpaulins ranges from 3½ cents to 9½ cents per square foot and a good, waterproof tarpaulin may be purchased for 6 cents per square foot. Therefore, if such a tarpaulin is bought and used twice, it has paid for itself as compared with the use of cement sacks for the same purpose; and there still remains a tarpaulin in first-rate physical condition, capable of being used many more times as against the pile of rotten sacks which is all that is left after they have been misused in this way."

Wouldn't it be a good investment to lay in a few tarpaulins, which may be used for other purposes besides covering concrete, and which will last and do good service for an indefinite length of time, rather than to waste 10-cent cement sacks by putting them to a use for which they were never intended and which is almost certain to destroy them absolutely?

CONCRETE HOTBEDS.

Since concrete is entering so largely into greenhouse construction, it is interesting to note that excellent permanent hotbeds are also being built of this material. The accompanying illustration shows hotbeds built by the George Wittbold Co., at its greenhouses at Edgebrook, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. These hotbeds were built by the regular greenhouse employees. A 1-2-5 mixture was used. The forms were made for the purpose, the entire job being poured at one time. The length was a mere matter of meeting the needs of the company; the other dimensions would be satisfactory anywhere. It was necessary to go far enough into the ground to get a secure footing, also to keep out frost. The inside of the form was made of second-hand lumber. The outside was corrugated iron, such as often is used on the roofs of boiler sheds. The width of the hotbed was right for a standard sash. The back wall was thirty inches high, and the front wall twenty inches high, with a thickness of six inches. After the concrete had set the forms were knocked away and the heating material was put in. The hotbed is apparently due to last forever. The outside of the completed structure, shown in the illustration, shows the corrugations that were in the iron used in building the form.

OBITUARY.

Joseph M. Cole.

Joseph M. Cole, one of the pioneer florists of Peoria, Ill., passed away at the age of 58 years, August 9, 1912, after a lingering illness of about three or four years. Mr. Cole was one of the first to open a flower store in his city, but sold out his business in 1894 and since then has not been actively engaged in the business, but always took a deep interest in anything pertaining to floriculture. He was a Mason and Knight of Pythias, and these fraternal orders had charge of the funeral services. He was laid to rest in Springfield cemetery, August 11.

HARRISII FOR EASTER.

Please tell us how to handle Harrisii lilies in Alabama so as to have them in bloom for Easter, 1913. The bulbs have arrived, but I think it is too early to pot them up, as our summers are long. F. B.

Nothing will be gained by keeping the bulbs of any lilies out of the soil any longer than can be avoided. I would put the bulbs in at once, using 5-inch or 6-inch pots, according to the size of bulbs you have. After potting, stand on the floor of a cold cellar, which you will probably have. Give them one watering then, but run the plants pretty dry until growth is well started and roots are active round the sides of the pots. Place them in a house with a night temperature of 50 degrees in winter. It is well to remember that Easter next year comes unusually early. March 23 is the date and you want to see the buds on your plants by the first week in February, to have them in time. Even if you get the flowers a little earlier, if you have a cool cellar you can easily retard them for a week or ten days. Once the buds show, a temperature of 60 degrees at night should be given.

Quite a few Harrisii are this year being grown for next Easter, owing to its early date. These do not make so good a pot lily as multiflorum and giganteum, both of which are forms of longiflorum, as it grows rather tall, and you would do well to get some of one or the other of these lilies. The multiflorums arrive earlier and can be more easily forced into bloom than giganteum. The latter, provided you can give it a brisk heat all the time, is the finest variety for pots. C. W.

FAILURE IN PROPAGATING.

Will you please tell us how to propagate genistas and snapdragons? We have inserted cuttings in boxes of nice, clear sand and kept them well watered, out in the yard, but they all damp off and do not root at all. The snaps are finely colored pink seedlings and we want to increase the best ones for cut flowers next winter, but they fail to root.

We also have some beautiful coleus and want to increase the stock of them. Shall we let them go to seed and sow the seeds, or take cuttings? We have trouble with coleus in winter. They do not even wait for frost, but perish in September or October, at the first hint of fall weather. Please inform us as to their culture. L. M. S. & C.

Genistas do not root readily from soft wood. If you had taken cuttings last January or February, of wood tolerably well ripened, and inserted them in a cutting bench, such as is used for propagating carnations or chrysanthemums, you would have had no trouble in rooting them. Those rubbed off with a heel root the most easily. It will be better to wait until fall before putting in any more genistas, and then select short cuttings of well firmed wood.

Snapdragons and other soft-wood cuttings are liable to damp off in intensely hot weather. Try a batch in a cold-frame. Shade the glass, keep moderately close and a large percentage should root. Snapdragons are also readily propagated from seed, which can be purchased in separate colors. If sown at once you will get good plants for benching in October.

Coleus cuttings should be taken before cold nights arrive. Put them in flats of sand or in any ordinary propagating bench sometime between now and the end of August. Keep them shaded and frequently damped over and few should fail to root. Coleus are, if anything, the easiest of all bedding plants to propagate. C. W.

THE CANADIANS' ANNUAL MEETING

CONCLUDE CONVENTION.

Officers Elected.

At the conclusion of the fifteenth annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Association, at Montreal, the first day's proceedings of which were reported in last week's issue of The Review, the following officers were elected:

President—Walter Muston.

First Vice-president—H. S. Cowan.

Second Vice-president—George Hopton.

Secretary and Treasurer—Julius Luck.

Executive Committee—B. Milford, F. Wise, William Ferguson, H. G. Willis, A. E. Ewing, J. Graham, A. Annandale, F. S. Cheesman, E. J. Mepstead and A. E. Ellis.

Peterborough, Ont., was chosen as the place for next year's convention.

A Canadian's Comment.

Over 100 members and friends were present. There is no gainsaying the fact that had the various sessions been carried through as thoroughly as were the different functions in connection with the entertaining part of the program, lasting benefits might have accrued; but, unfortunately, one cannot look back and say, "There, something has been accomplished!" On the contrary, the discussions proved singularly, and plurally, abortive. There is a lack of cohesion in the society, and instead of pulling together for the welfare of the whole, the spirit of seriousness and businesslike "get" seems to give way at all these conventions to a feeling that "jollying" should be the order of the day. The tariff question, for instance, and the postage rates, both of which subjects were handled at the convention at Ottawa last year, are problems not any nearer solution now than they were twelve months ago.

The treasurer's statement had not been entered up for two years, and until the last minute the auditors were not in a position to report as to the finances of the association.

Only two out of the forty odd Toronto florists attended the convention, although at least half their number might reasonably have been expected.

The president, A. C. Wilshire, proved a most efficient chairman, and his address, as well as the report of the secretary, Julius Luck, proved agreeable reading.

W. W. Gammage, London, Ont., contributed a paper on the cost of production of florists' stock, and after a long argument showing the difficulty of arriving at such cost and the unlikelihood of the producer enlightening the trade after arriving at his conclusion, it was generally conceded that the individual grower must settle this matter for himself in the quiet of the evening, and not stay with the water and the soil until he becomes too tired to think.

"The Economical Management of a Retail Store," by Geo. W. Geraghty, Toronto, proved a good paper, but evoked little comment, as the contributor was not present to back up his arguments.

Thomas Manton, Eglinton, Ont., dealt with commercial orchids in his own inimitable style, and lovers of this aristocrat among flowers were particularly fortunate in listening to this enthusiastic grower's remarks.

Arising out of the discussions on papers placed in the question box, one point in particular was emphasized in connection with cheap Saturday sales: James McKenna, who caters to the highest class of trade in Montreal, expressed the opinion that while these sales brought flowers within the reach of people who otherwise might not ordinarily be able to afford them, yet another section of the public also realized that the Saturday clean-up afforded the assurance that for the beginning of the following week fresh stock would be the only quality of stock it would be possible for them to cultivate. During certain glut seasons such sales appear inevitable, but the florists every year profit through the public becoming educated in this way, despite all that may be suggested to the contrary.

One of the most important papers read was that by William Hunt, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on the nomenclature of plants. Twenty-five plants had been dealt with by this gentleman, and the pronunciation of their Latin names proved a perspiring effort, but George Robinson, one of the convention's hardest workers, nobly struggled with the encyclopedical results, and the flower buyers of Canada will be much better off, it is hoped, by learning how cyclamen, clematis, begonias and other plants should be asked for when they approach their florist.

Trade exhibits made an attractive feature at the convention, the Dale Estate, William Ewing & Co., Dupuy & Ferguson, J. A. Simmers, H. Bayersdorfer & Co. and E. Hayward contributing to an agreeable effect.

The association banquet, Thursday evening, August 8, was a delightful affair, the speeches being short and to the point, interspersed with songs by W. G. Peacock and W. D. Deas, and recitations by Mr. Bowles and Mr. Green, of Philadelphia. The retiring president, A. C. Wilshire, and his wife were the recipients of a splendid clock and gold watch, and in these days of sham it did one good to see and to feel their genuine emotion when they both expressed their sincere and heartfelt thanks for the little tribute their good work had made so timely.

Friday was given up to a trip to Senneville, that part of the island of Montreal where the beautiful summer homes of Sir Edward Clonston and R. B. Angus are unique in their Canadian grandeur. The picturesqueness of the scenery and the perfection of the landscape effects were an æsthetic treat to the large party, and the summit of human happiness was reached when R. Burrows escorted everybody to the huge marquee, under which Lady Clonston and R. B. Angus had given Montreal's best caterer cart blanche in the matter of hospitality. Never were convention delegates so lavishly entertained as on this occasion, the pleasant memories of which will last for years to come.

The MacDonald College, at St. Anne's de Bellevue, was visited during the afternoon, and the outing was completed by the return of the party to Montreal by boat after shooting the Lachine rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. George Hopton and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wilshire were largely responsible for the lunches and parties that proved such pleasing features to the ladies attending the convention, and their hard work was thoroughly appreciated by everybody.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Business has been quiet for the last week, there having been scarcely a ripple to disturb the prevailing midsummer dullness. Asters are more than ever the dominant flower and are arriving in immense numbers, the bulk of splendid quality, but prices on even the best are low and unsatisfactory and a large number are unsold each day. Sweet peas continue abundant, but the quality is not good. Gladioli are seen in greater abundance, those most in evidence being Augusta, Shakespeare, America and Mrs. Francis King. These have sold fairly well so far, but the present week will probably see a glut of them. Roses are less abundant. Beauties and Tafts are the two most popular sorts. Carnations are nearly down and out; the few arriving cut little figure, purchasers preferring asters. Valley is not in much demand. There is a good supply of lilies, both longiflorum and speciosum, with little demand. For the various miscellaneous flowers arriving, demand is light. A few Cattleya gigas and Harrisoniæ are seen. For asparagus and adiantum, demand is at a low ebb.

Exhibition.

The prize exhibition August 10 and 11 filled the main room at Horticultural hall and proved successful. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. had a splendid table of Lilium Henryi. Bay State Nurseries had an extensive display of phloxes, lilies and perennials in variety and was awarded a bronze medal. Eastern Nurseries, H. S. Dawson proprietor, made their first exhibit, having an extensive collection of perennial phloxes, physostegias and other perennials. William Whitman, M. Sullivan gardener, and T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. also had large and varied displays.

Perennial phloxes were largely shown, T. C. Thurlow's Sons Co. having the leading display. Some of their most striking varieties were Mme. Prospre Langier, Elizabeth Campbell, Saison's Lierval, Feu de Monde, Stella's Choice, Mme. Pape-Carpentier, Mme. Meuret, G. A. Strohlein and Flora Hornung. William Whitman and several others had collections of phloxes, Mr. Whitman having the best twelve spikes.

Some splendid gladioli were shown. Chamberlain & Gage had some grand seedlings, No. 301 and No. 11003 being extra fine. In named varieties they had as their best Chicago White, Premier, Mrs. M. Chamberlain, a magnificent white of immense size; Scrolla, Myrtle, Wm. Steinhausen and Governor Hanlay. B. Hammond Tracy, in his large and well arranged collection, had as his best sorts Delight, Mrs. James Lancashire, Pride, Royal, America, Cedar Acres Mauve, Dawn, Shakespeare and Harvard. C. W. Brown also had a nice collection.

There were extensive displays of annuals from W. Whitman, M. Sullivan gardener; Mrs. J. L. Gardner, Wm. Thatcher gardener, and Mrs. E. M. Gill. D. F. Roy showed Begonia gracilis Prima Donna and was awarded a first-class certificate. E. L. Lewis had a collection of fine sweet peas, W. N. Craig also showing fifty varieties of the latter. Mrs. J. L. Gardner and Mrs. F. Ayer, George Page gardener, showed fine Gladiolus Kunderdi Glory. A. W. Preston, J. L. Smith gardener, had splendid asters and gloxinias. H. Darlington showed gladioli and asters.

Chamberlain & Gage, for Gladiolus Mrs. M. Chamberlain, received a first-class certificate and a silver medal for G. Gandavensis Myrtle. Walter Hunnewell, T. D. Hatfield gardener, received honorable mention for Prunus Laurocerasus in fruit. Farquhar's table of Lilium Henryi was awarded a silver medal.

The children's garden products will be seen at an exhibition in Horticultural hall August 31 and September 1, and September 13 to 15 the annual dahlia and fruit show will be held.

Various Notes.

We are now getting somewhat warmer weather, but a deficiency of over 500 degrees in temperature is the record for the year to August 12. Recent rains have brought the precipitation nearly up to normal.

The sensational new rose, Mme. Charles Russell, will cut a considerable figure here next season. Mr. Montgomery has benched over 10,000 of it and the plants are making splendid growth. This is the variety raised at the Waban Conservatories which seems destined to place an old friend, Beauty, in a back seat.

The Boston delegation to the Chicago S. A. F. convention will leave the South station at 2 p. m. on Sunday, August 18. It was the wish of the Bostonians to join the New York party and accompany them, August 19, but train arrangements did not allow this. A good number are planning to make the trip and it looks at this time as though the party will fill the special car which has been reserved. E. Allan Peirce, of Waltham, is in charge of the train and other arrangements.

Employees of A. C. Canfield, Springfield, Ill.

Hitchings & Co. are building several new houses on the estate of Philip Dexter, Manchester, Mass.

C. H. Gerron has been appointed superintendent of the estate of J. P. Lindsey, Southboro, Mass.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co., who have had two telephones in their seed store, are adding two more and will in future have a special operator in their exchange. The increase in business has necessitated the doubling of their trunk lines.

The annual convention of the American Association of Park Superintendents at Horticultural hall has brought many visitors to town this week, whom we are glad to see. Weather conditions are proving ideal for them.

Patten & Co. have their carnations all housed and well established. They are growing 3,000 Benora, also St. Nicholas and one or two other novelties. They have had a heavy call for Godfrey callas.

James Tulis, of South Sudbury, has been marketing carnations of the new crop for the last ten days at the Boston Flower Exchange. W. N. Craig.

CANFIELD'S "BUNCH."

The group shown in the accompanying illustration are as loyal a bunch of hard and capable workers as one would hope to find manning a greenhouse plant. These are the employees of A. C. Canfield, Springfield, Ill. It is said that the most valuable quality a business man can possess is that of surrounding himself with capable assistants. Mr. Canfield, therefore, is to be congratulated.

REMOVING HARD PUTTY.

Do you know of anything that I can use to remove hard putty from sashbars? If so, please let me know.

—— A. M. B.

There is no entirely successful method of softening putty so that it can be readily removed from sashbars. A sharp chisel will generally remove it with little difficulty after a drenching rain or thorough wetting down with a hose.

Norwich, Conn.—E. J. Langenbach, on Lafayette street, has torn down some of his old greenhouses and replaced them with new ones of strictly modern design.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The week has been unusually cool for the season and the rainfall has been abundant. The weather has been favorable to roses in particular, and as a result the cut is even better than it has been. Asters have been in large supply, with a fair demand, but they have been rather too weak-stemmed and water-soaked. Business, on the whole, is in a satisfactory condition, though quiet. There have been several large funerals the last few days that have cleaned up much stock.

Various Notes.

The seedsmen report their crops in satisfactory condition. The onion set crop in these parts is short. Cow peas give promise of the best crop for several years, unless there should be too much rain at harvesting time. These two items are about all the trade get from here.

McKay, Reece & Co., seedsmen, report an unusually successful season. The fall trade is opening up well. Seed potatoes for planting the second crop were never in better demand. They have sold out entirely and are unable to secure any more cold storage stock. Mr. Ewing is on a month's trip in the interests of the firm.

P. J. Foley spent August 11 seeing the sights of our city. He was on a business trip.

Geny Bros. report a satisfactory week, with a good clean-up at the close. Their valley this week seems better than usual, and they are still having an abundant supply of asters that would do them credit in the autumn. I noticed some of the best Whitmani ferns I have seen for some time in their houses. This fern is one of their best sellers.

Haury Bros. report that they were able to clean up close at the end of last week, and with a good out-of-town wedding and a few other out-of-town events the coming week bids fair to be good.

The Joy Floral Co. reports a good supply of all kinds of flowers. The last week has been characterized by a great deal of out-of-town business, taking most of their stock. They have had a hard fight with the aster bug, but have it well in hand, with little injury done. They report cutting their first chrysanthemums this week. F. B.

Do you know of anything that I can use to remove hard putty from sashbars? If so, please let me know.

A. M. B.

There is no entirely successful method of softening putty so that it can be readily removed from sashbars. A sharp chisel will generally remove it with little difficulty after a drenching rain or thorough wetting down with a hose.

Norwich, Conn.— E. J. Langenbach, on Lafayette street, has torn down some of his old greenhouses and replaced them with new ones of strictly modern design.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The week has been unusually cool for the season and the rainfall has been abundant. The weather has been favorable to roses in particular, and as a result the cut is even better than it has been. Asters have been in large supply, with a fair demand, but they have been rather too weak-stemmed and water-soaked. Business, on the whole, is in a satisfactory condition, though quiet. There have been several large funerals the last few days that have cleaned up much stock.

Various Notes.

The seedsmen report their crops in satisfactory condition. The onion set crop in these parts is short. Cow peas give promise of the best crop for several years, unless there should be too much rain at harvesting time. These two items are about all the trade get from here.

McKay, Reece & Co., seedsmen, report an unusually successful season. The fall trade is opening up well. Seed potatoes for planting the second crop were never in better demand. They have sold out entirely and are unable to secure any more cold storage stock. Mr. Ewing is on a month's trip in the interests of the firm.

P. J. Foley spent August 11 seeing the sights of our city. He was on a business trip.

Geny Bros. report a satisfactory week, with a good clean-up at the close. Their valley this week seems better than usual, and they are still having an abundant supply of asters that would do them credit in the autumn. I noticed some of the best Whitmani ferns I have seen for some time in their houses. This fern is one of their best sellers.

Haury Bros. report that they were able to clean up close at the end of last week, and with a good out-of-town wedding and a few other out-of-town events the coming week bids fair to be good.

The Joy Floral Co. reports a good supply of all kinds of flowers. The last week has been characterized by a great deal of out-of-town business, taking most of their stock. They have had a hard fight with the aster bug, but have it well in hand, with little injury done. They report cutting their first chrysanthemums this week. F. B.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The cool weather last week was beneficial to flowers. Business among the retailers is not rushing, by any means. Some report a great deal of funeral work, but aside from this it has been dull.

The wholesale market last week was in excellent shape, with cut flowers of all seasonable kinds. Roses are plentiful, especially Killarney and Kaiserin. Some good Beauties are also seen Carnations are not good, but the blooms from the field are better than those from the house. Some of the flowers are good, but have short stems. Gladioli are still coming in heavily and the prices are low. America and King are the best sellers, with Augusta next. Sweet peas are poor. Hydrangeas are abundant and asters in all grades are a glut. Some good lilies and valley were seen during the week. In greens the market has all anyone wants.

Club Meeting.

An interesting meeting of the Florists' Club was held in Odd Fellows' hall, August 8, at 2 p. m. The attendance was large and was thoroughly representative. All the officers were in their respective places when President Windler called the meeting to order.

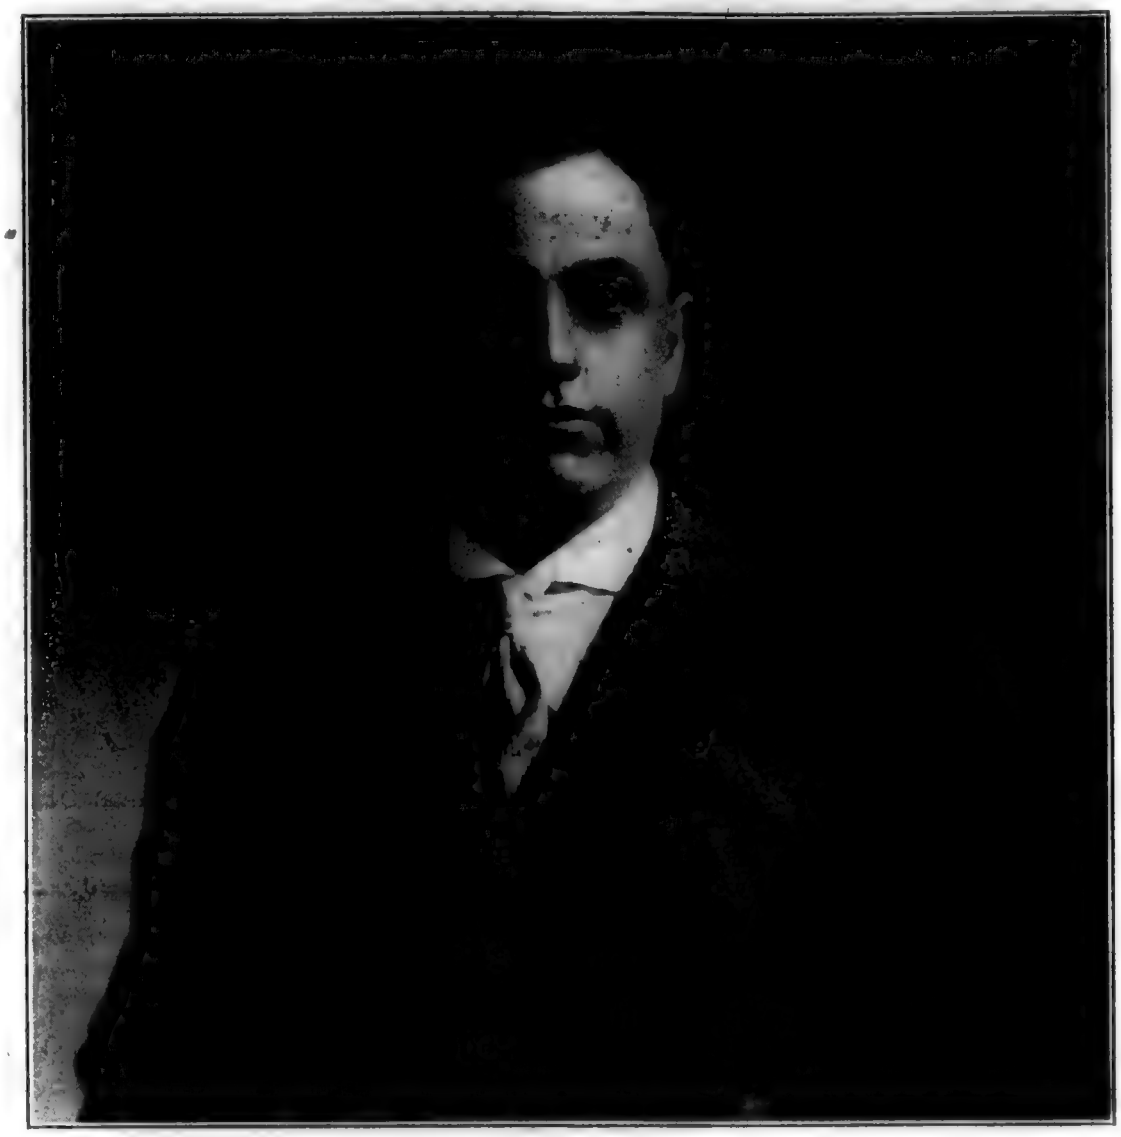
Convention matters and the election of officers were the principal items of business.

The trustees, through Chairman Frank Weber, made a report of receipts and expenditures for the recent picnic given by the club.

Fred H. Weber, state vice-president, reported that all arrangements for the trip to the convention had been completed and that the party would travel over the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad; also that a private club car and a parlor car are held in reserve for the party, which will leave St. Louis August 19, at 9 a. m., and arrive in Chicago at 5 p. m. Mr. Weber had a large list of names of those who expected to make the trip. Every assurance is given of a delightful trip, and all in the party are looking forward with keen anticipation to the pleasures of meeting again the florists from all over the country.

The following florists were elected as members: J. J. Windler, Albert Gums, Charles W. Fullgraf, Fred W. Pape, Edw. G. Eggeling, Frank A. Windler, L. Baumann and Max Herzog.

Walter T. Weber, manager of H. J. Weber & Sons' greenhouse plant, made application for membership.



In the election of officers there were two candidates for each office, and the following were chosen: President, Fred H. Weber; vice-president, Charles Young; secretary, J. J. Beneke; treasurer, William C. Smith; three-year trustee, William Ossick; two-year trustee, John Connon.

Treasurer Smith's report showed a healthy balance to the club's credit.

The question box brought out a good discussion, which brought this interesting meeting to a close. The next meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon, September 12, when the newly elected officers will be installed.

Various Notes.

Charles Young, vice-president-elect of the Florists' Club, left August 7 for a ten days' stay at South Haven, Mich., and will meet the St. Louis party at Chicago in convention week before his return home.

Fred H. Weber.

Julius Dilloff, representing Schloss Bros., and M. Le Vine, of Lion & Co., New York, were callers last week.

E. Kalisch, of Kalisch Bros., writes that he is enjoying himself at Elkhart Lake, Wis., and that fishing is fine.

W. A. Rowe, of Kirkwood, reports that he is getting things in shape at his place, so as to be able to attend the S. A. F. convention.

Fred W. Bruenig is busy planting carnations at his greenhouse plant at Columbia, Ill. He says, "Count me and Mrs. Bruenig in for the convention trip."

John Steidle, C. E. De Wever and A. Jablonsky, at Olivette, are busy preparing things for the fall and winter season.

Theo. Miller will, early next month, open a retail flower store in his own building at Hamilton and Delmar avenues. He will retain his old place at Delmar and Euclid avenues.

Emil Schray, for fifteen consecutive years secretary of the Florists' Club, received quite a welcome when he appeared at the club meeting last week. He says pressure of business alone kept him from attending more regularly.

Fred W. Pape, assistant to City Forester Julius Koenig, was elected a member of the Florists' Club last week. He says he is kept quite busy nowadays as assistant city forester.

The stork is paying quite frequent visits to our local florists. His latest delivery was a baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Connon, at Webster Groves.

William C. Smith, in company with Mrs. Smith, left for Jerome, Mo., to spend their vacation. Mr. Smith says it is hardly possible that he will be back in time for the S. A. F. meeting. Frank A. Windler, of the firm, will make the trip.

The American Paper Products Co., of 272 Bremen avenue, have of late had a big demand for their Appco Shipsafe boxes for florists' use.

It is safe to say that this city will not be represented in the bowling tournament at Chicago during the S. A. F. convention with a team, but a few of them will enter in individual events. Interest in bowling among the local florists seems to have died out.

James Culbert, a florist here twenty-five years ago, stopped over here August 10, on his way back from a western trip. He is now in business at Rossville, Ill. During his short stay he looked up a few of his old friends.

Suburban visitors during the last week: E. W. Guy, Gus Grossart and H. Emunds, Belleville; J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville; Edwin Denker, St. Charles; P. McPheron, Litchfield, Ill.; Joseph Hauser and J. Connon, Webster Groves; John Steidle and C. E. De Wever, Olivette; Messrs. Filcher, Rowe, Ahner, Gross, Niemeyer and Ude, of Kirkwood.

J. J. B.

Quincy, Ill.—The new store of F. W. Heckenkamp, Jr., in the St. James Hotel building, on Sixth avenue, north, has been completed and opened for business. The interior is finished in white enamel and is unusually artistic in design.

Hastings, Neb.—Business is excellent with Charles Winkler. August 5 he bought two lots just west of the postoffice for $6,000 and an hour later was offered $7,000 for them. He will use them for a store and show house.

NEWS, NOTES AND COMMENTS

Wyalusing, Pa.—R. S. Howard has begun business here as a florist. Part of his greenhouse space will be used for the growing of vegetables.

Yonkers, N. Y.—Victor Kozuboff, formerly in business at Ogdensburg, N. Y., has entered into partnership with Emil Yedowitz, at Mile Square road and Trenchard street, in this city.

Springfield, N. J.—Greenhouses are being erected by the Dod Contracting Co. in the rear of the property of Dr. Henry P. Dengler, on Morris avenue. The houses will be used by J. L. Adams, of Newark, who will grow stock for the market. It will be two or three months, however, before the buildings will be completed.

New Bedford, Mass.—Wm. E. Mosher has offered the New Bedford Horticultural Society 1,500 to 1,800 flower plants of various kinds for the school children who are interested in the home garden work. The children were directed to call at the greenhouses on Hillman street and receive the plants. Mr. Mosher also gave away about 800 plants for the same purpose last year.

Lewiston, Me.—Adelard Provencher, employed by Ernest Saunders on a farm at Greene, is reported to have committed suicide. His body was found hanging in a woodshed on the morning of July 24. It is supposed that he had become insane as the result of two years of despondency, following the loss of his home and the death of his wife. Mr. Saunders had recently purchased the farm and had placed the Provencher family on it for the summer.

Junction City, Kan.—E. F. Walter & Son say that business this year has been good, showing a highly satisfactory increase. They report that a hail storm in the first part of June smashed nearly all of their glass, leaving not more than about twenty square feet unbroken in a total area of nearly 13,000 square feet. A fine crop of tomatoes and other stock were also destroyed. Thomas Keeshan & Son, of the Junction City Floral Co., also lost nearly all of their glass. The glass of both firms, however, was fully insured.

Galion, O.—Charles J. Tracht reports that late in the afternoon of July 30 the vegetation in this vicinity was seriously damaged by a hail storm. Though the hail stones were not enormously large, they fell with such force that most of the field plants, except the carnations, were either stripped of their leaves or beaten to the earth, and even the carnations were badly battered. Mr. Tracht lost about two-thirds of his glass. The greenhouses of J. A. Farnworth & Son, not being so directly in the path of the storm, escaped with less damage.

Bloomington, Ill.—Arthur J. Graves, of the Maplewood Greenhouses, which are located at the entrance of the Bloomington cemetery, is erecting another house.

Oshkosh, Wis.—Miss Alma Schultz, employed at the greenhouses of William Otto, was painfully injured recently while attempting to step from a rapidly moving interurban car.

Cleveland, O.—The peony farm of Frank H. Seither, on Bosworth road, was visited recently by a party consisting of Public Service Director Springborn, City Forester Boddy, Superintendent Alber of the park department, and members of the city council. The park commissioners are planning to make a peony farm a feature of the city park system next spring.

Aberdeen, Miss.—The Aberdeen Floral Co. has been in business here for only a few months, but has already established a good trade and is now building three large greenhouses, with the intention of growing stock for the wholesale market. George F. Grennor, of Cincinnati, has been engaged as grower and will have charge of the greenhouses. J. R. Young is proprietor.

Council Bluffs, Ia.—Good progress is being made in the erection of the new range of greenhouses for J. F. Wilcox & Sons, near Manawa. About fifty men are engaged in the work. The big concrete chimney, which is to be on the same order as the one at the Broadway pumping station, although some twenty feet higher, is fast nearing completion. The manager's cottage is being erected near the street car tracks and will be quite an attractive residence.

Lewiston, Me.—During the last winter J. R. Taylor built a greenhouse at his home in South Lewiston, and he was quite successful in the growing and marketing of early vegetables. Then he tried his skill in aster growing, with equally satisfactory results. Now he is planning to improve and enlarge his greenhouse and increase the scope of his business. He is a conductor on a local railway line, and the florists' business, so far, is only one of several side lines in which he expends his surplus energies.

Youngstown, O.—Fisher & Bjurklund, on the Boardman road near the township line, are preparing to make extensive additions to their range. The foundations are being constructed for one new greenhouse, 30x300. When this is finished, the present houses, each 150 feet long, will be extended to the same length as the new house. A packing cellar, where flowers may be held for shipment, is also included in the plans. With these enlargements, this firm's range will be one of the biggest and best in this part of the state.

Saginaw, Mich.—Desner & Fisher have placed an order with the John C. Moninger Co., Chicago, for the materials for another greenhouse.

Johnson City, Tenn.—Gunnar Teilmann, proprietor of the Johnson City Floral Co., who made a reputation as a grower of early Monrovia, says that this year he cut Golden Glow five to six inches across August 1. All mums are early with him this year.

Chillicothe, O.—The property of the Chillicothe Floral Co., as a going concern, will be sold at public auction Tuesday, August 20. There are seven greenhouses in the range. Chas. A. Johnson, the proprietor, has been highly successful, but wishes to remove to the west on account of his wife's health.

Evansville, Ind.—Julius Niednagel is constructing, on his property at 927 Lincoln avenue, a home that will be a credit to the florists' trade and a fine object lesson to other prosperous residents of the town. The ten-room white stucco house that he is erecting, in the German renaissance style of architecture, will cost $7,000, but the lawns and gardens will represent a much larger investment and will, it is said, be easily the prettiest home grounds in the city. The lot is 600 feet square and Mr. Niednagel himself will superintend the parking of it. A few greenhouses will be grouped in the rear.

Miami, Fla.—J. W. Warner, manager of the Miami Floral Co., reports that the firm has just installed a Skinner system of irrigation throughout the grounds. An order has also been placed for the materials for one greenhouse. It will be an iron-frame house, with concrete foundations, and another house of the same construction will also be erected before long. Mr. Warner believes that these will be the first houses of that type south of Jacksonville. The firm has also contracted for ten acres of additional land, to be used not only for flowers, but also for nursery stock. The nursery department has recently been added.

Milford, N. H.—Rev. Francis W. Holden, pastor of a church here, has a greenhouse at his home just outside of the village, and grows vegetables and flowering plants for the market. This work in the florists' line, however, is only one of his many activities. He is a member of the local Grange and participates helpfully in the discussion of issues connected with that body; he was chiefly instrumental in organizing a company of farmers who built an $8,000 creamery and elected him as president; he is prominent in educational work and in benevolent work of a really practical character. He is referred to as "the minister who does things."

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1912: President, R. Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md.; vice-president, August Poehlmann, Morton Grove, Ill.; secretary, John Young, 54 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo, N. Y.

Annual convention, Coliseum, Chicago, Ill., August 20 to 23, 1912.

THE Wants and For Sales in last week's issue of The Review made a new record—nearly three full pages of them.

THERE are those who believe that express shipments of cut flowers can hope for no lower rates through the general agitation now going on; that, in fact, the trade may consider itself fortunate to hold the present rates. The claims arising from cut flower shipments loom large in the view of express officials.

CHARLES W. JOHNSON, Morgan Park, Ill., secretary of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, has just mailed to members the pamphlet containing the proceedings of the tenth annual meeting, held at St. Louis, November 8, 1911. It also contains lists of varieties disseminated in 1911 and a list of members of the society. The frontispiece is a portrait of Charles H. Totty.

THE white paper consumed in printing this issue of The Review weighed 10,910 pounds, or almost exactly five and one-half tons. And this is just a little extra edition, not a regular special number at all. The real special, the annual Convention Number, comes out next week, with a full report of the Chicago convention. BEWARE!

The Subscription Swindler.

Once more The Review warns the trade against traveling subscription agents. The Review agents all are well-known men, permanently located in the territory they represent. Don't pay money to strangers.

A petty swindler is traveling through the east collecting subscriptions where he can, sometimes signing the name Cook, sometimes Thomas, etc., etc. With him it is anything to get the money, for he is a swindler. Don't pay money to strangers. Mail your subscriptions direct to The Review office and be safe.

WHY REVIEW ADS PAY.

To become a profitable advertising medium a publication must do more than scatter its copies; it must gain the confidence and esteem of the people to whom the paper is sent. These letters show why The Review pays advertisers:

Your Review is one of the papers of a lifetime; I need it in my business.—T. H. McCann, Warren, Pa., August 1, 1912.

Rushed to beat the band, but here is your money for two years more.—Chas. J. Pass, North Platte, Neb., July 26, 1912.

It's a paper I could not get along without.—E. R. Reese, Frankfort, N. Y., July 28, 1012.

And here is the result:

It will probably be interesting for you to learn what results one can have from a three-line classified ad; I had a number of good sized orders and one amounted to $115.—F. O. Franzen, Chicago, August 5, 1912.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

The cool, rainy weather that prevailed for a week or more has affected the local market conditions, but not to any great advantage to anyone. Indoor stock has been given a check and the frequent rains have injured the quality of the outdoor stock. Asters and gladioli have dropped off considerably and the really good stock is disposed of at fair prices. Short roses from young stock are in good supply, although long-stemmed grades are few and far between. White roses, which have been scarce for the last two weeks, are more frequently noted in the arrivals, but the demand is still excellent and fully capable of cleaning up the supply at consistent prices. The demand on these, especially White Killarney, is far in advance of any summer of recent years and the ones fortunate enough to have good cuts are well entitled to the prices that are being obtained. A more steady demand for the colored varieties has been noted and the retail demand has without doubt picked up several degrees since the advent of the cooler weather, which has been more favorable to the florist than the summer resort hotel man. Beauties, Killarney, Maryland and Richmond are moving in much better shape than for some time, but while the blooms are good, the majority are short in stem. Some good medium stock is to be found, but a good price and quick sale are effected without much trouble. Of Aaron Ward, Lady Hillingdon and

At Your Service

Make Yourselves at Home in Our Store

We shall feel honored to have the visitors make our place their headquarters during the Convention—and we shall have something to show in the way of stock and facilities, as well as courtesies. Have your mail addressed in our care. Remember, that our store is on the direct car line from the Coliseum (Convention Hall), the nearest place in the market by street car from the Coliseum, and that all cars north on Wabash Avenue stop in front of our door. We bid you welcome!

FANCY BEAUTIES

The Largest and Steadiest Supply in the West.

You need good Beauties, to be sure, but you also need to be able to get them when you want them. Our Beauties always are fine, and we have them in quantity all the time. These special summer Beauties, all lengths, are great sellers. Try them and see. You can work up a fine trade on Beauties if you use our stock.

FANCY ROSES

MRS. WARD RADIANCE SUNBURST
BULGARIE RICHMOND KILLARNEYS

Our Roses sell specially well, because of superior quality, but we have a large supply and can take good care of all out-of-town orders—we aim to never be without Roses in the ice-boxes.

FANCY LILIES

Lilies are selling well—you'll find it so if you use our stock for funeral work or for decorations. Easter Lilies, Auratums, Rubrums.

GLADS

We are specially strong this year on the Gladioli the trade wants in quantity, America, King and Augusta. Once you try these you will not be able to get along with the ordinary quality even of the same varieties.

ASTERS

All colors. Can furnish any grade you want. Long, fancy, for decorations, or short, for work. Let us hear from you if you can use good Asters in quantity. Let us quote you on any special orders.

Melody, as well as Mrs. Taft, a good supply can be had, of fine quality. The call is not extremely heavy, but fair prices are being obtained along with the others.

Asters have suffered from the weather and strictly first-class stock is not plentiful. The poorer stock is present in large quantities and little can be done to move it. The best demand a good price, as is the case with the best of the gladioli. Sweet peas have been damaged by the rains, although a few are seen around the market. Mums, the first of the season, made their appearance on the market last week and it was novel to note that both these and some good peonies were being offered at the same time. Golden Glow is the variety and some of the initial cuts were excellent. Field carnations and new indoor stock are on the market and these appear to be in fine shape, despite the deluge of rain and the wet condition of the fields.

Local Convention Participation.

A committee of the Chicago Florists' Club has issued the following:

"As you are doubtless aware, it is twenty-five years since the Society of American Florists met in this city, where it was organized three years earlier, in 1884. At the coming convention there will be a large attendance of members from all sections of the country and it would seem advantageous to give trade employees every opportunity to meet their fellow craftsmen on this occasion, especially on the closing day, Friday, August 23, which has been set aside for amusements and entertainment at Ravinia park. Those who are not members of the Society of American Florists can obtain tickets at the Coliseum covering all the entertainment features of the convention, at low trade rates, lower, we believe, than the actual cost, and the members of this club are hopeful that all local employers and employees in the trade and allied trades will join in making the closing day of the convention a pleasant memory for all our visitors. To this end it has been suggested that all employers, where conditions permit, close their places of business as early as possible, say 9 a. m., on Friday, August 23, so that everyone may enjoy the holiday."

Bassett & Washburn report their first cut of mums, August 10, found quick sales. They were Golden Glow. Mrs. Horton is on her second week of vacation, but Mr. Anderson, of the shipping department, is back from Elk Rapids, Mich.

Harry Manheim, of Hoerber Bros., is back from a vacation on an Indiana farm and says that getting back to nature is fine business. The outdoor carnations are being cut in good quantities at the Des Plaines grounds.

Phil Schupp, of J. A. Budlong's, is highly pleased with his first cut of indoor carnations that came in from the Budlong Bowmanville plant August 12. Golden Glow mums are also being cut by this firm.

Rudolph Ellsworth, of Wellworth Farm, at Downers Grove, was a visitor to the Chicago Flower Growers' Association's store August 12 and says that the stock on the farm and in the greenhouses is doing nicely.

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

The last week only went to show the uncertainties of business at this season of the year. There was an ever increasing supply, but the demand did not run in a line parallel with it. After Wednesday the bottom seemed almost to drop out of things and stock moved slowly. Shipping business continues good.

The rose cut is much heavier than at the last writing. The warmer days and nights seem to have had an almost instantaneous effect. The demand easily took up all the Beauties, but could not take up all of the other varieties. Only the best moved. Shorts and culls had to be sold at a sacrifice, if at all. The Tafts are of most excellent quality and find a ready call.

Gladioli are about due for a tremendous glut. Monday's close showed some fancy ones still on hand, while the ordinary ones hardly sold at all and were left over in quantity. The long, large midseason and late asters now come in regularly. The best sell nicely; the poorer stock moves only at the buyers' prices, if at all. The range of shades and colors is large. Easter lilies seem to be selling better, but at no higher price than before. Auratum, speciosum rubrum and album do not sell so well. Hydrangea paniculata proves fairly good property. A few Golden Glow mums have made their appearance.

In green goods, the fern business is good, while other lines move slowly.

The Subscription Swindler.

Once more The Review warns the trade against traveling subscription agents. The Review agents all are well-known men, permanently located in the territory they represent. Don't pay money to strangers.

A petty swindler is traveling through the east collecting subscriptions where he can, sometimes signing the name Cook, sometimes Thomas, etc., etc. With him it is anything to get the money, for he is a swindler. PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

The cut flower market has fallen off. There are more flowers coming into town, without a corresponding increase in orders. Even white roses have been in oversupply, an unknown condition during the greater part of the last six weeks. Asters are abundant. A few are fine, commanding $3 per hundred. A few superb flowers earn $5 per hundred, but two-thirds of the stock is poor, so poor that it is difficult to market at low prices. Roses are abundant, mainly old stock, Maryland and Kaiserin predominating, with a sprinkling of new crop blooms. The price of gladioli is receding under heavy receipts. Valley is of good quality; it is in fair request. There are not many Easter lilies. The warm weather has increased the supply of outdoor flowers.

Mr. Heacock's Achievement.

Joseph Heacock has successfully accomplished a difficult undertaking—the transfer of his entire stock of roses from Wyncote to Roelofs. This transfer is especially noteworthy for two reasons—the quality of the houses at Roelofs and the quadrupling of the number of his roses since the new place was started. Much has been said and written about Roelofs; it is only necessary here to refer to the plant of the Joseph Heacock Co. as a masterpiece in horticultural construction. The two mammoth houses, covering between them almost 40,000 rose plants, are wonderful examples of lightness and durability. The power plant is thoroughly equipped in every detail, with modern machinery. The visitor to Roelofs feels that the mind that planned and executed every detail of the work on this place had confidence in the future of floriculture.

The varieties of roses grown at Roelofs, with their quantities, are roughly something like this: Over half of the total number are Killarney, over one-fourth are White Killarney, of the remainder about one-half are Richmond, the other half divided between Lady Hillingdon, Radiance, Mrs. Aaron Ward and a lesser number of the new Double White Killarney.

The new house is identical with the older one in length, 600 feet, but it is one-quarter wider, seventy-two feet, and reduces the average cost of housing each plant some ten per cent. The new house is even-span, as against the shadeless ridge in the house of two years ago. The ridge with the central third of the roof is truss supported, an innovation, posts supporting the remainder of the roof as in the older house. These were the principal changes. Both houses are models of strength in their construction, as well as in their cement walls and cement beds.

The removal of the roses from Wyncote leaves room for expansion in palms and in orchids. It is to the credit of the Joseph Heacock Co. that this expansion is needed; the quality of their stock has encouraged steady increase in production. The orchids have passed the experimental and reached the staple stage. Carnations are grown as a side issue; they have been planted on the new farm at Roelofs, where they did well. The carnation plants have just been lifted and planted in the houses.

The Market.

The hot wave, long delayed, has arrived and the market is suffering from a surfeit of asters and gladioli. The waste is considerable. Asters have been down to $1 per hundred bunches, and the best of the flowers, long-stemmed and of good quality, do not command over $1 per hundred blooms. Gladioli are now at their best, or worst.

THE FLORISTS' SUPPLY HOUSE OF AMERICA

It's Like Has Ne'er Been Seen

That is the way people will put it when they see our wonderful exhibit at Chicago next week; it is an exhibit that will cover more floor space and contain more novelties and staples than that of any other exhibitor.

We do not believe in blowing our own horn, so we will leave that entirely to somebody else. Nor are we given to sending a great volume of hot air rushing forth from our own or any other fellow's bellows. It just comes natural to us to grow bigger and expand, as your business and the country's grows and expands.

We want you to know that we are keeping a little ahead of the times.

We want you to see the latest European and American ideas together. This is something worth seeing and this no one else can show you.

Send for our Silent Salesman; he is at your command.

H. BAYERSDORFER & CO.

Aug. 20-23, 1912, Coliseum Bldg., CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

1129 Arch Street, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

ARE WE PROGRESSIVE?

The man who goes to the Convention next week does so for several reasons. He wants a little let-up from hard work at a time when he can best get it; he wants to travel and see what is going on; he wants to meet his friends; most of all, he wants to gather new business ideas.

We are going to the Convention next week to show what progress we have made in our SPECIALTIES during the past year. We are going to take some of our Crotons, Dracaena Terminalis, Ficus Pandurata, Nephrolepis Scottii, etc., etc., and we want you to see them there. These plants will show you that we have given our best thought to their culture and the result, for we honestly believe that we have never grown such fine stock in the past and we know that we have never had such a large collection.

We will be represented at the Convention by Messrs. Robert Craig, William P. Craig, Duncan Macaw and Cornelius Vanderbreggen, who will be most happy to meet you and show you our stock.

Should it be possible for you to spend a few hours in Philadelphia on your return home from the Chicago Convention next week, we will consider it a favor if you will call us on the Bell Telephone, Preston 4278, so that we can arrange to take you out to our new place at Norwood, of which we are justly proud.

Norwood promises to be one of the finest places around Philadelphia. It is modern in every sense of the word. Fifty thousand square feet of glass is being added this summer. At Norwood we have produced our finest stock, the growing conditions being ideal.

Trusting to have the pleasure of meeting you at the Convention and afterward in Philadelphia, we remain,

Fraternally yours,

ROBERT CRAIG COMPANY

49th and Market Streets, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

As to quality, they cannot be excelled. America especially is perfect, and yet it cannot rise above $2 per hundred. A few of the newer and finer varieties sell at the same, but the millions are already down to rock bottom, which means 50 cents per hundred. Thousands daily are unsold and the cartmen are busy cleaning up the street for the morrow.

Roses, cut from young stock, are beginning to arrive, largely short-stemmed, small heads and far from tempting to the buyer. Anything first-class goes quickly and values realized for these are satisfactory. Already there is evidence of the wide planting of the newer varieties. Nothing interferes, however, with the popularity of American Beauty, in the selected grades. There are few of these and prices hold steady at from $3 to $4 per dozen. Few tea roses reach the plane of extras. Good carnations are still absent. Some of the retailers will not handle carnations at all, and all are patiently waiting for the new crop. Lilies were firm last week, few, however, going above $6 per hundred. Shipments of these were heavy as the week closed. Valley holds at good figures, and orchids, which are somewhat scarce, remain easily at the encouraging quotations of a week ago. Gardenias are mostly of poor quality and uncalled for. The windows are full of Golden Glow, goldenrod, hydrangeas and ferns.

Various Notes.

Everybody's theme this week is the Chicago convention. A long and strong effort to secure a total attendance of 100 and the privilege of a special train has not yet accomplished its purpose, but a week remains, at this writing, and acceptances are coming in daily. It is hoped the necessary rush may materialize before the week is over. Phone F. H. Traendly at once if you have not arranged for going.

In the seed houses there is considerable activity, the fall shipments of bulbs being in full swing. Many of the stores have been obliged to reconstruct their entrances, owing to the city's decision against street obstructions. This will cause much inconvenience to the firms that have made a practice of street display.

The Bedford Flower Co., of Bedford Hills, began rose shipments this week. Moore, Hentz & Nash are agents for this enterprise.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Mountain View, Cal.—C. E. Adams is building two houses, each 20 x 100, for carnations.

Seattle, Wash.—Mrs. L. P. Walz, wife of the president of the Seattle Cut Flower Exchange, is on a visit to Salt Lake City and Denver and her old home at Detroit. She will no doubt attend the Chicago convention.

TACOMA, WASH.

There has been little business aside from a few furnerals; yet trade has been up to the usual summer level. Stock of the cheaper grades is plentiful, but there is little of the finer grade of stock on the market. The hot, dry weather is having a marked effect on the outdoor stock, and peas, especially, are becoming short-stemmed and off color. Good carnations are hardly to be seen, most of the stores carrying only the cheaper grades of stock. Asters are coming in more plentifully and are of good quality.

Various Notes.

H. Atchinson is erecting two more houses, 20x125, at his place near Bismarck. They will be devoted to the growing of vegetables for the local trade.

Robert Davis has a fine crop of tomatoes of the Comet variety at his place on South Pacific avenue. He contemplates remodeling some of his old houses in the near future.

On a recent visit to the Reservation Greenhouses we found Mr. Seamons busy with a crew of men, planting the houses to new stock. He says the valley has been rather wet for a good growth of carnations this year. This firm has lately leased greenhouses and a store in Aberdeen, Wash. J. L. S.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

A peculiar condition of the market obtains at this time of year. It matters little how much business the retailers are doing, the wholesalers find it pretty hard to clean up on certain lines of cheap stock which every grower, amateur or commercial, has in plenty. On the other hand, good stock is hard to obtain and the retailer is prone to think he can call on the wholesaler on short notice for orders of this class of flowers when the latter, even could he procure it, would hesitate before stocking up heavily on it.

The retail trade is good for the season, much better than at this time last year. Wedding decorations have been more than usually plentiful and the run of funeral work has kept up finely. The stock shown is about the same as last reported, but a few dahlias are offered. These are of the cactus varieties and they are mighty pretty to look at, but few are sold and the best that can be said about them is that they form a cheap and showy window decoration. Boston ferns, palms and coleus continue to be the chief offering in plants. Greens of all kinds are plentiful. The Amaryllis Belladonna now being shipped in from various sources is a fine addition to the stock at command.

Various Notes.

There was a well attended meeting of the Los Angeles County Horticultural Society, August 6, at Kruckeberg's hall. The subject for the evening's discussion was "Propagation of Plants for the Professional and Amateur," by H. R. Richards. In the discussion J. Dieterich, Dr. Houghton, C. Winsel, Theodore Payne and many other prominent members of the society either scored or upheld the points noted, and an interesting meeting was the result. J. M. Grant acted as secretary in the unavoidable absence of H. W. Kruckeberg.

The Standard Pottery Co. is among the latest to add motor traction to its delivery service, a fine truck having recently been purchased.

O. C. Saakes had a fine wedding decoration July 30, in which the bride's bouquet was of lily of the valley and the flowers carried by the bridesmaids were pink sweet peas. Business is coming right along to this well known Fourth street retailer.

For quality, the roses now being shipped to Wright's Flower Shop from the firm's greenhouses at Gardena would be difficult to beat. My Maryland, from old stock, and Prima Donna and Radiance, from young plants, are among the best offerings and they are of a quality that would rank high in December rather than July. W. Wern is back from his vacation trip and reports an elegant time.

Tassano Bros. keep busy with cut flowers and greens at the store and Tony says he is working hard at the new place at Glendale, planting Asparagus plumosus and other stock under the new lath houses. An especially fine grade of asters is being handled here.

S. Murata says he is doing about three times the business done at the store last year. His greenhouse carnations are especially fine.

A rose wedding was among the orders filled by the Hayward Floral Co. this week, each room in the home of the bride being treated with a different colored variety.

J. B. Menasco is bringing in fine La Detroit roses from his new ranch at Covina. He is getting settled down in his new place and "Jim" promises fine things for the near future. All the newly planted rose stock looks fine.

Fred Hills has his place in fine order now, and he and Mrs. Hills were hosts to quite an extensive party at a picnic in Elysian park, August 3. Superintendent Lambert, of the park system, was among the guests, and Charlie Morton, of the Los Angeles Flower Market, with his usual good nature, helped out by taking parties of the ladies in his Buick to view the scenic beauties of this most delightful of all the city parks. Mrs. Morton and Miss Hazel Morton were among the guests.

H. N. Gage is expected back by the end of the week and will probably be home long before these notes appear. What he says in his letters appreciative of Portland, Ore., would make the inhabitants of this progressive city blush.

The Rose City certainly meets with Mr. Gage's approval.

Owing to the Pacific Electric Railway Co. raising the rent from $125 to $150, and also curtailing the privileges accorded to the Pacific Electric Florist, this concern decided to close out August 1. J. Lang, who has assisted Mrs. Curtet in running the stand here, is out of a situation, but such a useful assistant as he is to anyone with whom he may be associated is not likely to be long idle.

Business keeps up well at the establishment of the Redondo Floral Co. The goldfish outfit has been removed, giving needed room at this busy store. Asters continue to arrive in fine order from the Hollywood place.

Wm. A. and Arthur Grosser, of Fourteenth street and Central avenue, have made a fine addition to their place by building a conservatory, 34 x 36 feet, over the old front entrance. In the greenhouse last built the roses and other stock are looking well and another house the same size is to be built shortly. Hot water is used throughout. Wm. Grosser is one of the most successful propagators of Bougainvillea lateritia and a fine batch is now about ready to pot off.

At the Los Angeles Flower Market the finest gladioli of the season are now, August 7, coming in. The spikes are magnificent and all the best varieties are included. Asters in the best shades of purple, pink and white are also coming in, of fine quality and in large quantities.

C. C. Wooden, lately of Baltimore, who has charge of the office end of Walter Armacost's place at Sawtelle, was in town and says that stock in the new greenhouses is looking fine. Besides several cloth houses and a good deal of lath, devoted to greens and carnations, 15,000 feet of new glass has been built, and planted principally to young rose stock, which is coming along in fine shape. Business at the retail store at Ocean Park is humming this warm weather, which attracts visitors to all the beach towns.

H. R. Richards.

SPOKANE, WASH.

The Market.

The business for July was rather quiet, although some firms report an increase of sales over July of last year. A few social events helped somewhat, but the bulk of the business was from funeral orders. Carnations have been more plentiful this year than ever before and, while the quality was not up to the standard during the hottest part of the month, the last few days have improved the quality a great deal. Sweet peas were a drug on the market, but roses, lilies and other stock were used up pretty well.

Various Notes.

The Spokane Horticultural Society is planning on holding a flower show during the first part of September in one of the large department stores, when prizes will be awarded to amateur growers of sweet peas, asters and dahlias.

The Spokane Greenhouses have incorporated for $20,000 and will erect houses on their ground eight miles west of Spokane and grow cut flowers and plants for the wholesale trade. C. T. Kipp, of the Spokane Florist Co., is president of the new company. The greenhouses and grounds formerly owned by the Inland Nursery and Floral Co., now defunct, have been leased to the Spokane Greenhouses, Inc.

ruptcy, with liabilities of about $6,000 and assets of about $5,000, the Barteldes Seed Co., of Denver, being one of the large creditors. Geo. H. Raymond has been appointed trustee.

The Winters Floral Co. suffered a slight loss by fire, starting from some unknown cause in the basement. The store is closed during the adjustment of the insurance.

A. J. Burt is looking around for a suitable location, as the space used by him will be used by the new hotel being erected, covering the entire block.

H. E. Reimers, of Armstrong's, is showing some nice My Maryland roses and reports business as good as can be expected for the summer months.

The Spokane Greenhouses are cutting some fine Francis King gladioli and they are finding a ready sale. Their gloxinias and tuberous-rooted begonias are also nice.

Hoyt Bros. are showing some fine auratum and rubrum lilies and using them effectively in their window display.

The Spokane Florist Co. has been putting in some pretty windows, with arrangements of gladioli and dahlias. They report a nice increase of business over the corresponding period of last year.

Adolph Donart, of Coeur D'Alene, is sending some fine carnations to this market and reports that he will soon have chrysanthemums to offer.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The weather has turned warm again and flowers are consequently coming in with a rush. This is particularly noticeable with asters, and they are at their best now. Other lines of stock are showing the results of the warm spell and, as a rule, are not quite so good as they have been for the last month. Violets are poor and do not sell well. Amaryllis is plentiful, and the same can be said of dahlias and gladioli. Roses are cheap, and until a week ago were better than those usually shown in the middle of summer. Other lines of stock have not changed much, and business is a shade better than it was one week ago, with a good lot of funeral orders distributed around.

Various Notes.

About seventy-five members of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society took a trip to the greenhouses of E. James, at Elmhurst, August 4. A splendid showing of ferns, palms and other stock well repaid them for their journey. Mr. James is one of the most successful growers of this class of stock on the coast.

Henry Ehlen, of Portland, Ore., is in town for a few days' visit.

C. B. Knickman, representing McHutchison & Co., New York city, has been in San Francisco and vicinity for several days, calling on the trade.

Stevenson's Flower Shop, recently opened in the Cort theater building, reports a good, steady trade, which is increasing noticeably.

A regular monthly meeting of the California State Floral Society was held in Red Men's hall, August 9, at 2 p. m. A meeting of the directors was held at the same place at 1 p. m.

A smoker was given by the members of the Pacific Coast Horticultural So-

It Pays

To Pacific Coast Florists:

What stock have you for sale to the trade? Is it moving as it should? No?

Then tell the trade about it by using the Pacific Coast Pages of The Review.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash., June 26, 1912.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results.—Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

The transient rate for space is $1 per inch per insertion. Those who have stock to offer all or a considerable part of the year around should write for contract rates.

ciety on the evening of August 3, in honor of H. Plath, Julius Eppstein, D. MacRorie and A. J. Rossi, prior to their departure to Chicago, to attend the convention of the S. A. F. A most enjoyable time was had by the large number present. There were also splendid exhibits of orchids, dahlias and other seasonable flowers from several members. The premium lists for the fall exhibition were also distributed. G.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business for the last week has been about the same as previously reported; summer conditions prevail everywhere. It gives an opportunity to house-clean, take inventory and make ready for the coming season. Carnations are almost out of the market, for the benches are rapidly being filled with new stock. Roses are showing up a little better. New stock of Bride, Maid, Gate and Beauty is in evidence, but there is no rush for stock, as the business does not demand it. Auratums, albums and rubrums are almost a glut. Asters are improving rapidly after the rains of the last few days. The demand for orchids has been unusual; there is seldom an oversupply. Boston ferns have been in demand. Salable plants are scarce; that is, they are being held for the fall and winter demand. Golden Glow is coming in nicely; it is used considerably for the windows.

Various Notes.

Miss Dora Brown and H. F. Powell, of Goshen, Ind., spent several days in this city recently.

M. Schuster devotes his entire space to tomatoes, cucumbers and lettuce. He finds this more profitable than the flower end of the business. E. R. C.

SEATTLE.

The Market.

Though business in the flower stores cannot be said to be good, there is a slight improvement over recent conditions. Trade is by no means brisk, but there is some demand for good flowers. The supply, in all but the most common varieties, is not so plentiful as is usual at this season. Good outside roses are selling well, and carnations are bringing more money, selling now at better prices than often in the winter, though the stock cannot be called first-class. Gladioli are plentiful and are not realizing remunerative prices for the growers. Asters are coming in and are a help for funeral work, though that is about all the stock has been fit for so far. Store windows are kept gay at a small cost, with dahlias, etc., but there is not much sale for this class of stock. Speciosum lilies are selling well; there are not many of them on the market yet. Sweet peas have been fine and the sale for them continues good.

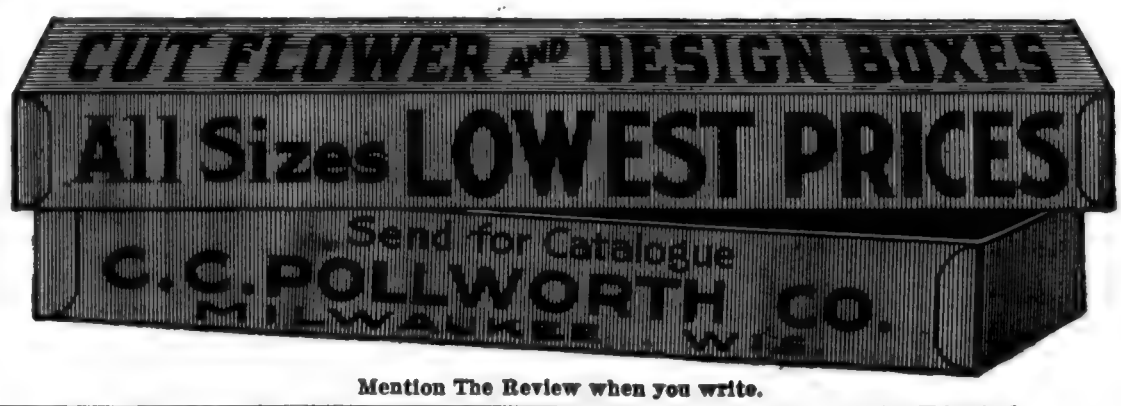
Various Notes.



Gus Peterson, of the Hollywood Gardens store, is away on his vacation. T. R. Pritchard is back, looking bright and well after his well-earned rest.

H. A. Crouch reports good business during carnival time and since then. His store always looks bright and attractive, as do the attendants.

J. R. Fotheringham, representing the F. R. Pierson Co., was here calling on the trade last week.

The Burns Floral Co. is expecting Miss Annie J. Burns back next week and wondering whether she will recognize Seattle now.

The Market.

Business last week still showed an inclination to increase. With continued cool weather and an abundance of rain, all outside stock is in the best of condition. Gladioli, asters and perennials are coming in better each day. During the last week funeral work has shown up remarkably well.

Various Notes.

As the Chicago convention is nearing, a number of local florists are getting anxious. There will, no doubt, be a good representation at Chicago from St. Paul.

A number of park superintendents from the west stopped off in St. Paul and were shown about this city and Minneapolis. They expressed themselves as well pleased with the appearance of our parks. They were en route to the park superintendents' convention, to be held in Boston.

A flower show was held at White Bear, August 10. As the surrounding country supplies practically all of St. Paul's outside stock, a fine showing was made.

August 11 was flower mission day at Stillwater prison. It is the custom to present to each prisoner, as he leaves the chapel, a bunch of flowers. As this work is done by the ladies of the W. C. T. U., it is all a charity affair. A great many St. Paul florists donated the flowers.

The state fair grounds are rapidly being put in shape for the coming fair. The landscape department is busy getting the bedding to look its best for that time. Some pretty effects are seen.

Holm & Olson have been awarded the contract for the laying out of fifty acres of parkway at Superior, Wis. The contract includes the laying out of picnic grounds, ball grounds, tennis courts, dancing pavilion and bathing beach. The planting will be started next year.

Leo Hermes recently sold his greenhouses on Gorman avenue. The new firm is Munich & Wahler. Mr. Munich is from Pittsburgh and Mr. Wahler is from Chicago, where he was with Peter Reinberg. The location is a good one and there is a market here for all stock. The new firm has the best wishes of the trade in St. Paul. Mr. Hermes, who formerly was in the grocery business here, has returned to that vocation, having purchased a store on South Wabasha street.

Alvin Kinsman, of Austin, Minn., spent a few days in the city, accompanied by a party of friends. The trip from Austin was made by automobile. While in St. Paul, Mr. Kinsman had the misfortune to have his auto skid on the wet pavement and slide into another machine, resulting in damages to the other machine to the extent of about $50.

Frank Berry, of Stillwater, Minn., was in the city. He states that his place is being remodeled and he expresses himself as well satisfied with business this summer.

Welcome to Chicago—S. A. F., 1912

Mention The Review when you write.

Eight Pages of Retailers' Cards

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists — those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists — has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

The monotony of funeral work was slightly broken last week, when several wedding orders put in their appearance; the majority were large church weddings, which called for quite a little decorating; consequently palms and Bostons got a little airing and a change of atmosphere. Giganteums were used in profusion, while lily of the valley and pink and white roses came in nicely for the shower bouquets; thus, with weddings and funerals combined, we are able to give a little brighter report than last week.

The excessively hot, dry weather which we experienced a few weeks ago has been followed by cold, damp weather, that makes it look as though we were to have a short summer. These conditions seem to depreciate the quality of outdoor flowers, and improve those growing under glass. The young rose plants could not be better, and growers are already commencing to cut some nice stock. Young carnation plants are looking fine and throwing good blooms. Those inside are starting off well and the ones in the field are being favored by just the kind of weather they like. Sweet peas, however, are not doing much because of the excessive rain.

Gladioli are fine, while some of the asters are good and some are exceptionally poor.

Various Notes.

Mr. Matthews, of the Dayton Floral Co., is installing a new boiler, which he is putting on a concrete foundation.

Miss Minnie Graham, who has charge of the cut flower department of the Rike-Kumler Co., says she did a fine business on roses last week.

At John Boehner's all hands are busy planting carnations.

Louis Schellhaas, of Miamisburg, O., tells us that he has all of his planting completed.

Harry M. Altic states emphatically that he will attend the S. A. F. convention this year. Although Mr. Altic severed his connection with the florist business a few years ago, he is nevertheless a great enthusiast and never likes to miss a convention. Many convention goers will remember Mr. Altic, as he has captured many of the first prizes in the shooting matches at previous conventions. He recently returned from an extended western trip.

Herman Hearlin, superintendent of the conservatories at the National Military Home, tells us that he has a finer collection of ferns this year than he has ever shown before. One of the interesting things at his greenhouse this summer was the blooming of a large cen-and daughter, Bessie, will leave August 17 for Sycamore, Ill., where they will spend a few days previous to attending the S. A. F. convention.

In a letter from W. C. Hood, of Los Angeles, Cal., last week, he tells us that he is working at a private place, and, while he likes his position first-rate, he says, he would rather be back among his old acquaintances and surroundings. Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Charles N. Page, Des Moines, Ia.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

C. E. KENDEL, Cleveland, secretary of the Seed Trade Association, is home from his vacation and in the harness again.

THE Zimmerman Seed Co., of Topeka, Kan., has moved one door north, from 627 to 625 Quincy street, and will be known hereafter as the Snyder Seed Co.

THE Frank Clark Seed Co. has been incorporated at Fort Worth, Tex., with a capital stock of $2,500. The incorporators are Frank Clark, R. H. Beck and E. H. Fabian.

ON the boat that reached New York August 6 there were 157 cases of Bermudian lily bulbs, consigned to L. D. Crossmond & Co., making total arrivals to date 2,733 cases.

THE seedsmen are getting a reputation at Washington as being great little opposers—for a long time seedsmen haven't been able to favor anything the government has proposed doing.

The postoffice appropriation bill containing the provision for the parcels post on the Bourne zone plan passed in the Senate, August 13. It now goes to the conference committee of House and Senate.

HENRY FIELD, of the Henry Field Seed Co., Shenandoah, Ia., who has been on an outing at Estes Park, Colo., is working his way home through Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Nebraska, making numerous stops at points of trade interest.

DIGGS & BEADLES, Richmond, Va., send clipping of a long editorial from the Times-Democrat, of their city, being largely extracts from a speech by Congressman Page, of North Carolina, in opposition to the appropriation for free seeds. Some day the free seeds will have to go.

J. A. SHELTON, who has been manager of the Southwestern Seed Co., Fayetteville, Ark., since the concern began business about ten years ago, has sold his interest to his brother, Thomas Shelton. Mr. Shelton has not decided whether he will establish a seed business in a new location, or enter some other line. Thomas Shelton succeeds his brother as manager of the Southwestern Seed Co.

THE U. S. Department of Agriculture recently issued a circular, No. 95, on "The Seed-Corn Situation," by C. P. Hartley. It says: "Unquestionably the acre yield for 1912 will be reduced in many states, owing to the planting of poorly preserved or poorly adapted seed corn. In the aggregate the loss will be immense, but much of it will never be attributed to this factor, because well-adapted, well-preserved seed was not available for demonstrating its value in comparison with that planted. The cause of corn being unfit for seed is commonly attributed to exceptional weather conditions. Such conditions may sometimes be the cause, especially in the north, but delay in selecting seed or the growing of varieties maturing too late is usually the true cause."

Seed Package Cases

That are adaptable to any size package—that's how our Adjustable Display Cases are made. Withstand more knocking about than cardboard and wooden cases, because they are made of metal and handsomely finished in grass-green enamel. Seeds displayed in this case sell faster than ordinarily, as the entire fronts of the packages are to be seen all the time. Then they eliminate loss of time hunting for a certain kind of seed, and also disarrangement of display, as is usual in other display cases.

THE Texas crop of Bermuda onions, although some weeks later this season than usual, has turned out to be much the heaviest on record. The high prices of last winter encouraged extremely large importations of onions, more or less closing the eastern markets against the Texas crop. The result is that the speculators who imported onions are losing large sums, while the value of the Texas crop has been cut to a point where it is doubtful if the cost of the crop has been returned on recent shipments. The high prices last winter undoubtedly stimulated the demand for seeds and the present state of the market probably will have more or less of the opposite effect next season.

McGILL'S CROP REPORT.

Within the last few months the McGill Seed Growers' Co. has been incorporated, with general offices in San Francisco and farm headquarters near Coyote, Cal. The piece of land being farmed is in the Santa Clara valley, famous as the seed growing center of the west, and contains about 300 acres. The principals of the company are William A. Cox, for many years the president of the Cox Seed Co., of San Francisco, and R. C. McGill, formerly connected with C. C. Morse & Co., having started with that firm in Santa Clara in 1901. They are growing their own roots and bulbs for the coming year and, to guard against dry seasons, such as the present one, three wells have been bored, and an electric pumping plant installed which can adequately cover the entire farm, should irrigation be necessary. Several acres are being devoted to trial grounds. They report on the present crop as follows:

"The season of 1912, from the seed growers' point of view, has been unfavorable from every side. Central California did not get half the usual amount of rainfall, most of which came too late to be of much benefit. As a consequence, crops did not get the necessary growth in the early spring and, in a number of instances, replanting was required. This lack of good growing weather, together with the drought, has been a most serious setback to things in general. Onion crops have stood the test well, however, and at present are in fine condition, and a good yield is expected. Carrot until recently looked good, but is now beginning to show the effects of the season and will hardly be up to the average yield per acre. Lettuce, considerable having had to be replanted, is late and at best will not be anything like a normal yield. We have also suffered somewhat from dry rot, but this has not been as serious in our section as elsewhere. Radish, which is only a small item with us, is only fair, and the other crops are not up to the usual standards, and in some cases will be nothing short of failures. The weather, however, during the last few weeks, has been cool, and has helped crops materially. We are only just beginning to harvest some of the earlier things and, taking it all together, it will be quite late when all the crops are in the bag.'' vice-president, W. D. Curtis; secretary and assistant manager, S. A. Wilson; treasurer, E. F. Riley; directors with the foregoing, C. N. Brown, T. S. Morris and Dr. C. S. Sheldon. It was reported that "the total amount of business for the year was over $350,000, an increase of more than $110,000 over the total for 1911, or forty-five and one-half per cent. This amount is almost three times as great as the total amount for 1909, our first year in Madison. Most of this splendid increase was in our catalogue mail order business and gave us a net profit this year of over six per cent of our total sales, as compared with two and one-third per cent last year."

As noted in last week's issue of The Review, the company has recently purchased 132 x 132 feet on Williamson street, running back to the railroad, with facilities of two tracks, and is making plans for a four-story and basement reinforced concrete building 66 x 125, to be completed at the expiration of the lease of the present location, which expires September 1, 1913.

THE VICK CONSOLIDATION.

Final steps have been taken in the consolidation of James Vick's Sons, the Vick Seed Co., and the Vick & Hill Co., of Rochester.

For the purpose of effecting the various transfers, the Vick & Dildine Co. was organized early in the year, as a corporation under the laws of New York, with a capital stock of $150,000. The officers of this company are: President, F. W. Vick; vice-president, Dr. H. W. Allen; secretary, Hon. H. F. Remington; treasurer and general manager, W. H. Dildine.

It is expected that each of the subsidiary concerns will continue practically the same as heretofore, but their union will mean the elimination of much expense and will strengthen every department. All of the men actively connected with the business as reorganized have been occupying responsible positions in one concern or the other for many years. The officers of the subsidiary concerns are as follows:

James Vick's Sons: President, Chas. H. Vick; secretary, Hon. H. F. Remington; treasurer, W. H. Dildine.

Vick & Hill Co.: President, F. W. Vick; vice-president, Albert F. Vick; treasurer, W. H. Dildine.

Vick Seed Co.: President, Chas. H. Vick; secretary, Geo. Arnold; treasurer, W. H. Dildine.

James Vick's Sons retain the retail store on Stone street, where they have been located for twelve years. The offices and warerooms were removed last week to a more modern and con-

GIANT PANSY SEED

Must not be compared with the flimsy Trimardeau

It is much larger and of good substance; the immense flowers, of 3½ to 4 inches are of perfect form, and every tint and shade is produced in striking combinations and endless variations of beautiful colors and markings. The Stock Plants are most critically selected. It is rich with shades of brown, bronze, red, mahogany, and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures. Read what Growers say about my strains of Pansy Seed in the Florists' Review of June 27, Page 55.

The increased demand for flower and vegetable seeds of the various kinds in the growing of which the Vick concerns have specialized has made it necessary for them to secure more land for that purpose. In addition to the former seed farm they have leased another property nearby, which turns out to be favorably situated, both as to soil and drainage, for the expansion of the seed-growing interests of the concern.

FALL BULBS

Our shipments of Roman Hyacinths, Freesias, Ornithogalums, Harrisii and Candidum Lilies are ready for delivery now. They come from the best growers in Bermuda and France. Our Hyacinths, Tulips and other Dutch Bulbs are imported direct from our regular Holland growers, whose stock we have used for years. The fact that we import more bulbs than all other seedsmen, florists and nurserymen in Rochester is proof that our bulbs give satisfaction. Our prices are very low this year, considering the quality of the stock we sell. Send for our Wholesale Catalogue.

A steadily growing business, due to public approval of Vick quality Seeds, Plants and Bulbs ---the best the earth produces.

The demand for our Aster Seed, as well as other summer-flowering annuals, has grown so rapidly that we have a larger acreage than ever before. This year we have fifty acres of Asters alone, which will be well worth coming a good many miles to see.

Florists and others are always welcome visitors.

I wish to refer again to the investigations of Dr. Shull. The results of his work lead him to conclude that a field of corn is composed of an immense number of complex hybrids, and he has found that by inbreeding by hand pollination in a direct line for several generations a definite biotype or elementary species results. "A biotype is a group of individuals which do not differ from one another in any hereditary quality, and therefore constitute a pure race," and will remain practically pure without further selection, if grown under uniform cultural conditions.

Within the biotype may be separated two or more strains, but these will not breed true without specific selection; without selection they rapidly revert to the character of the biotype.

As the biotype is segregated by inbreeding, it loses the stimulating effects of hybridity; hence vigor and yield rapidly decrease.

Weakness in Pure Strains.

The biotype may be produced just as surely by ear-to-row breeding, if too rigid selection is practiced, as by direct inbreeding, the difference being that the latter process is much swifter.

This may account for the constitutional weakness of many pure strains, and may also account for the maximum having been apparently reached in breeding for chemical constituents, after which a retrogression seems to have taken place. But if we follow this line much farther we shall get into pretty deep water, where the currents sometimes conflict, and such a discussion was not contemplated by this paper.

MY EXHIBIT OF GLADIOLI

Statistics show that I am one of the largest growers of GLADIOLI in America. My crop for this year promises to be the finest I ever grew. I have a large stock of America, Augusta, Mrs. Francis King, Golden Queen, President Taft, Geo. Paul, Victory, Klondyke, Taconic, Independence and others, besides mixtures to color.

Yours truly,

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" CHRISTMAS FLOWERING SWEET PEAS

WE ARE SUPER-HEADQUARTERS

¶ All true stocks of Winter-flowering Sweet Peas will be scarce this season. Some varieties are a total failure owing to the exceptional season in California this Spring. Our advice to intending planters is to order at once. ¶ Mr. William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., the great Winter Sweet Pea specialist, sows our seed almost exclusively. ¶ Our stocks of Christmas-flowering Sweet Peas have stood the test for years, and we can refer you to the largest growers of this increasingly popular flower, as to the trueness and quality of our seed, earliness of blooming period and strength and habit of plants. ¶ The following varieties are the "best by test" and include Zvolanek's and our own introductions, grown for seed from selected stocks by the leading California grower and specialist in Sweet Peas. ¶ Our output last year was nearly 3000 lbs. Few kicks and plenty of testimonials as to quality, germination and trueness to type. ¶ We can make immediate delivery of the following:

BODDINGTON'S EXTRA-EARLY CHRISTMAS WHITE SNOWBIRD. An exceptionally early Sweet Pea for indoor flowering—will bloom six weeks after sowing. Color, clear white, upon long stems; habit fairly dwarf and of exceptionally free flowering qualities. Without doubt the finest early white for indoor planting. We sell one grower in Pennsylvania 35 lbs. of this variety every year; name on application. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

BODDINGTON'S CHRISTMAS PINK. This is the earliest and most profitable and useful Sweet Pea in cultivation, as by sowing the seed under glass in latter part of August, flowers can be cut from Thanksgiving on during the Winter months. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

BODDINGTON'S CHRISTMAS WHITE. A companion to our Christmas Pink. Just as free and profuse a bloomer. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

ANGELINO. Self pink; new variety. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $4.50.

CANARY. Similar to the above, but flowers of an exceptionally good yellow. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.75, lb. $3.00.

CHRISTMAS METEOR. Scarlet; fine open red flower. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

CHRISTMAS STELLA MORSE. Creamy buff standard, wings slightly tinged with pink. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $4.50.

FLAMINGO. Color scarlet; free flowering and early. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $5.00.

FLORENCE DENZER. Pure white. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

LE MARQUIS. This is the same color as Princess of Wales, violet; has very large flowers. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

MRS. ALEX. WALLACE. Lavender; very scarce. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

MRS. F. J. DOLANSKY. Daybreak pink. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.25, lb. $4.00.

MRS. GEO. LEWIS. Large, pure white, wavy flower. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

MRS. E. WILD. Carmine or dark pink. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

MRS. HANNAN. Deep rose-pink; very pleasing shade. Oz. 40 cts., ¼-lb. $1.25, ½-lb. $2.00, lb. $3.50.

MRS. W. W. SMALLEY. Satiny pink. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.75, lb. $3.00.

MRS. WILLIAM SIM. Salmon-pink. Oz. 30 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

MRS. ZVOLANEK. Blue, variegated. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $5.00.

MISS HELEN M. GOULD. White, open flower; standard lilac, marbled. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

MISS JOSEY REILLY. Lilac; very large flowers. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

WATCHUNG. Pure white. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

WM. J. STEWART. Blue self. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

TRUE FROM SEED

I can now distribute it to any part of the Globe. Figuring increased expense to get perfect seed, principally on account of drought, I am forced to make a uniform price of $1.00 per packet of over 500 seeds, 3 packets $2.50. This is new crop seed, absolutely pure and true, grown upon our premises under my personal supervision, and is backed by my reputation and guarantee.

In a letter I received from Dr. Webber, of Cornell, within a year, he closed by saying, "You must remember that there is a great deal we do not yet know about corn," and Dr. Webber is good authority.

The more we study it, the more this truth is impressed upon us, and we must admit it to be a plant of many and great peculiarities. But we shall wisely adhere to the knowledge gained by previous experience and investigation, and gladly welcome the new truths resulting from the work of such deep thinkers and keen observers as Webber, East, Shull, Hartley and others. Meanwhile we shall always keep in mind, in our practical work, the fact that what has been attained by selection must be preserved by selection.

THE CUTTING BENCH.

Our cutting bench is not properly arranged. In rearranging it, would it be proper to have a fine screen layer for the bottom and sacking laid on top of that, a little moss and then about three inches of sand? Would it be better to leave the sand out, on account of not having proper bottom heat? This bench will be used for all cuttings. We are located in southern California.

C. E. S.

A layer of coarse cinders or clinkers makes excellent drainage for the cutting bench. Broken brick or charcoal also answers well. There is no need to lay sacking over this bottom, if the chinks are filled in with smaller pieces to leave a fairly even surface. A layer of moss over the drainage, and then the sand, will suffice, the latter to be three or four inches deep after being well firmed. While many plants root better with a little bottom heat, in your warmer climate this is not so necessary.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1912-1913: Pres., Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; Vice-Pres., J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-eighth annual meeting, Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

B. A. MITCHELL, vice-president of the Oregon Nursery Co., at Orenco, Ore., has laid out a new addition to the town and proposes to build an elegant home for himself on the site.

YOUNG & THOMSSEN is the name of a new firm of landscape gardeners at Aurora, Ill. The partners are J. A. Young, of the Aurora Nursery Co., and N. F. Thomssen, a graduate of the University of Michigan.

ACCORDING to J. F. Wilson, Waycross, Ga., who is secretary of the National Nut Growers' Association, pecan planting in the south has been increasing at the rate of twenty-five per cent annually and has so stimulated the nursery trade that the increase in nursery stock this year will be fifty per cent over last year's production. In a single nursery center fifteen tons of seed nuts were planted this season.

RECEIVER FOR MENERAY.

Following the appointment, August 5, of a receiver to take charge of the F. W. Meneray Co., of Council Bluffs, Ia., articles of incorporation of the Meneray-Crescent Nursery Co. were filed. The First National Bank of Council Bluffs was responsible for the appointment of a receiver, filing a petition that one be appointed and claiming to hold notes which with interest at eight per cent aggregate $50,061.70, which are secured by chattel mortgage on the nursery stock and mortgages on real estate owned by the corporation. Charles W. McDonald, of Omaha, was appointed receiver by Judge Wheeler and his bond was fixed at $50,000.

The Meneray-Crescent Nursery Co., which was incorporated August 6, is capitalized at $10,000, and is composed of F. W. Meneray, president; A. O. Meneray, secretary, and Lucy Meneray, treasurer. The purpose of the corporation, as outlined in the articles, is to conduct a retail and wholesale nursery business.

Connecticut Nurserymen's Association at New Haven, August 9, 1912.

CONNECTICUT NURSERYMEN.

The annual summer outing of the Connecticut Nurserymen's Association was held August 9, at New Haven. The greater part of the day was spent on the grounds of the Elm City Nursery Co., followed by an automobile ride through the city and dinner at West Shore.

PROPAGATION OF CLEMATIS.

I want to know how to propagate the large, purple flowering clematis. Will some of my florist friends tell me through The Review? A. R.

The large, purple flowering clematis, which I presume is C. Jackmani, is propagated in three different ways, viz.:

PEONIES

WE have been growing Peonies more than fifty years, endeavoring always to obtain and grow the best varieties obtainable, using our best endeavor at all times to have everything true to name. The best time to plant Peonies is in the fall, from September 1st until frost interferes with the work. They start root growth as soon as set. Mulch with coarse manure as soon as ground freezes. Do not apply manure among the roots at planting. Home-grown Peonies are much more desirable than imported, because these may be procured and planted much earlier than imported plants can be obtained.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

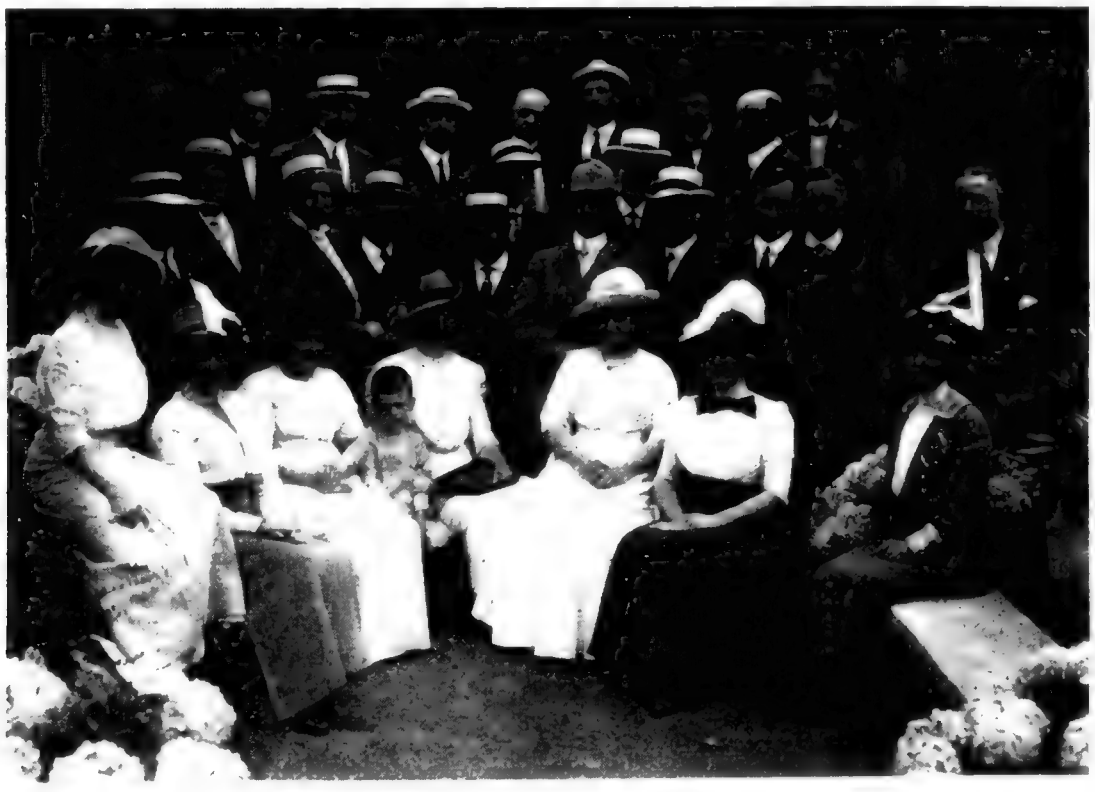
Officers for 1912-1913: Pres., Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; Vice-Pres., J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-eighth annual meeting, Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

B. A. MITCHELL, vice-president of the Oregon Nursery Co., at Orenco, Ore., has laid out a new addition to the town and proposes to build an elegant home for himself on the site.

YOUNG & THOMSSEN is the name of a new firm of landscape gardeners at Aurora, Ill. The partners are J. A. Young, of the Aurora Nursery Co., and N. F. Thomssen, a graduate of the University of Michigan.

ACCORDING to J. F. Wilson, Waycross, Ga., who is secretary of the National Nut Growers' Association, pecan planting in the south has been increasing at the rate of twenty-five per cent annually and has so stimulated the nursery trade that the increase in nursery stock this year will be fifty per cent over last year's production. In a single nursery center fifteen tons of seed nuts were planted this season.

RECEIVER FOR MENERAY.



Following the appointment, August 5, of a receiver to take charge of the F. W. Meneray Co., of Council Bluffs, Ia., articles of incorporation of the Meneray-Crescent Nursery Co. were filed. The First National Bank of Council Bluffs was responsible for the appointment of a receiver, filing a petition that one be appointed and claiming to hold notes which with interest at eight per cent aggregate $50,061.70, which are secured by chattel mortgage on the nursery stock and mortgages on real estate owned by the corporation. Charles W. McDonald, of Omaha, was appointed receiver by Judge Wheeler and his bond was fixed at $50,000.

The Meneray-Crescent Nursery Co., which was incorporated August 6, is capitalized at $10,000, and is composed of F. W. Meneray, president; A. O. Meneray, secretary, and Lucy Meneray, treasurer. The purpose of the corporation, as outlined in the articles, is to conduct a retail and wholesale nursery business.

Connecticut Nurserymen's Association at New Haven, August 9, 1912.

CONNECTICUT NURSERYMEN.

The annual summer outing of the Connecticut Nurserymen's Association was held August 9, at New Haven. The greater part of the day was spent on the grounds of the Elm City Nursery Co., followed by an automobile ride through the city and dinner at West Shore.

PROPAGATION OF CLEMATIS.

I want to know how to propagate the large, purple flowering clematis. Will some of my florist friends tell me through The Review? A. R.

The large, purple flowering clematis, which I presume is C. Jackmani, is propagated in three different ways, viz.:

PEONIES

WE have been growing Peonies more than fifty years, endeavoring always to obtain and grow the best varieties obtainable, using our best endeavor at all times to have everything true to name. The best time to plant Peonies is in the fall, from September 1st until frost interferes with the work. They start root growth as soon as set. Mulch with coarse manure as soon as ground freezes. Do not apply manure among the roots at planting. Home-grown Peonies are much more desirable than imported, because these may be procured and planted much earlier than imported plants can be obtained.

this plan of propagation is adopted here, roots of such varieties as C. Flammula or C. paniculata are used. The scions should be taken before the wood is quite ripe, and wood from under glass is better for this purpose than when grown outdoors. A fairly cool, shady, moist house, with a gentle bottom heat, should be afforded the grafts, which should be in small pots.

Propagation by means of cuttings in June, in close hotbeds, is more generally adopted than any other method, on account of its greater simplicity. Great care must be used in shading, spraying and closing up the frames, in order to bottle up a nice, moist heat each day. Cuttings with a single eye are as good as longer ones. These prove just as satisfactory in the garden as grafted plants, and do not send up wild suckers as the latter do.

The third plan of propagation is to twist or slightly cut pieces of growing wood and then layer them. It will take a year before the layers have sufficient roots to become detached from the parent plants. C. W.

CLEMATIS FROM SEED.

Will you kindly inform me how to raise Clematis paniculata from seed? Can it be sown in the open ground now, in this Ohio climate? The seed has not been stratified. F. M. P.

Seed of Clematis paniculata can be sown in the open ground at once and a good number should germinate. I have had better results with this clematis by sowing in a coldframe in late fall, as soon as the seed is ripe. The seedlings usually come up in June. Seed of clematis, and in fact all climbers and shrubs, does even better if sown in pans or flats in late fall and carried over winter in a cold pit, than when sown as late as the middle of May. Your clematis seed will probably not start quite so early as if it had been sown in late fall, but you can depend on a fairly good germination. C. W.

The Market.

Business is still quiet, but the florists seem to be satisfied, not expecting any change for a few weeks.

The large amount of rain we have had during the last month has hurt the sweet peas, and the blossoms have not been so good as earlier in the season. The asters grown under glass have been small, but clean and perfect, while the growers of outdoor asters are having their usual troubles with disease. Gladioli are good, but there are too many of them.

Various Notes.

The Hiawatha Gardens have a fine lot of Bostons in the benches at their Bedford and University plant.

The Minneapolis Florists' Club held a meeting at the Rice Bros. store, Tuesday, August 6. The attendance was small, but there was a great deal of enthusiasm, especially in reference to Mr. Bofferding's suggestion of sending a series of articles on flowers to a local newspaper. The fact that these articles have been asked for assures a great many being accepted. All present thought it an excellent idea, giving publicity to the flower business without any expense.

C. J. Houck, manager of the Lakewood cemetery greenhouses, has left for Duluth, where he will take the boat for Chicago to attend the convention.

The Twin Cities expect to send a larger number than ever before to the convention. They will leave Monday night in special cars, over the C., M. & St. P. road.

Oscar Carlson and family have returned from abroad, where they spent the summer traveling and visiting relatives.

Visitors: Mr. Marks, representing A. A. Arnold, Chicago; Julius Dilloff, representing Schloss Bros., New York city.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

There is not the same activity among the retail shops as there was last week. The midsummer dullness is being felt now by all. There is no scarcity of flowers and the quality of stock is holding up wonderfully. The only flowers which are not up to expectations are asters; plenty of them, but lacking in quality. The consignors expect better quality soon.

The supply of good roses, Beauties, orchids, valley and Easter lilies is equal to all demands. Dahlias are arriving in limited quantities, but who cares? What's troubling most of us is the want of orders.

Various Notes.

At the A. W. Smith Co. greenhouses, Canfield, O., a gas well of over 240 rock pressure was struck last week. This is and will be a big saving in the way of fuel for this company.

Fred Burki has also struck gas on his farm in Richland township. Mr. Burki is quite a prospector. His oil and gas dealings have been quite successful.

Wm. Turner has added an auto delivery truck to his establishment, and is also putting the finishing touches to his new greenhouses.

B. L. Elliott, proprietor and owner of the John Bader Co., is about finishing up on three 35x150 Lord & Burnham houses. He will fill these houses with decorative plants and ferns.

One of the largest plants between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, Pa., is Joseph Thomas' place at Greensburg, Pa. Mr. Thomas has added this summer one house 35x300, which will be ready for planting soon.

Arnold Ringier, secretary of W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, and Fred Lembke, of the same company, were here last week calling on the trade.

A. F. Faulkner, Washington, D. C., has been with us now for ten days.

David Geddes has returned to St. Louis, Mo.

W. A. Clark, treasurer of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., is spending his vacation with his family at Chautauqua, N. Y.

Lake Chautauqua is a sort of rendezvous for Pittsburgh florists. Edward McCallum is there now, but will return in time to go to the convention.

Miss E. B. Maxwell, Wilkinsburg, Pa., is now on her farm at Willow Beach, Ohio.

Mrs. Annie Garrity left August 8 for Atlantic City, N. J.

Our delegation to the convention now numbers seventeen. The following are the persons who expect to go: Fred Burki, Howard Carney, E. C. Reineman, G. Frishkorn, E. C. Ludwig and wife, Ray J. Dashbach, De Forest Ludwig, John Jones, Edward Ludwig, J. F. Zimmerman, S. W. Randolph, Joseph Thomas, Paul Randolph, T. P. Langhans, Wm. Loew, Edward McCallum.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

Trade has been quiet for the last week, which means that there was plenty of stock. Glads and asters are plentiful, and Beauties and roses are of good quality, considering the time of the year.

Various Notes.

The regular monthly meeting of the State Florists' Association was held in the new quarters at the Denison hotel Tuesday evening, August 6, with about twenty members in attendance. President Gause was in the chair and Oliver Steinkamp, the newly elected secretary, filled that office. The main topic of the meeting was the picnic and, after considerable discussion, it was decided to hold a picnic at Broad Ripple the last Wednesday of this month. A committee composed of Messrs. Glaubke, Elder, and Rankin was appointed to make the necessary arrangements. After the meeting the members were treated to a Dutch lunch and cigars, which added much to the meeting. It is the idea of the officers of the association to add this feature to the meetings from time to time.

Baur & Steinkamp have been cutting some good cosmos, snapdragon and gladioli.

Visitors for the week were: Mr. Knickman, with McHutchison & Co.; Ira Clark, of Greensburg; E. C. Roberts, with the S. A. Weller Co., of Zanesville; Harry White, of North Manchester; George Gause, of Richmond, and Mr. Woodward, of Edenburg.

Alfred Brandt, who is spending several weeks at a cottage at Lake Maxinkuckee, had an unfortunate experience last week. In some manner the gasoline in an automatic cigar lighter, which he was using, exploded and set fire to the cottage. The damage was not great, but it burned the bed clothes and other articles in the room in which it happened.

The Roepke-Rieman Co. has been sending in some good gladioli.

Heacock's Palms and Ferns

HOME-GROWN, STRONG and WELL ESTABLISHED

We call the attention of all members of the S. A. F. and O. H. to our and extend a cordial invitation to visit our places at Wyncote and Roelofs, where you will find much to interest you. Twenty minutes' ride by rail from Philadelphia. One hundred trains every week day. Railway station, Jenkintown.

We grow all our Kentias above 6-in. size in cedar tubs made especially for us, avoiding breakage of pots in shipment and giving better satisfaction to our customers, and while they cost us a great deal more than pots, we sell the plants for the same money. They are the neatest, lightest and best tub ever introduced. Painted green, with electric wire hoops. We order these tubs by the carload.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Conditions remain about the same as last reported, the predominating feature of the market being the scarcity of good, salable stock, and there is just about enough business to keep things barely moving. Asters are showing much improvement, while roses are of fair quality.

Various Notes.

Louis J. Reuter, of Westerly, state vice-president of the S. A. F., is making great efforts to secure a party from Rhode Island to attend the convention in Chicago.

Albert Lockwood, employed by the Providence Forestry Co., fell from a tree a few days ago and sustained a fracture of the left arm and a dislocated shoulder.

Samuel Woodrow, of Woodrow & Marketos, of New York city, is located at the Mathewson House, Narragansett Pier, for the summer.

Eric Bounivier, manager for Mrs. William Butcher, has been enjoying an automobile trip to Cape Cod.

Joseph Kopelman has had the entire interior of his store sheeted in metallic panels, which have been painted white.

William B. Hazard is bringing in large quantities of greenhouse tomatoes, which find ready sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Curley have been enjoying an automobile tour of the New England states.

T. R. Peterson has the heartfelt sympathies of a large circle of acquaintances in the recent death of his wife.

Richard Gardiner has been reappointed by Mayor Boyle, of Newport, for a term of three years as a member of the park commission of that city.

The two new greenhouses that are being erected for S. Kinder & Bros. at Bristol are ready for the glaziers.

Joshua Vose, of Crompton, has been elected a member of the executive committee of the First Rhode Island Cavalry Veteran Association.

Ed. Brookes, of T. J. Johnston & Co., was a visitor in New York city last week.

Miss Edith Atwood, daughter of Benjamin Atwood, has announced her engagement to Horace W. Steere, a manufacturing jeweler.

Miss Florence Willard, of the Hope Greenhouses, has been making extensive alterations in the greenhouses.

Florists Look! Take Notice!!

Country Fairs are Next on the Program. Are You Prepared?

Hit the bull's eye, be successful, and buy your exhibition plants from Godfrey Aschmann. You will surely meet with success in carrying both prizes and certificates of honor. We make a specialty of raising plants for country fairs.

Who's He?

Why, Godfrey Aschmann, the Araucaria King of Philadelphia. He and his Araucarias are more popular than pennies are with school children. No arguments needed to sell his goods; 25 years' experience in importing and shipping the Araucaria (his specialty) makes him the Araucaria King of all America.

Now is the time to stock up your houses.

Araucaria Excelsa, raised from top cuttings, spring importation, 1911. 6 to 7-in. pots, 4 to 5-year-old, 5, 6, 7, 8 to 9 tiers, 25, 28, 30, 35 to 40 inches high, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 to $2.00 each.

Araucaria Excelsa, raised in Belgium, from top cuttings, spring importation, 1912, 5, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 2 to 3-year-old, 3, 4 to 5 tiers, 14, 16, 18, 20 to 25 inches high, 40c, 50c, 75c to $1.00.

We have, in 6 and 7-in., spring, 1911, importation, the finest stock of ARAUCARIA ROBUSTA COMPACTA and EXCELSA GLAUCA in the country. They are certainly beauties and will fully meet with your approval, 3, 4 to 5 tiers, medium height, $1.50, $2.00 to $2.50.

Azalea Indica for early blooming. Start now. Deutsche Perle, Vervaeneana, Simon Mardner, Pharailde Mathilde, Mme. Petrick, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

Japanese Fern Balls, our own importation, already started, full of leaves, large 8 to 9-in. balls, 35c—cheap at 50c.

Aspidistras, 7, 8, 9 to 10 leaves to a plant. Variegated, 6-in. pots, 15c per leaf; green, 6-in. pots, 10c per leaf.

Primula Obconica Grandiflora, good assortment of colors, 4-in., 10c.

Primula Chinensis, or Chinese Primrose, John F. Rupp's strain, 4-in., 10c.

SMOKELESS COALS.

The writer's attention is attracted to the inquiry of C. L. Walker, of Belmont, N. Y., in The Review of August 8, and the reply thereto, and is prompted to write you in reference.

It is quite natural that Mr. Walker would make the mistake of taking Pocahontas coal to be the only smokeless coal, but we are a little surprised that you would do so, and in justice to the rest of your subscribers and advertisers, we wish to call your attention to the fact that Pocahontas is merely a trade name, the same as New River, and that as such the copyright had been abrogated by the government and other states some years ago on the ground that the name, Pocahontas, was a geographical term and could not be exclusively copyrighted.

POCAHONTAS COAL.

Referring to inquiry about Pocahontas coal for greenhouse use, and the answer to same, appearing on page 88 of The Review of August 8, while I appreciate that it is the desire of the editor to be absolutely fair in answering an inquiry of this nature, and present both sides of the question, I must take exception to that portion of the reply which is quoted as coming from a fuel expert. Pocahontas coal does not "burn freely." It is not what is known as a free burning coal, but is a coking coal, and this is one of its best known and strongest points. When the florist desires a low, steady fire, he simply permits his coal bed to coke over and he gets this result more perfectly with Pocahontas than is possible with any of the free burning coals. When he wants a strong fire, he merely cracks up the surface of his fire bed and opens up his drafts, and more heat units per pound of coal are released than are found in any other coal yet discovered. As to the fine coal, it is preferred to the lumps for steam purposes, by experienced firemen, as it enables the fireman to keep his fire well leveled over the surface, making a compact bed of coal which produces a more perfect combustion and consumes the coal more perfectly, giving higher efficiency per pound, and less waste, than is possible in the use of a lumpy, free burning coal. Again, Pocahontas is practically smokeless, comparing favorably in this respect with anthracite. And as to merit or economy for florists' use as compared with "the better grades of bituminous coal," the sim-

"I Always Find the Fire in Good Shape"

S. Wilks Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill. Marietta, Pa., January 27, 1910.

Dear Sirs: I am so well pleased with the self-feeding boiler I bought of you last fall that I feel it is my duty to tell you so. It is heating 400 ft. of 2-inch pipe O. K. I have had the time, also the zero weather, to give it a good test, and it proved all you claim for it. I did not lose a minute's sleep this winter so far. I fill up the magazine about 9 o'clock in the evening and never look after it till 5 or 6 o'clock next morning and always find the fire in good shape. Yours truly, Edwin F. Campbell.

Wilks Self-feeding Hot Water Boilers are built entirely of steel and especially constructed for the man who does his own firing. No night firing necessary. Will easily heat up to 3000 sq. ft. of glass in the coldest weather. There are many other good things about the Wilks that you ought to know. Write today for catalogue and full particulars.

theory that all the so-called fuel experts in the country might expound.

As I might be considered a prejudiced witness in this matter, I suggest that your correspondent order a few sample cars of Pocahontas coal from any of the well known dealers or producers of same and make a practical test for himself. The experiment would not be an expensive one and I confidently predict that at the end of one month's experience he will heartily support me in every claim I am making here in defense of Pocahontas as a greenhouse fuel and will find that the slight increase in cost is more than offset by increased efficiency. A GENERAL PURPOSE HOUSE.

I am building a greenhouse, 30x100 feet, with an uneven span. The eave plate on the west side is about three feet from the ground, with glass all the way to the ground. The eave plate on the east side is five feet from the ground, with a continuous row of ventilators, three feet wide, along the side, and the rest of the side boarded. The north end of the house will abut against the boiler room. The house will be supported by a row of posts through the center, with a wye running to the purlins on each side. There will also be a row of posts running straight up to a purlin which will be two-thirds of the way down the long side of the roof.

Will you please plan the piping of the house for me? I expect to heat with hot water and wish to grow a general line of house and bedding plants and a general line of cut flowers, not including roses. I should like to have a part of the house so arranged that I can heat it to 60 degrees at night, so as to hurry along lilies, etc. Where can I propagate in this house? I shall not have any benches, except what are necessary to propagate on, this first winter. Would it be at all practical to use a steam boiler as a hot water heater? I can get a second-hand steam boiler for a fraction of what a new heater would cost me. My location is northeastern Ohio. V. S.

12 YEARS AGO

We Installed

—two "Morehead Traps" of type shown above in the greenhouse of John F. Horn Bros., Allentown, Pa. This machine has recently been replaced by larger traps of the "Morehead" type shown below—

Read What They Say

"In regard to the Morehead Steam Traps, the two old Steam Traps here were in use 12 years and did the work until we put up too many houses and then we had to get two No. 5, and these are large enough now for the entire place, which is 75,000 feet of glass. They give us no trouble here at all; pump all the water very easy and require no attention whatever. Work on all kinds of steam pressures, high or low. We have our boilers on floor level and have what you may call the Double Trap System. They deliver the water hot and quickly. Also feed the boilers with the city water when we need water by just letting it simmer in the receiver. We only turn off city water when we shut down steam for the day, so we can always hold the water line in our boilers steady by just letting the cold water valve so and the city water mixes with the condensed water and never helps to run the steam down on the boilers. We consider the Traps far ahead of the pump, as the pump is too slow and requires packing and also oil. Traps for us every time and Morehead at that. The old Traps would have lasted a life-time, as they did not show any wear in the 12 years they were in use here."

degrees, use four 2½-inch flow pipes and sixteen 2-inch returns. Run one flow on each plate and one under each purlin. Connect each plate flow pipe with a coil of four 2-inch returns, to be carried on the wall underneath. At the end of the house drop down each of the purlin flow pipes and connect them with coils of four 2-inch pipes, to be carried to the corners of the house and then along the walls under the other coils. This will make four 2½-inch flow pipes and sixteen 2-inch returns in the house.

A steam boiler, with two 3-inch flanges for flow pipes and the same for the returns, would give good results with hot water.

A bench for propagating can be built along the east wall, toward the north end of the house. By partially confining the heated air under the bench, the needed bottom heat for propagating most bedding plants can be secured.

A STOREROOM IN A HILLSIDE.

We should like to get some information in reference to building a storeroom, or vault, as it is generally called, for the storage of cut flowers. We have one adjoining our boiler room, and overhead we have a room where we assort flowers, a sort of general workroom. We have no way of heating this workroom during cold weather, so we have decided to erect another building of two rooms, against a hillside with a southern exposure. The building will have a frontage of sixteen feet and a length of thirty-two feet, entering on the level. The workroom will be in the front part and the storeroom or vault in the rear.

We intend to build of concrete. The vault will be entirely of concrete, at top, sides and floor, and will be under ground, with no building over the top.

WHAT THE USERS SAY ABOUT KROESCHELL BOILERS

Kroeschell Boiler—Half the Coal and Half the Work

Your No. 13 Boiler is carrying 25,000 sq. ft. of glass, and I can keep it at 60° in the coldest weather without any trouble. I have three sectional cast iron boilers also, heating a range of 25,000 sq. ft. of glass, but the No. 13 Kroeschell Boiler only takes half the coal and half the work to get the same results. J. G. FRISZ, Vincennes, Ind.

Kroeschell Versus Cast Iron

The No. 7 Boiler I bought from you is heating 14,000 sq. ft. of glass; I think it can take care of 16,000 ft. I do not have any trouble to keep up temperature of 50° in the coldest weather. I fire only once after 12 o'clock midnight. The boiler has given perfect satisfaction. I have four cast iron boilers—like the Kroeschell best of all. If anyone wishes to inquire about your boiler, let them write me, for I think your boilers are good ones.
CHARLES SCHULTZ, Menominee, Mich.

Cast Iron Boilers Waste Fuel

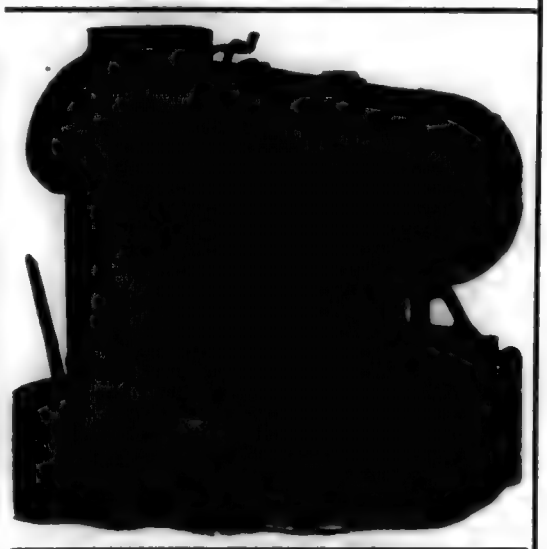
I bought a No. 8 boiler in 1901. We had a corrugated cast iron fire box boiler and sectional cast iron boiler before we bought yours in 1901. The cost of heating with this boiler is one-half less than it was with my cast iron boilers. Your No. 8 boiler, which we bought recently of you, is not being run to its full capacity.
WM. GEENEN, Kimberly, Wis.

Kroeschell Better than Cast Iron

The Kroeschell Boiler is indeed a dandy and beats any cast iron boiler we have had any experience with. Respectfully,
A. BECKRINK, Jamestown, N. Y.

The Kroeschell Is a Coal Saver

In regard to the Kroeschell Boiler will say that we are well satisfied, as it heats quickly and also is a coal saver.
H. KEITSCH & SON, Buffalo, N. Y.



Now, we should like to have some information as to ventilation. The old room is ventilated by one vent, 6 x 12 inches, on each end; these vents are boxed down to the floor, but they do not seem to answer the purpose. We should like to know whether a vent in the center of the top or roof would work better. We can get along with the concrete work, but we should greatly appreciate any information concerning the plans. L. & F.

It will certainly be best if the ventilators are placed in the roof, one in the middle of each room, but combined with this there should be some provision for the admission of air from the outside. If built lengthwise into the hill, two tiles of the size of the ventilators could enter the workroom and one tile could be carried into the storeroom.

FOR VIOLETS AND LETTUCE.

I am planning to build a house, 12x 110 feet, for violets and lettuce. There will be two feet of glass in the west wall, with cement below the glass, and there will be a glass gable in the south end. The house will be connected with another house at the north and east. The east wall will be about seven feet high and the west one five feet high; the height to the ridge will be from ten to twelve feet. Please tell me how much piping will be required to heat it to 40 or 42 degrees in this part of Kansas, where the outside temperature sometimes drops to 15 or 20 degrees below zero. Would not two runs of 2½-inch pipe, with four returns of 1½-inch, or eight returns in all, be sufficient?

S. M.

To heat a house 12x110 feet, for growing violets, use two 2½-inch flow pipes and four 2-inch returns. The use of eight 1½-inch returns, as suggested, would give even more radiating surface than desired, but the placing of 1½-inch pipe in a house 110 feet long is not recommended, unless the returns are several feet above the boiler, or a generator is used.

THE FUEL MARKET.

The fuel market is not stiffening as early as some of the dealers thought it would, but there is no disposition to make inducements in any part of the market, least of all in the better grades of coal. The anthracite situation remains unchanged. The trade foresees a shortage, and the domestic sizes are already in light supply at first hands; deliveries are slow. Even the better grades of steam coal, such as many growers use, are in a position where a premium is being asked. The lower grades only are in large supply. In the sections where bituminous coals are used the florists are buying freely now. A good many had held off because they were asked more money than they paid for their fuel last season, but these have now given up the hope of a lower market and are filling their bins and contracting for their season's supply. While the market is gradually becoming more active, there has as yet been no change in prices. All the bituminous coals are selling for a few cents a ton more than they were at this time last year, but the coal trade to a man insists that the advance to the consumer is not so great as the increase in the cost of production. Because of the advance in prices there is more than the usual tendency to feel around before placing orders, but the business is now coming in with fair freedom, as no grower cares to go much closer to cold weather without a good supply of coal in his bunkers.

You will do us a great favor by inserting this in The Review: Last Tuesday a man came to us by the name of Otto C. Schultz, claiming his original home was in Virginia, but living most of his life at Utica, N. Y., with the Utica Floral Co. He is about five feet nine inches tall, talks German fluently, black hair, weighs about 135 pounds, holds mouth one-sided a little when talking, a slick talker; claims to be a crack florist, has an Odd Fellows' emblem tattooed on left arm and other marks on right arm. Saturday afternoon he got us to advance him some money, left here with my brother's watch and went to the city, where he cashed a fraudulent check on Henry Schmaus for $18. He seems to be an old-time adept at the business. He is 38 years old. Anyone who has had any dealings with him we will gladly correspond with or get them his photo. He is in the county jail here in default of $600 bonds. Schmaus Bros.

SCALINE

This is the new oil and sulphur composition—a scalicide and fungicide combined—which supplies the crying demand from the East, West, North and South, for an insecticide that can be employed at all seasons of the year, for the destruction of the San Jose scale, Oyster Shell scale and all sap-sucking insects infesting trees, shrubbery and hardy stock.

It can be applied as safely in the growing as in the dormant season.

SCALINE is an excellent summer spray for the cottony scale, pine tree aphis, apple aphis, red spider, thrips and plant lice generally.

The sulphur contained in SCALINE makes it effective as a fungicide for various blights which affect hardy stock.

It is readily soluble in water, contains no sediment and can be sprayed through the finest spray nozzle.

$1.50 per gallon, 10 gallons $10.00, 50 gallons $37.50.

Aphine

The Insecticide that kills plant Lice of every species

THE RECOGNIZED STANDARD INSECTICIDE.

It is a concentrated liquid, its chief constituents being essential oils and nicotine, mixing readily with water at various strengths, as directions on can.

APHINE destroys green, black, white fly, thrips, red spider, mealy bug, white and brown scale and can be applied to the most delicate foliage—in fact, it invigorates plant life. It is an excellent cleanser for decorative stock.

APHINE is not a cure-all, but a specific remedy for plant life, and enjoys a reputation as the insecticide that does excel all.

$1.00 per quart, $2.50 per gallon.

FUNGINE

THE FUNGICIDE OF MUCH MERIT.

Its principal ingredient is sulphur in solution, so treated that it can be applied to the tender foliage without injurious effect. Used as a spraying material mixed with water.

FUNGINE is an infallible remedy for mildew, rust, wilt, spot and bench fungi affecting flowers, fruits and vegetables. It is used with much success by rose, carnation and chrysanthemum growers.

It is effective where Bordeaux mixture and lime and sulphur fail, and, unlike those preparations, it does not stain the foliage but cleanses it.

75c per quart, $2.00 per gallon.

APHINE and FUNGINE are equally effective in the greenhouse and in the garden.

Our products are universally endorsed by commercial and private growers of reputation. We possess hundreds of endorsements, many of them published in the past, from eminent entomologists and expert floriculturists, but we have reached the conclusion that there is only one convincing way for you to become familiar with the merits of these products; and that way is, test them out yourself. It will prove worth your while.

VERMINE will shortly be placed on the market by us. It is a soil sterilizer and a germicide for destroying cut, wire, eel and canker worms, grubs, sow bugs and root aphis. This product has been sucessfully used for a number of years. We have secured the formula, and are now conducting experiments to test to our own satisfaction just what it is capable of.

MADISON, N. J.

The Morris County Gardeners' and Florists' Society will hold its seventeenth annual flower show this year in Assembly hall, Madison, October 31 and November 1. The schedule is in the printer's hands and things look now as if this show will be at least as good as any ever held. There are big money prizes and every winner will get what is coming to him, even if we have to pawn our coats—but there will be no need of that—there will be enough left for a good, old-fashioned annual dinner after all is over. E. R.

Davenport, Ia.—The Davis Floral Co. has been incorporated here, with a capital stock of $25,000. The officers of the company are: President, Frank L. Davis; secretary and treasurer, J. W. Davis.

Milan, Mich.—Mrs. Maym Weller is building an addition which will about double the capacity of her greenhouses and is making preparations to carry a larger stock of cut flowers, plants and shrubs.

Lake Forest, Ill.—A delivery wagon belonging to the Calvert Floral Co. was struck recently by a street car and badly damaged. The driver had a narrow escape, but, though he was considerably shaken up, his injuries were not found to be serious.

Alpena, Mich.—James H. Dove has sold his greenhouses to Emil Noss, who will remove them to his own property, at 320 Lincoln street. Mr. Noss is an expert gardener and has also had some experience in indoor culture. Mr. Dove expects to go to the state of Washington, but has not definitely decided how he will employ himself there.

Wagner Plant Boxes are the best and cheapest in the market for Palms, Boxwood, Bay Trees, etc. They are attractive in design, strong and durable, suitable for either indoor or outdoor use. Made of cypress, which gives them a lasting quality. We manufacture various styles and sizes. Write for prices.

EVERYTHING FOR THE GREENHOUSE

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Gateway to the West.

The local situation is encouraging. At no time has the expected dullness really appeared and the future outlook is good. The unusually heavy crops of the southwest will stimulate our hopes of a successful fall.

The cut flower situation is one that should not be commented upon; the supply equals the demand, and prices are no inducement.

Various Notes.

Walter Oberg, of the W. L. Rock Co., has returned from his trip into the great southwest. He says it was most delightful and he is sorry he could not have made it of greater duration.

Ray Blessing and William Miller, also of this firm, are now on their vacations at the northern lakes.

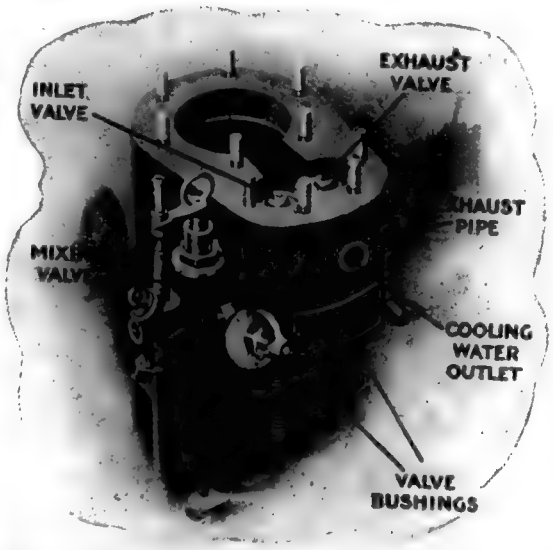
W. H. Sawvel is recovering nicely from his reecnt illness.

Wm. Bastian, of the Alpha Floral Co., is back from his vacation. Miss Pinkerton, of the same firm, is now enjoying her turn at resting.

Miss Elizabeth Hadden, of Samuel Murray's, is now on her vacation. Miss M. Hadden, also of the firm, will soon be on her extended northern trip and expects to visit the convention. This firm reports most satisfactory summer business.

Mr. King, of the Peterson Floral Co., is now on his vacation in the south. He says his firm is enjoying its share of prosperity.

W. J. Barnes is most delighted to be able to say his business for the year to date is exceeding his greatest anticipations. As evidence he is now rebuilding two of his houses and a much needed new store is being erected.



Mr. Furrows, of Guthrie, Okla., is still in town, buying heavily for the constant demand at his home.

Mr. Kusik will leave August 18 for Chicago and the convention, via Council Bluffs, where he will visit the Wilcox greenhouses. E. H. H.

North Woburn, Mass.—J. R. Shield is building the benches in two 200-foot greenhouses, preparatory to planting them with carnations.

Easy Access

IS a necessary feature of a good gas or gasoline engine. In all such engines the cylinder head must be removed occasionally for cleaning and regrinding the valves. You do not have to be an expert mechanic to do this work, if you use a for your water supply system. By simply removing a flat iron plate, the piston and valves are exposed. (See illustration.)

Standard Engine

Standard Pumping Engines are made in many styles to take care of any conditions that may be present. There is a style to fit your particular requirements. Tell us what they are and we will gladly advise you as to the best equipment for your purposes.

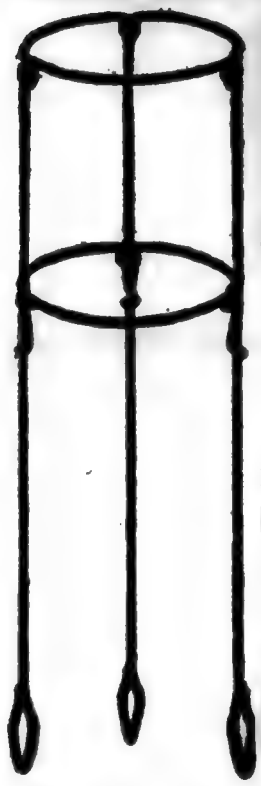
A PERFECT GREENHOUSE HOSE

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.



The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking.

"Magic" Hose is guaranteed to stand a pressure of 500 pounds per square inch, although its bursting pressure is far in excess of this.

The Market.

Business holds up remarkably well, considering the many people out of the city enjoying their vacations. Of course funerals cause the greatest demand for flowers just at this time. Asters and other outdoor flowers are quite plentiful and are mostly used. Roses and carnations are short, but are improving in quality.

This month has been cooler than for a good many years. Plenty of rain lately has helped all outdoor flowers.

Various Notes.

Karl Zeidler has finished glazing the two new houses. They are 25x300 and equipped with the Advance ventilator machines. He has torn down all of his old houses, with the exception of one small house. The houses will be heated by steam; a sixty horse-power boiler already is bricked in, ready for fire as soon as the piping is done. He has carnations planted in solid beds about 100 feet long, in each house. The beds have concrete sides.

Julius Niednagel & Sons have been busy planting carnations and mums. The plants are all in good condition. The large house that is in line with the new street being opened will be moved right away.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. has been having the usual good business for this time of the year.

Ben Kramer reports business as brisk last week. He is using a good many asters.

Henry Seymour has all of his carnations planted and they are getting a nice start.

Louis Fritsch says trade has been better so far this summer than ever before. E. L. F.

IF YOU ARE PARTICULAR AND WANT A FANCY LOOKING "RED DEVIL" GLASS CUTTER GET OUR NEW NO. 6 EXPERT

A 6-Wheel Magazine Glass Cutter with a hard wood handle. The handle looks good and is good, but it cuts no glass—the hand honed steel wheel is the glass cutter—note the 5 extra wheels in the air-tight chamber in the handle. This cutter was designed for the expert glazier. They use them extensively. It's a swell glass cutter for you to have around the hothouse when you want to cut glass. Hunt's "Elastic-Lyke"
Greenhouse Glazing Putty
"SEMI-LIQUID"

Absolutely the best glazing product ever produced. Guaranteed to be made of purest, double boiled Linseed Oil and Pure White Lead. Weighs 16½ pounds to the gallon; each gallon will cover 300 running feet. Can be used in machine or putty bulb, and we guarantee that ten years after using all that is necessary is to break the outer film and the body will be soft and pliable. Impervious to water and will not heave in cold, nor run in warm weather; in fact it is

Hunt's "Simon Pure" Dough Putty

This is a strictly pure putty compound of whiting and double boiled Linseed Oil and so compounded as to make it impervious to moisture; frost will not crack it; no crumbling by change in temperature, and is smooth and easy to apply.

100 lb. cases, $3.05.

The putty in these cases is put up in 25 pound skin bladders. This is an advantage, as one bladder at a time can be used without exposing the balance to the air.

100 lb. steel jackets (bulk putty), $2.90.
Barrels of about 800 lbs. bulk, per 100 lbs., $2.55.

For those who use dough putty there is nothing on the market that is better or of higher quality.

10 gallon kits	16.70
25 gallon bbls.	41.00
50 gallon bbls.	81.00

Reasons why you should use Hunt's Greenhouse Pure White Paint

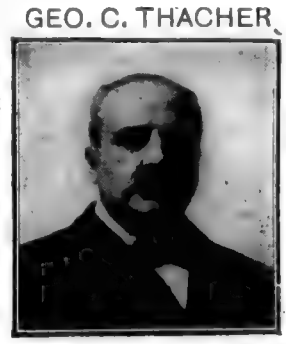
1st. It is made to withstand the excessive moisture and variation of temperature which is so prevalent in greenhouses.

2d. It will cover more surface than any other paint now on the market, making it cheaper in price than paint of inferior quality.



3d. It will not peel, blister or crack, hence will outlast by years other products and add to the life of the house without any additional expense.

LAKE FOREST, ILL.

The North Shore Horticultural Society held its annual summer show here August 3 and scored an excellent success. The premium list provided nearly 150 classes for flowers and vegetables and practically all of them filled, eighty-one classes for flowers and thirty-seven for vegetables. There were four prizes awarded in many of the classes. The attendance was large and everyone was pleased with the show, the quality of the exhibits being up to the well-known Lake Forest standard.

The principal exhibitors were: C. Geppert, gardener to H. C. Taylor; Thomas Clarkson, gardener to W. C. Egan; M. Zschau, gardener to W. O. Lindley; H. C. Peterson, gardener to E. A. Hamil; John Tiplady, gardener to A. B. Dick; J. Newbore, gardener to Mrs. R. H. McElwee; A. Nichols, gardener to Mrs. Babcock; E. O. Orpet, gardener to C. H. McCormick; A. Reupke, gardener to B. L. New Orleans, La.—Uriah J. Virgin, who is widely known in the flower trade, is president of the International Publishers' Supply Co., of New York. He is councilman-at-large from three of the largest districts of New Orleans and was the first retail florist to use large newspaper space in the daily newspapers of that city, which resulted in building up an extensive business throughout the south. He became interested in the publishers' supply business through the exertions of Louis A. Hoffmann, the present manager of the company, and is now its chief owner. The Editor and Publisher, a trade journal for newspaper men, published Mr. Virgin's portrait in its issue for June 22.

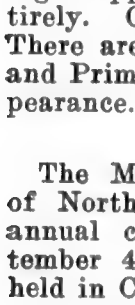
ROCHESTER.

The Market.

Warm weather has returned, and its influence on the business of last week was depressing. In most of the stores the clerks have temporarily become painters and are freshening up fixtures and woodwork during the dull season. Carnations have become extremely scarce, and the price is high. Asters are fine; white ones are much the best, but there are good purple, lavender and pink ones. Gladioli are getting better, but the supply is still small. Roses are somewhat scarce still, Killarneys having dropped out of the list almost entirely. Orchids are coming in again. There are some fine gloxinias for sale, and Primula obconica has made its appearance.

Various Notes.

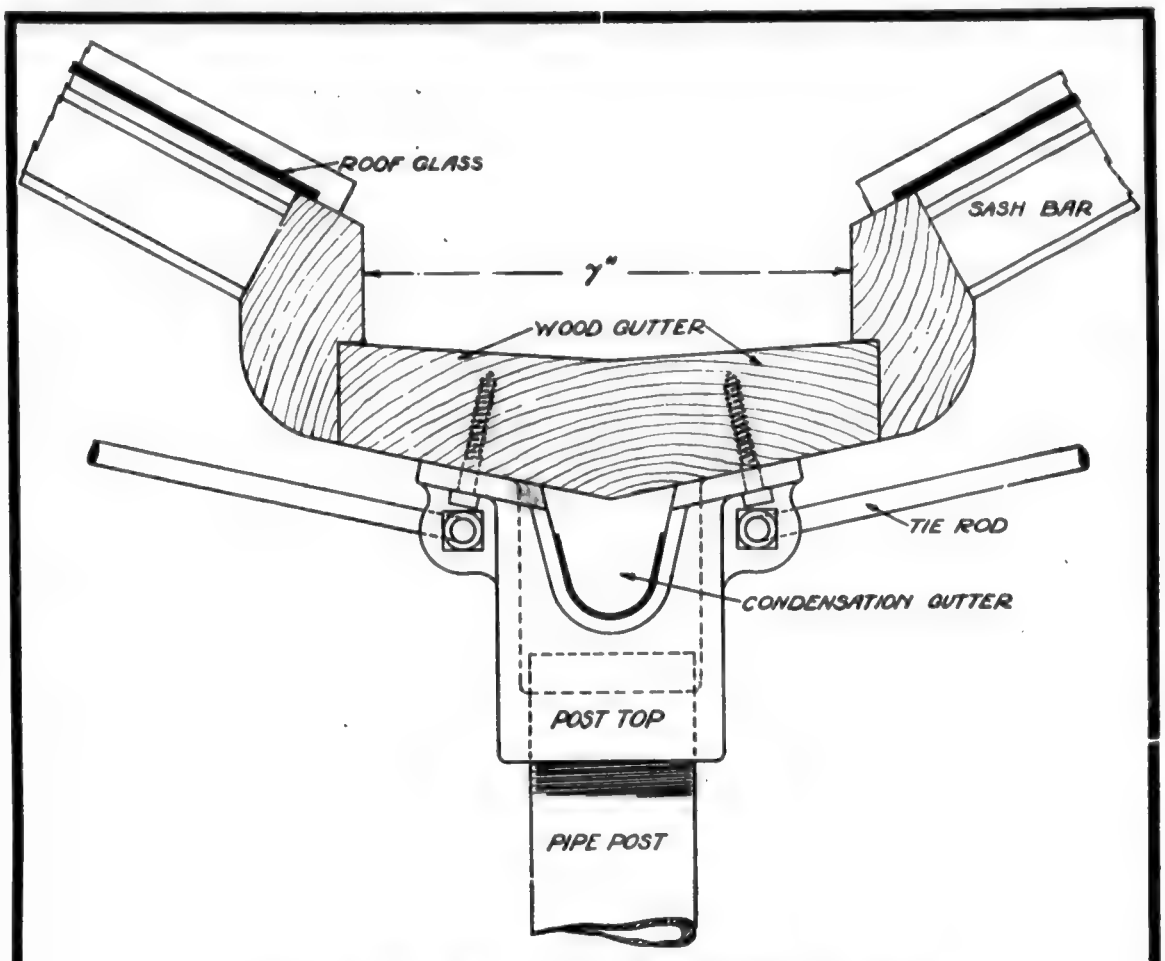


The Market Gardeners' Association of North America will hold its fifth annual convention in this city, September 4 to 6. The sessions will be held in Convention hall. There will be an exhibition of gardening implements, greenhouse fixtures, etc., and also a large display of fruits and vegetables. The Market Gardeners' Association of Irondequoit will have entire charge of the arrangements for the convention. John Hall, president of the Western New York Horticultural Society, is to be one of the principal speakers at the banquet, to be held at Powers hotel, September 5.

Word has been received from Horace Head, formerly with H. E. Wilson, but now in England. He is planning to return to Rochester sometime in September.

Great interest is being taken in the coming exhibition of fruits and vegetables at the Industrial Exposition, which is to be opened September 14. The following committee is in charge of the exhibition: C. C. Porter, Albion, chairman; Timothy Costello, Penn Yan; R. E. Chapin, Batavia; Louis J. Dubelbeiss, Irondequoit; C. C. Porter, Irondequoit; T. B. Pengelly, Irondequoit; H. M. Peirson, Charlotte; Freeman Pintler, Ontario; John Hall, Rochester. The judging is to begin September 17, and the premiums will be paid October 31.

Miss Rose Brown, of H. E. Wilson's, is spending part of her vacation in Chicago. She will be back in the store about September 15.



Visitors: M. Cohen, of New York city; R. Karlstrom, of W. A. Manda, Inc., South Orange, N. J. E. C. A.

KING GUTTER
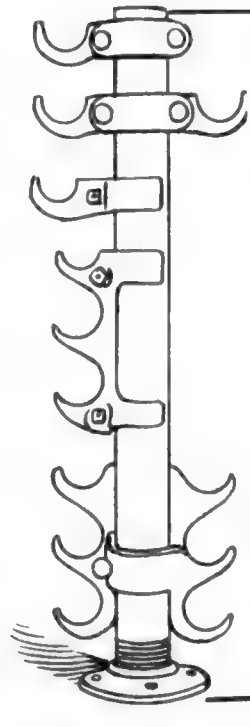
WOOD



"LEST YOU FORGET,"
we want you to know that we make a wood gutter, and a good one, too. It combines all the good points of other wood gutters,
"AND THEN SOME"

NOTE that the condensation and drip run down the sides and sloping bottom to a drip pan placed under the gutter, where it makes no shade

We know it will do that, for we have tried it. This gutter lends itself to an outside wall as an eave most admirably

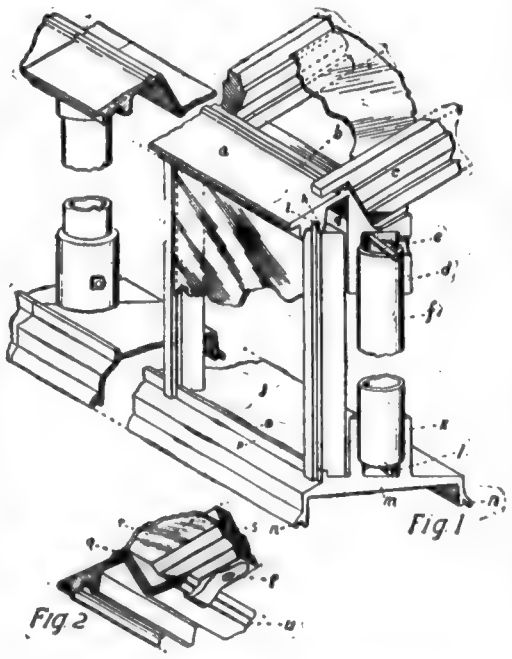
THE SOIL CARRIER IN USE.

SAVES TIME, LABOR AND MONEY

We call your attention to our Gravity Carriers for conveying soil into and out of greenhouses. You are aware of the great amount of labor necessary for changing the loam in your benches. It requires but a few feet of our Gravity Carriers to reduce this expense.

Carriers are made in eight and four foot sections, which can be instantly joined; the rollers are of the best seamless steel tubing, ball bearing, and are 14 inches in length by 2¼ inches in diameter. Cut shows how they operate.



A run of carrier is set up with one end projecting through a window and a cart containing the loam is placed at this end. The loam is shoveled into the boxes, which are pushed or conveyed by gravity into the house and dumped into the benches. Empty boxes are pushed back to cart over same run of carrier. When the beds within a convenient radius are filled, the carrier is set up at another window and the work continues until all benches are filled. For removing soil the process is, of course, similar.

We shall be pleased to furnish further details relative to construction and durability of the carriers; also, upon receipt of information relative to size of your greenhouses, furnish an estimate of the cost of a system for your requirements.

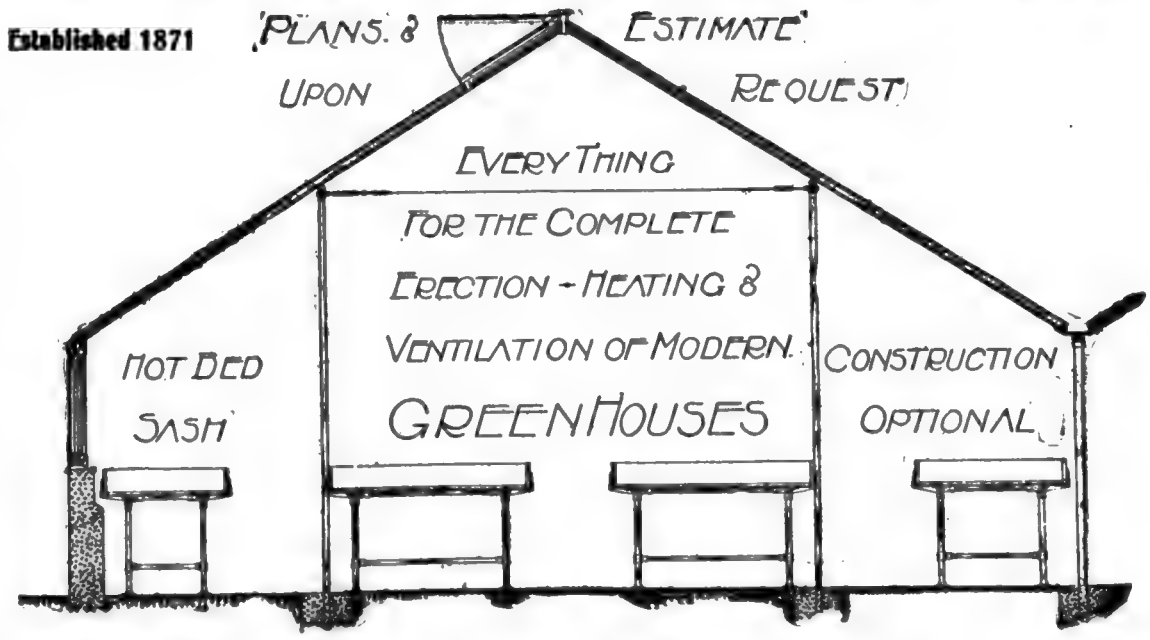
Fifty-yard walking match, same prize, same conditions, Wm. Smith, first; J. Henderson, second.

Girls' race, H. Addor, first; M. Addor, second.

Boys' race, B. Freymond, first; J. H. Flod, second.



Ladies' race, Mrs. A. Peterson, first; Mrs. Wright, second.

Mrs. N. Wester, of Mamaroneck, won the prize donated by Mr. Ebel for the most beautiful lady present, and let me tell you, boys, it was too hard a job for the judges to decide and we let chance decide by drawing.

At the monthly meeting, held in Greenwich on Friday, August 9, P. W. Pop had on exhibition thirty-six splendid blooms of gladioli in eighteen varieties, all of 1912 introduction. Some fine Beauties were shown by A. Marshall and some extra good asters by A. McAllister. All received a vote of thanks from the society. O. E. A.

GARLAND BIDS YOU WELCOME

Our Exhibit at the S. A. F. Convention

A SURPRISE is in store for every visitor to the Coliseum during the week of August 20 to 23. A visit to the Garland exhibit will prove an education to every florist and grower on the most modern type of greenhouse construction. Look for the Garland Trussed Iron Frame greenhouse. We will show an entire section, with all the new features that have made the Garland construction so well known and well liked by growers all over the country. These points will be of particular interest: The movable construction (the greenhouse on wheels); the all steel and iron (not an inch of wood on the house); the improved method of setting the glass (no putty or other similar material required); and last, but by no means least, the hydraulic ventilator system, which permits of opening or shutting any part or all of the vents in an entire range from just one point. This is particularly valuable in case of sudden storms or unexpected drops in temperature. We will also show the Garland Handy Truck, Concrete Benches and all the fittings for an up-to-the-minute greenhouse.

Don't Overlook the SUPERIOR EXHIBIT at the S. A. F. Convention, but

LOOK IT OVER CAREFULLY

We particularly call your attention to the careful construction of SUPERIOR STANDARD GREENHOUSE BOILERS. They are the result of years of study of the particular needs of greenhouse heating. You will note that Superior Boilers have more flues than other types. This means that each flue has a smaller volume of water to heat, consequently it heats quicker and less fuel is required in the process.

"Superior Service from Superior Boilers"

Another point of interest to every up-to-date florist is the easy cleaning. You can clean a SUPERIOR BOILER without getting inside, and when you get through you know it has been thoroughly done, because it's so easy to get at. The easy and perfect cleaning practically doubles the life of Superior Boilers and insures full value for each ton of coal used.

We have many letters from satisfied florists to prove these facts. Write for catalogue and further particulars.

STANDARD POTS

Don't fail to order your Fall and Spring pots from us. We can prove to you why there is all the difference in the world in clays.

We can prove that the Ionia Pot has them all beat for porosity, thus making it the best growing pot. It is the lightest made, making a saving in freight, and, above all, we can demonstrate that it is stronger than any other.

You will be pleased with its terra cotta color and its smoothness. You will want them in your greenhouse and store.

A perfect mail order system enables us to serve you quickly and well.

IONIA POTS

are sorted carefully, twice, after leaving the kilns and before packing. Never anything but perfect pots in Ionia cases.

Ionia Pots are so strong and are so carefully packed (in hardwood crates with plenty of straw) that we practically never have a claim for breakage. In the past six years we have filed with the two railroads on which we ship only one claim for breakage, and that for an amount less than $3.00. It is a record without a parallel.

HERE IS THE PROOF:

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
COUNTY OF IONIA. }

Bernerd R. Ely, Agent of the Grand Trunk Railroad, at Ionia, Michigan, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has searched the files of said Company from January 1st, 1905, to this date, and finds that the Ionia Pottery Co. has placed but one claim for breakage, amounting to $2.52, on October 1, 1910, and that this record is most remarkable, considering the nature of their shipments. Further deponent says not. BERNERD R. ELY.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 4th day of August, A. D. 1911.

C. B. WARDLE, Notary Public, Ionia Co., Mich.

My commission expires November 12, 1914.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
COUNTY OF IONIA. }

J. J. Waite, Agent at Ionia, Michigan, for the Pere Marquette Railroad Co., being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has examined the records of said Company for the past six years, and finds that during that time no claim for breakage of pottery has ever been filed by the Ionia Pottery Co. against said Railroad; that their careful packing, either loose in car or in crates, is directly responsible for this success. Further deponent says not. J. J. WAITE.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 4th day of August, A. D. 1911.

C. B. WARDLE, Notary Public, Ionia Co., Mich.

My commission expires November 12, 1914.

Actual use will convince any grower that the breakage of Ionia pots in greenhouse use is much less than the breakage with any other kind.

Ionia pots have what is commonly known as a round bottom, thereby assisting the drainage and permitting the plant to dump more easily without breaking the ball of soil.

The IONIA Line includes Lawn Vases and Porch Pots That are the Equal in Every Way of the IONIA Flower Pots.

When You Get Sick and Tired of the variation in quality of your orders; when you have tried the best that the other fellow has to offer, we want you to give us a chance to prove what we say is true. Take your pick—select any of the stock mentioned (in season)—and we will guarantee absolutely that you will get the best that money can buy—and at the right price. Our one rule is to satisfy our customers and if you are not already a patron of ours drop us a line and place either a trial order or your regular running order with us for the season's supply. We request your patronage on the promise that we will increase the purchasing value of your money.

If you want to get the kind of stock that will build up your sales, increase your business and bring your regular patrons back day after day, don't delay your order. We are not superhuman, but quick, prompt shipments of well packed stock executed by our experienced packers have brought us many customers and in the same manner we will demonstrate to you that we can offer the best service—no delayed orders or wretchedly packed stock. It's worth while if it's true and if so it's worth a trial order. LET IT COME NOW.

A Strong Circulation

The cut shows our No. 610, which is one of our most popular styles. It is made of solid oak, antique finish, with nickel trimmings. The interior is white enameled, except the floor, which is covered with galvanized iron. It is 84 inches wide, 28½ inches deep and 74 inches high, with an ice capacity of 250 lbs. Write for price.

of cold dry air will keep your flowers in perfect shape. You can find this circulation in McCray Refrigerators, which will not only preserve your flowers but display them to the best advantage.

Geny Bros., Florists in Nashville, Tenn., write us as follows:

"The cooler you shipped us has given surprising results. We are more than pleased with same. We loaded this cooler with 3000 lbs. of ice November 1, and did not put in any more until the 14th, and then put in 1200 lbs. The temperature stands 35° to 38°, and has never reached 40°. We think it one of the best on the market."

HERE beginneth the twenty-fifth chapter of the Book of Allen, not quite as old a volume as the Psalms of David or the Proverbs of Solomon or the Book of Job, but far more practical and interesting to the retail florists and the growers of cut flowers in and around this wonderful city.

We are on the outskirts of a great revival. Never was there so bountiful a harvest. There will be food for man and beast, not forgetting the Elephant, the Donkey, the Moose and the Bull Frog. We hail our splendid staff of growers with high hopes, and we have room for more of them. There is no variety of flower we do not handle. We ship to the leading out-of-town florists, and we sell to the cream of the local trade. If you are not yet on our books, it is your misfortune. "Every morning at 6" is our watchword. It has worn well. Maybe it will last out the half-century! Don't visit New York without making a call on "the old reliable" (and watch for the Bull Dog).

Florists! Make Your Delivery 100% Efficient

It is service that spells success. Guard against punctures and blowouts and the dangers of delay. Have your flowers delivered on time. Get them to their destination when wanted.

Essenkay

"ENDS TIRE TROUBLES"

ESSENKAY makes service efficient by guarding against punctures and blowouts. It is the greatest substitute for air ever invented—absolutely different from any tire filler you have ever known. There is not a drop of rubber in it. It won't rot, run or crumble. Nothing affects it. It is neither a fluid nor a semi-solid. It is put into your tire casings in a moulded cylindrical form—eliminates the expense of the inner tube entirely—lasts indefinitely—can be changed from tire to tire whenever desired, and pays for itself in what it saves. It actually cuts tire bills in half. It eliminates all tire trouble and does away with all tire expense bills.

Scores of florists in Chicago are using it. Each one of them is an enthusiastic endorser. Read some of the evidence in these two letters.

ALBERT F. AMLING CO.

Maywood, Ill., May 7, 1912.

The Essenkay Co., 2120 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Replying to your inquiry about the satisfaction we are getting from the use of Essenkay, we are free to state that we have had no tire trouble—no punctures or blowouts—since we put it in. We have used Essenkay on our one-ton Buick truck since October 1, 1911, making daily trips from the greenhouses at Maywood to the commission house in Chicago. While using air we never were safe from tire trouble, but since using Essenkay have had no difficulty whatever on that score. In even the coldest weather we have found the resiliency satisfactory.

After having given Essenkay a three months' test on the truck our Mr. A. F. Amling put it in the tires on his touring car. Of course, it gets a much less severe test here but has given the same satisfactory results.

Very truly yours,

ALBERT F. AMLING CO.,
Per A. F. Amling, Treasurer.

SMYTH, FLORIST.
Michigan Blvd. and 31st St., Chicago.

Chicago, April 19, 1912.

The Essenkay Co., 2120 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: We want to praise you for the excellency of Essenkay. It certainly kills tire troubles. Previous to last January, when we first inaugurated the use of Essenkay in our tires, we had constant trouble with punctures. These punctures, of course, as well as other tire troubles, did not expedite deliveries, which in this trade must be executed with dispatch. Since last January we have had absolutely no trouble whatsoever, and we attribute this to your most excellent discovery. Even during the coldest weather, when the thermometer was below zero, it was impervious to the cold. We have found it the same in regard to moisture, friction or pressure. What more could we ask?

We will be glad to recommend this to any florist who is desirous of eliminating tire trouble.

Yours truly,
W. J. SMYTH.

INSTALL ESSENKAY TODAY

Now, while the thought is with you, go to the Essenkay dealer in your town and have him put Essenkay into your tire casings. Let Essenkay show you the real meaning of efficiency. Let it show you how easily it prevents punctures and blowouts. Let the great reduction it makes in tire upkeep prove its economy. And, let time prove how Essenkay lessens your delivery cost.

If you find we have no dealer in your town, clip this coupon and send it to us today. We will send you the full story of Essenkay and tell you where you can obtain real Essenkay.

Fill out the coupon NOW, before you forget it.

August 20th to 24th is the date set for the Florists' Convention in Chicago. While in town stop in and let us demonstrate and explain Essenkay to you.

6-inch pots for specimen stock for Christmas.....$9 per dozen

We also have a very large stock of Light Begonia Lorraine (Edwin Lonsdale) sport at the same prices. This variety we consider far superior to the original type, it making a finer shaped plant as well as holding the flowers much better, while the color is a little lighter than that of the original Lorraine.

THE NEW CLEAR SCARLET BEDDING GERANIUM "HELEN MICHELL"

The best commercial novelty for 1913 (name registered with S. A. F. & O. H.). Seedling cross Jean Viaud and Alphonse Ricard. This sterling novelty will be introduced jointly by Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, Pa., and ourselves and the plants will all be grown by us at our place at Norwood, where we will be pleased to have you call. You will find that this Geranium has all the good points claimed for it. "Helen Michell" is semidouble, of the clearest possible shade of scarlet, is early in bloom and produces these continuously during the season. It grows compact medium dwarf, with lustrous green foliage, and throws up gigantic flower heads continuously; we claim it to have the largest flower heads of any of the bedding geraniums. The individual blooms measure 2½ inches across. It is a common occurrence that a single 4-inch pot plant shows 4 fully open gigantic flower heads, several half open, and more in bud. We are booking orders that will be filled in rotation from January, 1913.
2¼-inch pots.....$2.50 per dozen; $15 per 100; $125 per 1000

Does Your Delivery Service Advertise Your Business?

ELECTRIC DELIVERY WAGONS will give you a higher name and fame among the entire community. The sight of an Electric Delivery Wagon is a positive relief—it is so clean, noiseless, dignified and efficient. It suggests to the public that the florist who uses Electric Delivery Service is the sort of florist to trade with. This is one big advantage to you in using Electric Vehicles—the valuable amount of advertising which their use will bring you.

Electric Delivery Wagons Will Save You Money

One Electric will do the work of several horse-drawn wagons—hence, you can make more and quicker deliveries. An Electric Delivery Wagon is not affected by the elements, heat or cold—it does not have to rest one day in five, like a hard-worked horse.

An Electric consumes power only when actually in operation—hence, it is economical for your kind of service, which necessitates frequent stops. Any driver now in your employ can quickly and easily learn to operate an Electric—you don't have to break in new men to learn your routes. Power for operating Electric Vehicles is cheaper than that for any other type—and it is constantly decreasing in cost.

Upon request, this Association will gladly send you interesting literature about Electric Commercial Vehicles. Write today.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS BREAKS ALL RECORDS.

THE NEXT MEETING WILL BE HELD AT MINNEAPOLIS.

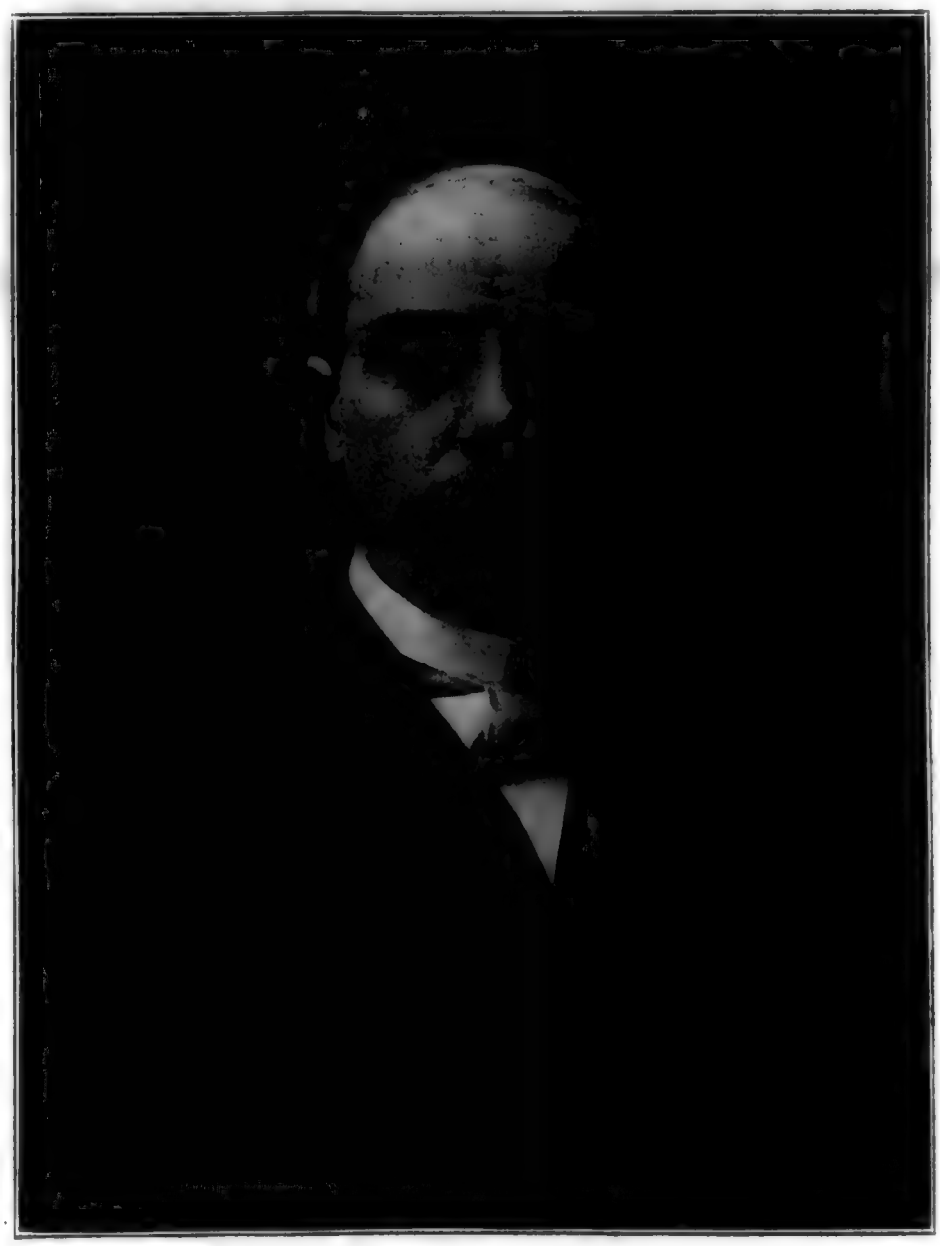
OFFICERS FOR 1913:

President, JOHN K. M. L. FARQUHAR, of Boston.
Vice-president, THEODORE WIRTH, of Minneapolis.
Secretary, JOHN YOUNG, of New York, N. Y.
Treasurer, WM. F. KASTING, of Buffalo, N. Y.

AFTER a lapse of a quarter of a century, the Society of American Florists has this week met again at Chicago, for the twenty-eighth annual convention. With a location so favorable, in the heart of the great buying section of the country, and with the enthusiasm with which Chicago undertook the local arrangements, the convention showed so marked an advance in size that the society actually found itself for the first time in its history with no city anxious to undertake the task of equaling the magnitude and interest of the meeting. In other words, no city cared to follow Chicago and the society was without an invitation for 1913.

As usual, the trade's display was the great attraction. It exceeded all previous records. While the attendance was unusually large, that at the business sessions was deplorably small. A comparison of the illustration in this issue, showing the convention during the opening ceremonies, when the attendance usually is the largest of the week, with the illustrations showing the trade's display, will demonstrate the disparity of the two branches of the society's work. Unfortunately, a factor which detracted from the attendance at the sessions was the miserable acoustic properties of the dance hall in which the sessions were held; only the most leather-lunged could make themselves heard.

The essay feature was cut down to a point where there was only one set paper and the sessions were so divided that there was ample time for inspection of the trade's display, sight-seeing, and visits to the growers' establishments. The business sessions proved full of interest. While no vital matters were up, the debate, especially on the first day, was probably the most animated even the pioneer members ever have listened to. The entire membership would have been well repaid by being present.



The Opening Formalities.

In the past it has been the practice to start the conventions on Tuesday afternoon, but this year August Poehlmann, chairman of the Allied Trades Committee at Chicago, called for order at the opening session Tuesday morning, introducing John Barton Payne to make an address of welcome. Response was by W. J. Vesey, who said that he noted Mr. Payne subscribed to the new beatitude: "Blessed be they who speak briefly, for they shall be called to speak again." Both speakers confined their remarks to a few graceful sentences, after which Mr. Poehlmann introduced President Vincent, who read his annual address, a document of nearly 7,000 words, which is printed in another section of this issue.

Next Meeting Place.

At the opening session the constitution and by-laws were amended so that the selection of the next meeting place will in future occur on the evening of the first day of the convention. Acting under this new rule, consideration of invitations for place of meeting in 1913 came up at the afternoon session of the first day—but it developed that there was no invitation for next year.

After a pause in anticipation of an invitation, which was not forthcoming, W. A. Manda said that the society now found itself right where he liked to see it; he did not believe it right to put any city to the work and expense of entertaining so large a body as the society now brings to its convention; that when we go uninvited there is no obligation to do any entertaining whatever. He said the society and the members are well able to take care of themselves and that the limit evidently had been reached at Chicago. He moved that the 1913 convention be held at Atlantic City, N. J. W. F. Kasting suggested Saratoga. W. F. Gude offered the amendment that the matter be left to the executive committee, and this was about to be done when it was pointed out that the new by-laws specifically provide that the matter be settled by ballot on the evening of the first day. As no evening session had been planned, the president declared that a motion to adjourn and call an evening session five minutes later would be in order. This motion was made and carried, and on reconvening George Asmus took the floor to urge the careful consideration of the city for the next gathering, pointing out that it has been made quite clear that little if any entertaining is expected and that the best interests of the society demand that the convention be held under certain essential conditions. He nominated Minneapolis, seconded by A. H. Langjahr. W. A. Manda renewed the motion for Atlantic City, but John Westcott and W. F. Kasting pointed out that this resort is no place for an August convention requiring as much space as does the S. A. F. meeting.

On motion of H. A. Bunyard, the secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous ballot of the convention for Minneapolis and the motion prevailed.

E. G. Hill offered the suggestion that instead of hiring a hall the society buy a big tent, which can be used year after year.

Golden Gate in 1915.

If the society was without an invitation for 1913, it was more fortunate with respect to the year of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. San Francisco was represented at Chicago by the largest delegation that ever had attended an S. A. F. convention, and A. Rossi, in behalf of the San Francisco florists, invited the society to meet at the Golden Gate in 1915, when the exposition will be in progress. The society never before has been west of Omaha and there were those who thought that, much as the invitation is appreciated, it is too long a journey. The body of the society, however, apparently is looking forward to the San Francisco trip, as a resolution was adopted by a large vote stating that it was the sense of the meeting that the convention in 1915 should be held at San Francisco.

Secretary Still Elective.

The executive committee proposed the amendment of the constitution and by-laws to make the secretaryship appointive instead of elective and to deprive the secretary of his vote in the appointive body, the executive board. Secretary Young read the amendment and H. A. Bunyard moved its adoption. Patrick O'Mara promptly took the floor and made a sharp attack on the executive committee for undertaking the alteration of the organic law under which that committee acts, asserting his belief that this is a privilege purely individual. He said he objected to the principle and believed that in practice the proposed change would work to the disadvantage of the society, asserting that the aim should be to distribute responsibility instead of centralizing it. George Asmus defended the executive body, pointing out that it was instructed by the Baltimore convention to take the action it did. Robert Craig read the paragraph providing for the amendment of the society's by-laws and defended the regularity of the procedure, but stated that the change did not have his approval. There followed a long exchange of arguments between the advocates of the change and those who are opposed to it, which ended when the entire matter was laid on the table for one year, on motion of W. A. Manda, seconded by W. R. Pierson.

Pioneer Membership.

An hour was devoted to thrashing out the subject of a class of membership to be known as the Pioneers. At the twenty-fifth annual meeting President Valentine recommended that those members who had attended the first meeting and who had paid their dues continuously for twenty-five years be grouped as a special class to be known as Pioneer members and to be thereafter exempt from the payment of dues. The recommendation was adopted by the society, but no record appeared in the published stenographic report. The executive committee asked that the record be corrected to provide clear authority for the officers to remit the dues of those who have paid dues continuously for twenty-five years. The request brought out acrimonious discussion, some members even going so far as to say that no such action ever had been taken. W. R. Pierson sought to bring the debate to an end by moving to lay on the table, but this was defeated and the subject thrashed out. It was brought out by Mr. Valentine that the intention of his recommendation was not that all members become exempt from paying dues after twenty-five years, but that those who attended the first meeting be honored by being known as Pioneers. In the end a motion by P. O'Mara was adopted, giving Pioneer membership only to those who were present at the first convention and who had maintained their membership through the society's first quarter century.

Express Matters.

William Gourlay, assistant general manager of the American Express Co., was introduced to talk on the subject of the relations between the florists and the express companies. He gave an account of the special arrangements made to handle the shipments of florists and ventured the opinion that more and better service is given to florists than to shippers in any other line, asserting his belief that the express companies have done much to enlarge the business done by florists. He said he thought the present rates might be considered fair and satisfactory to all parties. As a suggestion, he pointed out the value of having every shipment, especially if C. O. D., carry instructions as to the action to be taken in the case of inability to deliver or refusal to pay the C. O. D.

The speaker answered questions relating to details, put by John Young and W. F. Gude, and was given a vote of thanks.

The President's Recommendations.

J. A. Valentine, for the committee to which the president's address was referred, presented a report which may be summarized as follows: The committee endorsed the suggestion that more weight would be given the recommendations of the executive board if the members were more fully advised of the work of the board. The committee approved the suggestions for the affiliation of trade organizations and recommended that a committee be appointed to report in 1913. The committee endorsed the suggestion that insufficient attention is paid to legislative matters, which would include the parcels post, and recommended that the committee be given an appropriation of $500 for its work. The committee recognized the desirability of a permanent home for the society and a school of floriculture, but was of the opinion that the society is not yet ready to undertake these projects. The committee approved the recommendation for the investigation of overhead costs and recommended the appointment of a committee with an appropriation of $100 for its use. All these were unanimously adopted.

A further recommendation was in these words: "We agree with the president's strong endorsement of the interest in the trade exhibition, and we believe the rates for space should be carefully considered for each convention, to the end that the exhibitors be not embarrassed by excessive expenses." W. N. Rudd charged that this apparently innocent phraseology in connection with the discussion which he said was taking place elsewhere constituted a delicately put attack upon the executive committee now in office. He defended the actions of the committee with regard to the Chicago exhibition and urged that it was the duty of the directors to sell the society's space for as much as the space is worth. After a number of those present had expressed their approval of the handling of the exhibition this year, Mr. Rudd permitted the unanimous adoption of the report, stating that his only purpose had been to secure such endorsement from the society for the official records.

Nominations.

As prescribed in the by-laws, the nomination of officers occurred at the morning session August 21.

For president August F. Poehlmann nominated J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston. J. A. Valentine nominated W. J. Vesey, Fort Wayne, Ind.

For vice-president W. J. Stewart nominated Theodore Wirth, of Minneapolis.

For secretary George Asmus nominated John Young, of New York.

For treasurer W. N. Rudd nominated W. F. Kasting, of Buffalo.

President's Reception.

The president's reception, which is each year becoming a more important feature of the convention because of the increasing attendance of ladies, was this year held in the Auditorium hotel. In the receiving line were Robert Craig, Harry A. Bunyard, Mrs. Bunyard, John A. Evans, Mrs. Evans, President Richard Vincent, Mrs. Vincent, Vice-president August Poehlmann, Mrs. Poehlmann, Secretary John Young, Mrs. Boone, president of the Ladies' S. A. F., E. Allan Peirce, Mrs. Peirce, E. G. Hill, W. F. Gude and P. J. Foley, president of the Chicago Florists' Club. The attendance was the largest in the history of the society. There was a musical program, both vocal and instrumental, followed by dancing. Punch was served.

The Open Date.

Wednesday afternoon, August 21, was left open on the convention program to give the members the opportunity of going over the trade's display or visiting growers and other business establishments, according to individual preference. The result was that most of the men visited the growers, the ladies being on an automobile trip at the time. While practically every growing establishment had more or less visitors, two or three business organizations had given general invitations, or had invited special parties.

The E. C. Amling Co. took a party of 145 to Maywood by railroad. At Maywood thirty-four decorated automobiles were waiting to carry the delegation to the greenhouses of the A. F. Amling Co., where luncheon was served. The other Maywood growers also were visited, after which the procession of cars took the party across country to Elmhurst, where the rose growing plant of Wendland & Keimel was inspected and another light luncheon served. Thence the automobiles made their way to Forest Park, an amusement grounds, where an excellent supper was served, bringing the party back to the convention hall in time for the evening session. The guests gave their hosts a unanimous vote of appreciation.

A special train of eleven cars carried those who made the trip to the plant of Poehlmann Bros. Co., at Morton Grove. There were 480 aboard when the special pulled out of the Union station at 12:40 p. m. From the time the train

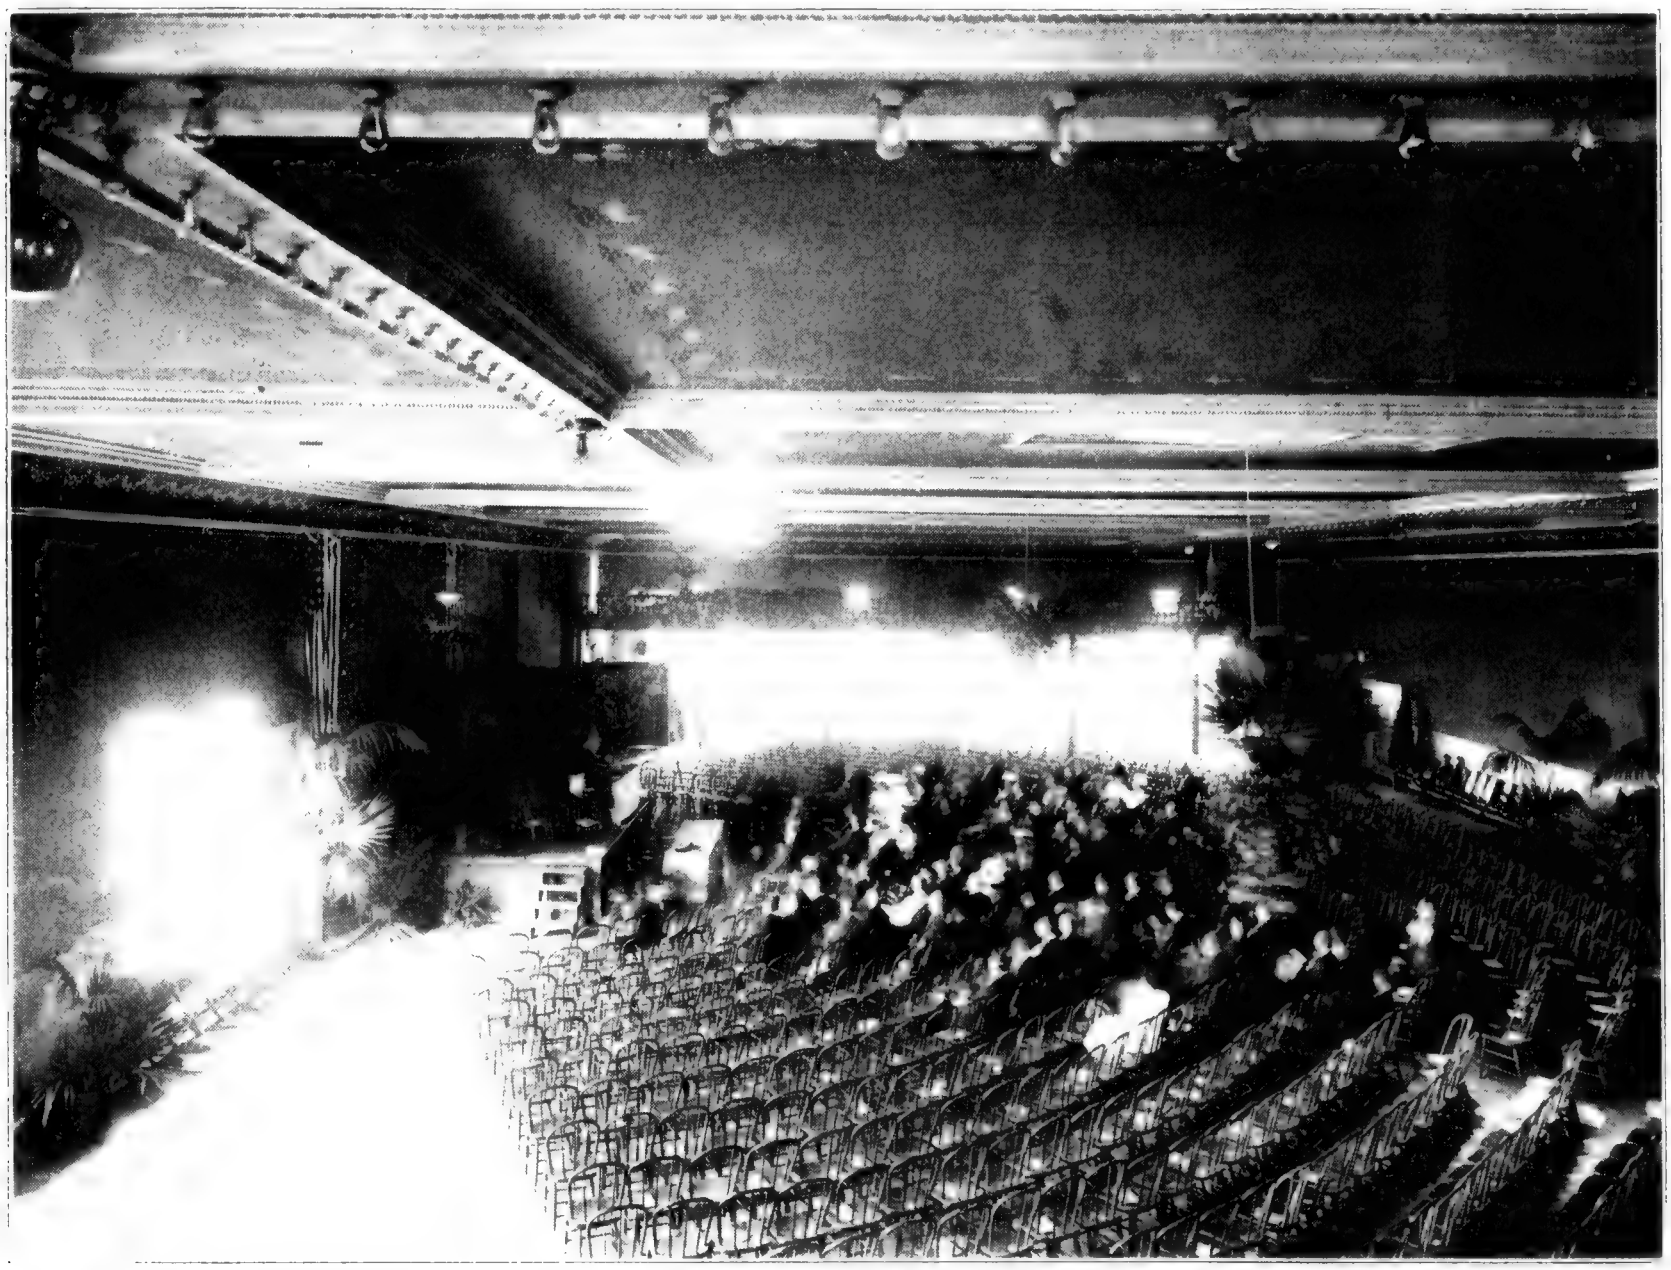
The body of the society, however, apparently is looking forward to the San Francisco trip, as a resolution was adopted by a large vote stating that it was the sense of the meeting that the convention in 1915 should be held at San Francisco.

Secretary Still Elective.

The executive committee proposed the amendment of the constitution and by-laws to make the secretaryship appointive instead of elective and to deprive the secretary of his vote in the appointive body, the executive board. Secretary Young read the amendment and H. A. Bunyard moved its adoption. Patrick O'Mara promptly took the floor and made a sharp attack on the executive committee for undertaking the alteration of the organic law under which that committee acts, asserting his belief that this is a privilege purely individual. He said he objected to the principle and believed that in practice the proposed change would work to the disadvantage of the society, asserting that the aim should be to distribute responsibility instead of centralizing it. George Asmus defended the executive body, pointing out that it was instructed by the Baltimore convention to take the action it did. Robert Craig read the paragraph providing for the amendment of the society's by-laws and defended the regularity of the procedure, but stated that the change did not have his approval. There followed a long exchange of arguments between the advocates of the change and those who are opposed to it, which ended when the entire matter was laid on the table for one year, on motion of W. A. Manda, seconded by W. R. Pierson.

Pioneer Membership.

An hour was devoted to thrashing out the subject of a class of membership to be known as the Pioneers. At the twenty-fifth annual meeting President Valentine recommended that those members who had attended the first meeting and who had paid their dues continuously for twenty-five years be grouped as a special class to be known as Pioneer members and to be thereafter exempt from the payment of dues. The recommendation was adopted by the society, but no record appeared in the published stenographic report. The executive committee asked that the record be corrected to provide clear authority for the officers to remit the dues of those who have paid dues continuously for twenty-five years. The request brought out acrimonious discussion, some members even going so far as to say that no such action ever had been taken. W. R. Pierson sought to bring the debate to an end by moving to lay on the table, but this was defeated and the subject thrashed out. It was brought out by Mr. Valentine that the intention of his recommendation was not that all members become exempt from paying dues after twenty-five years, but that those who attended the first meeting be honored by being known as Pioneers. In the end a motion by P. O'Mara was adopted, giving Pioneer membership only to those who were present at the first convention and who had maintained their membership through the society's first quarter century.



Express Matters.

William Gourlay, assistant general manager of the American Express Co., was introduced to talk on the subject of the relations between the florists and the express companies. He gave an account of the special arrangements made to handle the shipments of florists and ventured the opinion that more and better service is given to florists than to shippers in any other line, asserting his belief that the express companies have done much to enlarge the business done by florists. He said he thought the present rates might be considered fair and satisfactory to all parties. As a suggestion, he pointed out the value of having every shipment, especially if C. O. D., carry instructions as to the action to be taken in the case of inability to deliver or refusal to pay the C. O. D.

The speaker answered questions relating to details, put by John Young and W. F. Gude, and was given a vote of thanks.

The President's Recommendations.

J. A. Valentine, for the committee to which the president's address was referred, presented a report which may be summarized as follows: The committee endorsed the suggestion that more weight would be given the recommendations of the executive board if the members were more fully advised of the work of the board. The committee approved the suggestions for the affiliation of trade organizations and recommended that a committee be appointed to report in 1913. The committee endorsed the suggestion that insufficient attention is paid to legislative matters, which would include the parcels post, and recommended that the committee be given an appropriation of $500 for its work. The committee recognized the desirability of a permanent home for the society and a school of floriculture, but was of the opinion that the society is not yet ready to undertake these projects. The committee approved the recommendation for the investigation of overhead costs and recommended the appointment of a committee with an appropriation of $100 for its use. All these were unanimously adopted.

A further recommendation was in these words: "We agree with the president's strong endorsement of the interest in the trade exhibition, and we believe the rates for space should be carefully considered for each convention, to the end that the exhibitors be not embarrassed by excessive expenses." W. N. Rudd charged that this apparently innocent phraseology in connection with the discussion which he said was taking place elsewhere constituted a delicately put attack upon the executive committee now in office. He defended the actions of the committee with regard to the Chicago exhibition and urged that it was the duty of the directors to sell the society's space for as much as the space is worth. After a number of those present had expressed their approval of the handling of the exhibition this year, Mr. Rudd permitted the unanimous adoption of the report, stating that his only purpose had been to secure such endorsement from the society for the official records.

Nominations.

As prescribed in the by-laws, the nomination of officers occurred at the morning session August 21.

For president August F. Poehlmann nominated J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston. J. A. Valentine nominated W. J. Vesey, Fort Wayne, Ind.

For vice-president W. J. Stewart nominated Theodore Wirth, of Minneapolis.

For secretary George Asmus nominated John Young, of New York.

For treasurer W. N. Rudd nominated W. F. Kasting, of Buffalo.

President's Reception.

The president's reception, which is each year becoming a more important feature of the convention because of the increasing attendance of ladies, was this year held in the Auditorium hotel. In the receiving line were Robert Craig, Harry A. Bunyard, Mrs. Bunyard, John A. Evans, Mrs. Evans, President Richard Vincent, Mrs. Vincent, Vice-president August Poehlmann, Mrs. Poehlmann, Secretary John Young, Mrs. Boone, president of the Ladies' S. A. F., E. Allan Peirce, Mrs. Peirce, E. G. Hill, W. F. Gude and P. J. Foley, president of the Chicago Florists' Club. The attendance was the largest in the history of the society. There was a musical program, both vocal and instrumental, followed by dancing. Punch was served.

The Open Date.

Wednesday afternoon, August 21, was left open on the convention program to give the members the opportunity of going over the trade's display or visiting growers and other business establishments, according to individual preference. The result was that most of the men visited the growers, the ladies being on an automobile trip at the time. While practically every growing establishment had more or less visitors, two or three business organizations had given general invitations, or had invited special parties.

The E. C. Amling Co. took a party of 145 to Maywood by railroad. At Maywood thirty-four decorated automobiles were waiting to carry the delegation to the greenhouses of the A. F. Amling Co., where luncheon was served. The other Maywood growers also were visited, after which the procession of cars took the party across country to Elmhurst, where the rose growing plant of Wendland & Keimel was inspected and another light luncheon served. Thence the automobiles made their way to Forest Park, an amusement grounds, where an excellent supper was served, bringing the party back to the convention hall in time for the evening session. The guests gave their hosts a unanimous vote of appreciation.

A special train of eleven cars carried those who made the trip to the plant of Poehlmann Bros. Co., at Morton Grove. There were 480 aboard when the special pulled out of the Union station at 12:40 p. m. From the time the train started until it landed its cargo back in the city the Poehlmann brothers were generous hosts. Upon arrival at Morton Grove the visitors were taken through the ranges known as Plant A, which includes the Killarney houses and carnation range, as well as the newly inaugurated pot plant department, refrigerating and electric light plant. From there a tour of Plant C, the newest of the ranges, was made and on the return to Plant A refreshment was served before the trip down the road was made to Plant B. After being escorted through this range the entire crowd was taken to Wayside Inn, located in a grove of tall trees, where luncheon was served to 250 at a time. Before departing a vote of thanks was extended to Poehlmann Bros. Co., after a short address by J. K. M. L. Farquhar.

Still another party was conducted by C. L. Washburn to the greenhouses of Bassett & Washburn, at Hinsdale, Ill., where the visitors were first taken through the old plant and then the one that is in the course of construction at Greggs Station. At the latter place the work of erecting was going on at full speed and the visitors were given the opportunity to watch and examine the methods that are employed to build a modern greenhouse. After the tour was completed refreshments and luncheon were served before the return trip to Chicago.

Ladies' Luncheon.

Three hundred and sixty-five ladies, the largest number that has ever attended an S. A. F. convention, gathered at the Auditorium hotel at eleven o'clock Wednesday morning and were taken in automobiles to the South Shore Country Club, where luncheon was served. After being escorted around the grounds of the club the return trip was made over the famous boulevard system of Chicago and through the various parks, affording the out-of-town visitors a fair idea of Chicago's progress toward the "city beautiful." The ladies said it made a delightful outing.

The Judges' Report.

Robert Graham for the judges on plants, bulbs and cut flowers, at the morning session August 21, recommended certificates of merit as follows: To F. R. Pierson Co., for unnamed fern; to W. A. Manda, for general display; to J. A. Peterson, for general display; to Lager & Hurrell, for exhibit of orchids; to Robert Craig Co., for general display, for Ficus utilis and for crotons named Mrs. August Poehlmann, Canada and America; to A. A. Sawyer, for Astermum; to John Lewis Childs, for Gladiolus Panama; to Jacob Thomann & Sons, for Gladiolus Rochester White; to Henry A. Dreer, for Adiantum Glory of Mordrecht. The committee gave honorable mention to the groups of the three Chicago parks, to the plants of Henry A. Dreer, Charles D. Ball, Storrs & Harrison Co., F. R. Pierson Co., and George Wittbold Co.; to the cut flowers of Bassett & Washburn, especially Golden Glow chrysanthemum; the gladioli of John Lewis Childs, A. E. Kunderd, B. Hammond Tracy and the Cushman Gladiolus Co. High commendation was given the exhibition flower beds and the displays of Holton & Hunkel Co., C. C. Pollworth Co., C. Eble, Lemuel Ball, S. A. Anderson, Joseph Heacock Co., Knight & Struck, Frank Oechslin, Vaughan's Greenhouses, E. E. Stewart and the Universal Portland Cement Co. The bulb and supply displays of A. Henderson & Co., W. W. Barnard Co., Vaughan's Seed Store, H. N. Bruns, F. R. Pierson Co., H. F. Michell and C. Keur & Sons each received honorable mention. The insecticide display of the Lemon Oil Co. was given high commendation. On motion of W. F. Gude the report and its recommendations were adopted.

At the evening session, August 21, Secretary Young presented the awards in the classes for florists' supplies and greenhouse material, as follows:

To H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, honorable mention for new French basket in French colored effect, standing electrolier, and gunmetal toneware; the chariot of peace and decorative ferns were highly commended.

Lion & Co., New York, were highly commended for lace-edged chiffon.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, received a certificate of merit for gold lace chiffon ribbon, honorable mention for lace chiffon ribbon and for lace bridal tulle; high commendation for embroidered funeral design ribbon, fancy corsage ties and Jacquard chiffon ribbon.

L. Baumann & Co., Chicago, received honorable mention for artificial plants and flowers for decorative purposes.

J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati, received a certificate of merit for Dracæna Victoria.

M. Rice & Co., Philadelphia, received a certificate of merit for Florentine art basket and high commendation for metalloid finished basket.

The Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago, received high commendation for flower baskets.

Schloss Bros., New York, received a certificate of merit for bowknot, rose and four-leaved clover Jacquard ribbon, honorable mention for bouquet holders and high commendation for gold ribbon with wire edge, rubberized ribbon for stem wrapping and on bridal scarfs.

The Brecht Co., St. Louis, received a certificate of merit on its exhibit as a whole.

H. G. Dreyer & Son, Cleveland, Ohio, received a certificate of merit for the Perfection line plant stand.

The Burlington Willow Ware Co., Burlington, Ia., received honorable mention for baskets.

The Illinois Self-Watering Flower Box Co., Chicago, received special mention for window boxes.

The Knight & Struck Co., New York, received honorable mention for table of hardwooded plants.

The Roseville Pottery Co., Zanesville, Ohio, received honorable mention for pottery.

Jac Lederer, Chicago, received high commendation for refrigerators.

The Lord Box Co., Minneapolis, received a certificate of merit for New Idea potted plant and flower box.

The Williams Florists' Supply Co., Utica, received a certificate of merit for E-Z carnation support.

The Foley Mfg. Co., Chicago, received high commendation for malleable iron roof bar bracket.

The Superior Machine & Boiler Works, Chicago, received high commendation for Standard Superior firebox boiler.

The Standard Pump & Engine Co., Cleveland, received high commendation for electric pumps and pneumatic system of greenhouse water supply.

The John C. Moninger Co., Chicago, received high commendation for galvanized iron frame bench construction and for pneumatic water supply systems.

The George M. Garland Co., Des Plaines, Ill., on its movable greenhouse construction, and on its construction without wood, received the award of "worthy of further observation."

Lord & Burnham Co., New York, received high commendation for ice cleaning transom, sash and sill.

Stereopticon Lecture.

The stereopticon lecture on the art of flower arrangement, by Fred C. W. Brown, of the S. A. Anderson store, Buffalo, delivered Wednesday evening, August 21, attracted the largest crowd that attended any of the convention sessions, though, if truth be told, there were far fewer florists present than the merit of the address would have justified; the bulk of the attendance was the general public.

Mr. Brown is not only an artist in the arrangement of flowers, but he is a skilled photographer. The eighty-five slides that he used to illustrate his extemporaneous address were prepared by himself from start to finish. He made the floral pieces, photographed them, made the lantern slides and colored them. The pictures were fine, doubtless the best any of the audience ever had seen. Mr. Brown has a thorough understanding of the principles which apply to the right combination of flowers, and there has been no feature of any recent convention which afforded so much of value for the average florist present.

The Election.

The election of officers resulted in another novel event. The polls had been open for nearly an hour, a large number of ballots had been cast and there were over 100 members in line awaiting to cast their ballots when one of the candidates for the presidency, the only contested office, asked for an opportunity to be heard. In a speech paying the highest tribute to the personal worth and energy of J. K. M. L. Farquhar, Mr. Vesey asked the privilege of withdrawing from the contest, stating that he had become convinced that the best interests demanded the election of his opponent at this time. Mr. Vesey's speech was received with prolonged cheering. As it settled the only contest, President Vincent called the meeting to order and on motion the secretary cast the unanimous ballot for Mr. Farquhar for president, for Mr. Wirth as vice-president, for Mr. Young as secretary and for Mr. Kasting for treasurer. Amid prolonged cheering Mr. Vesey escorted Mr. Farquhar to the platform, where he made a brief speech of appreciation and thanks. Miss Mary Hayden, of Kansas City, came forward with an immense bouquet of American Beauty roses, which was presented to the new president.

Routine Work.

Secretary John Young presented the annual financial statement of his office and the report of the year's work, which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Treasurer W. F. Kasting presented an itemized account of the financial transactions of the society since January 1, 1911. The summary appears elsewhere in this issue.

For the committee on tariff and legislation J. G. Esler told of the progress of parcels post legislation and its present status. Within the last few days the House has substituted the Moon bill for the Bourne bill of the Senate and the matter has gone to conference.

For the committee on National Flower Show, C. H. Totty presented a report, printed in another column. He added that the International Exhibition Co., in New York, is putting a rental of about $18,000 against the guarantee fund which the committee expects now to raise.

The stenographer read the lengthy minutes of the meetings of the executive board held at Detroit in January and at Chicago in March.

W. F. Gude, Washington representative of the society, reported on the work for the parcels post done in the name of the society and reported the death of ex-President William R. Smith. Later he offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the president to appoint a committee of five to consider the question of erecting a memorial to Mr. Smith in the city of Washington.

For the committee on school gardens, B. Hammond told of the progress the school gardening movement has made in the last year.

Reports of the state vice-presidents, the entomologist and the pathologist were received and ordered printed in the annual volume.

As a committee on president's address, J. A. Valentine, J. C. Vaughan, J. G. Esler and Patrick Welch were appointed.

The talk on advertising by L. W. C. Tuthill was listened to with close attention, but produced no discussion. The speaker was given a vote of thanks.

The president appointed a committee on W. R. Smith memorial, as follows: W. F. Gude, J. K. M. L. Farquhar, J. A. Valentine, Harry Papworth, R. Vincent, with power to add to their number and with instructions to report at the next meeting

The president appointed a committee on overhead costs, as follows: W. R. Pierson, A. T. De La Mare, C. E. Critchell.

The president appointed a committee on affiliation of horticultural societies and florists' clubs, as follows: J. F. Ammann, J. Otto Thilow, Joseph A. Manda.

The president appointed a committee on publicity, as follows: Irwin Bertermann, N. Zweifel, A. M. Herr, E. A. Scribner.

The records were corrected to add the name of Charles B. Weathered to the list of Pioneer members.

In a brief speech, Wallace R. Pierson presented the publicity plans of the New York Florists' Club, outlining the possibilities for good and stating that the proposition has been approved by the florists' clubs of Louisville, Rochester, Cincinnati, Denver, Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee and New York. For the New York committee he presented a resolution authorizing the appointment of a general standing committee on publicity, its membership to embrace one representative of each florists' club organizing a publicity committee before October 1 each year; such general committee to direct the work of the local committees, its membership to be entirely members of the S. A. F. The resolution was adopted with enthusiasm and Theo. Staudt moved that a vote of thanks be given the New York Florists' Club and Mr. Pierson.

W. F. Gude reported for the Smith memorial committee and on motion of Mr. Farquhar the society recommended to its executive board that the committee be authorized to pledge the society for a sum not exceeding $1,000 to be used as a nucleus for a fund to establish a memorial in Washington. Mr. Gude reported that the Washington Florists' Club pledged $200. Messrs. Hammond, Hill and Vaughan each asked to be put down for $100, A. F. Poehlmann for $50, there being a number of other subscriptions.

A letter from W. Atlee Burpee brought up the matter of the parcels post. Patrick Welch presented a long arraignment of the express service and numerous arguments for a comprehensive parcels post system. He concluded by offering a resolution aimed to secure the coöperation of the S. A. F. and all the other trade societies, working together for the parcels post. Patrick O'Mara presented as a substitute a resolution by the adoption of which the society endorsed the principles of the Sulzer bill.

Just before the close Secretary Young reported that the society has gained, since January 1, 298 annual members and thirty-eight life members.

Patrick O'Mara, for the committee on final resolutions, in a characteristic speech offered thanks to the Chicago park commissioners, to the Chicago Florists' Club and the allied trades and to the ladies of Chicago for their hospitalities. His resolutions were adopted by a rising vote.

Where were those Louisville boomers?

President Vincent believes in handling things with dispatch.

The exhibitors nearly all report exceptionally good business. Chicago is "The Great Central Market."

W. P. Craig strained one of his legs August 18 and was unable to keep going, although he gave up with regret.

The morning start is all right, but a good many arrived late because they had overlooked the change in the opening hour.

This is the program as outlined by Dan MacRorie and his party: Minneapolis, 1913; some eastern city, 1914; San Francisco, 1915.

The speech of August F. Poehlmann, on harmony, as he stood on a freight car at Morton Grove, August 22, was one of the gems of the convention.

In its pre-convention number The Review carried 148 pages; this issue, 164 pages. The record now stands at 312 pages for two consecutive issues.

Souvenir hunters were out in force. It is only within the last two or three years that the giving of souvenirs has become general. Buyers are hardly the ones to get them.

The National Flower Show management could not get time from the convention to take up the matter of the guarantee fund, but there was no shutting off of the publicity movement.

It might be well to give the society's judges a little more definite instructions, or to see that they have an understanding of the rules. The practice does not correspond with the theory.

Many a man enjoys Pat O'Mara's wit and forceful speech who does not agree with what he says. Some people are suspected of bringing up certain topics just to hear Mr. O'Mara voice his views.

Some of the members commented that a good deal of the time of this convention appeared to be devoted to discusion of the acts of the executive board. Incidentally, that largely is an appointed body.

The luncheon in the basement refresnment room was the hit of the convention. The eatings in the vicinity of the Coliseum are not first-class, and the luncheon enabled many visitors to spend the entire day under the one roof.

The ticket arrangements were the best ever. Perfectly definite. Carried out as per program. Rudd has been talking for years against miscellaneous admissions and this time he had a chance to put his ideas into practice. They work well.

The public did not take to the American Florists' Exhibition. Was it the title that killed the gate? Some of the exhibitors were greatly perturbed when they found that the unanimous action of the convention at Niagara Falls had been nullified by some higher authority, but the alarm was groundless. The public did not elbow the trade into the background. The first day's gate was only $175.

YELLOW KING HUMBERT.

We note the mention of a yellow King Humbert canna in The Review, also the letter from R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., in a recent issue, regarding same. Our idea is that there is a big mistake somewhere about the parentage of this new canna and we will have to see it and have proof of its being a seedling of King Humbert before we will be willing to accept it as such. Like Messrs. Vincent, we have grown King Humbert since its introduction and have never seen a seed produced by it.

King Humbert is one of the best varieties we have and there is lots of room for more varieties of a similar type. We have a fine lot of them now, on well manured land, that stand about five feet high and can be seen for a long distance. L. H. Read & Co

THE TRADE'S DISPLAY

THE Chicago convention has broken all records for the sale of space in the trade's display; the rate per foot was higher than has been charged before, but a greater number of square feet were sold, producing a considerably greater money income for the society, and more than offsetting the $2,500 rental paid for the use of the Coliseum. Practically every available foot was sold, and the demand for space was so strong that aisles were encroached upon to a point where congestion was approached. In order to lend a flower show effect to the affair and attract the general public, those in charge used the center of the hall for large exhibition beds and groups. The West Park system, Lincoln park and the South Park system each loaned a large decorative group of palms and other plants, which were arranged to best effect. Between these groups of foliage plants were two large sod-bordered beds of flowering plants with pots submerged in tanbark, one a bed of scarlet geraniums and the other a bed of scarlet cannas.

The cut flower feature was the strongest ever seen in the trade's display; gladioli were shown almost by the hundreds of thousands. Half a dozen of the largest growers in the country came forward with exhibits running into the hundreds of varieties and many other seedsman exhibitors included gladioli in their displays. In addition, the American Gladiolus Society had a list of competitive classes, so that color was not lacking. The quality was excellent, all the stock, even from the Atlantic seaboard, having traveled well.

The supply houses came foward even more strongly than heretofore, the ribbons making an especially attractive feature. Also, baskets and miscellaneous florists' supplies were shown in greater variety and generally better quality than ever before. There was little, if anything, new in the line of plants, but every exhibitor had well finished stock.

The original plan had been to put the building material and similar exhibits in the annex, but this was found to have too low a ceiling and these exhibits were moved to the main hall, leaving the annex vacant. A mistake was made in crowding the greenhouse material men all into one corner; they were without sufficient aisle space and a much better effect would have been produced had they been strung along one side of the building. A notable feature of these exhibits was the increasing use of iron. Practically every exhibit included iron frame houses, and there was one in which no wood at all was used.

A full alphabetical list of the exhibitors, with brief notes of their exhibits, follows:

The Advance Co., Richmond, Ind.

The exhibit consisted of the Advance ventilating apparatus, the Big Advance machine and a line of greenhouse fittings. In charge of J. E. Jones, R. E. Jones, H. R. Packer and H. A. Huck.

American Auxiliary Heating Co., Boston.

A Castle automatic circulator in operation, its use being to accelerate sluggish circulation in greenhouse hot water systems. Also a new model of the same, known as the Baby machine, a size suitable for the smallest systems. In charge of J. L. Congdon.

American Blower Co., Detroit.

This exhibit included the Detroit return trap for handling the condensation in steam pipes, and a number of other devices for use in greenhouse heating. Among them were Nelson valves, six kinds of flue cleaners, Atwood & Morrill pressure regulators, an automatic water feeder for low pressure boilers and a ball-bearing revolving ventilator. In charge of the Rollins Steam Specialty & Valve Co., Chicago.

S. A. Anderson, Buffalo.

This exhibit consisted of begonias in three varieties, Betty Anderson, Lorraine and Glory of Cincinnati; also a few plants of cyclamen. Mr. Anderson personally in charge.

Aphine Mfg. Co., Madison, N. J.

The four specialties of the concern are Aphine, Fungine, Scaline and Squito-rid, each of which was exhibited. M. C. Ebel in charge.

A. A. Arnold, Chicago.

This consisted of a general line of white glaze, and colored glaze cut flower boxes. A novelty was a hat box for flowers, shown in five different colors. In charge of S. Freund and Joseph Marks.

Chas. D. Ball, Holmesburg, Pa.

This exhibit consisted of kentias, both varieties, both single and made-up plants; arecas, Phœnix Roebelenii, Pandanus Veitchii, P. utilis and 3-inch cocos. The samples included all the varieties on which Mr. Ball specializes and of which he has so thorough mastery. The exhibit was in charge of C. D. Ball and C. D. Ball, Jr.

Lemuel Ball, Philadelphia.

The two varieties of kentia were shown, both in single plants and made-up plants. Other items were Areca lutescens, Cocos Weddelliana, Dracæna Sanderiana, Phœnix Roebelenii, Ficus elastica, F. pandurata, Dracæna terminalis and crotons. James W. Wade in charge.

W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago.

This was the largest display this concern ever has made at a convention. The bulb table carried 174 azalea pots, each filled with a different variety of hyacinth, tulip, crocus, jonquil, daffodil or narcissus, in addition to which there were Formosa, cold storage giganteum and Harrisii bulbs, freesias and callas. Another table carried a large display of flower seeds, seeds of perennial plants, grasses, insecticides, glazing materials, garden tools, moss, bouquet green, hose, stakes, plant tubs and many other items. The exhibit was in charge of Arnold Ringier, assisted by eight travelers.

Bassett & Washburn, Chicago.

A table of cut flowers, the striking feature of which was Golden Glow chrysanthemums. The roses shown included American Beauty, Rhea Reid, White Killarney, Sunburst, Killarney and Mrs. Ward.

L. Baumann & Co., Chicago.

This exhibit was especially strong in prepared ferns, including almost every color. A novelty was boxwood trees of Italian manufacture from natural perpetuated sprays. There was a large line of cloth poinsettias, chrysanthemums and American Beauty roses. The baskets included 125 styles, among which was a velvet finished white basket with metal liners and decorated with moss green garland and colored flowers. Natural prepared Italian beech and oak foliage was shown in garlands and wreaths. The cycas leaves were both regular and transparent. Artificial cape flowers were a novelty. There also was a large line of wax flowers and a general assortment of staple supplies. The exhibit was in charge of L. Baumann, G. Reising and L. Biedermann.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

The Bayersdorfer exhibit was not only the largest in the hall, but the largest ever made at an S. A. F. convention. It occupied 1,090 square feet, with a height of ten feet on the wall, running across the entire width of the Coliseum. The exhibit was decorated with prepared oak sprays. Metal wreaths were shown in 200 styles and there were fifty styles of imported prepared foliage wreaths, as well as many styles of American oak wreaths. A Paris wreath of statice and amobians was shown in six colors. There were hundreds of styles of baskets, including two new colors, one a new Nile green, and one a brown discovered by Mr. Bayersdorfer in Paris. Six styles of lamps were shown. Imperial china included many new styles. Natural prepared thistle was said to be a big seller. Fern fronds in red were shown with a new velour finish. The dove exhibit was a chariot of peace. Gun metal toneware was a distinct novelty. Decorated ivy vases and baskets were shown for the first time, as was cycas prepared in red, lavender and yellow; green has been shown for ten years. Many styles of dwarf figures were shown for window decoration. The exhibit was in charge of S. H. Bayersdorfer, M. Reukauf, S. D. Greene, I. M. Bayersdorfer, John Walsh and William Koehler.

Arthur T. Boddington, New York.

This exhibit included Formosa lily bulbs, Harrisii, freesias, narcissi, speciosum album and cold storage giganteums. Two handsome vases of Gladiolus Panama and Gladiolus Niagara were shown. Harry A. Bunyard in charge.

Boston Letter Co., Boston.

A display of the Boston block letter and script words for floral designs; also the Binley flower holder for confining cut flowers in the boxes. In charge of Thomas Cogger.

Botanical Decorating Co., Chicago.

Prepared fireproof beech festooning was largely used in this exhibit. Natural prepared fern fronds were shown in many colors. Paper flowers for decorating automobiles, stores and halls were exhibited in great variety. Artificial vines for decorating were demonstrated, and there was a large display of wax roses. Artificial poinsettias occupied the center of the booth. J. I. Adler and L. Elkan were in charge.

The Brecht Co., St. Louis.

This new exhibitor staged the first artificially cooled refrigerator ever brought to a florists' convention. The refrigerator shown was intended to use either with ice or the machine and included the company's patented ventilated ice pan, devised to insure a strong circulation of dry, cold air. The refrigerating machine was of 2-ton capacity, capable of cooling several such boxes, a 1-ton machine being the smallest in the line. It was shown in operation, run by an electric motor. An opal glass counter with imported tile base was a part of the exhibit, all of which was in an ivory color, making one of the most attractive exhibits in the hall. The display was in charge of G. C. St. Clair, E. Vickers and William Knehans.

H. N. Bruns, Chicago.

This exhibit consisted entirely of valley, Chicago Market brand pips just out of cold storage, valley flowering in pots and fine cut valley. In charge of A. Billerbeck.

Burlington Willow Ware Co., Burlington, Ia.

This line is said to include 1,000 different styles of baskets. Those shown were principally in the popular greens and browns, with liners, and included only the newer shapes and styles for new uses. Vases, table baskets, favors and plant baskets principally were shown. In charge of Arthur Schwerin and F. G. Nelson.

P. L. Carbone, Boston.

This line consists entirely of European art novelties and the exhibit included Italian garden pottery, Italian olive wood baskets, new Majolica pots, German baskets, Roman pot covers, German china, Florentine terra cotta, Bohemian glassware and many other articles. In charge of Andre E. Viaud and J. P. McCarthy.

John Lewis Childs, Flowerfield, N. Y.

Aside from a vase of Chrysanthemum Glory of Seven Oaks, yellow, which is recommended as a bedder, this exhibit consisted of gladioli exclusively, 120 named varieties, chief among which were Panama, Niagara, Contrast, Alaska, Silver Sheen, Norma D. Childs, Wild Rose, Scribe, etc. The exhibit was in charge of I. S. Hendrickson and Stephen Parnell.

Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

A display of specimens illustrating the diseases of a large number of florists' crops. In charge of Prof. H. H. Whetzel.

Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y.

The exhibit included between 300 and 400 unnamed gladiolus seedlings of this grower's raising. Some sixty of the varieties catalogued were shown. Conspicuous among these, and occupying the apex of the exhibit, was Peace, white. Naturally the best red was War. The most conspicuous pink was Dawn. La Luna, white, attracted much attention. Assisting Mr. Cowee were Misses Alida and Bessie Chandler, nieces of the late Jerome B. Rice.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia.

Two long tables of plants, but of course the one devoted principally to crotons attracted the most attention, for the colors rivaled cut blooms. There were 128 plants on the croton table, including some sixty-five varieties and practically every commercial size, and on the other table there was a set of twelve new varieties not yet named. The display of decorative plants included fine specimens of Ficus pandurata and F. elastica, dracænas in half a

THE TRADE'S DISPLAY

THE Chicago convention has broken all records for the sale of space in the trade's display; the rate per foot was higher than has been charged before, but a greater number of square feet were sold, producing a considerably greater money income for the society, and more than offsetting the $2,500 rental paid for the use of the Coliseum. Practically every available foot was sold, and the demand for space was so strong that aisles were encroached upon to a point where congestion was approached. In order to lend a flower show effect to the affair and attract the general public, those in charge used the center of the hall for large exhibition beds and groups. The West Park system, Lincoln park and the South Park system each loaned a large decorative group of palms and other plants, which were arranged to best effect. Between these groups of foliage plants were two large sod-bordered beds of flowering plants with pots submerged in tanbark, one a bed of scarlet geraniums and the other a bed of scarlet cannas.

The cut flower feature was the strongest ever seen in the trade's display; gladioli were shown almost by the hundreds of thousands. Half a dozen of the largest growers in the country came forward with exhibits running into the hundreds of varieties and many other seedsman exhibitors included gladioli in their displays. In addition, the American Gladiolus Society had a list of competitive classes, so that color was not lacking. The quality was excellent, all the stock, even from the Atlantic seaboard, having traveled well.

The supply houses came foward even more strongly than heretofore, the ribbons making an especially attractive feature. Also, baskets and miscellaneous florists' supplies were shown in greater variety and generally better quality than ever before. There was little, if anything, new in the line of plants, but every exhibitor had well finished stock.

The original plan had been to put the building material and similar exhibits in the annex, but this was found to have too low a ceiling and these exhibits were moved to the main hall, leaving the annex vacant. A mistake was made in crowding the greenhouse material men all into one corner; they were without sufficient aisle space and a much better effect would have been produced had they been strung along one side of the building. A notable feature of these exhibits was the increasing use of iron. Practically every exhibit included iron frame houses, and there was one in which no wood at all was used.

A full alphabetical list of the exhibitors, with brief notes of their exhibits, follows:

The Advance Co., Richmond, Ind.

The exhibit consisted of the Advance ventilating apparatus, the Big Advance machine and a line of greenhouse fittings. In charge of J. E. Jones, R. E. Jones, H. R. Packer and H. A. Huck.

American Auxiliary Heating Co., Boston.

A Castle automatic circulator in operation, its use being to accelerate sluggish circulation in greenhouse hot water systems. Also a new model of the same, known as the Baby machine, a size suitable for the smallest systems. In charge of J. L. Congdon.

American Blower Co., Detroit.

This exhibit included the Detroit return trap for handling the condensation in steam pipes, and a number of other devices for use in greenhouse heating. Among them were Nelson valves, six kinds of flue cleaners, Atwood & Morrill pressure regulators, an automatic water feeder for low pressure boilers and a ball-bearing revolving ventilator. In charge of the Rollins Steam Specialty & Valve Co., Chicago.

S. A. Anderson, Buffalo.

This exhibit consisted of begonias in three varieties, Betty Anderson, Lorraine and Glory of Cincinnati; also a few plants of cyclamen. Mr. Anderson personally in charge.

Aphine Mfg. Co., Madison, N. J.

The four specialties of the concern are Aphine, Fungine, Sealine and Squito rid, each of which was exhibited. M. C. Ebel in charge.

A. A. Arnold, Chicago.

This consisted of a general line of white glaze, and colored glaze cut flower boxes. A novelty was a hat box for flowers, shown in five different colors. In charge of S. Freund and Joseph Marks.

Chas. D. Ball, Holmesburg, Pa.

This exhibit consisted of kentias, both varieties, both single and made-up plants; arecas, Phoenix Roebelenii, Pandanus Veitchii, P. utilis and 3-inch cocos. The samples included all the varieties on which Mr. Ball specializes and of which he has so thorough mastery. The exhibit was in charge of C. D. Ball and C. D. Ball, Jr.

Lemuel Ball, Philadelphia.

The two varieties of kentia were shown, both in single plants and made-up plants. Other items were Areca lutescens, Cocos Weddelliana, Dracaena Sanderiana, Phoenix Roebelenii, Ficus elastica, F. pandurata, Dracaena terminalis and crotons. James W. Wade in charge.

W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago.

This was the largest display this concern ever has made at a convention. The bulb table carried 174 azalea pots, each filled with a different variety of hyacinth, tulip, crocus, jonquil, daffodil or narcissus, in addition to which there were Formosa, cold storage giganteum and Harrisii bulbs, freesias and callas. Another table carried a large display of flower seeds, seeds of perennial plants, grasses, insecticides, glazing materials, garden tools, moss, bouquet green, hose, stakes, plant tubs and many other items. The exhibit was in charge of Arnold Ringier, assisted by eight travelers.

Bassett & Washburn, Chicago.

A table of cut flowers, the striking feature of which was Golden Glow chrysanthemums. The roses shown included American Beauty, Rhea Reid, White Killarney, Sunburst, Killarney and Mrs. Ward.

L. Baumann & Co., Chicago.

This exhibit was especially strong in prepared ferns, including almost every color. A novelty was boxwood trees of Italian manufacture from natural perpetuated sprays. There was a large line of cloth poinsettias, chrysanthemums and American Beauty roses. The baskets included 125 styles, among which was a velvet finished white basket with metal liners and decorated with moss green garland and colored flowers. Natural prepared Italian beech and oak foliage was shown in garlands and wreaths. The cycas leaves were both regular and transparent. Artificial cape flowers were a novelty. There also was a large line of wax flowers and a general assortment of staple supplies. The exhibit was in charge of L. Baumann, G. Reising and L. Biedermann.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

The Bayersdorfer exhibit was not only the largest in the hall, but the largest ever made at an S. A. F. convention. It occupied 1,090 square feet, with a height of ten feet on the wall, running across the entire width of the Coliseum. The exhibit was decorated with prepared oak sprays. Metal wreaths were shown in 200 styles and there were fifty styles of imported prepared foliage wreaths, as well as many styles of American oak wreaths. A Paris wreath of statice and amobians was shown in six colors. There were hundreds of styles of baskets, including two new colors, one a new Nile green, and one a brown discovered by Mr. Bayersdorfer in Paris. Six styles of lamps were shown. Imperial china included many new styles. Natural prepared thistle was said to be a big seller. Fern fronds in red were shown with a new velour finish. The dove exhibit was a chariot of peace. Gun metal toneware was a distinct novelty. Decorated ivy vases and baskets were shown for the first time, as was cycas prepared in red, lavender and yellow; green has been shown for ten years. Many styles of dwarf figures were shown for window decoration. The exhibit was in charge of S. H. Bayersdorfer, M. Reukauf, S. D. Greene, I. M. Bayersdorfer, John Walsh and William Koehler.

Arthur T. Boddington, New York.

This exhibit included Formosa lily bulbs, Harrisii, freesias, narcissi, speciosum album and cold storage giganteums. Two handsome vases of Gladiolus Panama and Gladiolus Niagara were shown. Harry A. Bunyard in charge.

Boston Letter Co., Boston.

A display of the Boston block letter and script words for floral designs; also the Binley flower holder for confining cut flowers in the boxes. In charge of Thomas Cogger.

Botanical Decorating Co., Chicago.

Prepared fireproof beech festooning was largely used in this exhibit. Natural prepared fern fronds were shown in many colors. Paper flowers for decorating automobiles, stores and halls were exhibited in great variety. Artificial vines for decorating were demonstrated, and there was a large display of wax roses. Artificial poinsettias occupied the center of the booth. J. I. Adler and L. Elkan were in charge.

The Brecht Co., St. Louis.

This new exhibitor staged the first artificially cooled refrigerator ever brought to a florists' convention. The refrigerator shown was intended to use either with ice or the machine and included the company's patented ventilated ice pan, devised to insure a strong circulation of dry, cold air. The refrigerating machine was of 2-ton capacity, capable of cooling several such boxes, a 1-ton machine being the smallest in the line. It was shown in operation, run by an electric motor. An opal glass counter with imported tile base was a part of the exhibit, all of which was in an ivory color, making one of the most attractive exhibits in the hall. The display was in charge of G. C. St. Clair, E. Vickers and William Knehans.

H. N. Bruns, Chicago.

This exhibit consisted entirely of valley, Chicago Market brand pips just out of cold storage, valley flowering in pots and fine cut valley. In charge of A. Billerbeck.

Burlington Willow Ware Co., Burlington, Ia.

This line is said to include 1,000 different styles of baskets. Those shown were principally in the popular greens and browns, with liners, and included only the newer shapes and styles for new uses. Vases, table baskets, favors and plant baskets principally were shown. In charge of Arthur Schwerin and F. G. Nelson.

P. L. Carbone, Boston.

This line consists entirely of European art novelties and the exhibit included Italian garden pottery, Italian olive wood baskets, new Majolica pots, German baskets, Roman pot covers, German china, Florentine terra cotta, Bohemian glassware and many other articles. In charge of Andre E. Viaud and J. P. McCarthy.

John Lewis Childs, Flowerfield, N. Y.

Aside from a vase of Chrysanthemum Glory of Seven Oaks, yellow, which is recommended as a bedder, this exhibit consisted of gladioli exclusively, 120 named varieties, chief among which were Panama, Niagara, Contrast, Alaska, Silver Sheen, Norma D. Childs, Wild Rose, Scribe, etc. The exhibit was in charge of I. S. Hendrickson and Stephen Parnell.

Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

A display of specimens illustrating the diseases of a large number of florists' crops. In charge of Prof. H. H. Whetzel.

Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y.

The exhibit included between 300 and 400 unnamed gladiolus seedlings of this grower's raising. Some sixty of the varieties catalogued were shown. Conspicuous among these, and occupying the apex of the exhibit, was Peace, white. Naturally the best red was War. The most conspicuous pink was Dawn. La Luna, white, attracted much attention. Assisting Mr. Cowee were Misses Alida and Bessie Chandler, nieces of the late Jerome B. Rice.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia.

Two long tables of plants, but of course the one devoted principally to crotons attracted the most attention, for the colors rivaled cut blooms. There were 128 plants on the croton table, including some sixty-five varieties and practically every commercial size, and on the other table there was a set of twelve new varieties not yet named. The display of decorative plants included fine specimens of Ficus pandurata and F. elastica, dracænas in half a dozen sorts, the popular palms in various sizes, including well finished specimens of Phœnix Roebelenii, the Boston fern, and several of the varieties derived from it, the variegated pineapple, pandanus, adiantum, hydrangeas, oranges, genistas, asparagus, Lorraine begonias, etc. The display was in charge of William P. Craig, Duncan Macaw and Cornelius Vanderbreggen, and Robert Craig also was present.

Cushman Gladiolus Co., Sylvania, O.

This exhibit consisted of a table of some twenty-five varieties of gladioli, at the ends of which were two stands each carrying an extremely handsome basket of the same flower. One of the baskets was exclusively Mrs. King, while the other contained about equal numbers of Klondyke and Golden Queen. But the feature of the exhibit was Fairie, a Kunderd variety the stock of which has passed to Cushman, pink with cream throat. E. H. Cushman and his sons, Ralph and Robert, were in charge.

Detroit Flower Pot Co., Detroit.

This was the usual line of red pots in standard sizes, azalea pots and bulb pans. Harry Balsley in charge.

A. Dietsch Co., Chicago.

This firm erected a pergola in which to show a line of general materials for the construction of wood greenhouses. The patent clip for attaching bars to angle eave plates was demonstrated. A feature was made of the V and U gutters as employed in the company's short-roofed construction. All kinds of greenhouse brackets and greenhouse hardware were shown. Alfred Dietsch in charge.

Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia.

The Dreer exhibit included Adiantum Glory of Mordrecht, otherwise the Glory fern, said to be the first time this variety has been exhibited in America, although a stock of 30,000 plants is at Riverton. It is a European novelty which on the other side is expected to revolutionize adiantum growing. The usual line of kentias and arecas in decorative sizes, as well as sizes for growing on, was shown. Cocos Weddeliana was exhibited in all sizes, and there was a well finishd group of Phœnix Roebelenii. Araucarias were shown in many sizes and several varieties. Dracænas were there in a number of varieties, and there was the usual line of cibotiums, ferns for dishes, crotons, marantas and many other commercial varieties. No bulbs were shown this year, but the Riverton plant tub and the Peerless glazing point were included. The exhibit was in charge of J. J. Karins, J. J. Goudy and J. A. Rupert, but J. Otto Thilow also was present.

H. G. Dreyer & Son, Cleveland.

The Perfection line of plant stands and attachments. The 3-legged stands are made with a substantial pan of bar steel, in many heights and with attachments for suspending plants at an angle. In charge of H. G. Dreyer.

Charles Eble, New Orleans.

The principal feature of this exhibit was Phœnix Roebelenii in several sizes. Other varieties exhibited were Cocos flexuosa, C. Australis, Rhapis flabelliformis and Washingtonia Sonoræ. Mr. Eble personally in charge.

Elverson Pottery Co., New Brighton, Pa.

The display consisted of the regular line of red pots in all sizes. In charge of W. H. Elverson and T. W. MacConnell.

John A. Evans, Richmond, Ind.

The Quaker City Machine Works showed the Evans Challenge ventilator as applied to top and side ventilation, also a large line of pipe fittings and other greenhouse hardware, all brightly gilded. Mr. Evans was personally in charge.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston.

This was a table of bulbs of selected sizes, including scillas, tulips, hyacinths, narcissi and crocus. Frank Murray was in charge, though J. K. M. L. Farquhar was present.

Foley Mfg. Co., Chicago.

The principal feature of the exhibit was a full iron frame house sixty feet wide, twenty-three feet to the ridge and eight feet to the eaves, with I-beam post supports for gutter and eave plate, four column supports and tie brace of angle iron. Beneath this was a similar house thirty-four feet wide, eighteen feet to the ridge and eight feet to the eaves, built without column supports. Both houses included the channel iron gutter and galvanized iron eave plate, with malleable iron bar clips. Beneath these houses were two short-span houses fourteen feet nine inches high and seven feet to the eaves, erected with V-shaped wood gutter. Within the houses were shown pipe frame and iron frame benches of pecky cypress. The ventilators were operated by the Foley Triumph ventilating apparatus. The constructions showed the new Foley method of lock-splicing long bars. The line of clamp pipe fittings and pipe hooks was shown, also hotbed sash and frames. In charge of I. Cassidy, Chicago; D. T. Connor, Philadelphia; John A. Payne, New York.

Geo. M. Garland Co., Des Plaines, Ill.

This exhibit consisted of a section of a movable greenhouse, built on wheels and mounted on a railroad track, such as the celebrated Stahelin range near Detroit, but the distinctly newest feature was that no wood whatever was included in the structure; it was entirely of metal, of trussed pattern; even the sashbars were iron. The model included the curved eave construction, with a new hydraulic ventilator. Within the house were shown the Handy truck for greenhouse use; a non-slipping pipe carrier and wall bracket; a full line of bench fittings; a model of iron frame greenhouse embodying five styles of iron gutters and the ice-clearing eave plate construction. Cement bench legs were shown in process of making. The exhibit was in charge of H. S. Garland and B. J. Maynard.

B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, O.

The exhibit consisted of three brands of greenhouse hose in 50-foot lengths: Florists', White Anchor and Akron. The Akron brand also was shown on handsome display reels. In charge of J. H. Anderson, C. C. Hause, N. C. Cameron and F. W. Spafford, of the Chicago office.

Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa.

These mostly were plants in the decorative sizes, including kentias of both varieties, both single and made up, Cibotium Schiedei and phœnix; also cocos in the smaller sizes. Home grown plants. James W. Heacock was in charge.

B. Hammond, Fishkill, N. Y.

A recent addition to the line is Old Storm King White paint, also a new free acting tip for the putty bulb. Last year a new weed killer was put in. In addition to these the Mount Beacon Green shading, Greenhouse White paint, Old English putty, Slug Shot, Grape Dust, Bordeaux, and a copper solution were shown. In charge of C. H. Hudson, though Mr. Hammond was present.

A. Henderson & Co., Chicago.

This exhibit included several vases of gladioli and some colored plates showing bulbous flowers, but consisted principally of bulbs. Formosa lily bulbs were shown, not usually available at the date of the S. A. F. conventions. The French stock included candidums, Paper Whites and Romans. The Dutch line consisted of tulips, narcissi, daffodils and crocus. Callas and Chinese lilies were also shown. The exhibit was in charge of A. Henderson, G. Reburn and A. Miller.

A. T. Hey Floral Co., Maywood, Ill.

A new hardy daisy, also capable of being forced, which has been named Heyi. Mr. Hey personally in charge.

Hitchings & Co., New York.

A section of an iron frame greenhouse twenty feet wide was erected, with the curved eave on one side, showing the metal reinforcement in the curved bar from the first purlin to the cast iron sill, the other side showing the Z-bar eave as used on commercial houses. The side ventilators were shown operated by a compact sliding shaft machine capable of operating from 400 feet to 500 feet of ventilators with one gear, either side or ridge. An iron frame bench was shown with one fitting holding legs, cross bearer and side in place. The new No. 36 cast-iron sectional boiler showed flue ways increased to get greater draught, affording five per cent additional fuel economy. The grates were in independent halves. The exhibit was in charge of J. N. McArthur, of Elizabeth, N. J.

Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwaukee.

This firm's table of plants included cyclamens, rubbers, pandanus, araucarias, palms and primulas, vigorous stock in the usual commercial sizes. In charge of A. Hare.

Illinois Flower Box Co., Chicago.

The exhibit consisted of many sizes and styles of the Illinois self-watering window box, the designs for which recently have been further strengthened. In charge of C. A. Wooley.

Illinois State Florists' Association.

A table at which was distributed the literature regarding the work for florists at the Illinois State Experiment Station. In charge of C. L. Washburn, J. F. Ammann, I. L. Pillsbury, H. B. Smith, Fred Washburn and C. Loveridge.

Ionia Pottery Co., Ionia, Mich.

This exhibit had changed color since last year; the Ionia pot heretofore has been a white pot, but by a new method of burning the color has become red. A full line of sizes was shown. Lawn vases, porch pots and a large line of wire designs also were in the exhibit. In charge of H. E. Kidder, general manager, and George Dysinger.

Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y.

This exhibit consisted of hydrangeas in pots in three varieties, Otaksa, Avalanche and Souvenir de Claire; and twenty-five varieties of field-grown roses, including hybrid teas, hybrid perpetuals and ramblers. In charge of Charles Perkins and C. G. Perkins.

C. Keur & Son, Hillegom, Holland.

This firm of bulb growers, which has a New York office, showed Dutch bulbs in upwards of 100 varieties, including tulips, hyacinths, crocus, daffodils, narcissi, etc. The exhibit was in charge of Thomas Cogger, of Boston.

Klehm's Nursery, Arlington Heights, Illinois.

A dozen blooms of Queen Victoria peonies were staged, with a card stating that they were cut June 9 and had been in cold storage ever since.

Knight & Struck Co., New York.

This concern specializes in ericas and acacias. The exhibit included about a dozen varieties of each, the sorts commonly forced. A novelty was Chironia exifera, a hard-wooded plant, carrying pink flowers somewhat resembling Lorraine begonia. It is a summer bloomer. The exhibit was in charge of George F. Struck.

H. W. Koerner, Milwaukee.

Except for a striking vase of Gladiolus White Lady, the varieties in this exhibit all were seedlings raised by the exhibitor, and there were more than twenty-five of them. The Cyclone carnation support also was shown in a dozen sorts, the popular palms in various sizes, including well finished specimens of Phœnix Roebelenii, the Boston fern, and several of the varieties derived from it, the variegated pineapple, pandanus, adiantum, hydrangeas, oranges, genistas, asparagus, Lorraine begonias, etc. The display was in charge of William P. Craig, Duncan Macaw and Cornelius Vanderbreggen, and Robert Craig also was present.

Knight & Struck Co., New York.

This concern specializes in ericas and acacias. The exhibit included about a dozen varieties of each, the sorts commonly forced. A novelty was Chironia exifera, a hard-wooded plant, carrying pink flowers somewhat resembling Lorraine begonia. It is a summer bloomer. The exhibit was in charge of George F. Struck.

H. W. Koerner, Milwaukee.

Except for a striking vase of Gladiolus White Lady, the varieties in this exhibit all were seedlings raised by the exhibitor, and there were more than twenty-five of them. The Cyclone carnation support also was shown in a section of bench; it is two separate identical sections, right and left, and holds the plants merely by interlocking when the wires are crossed in inserting in the soil. Mr. Koerner personally in charge.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago.

This exhibit consisted of two large steel hot water boilers yoked to give a demonstration of the cross connection of batteries of two or more boilers. One of the boilers was a No. 14, weighing 12,000 pounds, with a capacity of 48,000 feet of glass at carnation temperature, zero weather. The other was a No. 15, weighing 15,000 pounds, with a capacity of 65,000 feet under similar conditions. The first was sold to A. H. Schneider, Oak Park, Ill., and the second to U. J. Swingle, Valley Crossing, Ohio. The boilers were mounted on concrete foundations. The exhibit included the Kroeschell generator, the Kroeschell threaded tube piping system, the Kroeschell round top shaking and dumping grates, the Ideal chain wrench and numerous heating plans and photographs. Fred Lautenschlager was in charge.

Oscar Leistner, Chicago.

This exhibit consisted exclusively of natural prepared oak in branches and small trees, fire-proofed and in several colors. Oscar Leistner personally in charge.

A. E. Kunderd, Goshen, Ind.

This exhibit consisted of some fifty varieties of gladioli, about thirty of which were ruffled edged varieties of the exhibitor's own raising. A feature of the display was Thomann's Rochester White, which attracts much attention wherever shown. Mr. Kunderd personally in charge.

Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J.

Five cases of freshly imported cattleyas were shown, three of Schrœderæ, one of Trianæ and one of Mossiæ, also a large table of established plants, many of them in bloom. J. E. Lager in charge.

Jac Lederer, Chicago.

The exhibit consisted of a Peerless refrigerator with electric illumination back of the stained glass decorations. A. M. Lederer in charge.

Lemon Oil Co., Baltimore.

This concern manufactures the Standard insecticide, a reddish liquid in bottles and cans, not an easy thing to stage effectively, but attractively arranged by J. L. Towner, in charge.

George B. Limbert & Co., Chicago.

A rack of Reading full weight, genuine wrought iron pipe in sizes from ¾-inch to 6-inch; the G. M. Davis pressure regulating valve, gate valves, pipe fittings, etc. In charge of R. Cadman.

Lion & Co., New York.

This booth was decorated by Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. Three special novelties were shown: Colonial corsage cups, little, silky, green, rubber stem-holders to contain water; lace edged chiffons, said to be the first time that real lace and chiffon have been combined; art flower ribbon, in two widths and fifteen combinations of changeable colors. Another new thing was the Levant leather corsage shield. The general line included a great variety of ribbons, chiffons, corsage shields and ties and bouquet handkerchiefs, new patterns and styles. The exhibit was in charge of Oscar Lion, Milton Alexander and Morris Le Vina.

Lord Box Co., Minneapolis.

The corrugated fiber board frostproof plant box of this exhibitor has been seen at a number of conventions, but a new article was a wooden folding box for cut flowers. In charge of Lewis P. Lord.

Lord & Burnham Co., New York.

This exhibit was encompassed within a section of an iron frame commercial greenhouse, sixty-four feet six inches wide, twenty-three feet to the ridge and seven feet to the eaves, set on a concrete wall with wrought iron posts. Within this were two other houses. One of these was a section of an iron frame house eighteen feet wide, showing the curved eave construction on one side and the gutter construction on the other. The other house was a section of a standard pipe frame greenhouse, twenty-eight feet wide, with an iron gutter on one side and a galvanized eave plate on the other. Within this house were shown one round and two square Burnham sectional boilers and a large display of pipe carriers. The exhibit was in charge of George Sykes, of the Chicago office, but L. W. C. Tuthill, the advertising manager, and W. R. Cobb, general sales manager, both from New York, were present.

McFarland Organizations, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

A table of horticultural printed matter, principally catalogues and mailing cards. In charge of O. P. Beckley.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.

The feature was Polypodium Mandaianum, first shown at the National Flower Show in Chicago and to be disseminated in August, 1913. Dracæna Rothiana also attracted attention and fine alsophilas were included. There were some handsome orchid plants in bloom and a large sample line of the ordinary commercial decorative plants and numerous evergreens in tubs. Robert Karlstrom was in charge.

Mead & Suydam, East Orange, N. J.

This exhibit consisted of a section of the Wilson-Hoyt concrete bench, showing the metal molds employed in its construction. In charge of F. J. Mead.

Means & Thatcher, Boston.

This exhibit consisted of the Winner brand of paints and putty manufactured for greenhouse work. E. E. Dunlop in charge.

H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia.

This exhibit consisted principally of bulbs, including Paper Whites, Romans, Trumpet Majors, candidums, tulips, hyacinths, crocus, Harrisii and freesias. The Paragon sprayer was shown, sphagnum moss and bamboo canes. The new geranium, Helen Michell, occupied a conspicuous place; clear scarlet, semidwarf, floriferous, the large trusses carried evenly well above the foliage, shown for the first time. Vases of a number of the newer gladioli were staged. In charge of F. J. Michell, Jr., I. Resnosky, Maurice Fuld and George Hampton.

John C. Moninger Co., Chicago.

This exhibit was covered by glazed sections of two greenhouses, each thirty feet wide. One section showed the steel trussed construction, with a wood gutter on one side and a cast iron gutter on the other. The second section showed the steel flat rafter construction, with steel gutters, as adopted by Bassett & Washburn for the new plant at Greggs Station, Ill., five houses, 34x600, which it is understood will shortly be increased to twenty houses of the same size. In both models, sashbars 1⅛x1¾ are used. The exhibits inside the houses included a Moninger sectional boiler of the largest size, attached to piping underneath a pecky cypress bench, and also a galvanized pipe frame bench. The vents were operated by the Chicago lifter and the Moninger lifter. The watering system included gasoline pumps, pneumatic tanks and all appurtenances. The exhibit was in charge of E. F. Kurowski, P. L. McKee, N. J. Rupp and W. Louber.

Morehead Mfg. Co., Detroit.

Two styles of the well-known Morehead return trap; Wright's water column; the Curtis reducing valve. In charge of McMasters, Carr Supply Co., Chicago.

Natural Guano Co., Aurora, Ill.

This exhibit consisted of glass jars of Sheepshead brand pulverized sheep manure. In charge of V. E. Gramley.

Frank Oechslin, Chicago.

Palms, araucarias and ferns were shown in the ordinary sizes for retailing, also well finished Phœnix Roebelenii and pandanus. Cyclamens, peppers, poinsettias and primulas were shown in sizes for growing on. R. W. Schmidt was in charge.

Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia.

This exhibit consisted of the company's better qualities of ribbons, chiffons and nettings, with special attention given to colors to match the newer roses; a specialty is made of the flower colors, the latest being Mrs. Ward. A new Faille ribbon in chameleon shadings was shown in twenty-eight color combinations, including those of the new roses. A new 8-inch silk netting with satin striped edges was shown in fourteen colors. The line included an immense variety of corsage pins and ties, for a constantly increasing demand is found for corsage accessories. The exhibit was in charge of E. J. Fancourt and J. E. Morichard.

J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati.

Here the golden variegation of Dracæna Victoria contrasting with Pandanus Veitchii made a striking group. Phœnix Roebelenii was well finished. The ferns were of the Harrisii type.

Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia.

This exhibit consisted of the company's better qualities of ribbons, chiefly fons and nettings, with special attention given to colors to match the newer roses; a specialty is made of the flower colors, the latest being Mrs. Ward. A new Faille ribbon in chameleon shadings was shown in twenty-eight color combinations, including those of the new roses. A new 8-inch silk netting with satin striped edges was shown in fourteen colors. The line included an immense variety of corsage pins and ties, for a constantly increasing demand is found for corsage accessories. The exhibit was in charge of E. J. Fancourt and J. E. Moriehard.

J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati.

Here the golden variegation of Dracæna Victoria contrasting with Pandanus Veitchii made a striking group. Phœnix Roebelenii was well finished. The ferns were of the Harrisii type.

Begonia Glory of Cincinnati was the only variety shown. Farleyense was in large specimens. J. A. Peterson and Clarence Peterson were in charge.

F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y.

This exhibitor used twice as much space as ever before, two tables being devoted to ferns and one to bulbs. The collection of ferns included various sizes of Boston, Elegantissima, Elegantissima compacta, Magnifica, Scottii, Viridissima, Giatrasii and Muscosa, the last Pierson novelty to be disseminated. Two undisseminated varieties were shown, a new dwarf type of Boston and the Improved Piersoni. The exhibit also included a few selected crotons, a plant in which the Pierson concern is going more heavily. The bulb table carried a full line of French and Dutch bulbs, Harrisii and freesias. The exhibit was in charge of J. R. Fotheringham and Theodore Trevellyn.

C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee.

The plant department showed all the staple varieties of palms, also Boston ferns, araucarias, aspidistras, asparagus and giganteum lilies in bloom from cold storage bulbs. French, Dutch and Bermuda bulbs occupied a table, with giganteum in storage since November. The supply department was said to show a sample of everything in the catalogue except sheep manure, not overlooked, but omitted for obvious reasons. In charge of W. A. Kennedy, Albert Hoge and Philip Weil, though C. C. Pollworth, Mrs. Pollworth and their son were present.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago.

The supply department showed prepared ruscus in five colors, statice in five colors and magnolia leaves in two colors; also Daylite cleaner. Mrs. Taft, Melody, Hillingdon and Ward roses were shown in baskets. The plant department showed palms, pandanus, Boston ferns and a large line of other decorative stock. The supplies were in charge of T. E. Water and Fred Wright, the plants in charge of C. A. Anderson.

Pulverized Manure Co., Chicago.

This exhibit consisted of sacks of Wizard brand florists' fertilizers. D. K. Harris in charge.

Quaker City Rubber Co., Chicago.

The Yankee and three other brands of special florists' hose and samples of thirty-five other brands of garden hose in the line were shown; also automobile tires, belting, packing and other mechanical rubber goods.

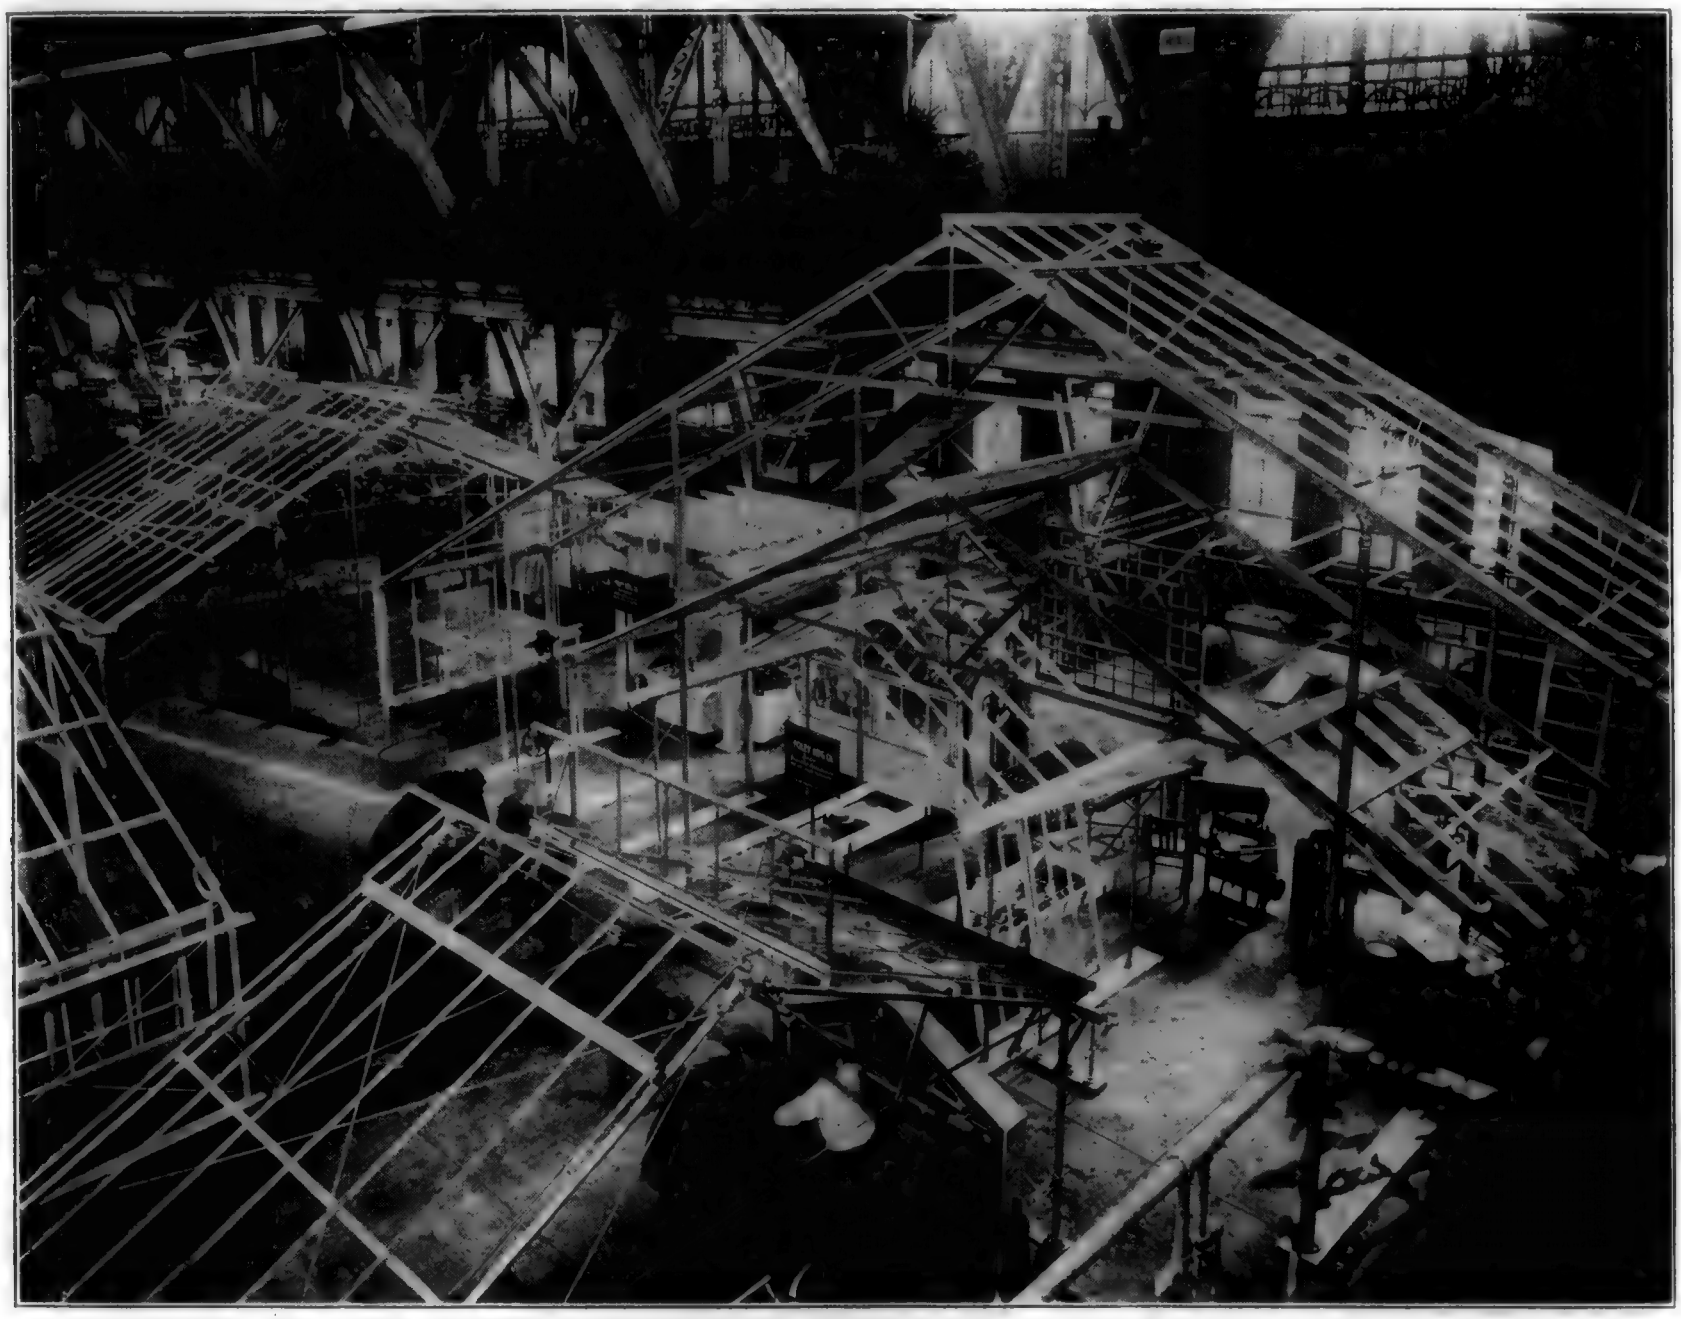
Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago.

A considerable number of baskets, mostly of the smaller sizes, were shown. A point was made of showing the same basket finished in many different ways. A new finish is called Italian, applied to all kinds of baskets. Another new finish is named Iridescent, in combination with mossy garlands and flower decorations. Some fifteen styles of willow baskets were shown with glass instead of metal liners, in all finishes. The exhibit was in charge of B. H. Gutterman, Curtis Kindler and Joseph Rogatz.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

A reception booth showing gladioli in tall vases linked with festooning of prepared foliage, with stenographic service for visitors. In charge of Frank Johnson, W. W. Randall, W. LeGanger and a staff of salesmen and stenographers.

Revere Rubber Co., Chicago.



The exhibit consisted of a pergola made of Revero hose and mounted on a base consisting of reels of the same material, handsomely decorated with wild smilax, ferns, palms, electric lights and banners. Several reels of Revero were in position for inspection. The exhibit was in charge of George P. Whitmore, of Chelsea, Mass., and C. S. Meredith, of Chicago.

M. Rice & Co., Philadelphia.

The Rice exhibit featured novelties, though the general basket display included over 100 different styles. Among the new baskets was a metalloid finish, producing an antique copper effect; also what is called a chameleon finish, combinations of red and green and green and white. Florentine art baskets are finished in old ivory with festoons of foliage and flowers in colors. A substitute for tinfoil was shown in rubberized ribbon with wire edge, and corsage shields of the same material were offered. Electroliers with rattan body and silk globes, wired and lamped complete, were shown. A velour ruscus was offered as a Christmas novelty. The natural prepared cycas first seen at Baltimore was featured. Imported natural prepared oak foliage in three colors was shown. A novelty was sprays of cape flowers for decorating. Red maidenhair was a specialty. Colored photographs of floral designs to the number of 150 were shown, to be made up in albums of any desired size. The usual line of staple articles was on display. The exhibit was in charge of A. Zirkman, F. J. Farney and Robert Shoch.

Richmond Cedar Works, Richmond, Va.

Five styles of tree and plant tubs were shown, all made of Virginia white cedar, the sizes running from 6-inch to 36-inch. In charge of J. S. Parrish, of the Chicago office.

Roseville Pottery Co., Zanesville, O.

The exhibit consisted of samples of the company's line of jardinieres, fern dishes, vases and pottery for plants. In charge of Charles Fraunfelder, R. G. Kimball and J. E. Flannigan.

A. A. Sawyer, Forest Park, Ill.

This exhibit consisted of an aster of Mr. Sawyer's development which he has named the Astermum, shown in pink, white and an especially good lavender. A. A. Sawyer and Miss Grace Sawyer in charge.

Schloss Bros., New York.

The leading novelty in this exhibit was chiffon, with ivy leaves in gold figures, shown in 6-inch and 10-inch widths. Bridal scarfs were shown with fringed edges. There was a gold ribbon, wire-edged. A violet ribbon had the flowers woven in the body by the Jacquard process. Gauze ribbons for corsages were shown with a variety of colored edges. Four new patterns in fancy ribbon with the designs woven in were shown. Chiffon lace corsage handkerchiefs were shown in many colors. There was a large line of lace bouquet holders. A choice novelty was a velvet corsage tie in several widths and colors. There was the usual large line of staple ribbons, chiffons and corsage accessories. In charge of Emil Schloss and Julius Dilloff.

Wm. Scott Co., Buffalo.

This was a table of nicely shaped Lorraine begonias for Christmas flowering. In charge of David Scott.

Sefton Mfg. Co., Chicago.

The exhibit consisted of a large line of glazed cut flower boxes and special violet boxes, also corrugated fiber board boxes. In charge of W. H. Fairchild and W. N. Sawyer.

Standard Pump & Engine Co., Cleveland.

The exhibit consisted of two electric pumps in operation, one a deep well pump and the other a pump for shallow cisterns or springs, each pumping into a pneumatic pressure tank. C. A. Schettler and G. E. Morgan in charge.

Skinner Irrigation Co., Troy, O.

The exhibit showed the nozzles and appurtenances used in the irrigation system of this concern, illustrating the methods employed in putting the lines together. In charge of J. S. Bell.

E. E. Stewart, Rives Junction, Mich.

This exhibit included some seventy-five varieties of gladiolus, about fifty of the newer standard varieties and twenty-five seedlings of the exhibitor's own raising. Of recent introduction were Ruth, pink, and Lucille, pale pink with lemon throat, named after the originator's daughters. No. 103 appears to be an especially good dark salmon pink; Michigan is of the same but a still deeper color. Sulphur Queen is the palest of the yellows. Mr. Stewart personally in charge.

Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O.

Field-grown roses were shown in many varieties, also dracænas, araucarias, pandanus, cocos and dish ferns. In charge of S. R. Welch.

Superior Machine & Boiler Works, Chicago.

A Superior standard fire-box steel boiler was shown, rated for 22,500 feet of glass, or 7,500 square feet of radiation. The boiler contains fifty-two 4-inch flues, twenty-four of which are six feet long, and twenty-eight ten feet, giving a long fire travel and so close spaced that the waterways are narrow and the boiler quick heating. W. H. Pontius was in charge.

Swift Fuel Co., Chicago.

A Swift stoker, of the pattern used by Poehlmann Bros. Co. on some of its boilers, whereby the fuel is fed from a hopper instead of through the fire door by hand.

B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass.

This was a stand of cut blooms of the leading gladioli, Dawn, pink, being the variety featured. In charge of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy.

George E. Travis Co., Henry, Ill.

The exhibit consisted of a rocker grate to fit a fire-box 4½x5 feet, operated in two equal independent sections and with ½-inch air space. Chas. D. Marshall and G. E. Moore in charge.

United Fertilizer Co., Chicago.

The specialty of this exhibitor is Evergreen brand fertilizer, sometimes referred to as the American Clay's, and it was shown in all the ways in which it is put up. All kinds of chemical fertilizers also are handled and these articles were shown in many forms in glass jars. There was a full line of German potashes, also nitrogens, ammoniates and phosphates in their original forms. D. D. Johnson was in charge.

Universal Portland Cement Co., Chicago.

A full sized sectional bench of concrete was shown, the style built by Poehlmann Bros. Co.; also a model of two greenhouses showing concrete walls and monolithic benches; also photographs and motion pictures. In charge of S. A. Jamieson.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago.

One table carried a display of insecticides, paper pots, Formosa lily bulbs and a general line of Dutch and French bulbs. Another table was used for a display of fifteen varieties of gladioli and some thirty varieties of phlox. Still another space was used for a general line of decorative plants, including palms, ferns, dracænas, asparagus, crotons, araucarias, pandanus and some cannas in pots. George H. Mohn and Albert Erickson in charge.

Wertheimer Bros., New York.

A general line of ribbons and chiffons, including the Sprinkleproof lines, was shown, but an especially large number of new things were included this year. Of those brought to the attention of the judges, the following may be mentioned: Lace chiffon ribbon in ten colors, lace bridal tulle, Silverine shower ribbon, Lustra ribbon, gold lace chiffon ribbon, embroidered funeral design ribbon, novelty bordered chiffon ribbon, new corsage ribbons, cretonne chiffon ribbon, fancy corsage ties, novelty corsage pins, novelty holly berry Christmas ribbons and Jacquard chiffon ribbon. The corsage ties were especially well displayed, creating the effect of infinite variety. In charge of Sydney B. Wertheimer, Sam Seligman, George Cohen and S. Rosenfield.

Williams Florists' Supply House, Utica.

This exhibit consisted of a section of greenhouse bench equipped with the E-Z carnation support and chrysanthemum tie. Quickly adjusted wire loops are attached to wires running the length of the bench; adjustable as the growth develops, leaving clear space between the rows. In charge of J. J. Williams.

Geo. Wittbold Co., Chicago.

A well arranged group of palms in the larger sizes, globular boxwoods, cibotiums, pandanus, Phœnix Roebelenii, Cycas revoluta, araucarias, Ficus pandurata and the Boston type of ferns in variety. J. A. Wolff in charge.

O. F. Zurn Co., Philadelphia.

This was a booth to advertise Shaderine, a preparation for shading greenhouses; literature, samples of the powder, and panes of glass with one and two coats. In charge of William K. Harris Henszey.

THE ALLIED SOCIETIES

Retailers' Section.

The Telegraph Delivery Association held a meeting at the Coliseum, Chicago, August 21, following the lecture of F. C. W. Brown. There was the largest attendance the association has yet had. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Irwin Bertermann, Indianapolis.

Vice-President—W. F. Gude, Washington.

Secretary—Albert Pochelon, Detroit.

Treasurer—W. L. Rock, Kansas City.

Directors—W. L. Rock, John Bertermann, E. Wienhoeber, Philip Breitmeyer, A. B. Cartledge, W. F. Gude.

J. A. Valentine, who occupied the chair, called attention to the fact that some florists, not being satisfied with the regular twenty per cent profit allowed on all transactions between members, are charging the public one price and naming a lower price when the order is transferred to a florist in another city. A resolution was adopted strongly denouncing this practice and pledging the organization and its members to do their utmost to stop it.

The advertising done in the last year in the name of the association was approved of and many stated that they make daily use of the list of members as published in the association's advertisement.

Considerable time was devoted to the discussion of overhead expenses, it being the general belief that a large number fail to estimate accurately the cost of doing business, with the result that prices are too low to afford any possibility of adequate profit.

A novel and valuable feature was a general introduction: each man present stood up and told his business connections.

Ladies' S. A. F.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Society of American Florists was held Wednesday morning, August 21, the president, Mrs. J. W. Boone, of Baltimore, in the chair and Mrs. Chas. H. Maynard in her place as secretary. The usual order of business was dispatched, the secretary's report showing 201 members, including thirty-four new members taken in during the year. The report of the treasurer showed between $500 and $600 in the treasury.

Officers elected at this meeting to serve for the ensuing year were the following:

President—Mrs. F. H. Traendly, New York.

First vice-president—Mrs. Chas. W. McKellar, Chicago.

Second vice-president—Mrs. George Asmus, Chicago.

Treasurer—Mrs. Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa.

Secretary—Mrs. Chas. Maynard, Allen, Mich.

An appropriation was voted, to be in effect annually hereafter, of $25, as a bowling prize for the ladies' bowling tournament.

Thursday evening, August 22, the ladies' society gave a reception and ball at the Auditorium hotel, following the custom of recent years. This has become one of the most popular features of convention week and is no doubt responsible for the large increase in the attendance of the ladies.

The Hail Association.

The Florists' Hail Association held an important meeting at Chicago August 22. The year has been one of large losses, these having aggregated $44,155.30, but the society still has a cash balance of $4,375.81 and the reserve fund contains $27,000. A committee consisting of J. A. Valentine, J. G. Esler and A. Rasmussen were instructed to present to the association at its next meeting a plan for the adjustment of rates to conform to the cost of insurance in the last ten years, and an adjustment of extra hazardous rates on the cost of such insurance. The society now insures an equivalent of 38,148,656 square feet of glass and since its organization has paid 1,832 losses, involving a total of $262,000. There now are 1,682 members. J. F. Ammann, Fred Burki, H. S. Will and A. Rasmussen were elected directors. The directors elected the following officers:

President—E. G. Hill, Richmond, Ind.

Vice-president—John T. Temple, Davenport, Ia.

Treasurer—Joseph Heacock, Wyncote, Pa.

Secretary—John G. Esler, Saddle River, N. J.

American Gladiolus Society.

The annual meeting of the American Gladiolus Society was held at the Coliseum, at Chicago, August 22. The reports of the officers showed the organization to be in first-class shape. In his address President Hendrickson made the following interesting comment:

"There are some important things that present themselves to me at this time, and I will mention them for your consideration. One of the most important is the matter of naming new varieties of gladioli. I have referred to this before, but I cannot refrain from calling attention to it again, as it has been my privilege and opportunity to watch the tests of nearly all varieties now offered, and it appears to me that some that have been named recently are not any better, or equal, to some that have been on the market for twenty years; in short, the standard seems to be lower instead of higher at the present time, and the number that are being put on the market is discouraging, therefore I would like to make an appeal to growers to go slow in this matter.

"I would make another appeal to catalogue men to require some standard to be lived up to before they will list a new variety. The certificate of merit from our society would be a good credential, if we are careful in awarding these certificates.

"Another evil that comes to our attention more and more is the practice of re-naming old varieties. This may very often be done in good faith by a grower, but it does not help the situation any, and it could be avoided if every grower would keep in touch with the nomenclature committee of our society."

There were reports from the committee on nomenclature, by Prof. Beal, and the committee of color chart, by Arthur Cowee, each committee being continued. Officers were elected as follows:

President—I. S. Hendrickson, Floral Park, N. Y.

Vice-president—M. Crawford, Cuyahoga Falls, O.

Corresponding secretary—L. Merton Gage, Groton, Mass.

Financial secretary—H. Youell, Syracuse, N. Y.

Treasurer—Carl Cropp, Chicago.

Executive committee—Arthur Cowee, E. E. Stewart, M. Fuld.

Nomenclature committee—Prof. A. C. Beal, Arthur Cowee, Leonard Joerg.

The competition for the prizes offered by the Gladiolus Society was surprisingly light in consideration of the extremely large showing of cut blooms made by the growers. Only a small part of the classes filled. The awards were:

Collection of ten varieties, six spikes each—E. E. Stewart, Rives Junction, Mich.

Twelve spikes, any white—Jacob Thomann & Sons, Rochester, N. Y., on Rochester White.

Twenty-five spikes, any named white—Jacob Thomann & Sons, on Rochester White.

Twenty-five spikes Kunderdi Glory—A. E. Kunderd, Goshen, Ind., silver cup.

Six spikes, white—Jacob Thomann & Sons, on Rochester White.

Six pink—John Lewis Childs, Floral Park, N. Y., on Panama.

Six yellow—John Lewis Childs, on Niagara.

Six red—Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y., on War.

Six blue—H. W. Koerner, Milwaukee, on Baron Hulot.

Twelve varieties not now on the market, three spikes each—Arthur Cowee.

Vase of America—Cushman Gladiolus Co., Sylvania, O.

Collections of Primulinus varieties—A. E. Kunderd.

Red seedlings—Arthur Cowee.

Most harmonious and beautiful color arrangements, not less than fifty spikes—Vaughan's Seed Store.

Collection of ten varieties never before exhibited—Arthur Cowee.

Twenty-five spikes, any white—Jacob Thomann & Sons, on Rochester White.

Collection of white varieties—Arthur Cowee.

Michell silver medal for best white gladiolus—Jacob Thomann & Sons, on Rochester White.

Michell bronze medal for best pink gladiolus—John Lewis Childs, on Panama.

In the amateur classes there were four exhibitors: William Robertson, Jenkintown, Pa.; Grace Reshore, Dowagiac, Mich.; T. H. Darlington and Albert A. Rosin.

American Carnation Society.

The American Carnation Society held a meeting at Chicago August 22, at which President Breitmeyer occupied the chair. Among those present were Secretary Baur, Theodore Dorner, H. B. Dorner, S. J. Goddard, J. A. Valentine, E. G. Hill, M. A. Patten, Fred Burki, Peter Fisher, E. A. Peirce and J. S. Wilson. Action was taken establishing in perpetuity the Dorner memorial medal, of gold, to be awarded annually. It will first be offered at the National Flower Show in New York. Most of the time was devoted to formulating the premium list for the New York exhibition.

American Rose Society.

The American Rose Society held a brief meeting at Chicago August 22. President A. Farenwald occupied the chair, and there were present Secretary Hammond and several members. Reports of recent business were made and the society's work in the National Flower Show put in shape for completion by the officers.

Chrysanthemum Society.

There was a meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society at Chicago August 22, C. H. Totty occupying the chair. C. W. Johnson is secretary. President Totty announced the committees to examine seedlings this season.

Sweet Pea Society.

The American Sweet Pea Society held a meeting at Chicago Thursday afternoon, August 22, President William Sim in the chair, Secretary Bunyard and a number of members present. The work related to the recent show at Boston and the society's participation in the National Flower Show at New York.

National Flower Show.

The National Flower Show committee held a meeting at Chicago August 22, C. H. Totty in the chair, Secretary Young, and all members present save one. The committee approved all that the sub-committees have thus far done and reports indicated everything promising a record breaking exhibition.

REPORT ON NATIONAL SHOW.

[The following is the report of Charles H. Totty, as chairman of the National Flower Show Committee, read before the Society of American Florists, in convention at Chicago, August 20 to 23, 1912.]

After the Boston show, which you will recall as having been highly successful from every point of view, it was felt by many of the progressive members of the S. A. F. that some kind of self-perpetuating, permanent committee should be appointed to continue the work of holding and managing flower shows in different cities at stated times, as it was recognized they would be a great incentive to business and would mark distinct milestones along the pathway of American horticulture.

The International Exposition Co., of New York, was just building a magnificent new exhibition hall and had been watching the flower show in Boston. They began to make inquiries with regard to holding a flower show in New York city and were willing to grant what looked like liberal terms for a city of the magnitude of New York.

Engaging the Exhibition Hall.

The New York Florists' Club thereupon issued an invitation to the Society of American Florists to hold a flower show in New York in the spring of 1913, which was accepted, and President Asmus appointed a flower show committee, as follows: W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park, Ill.; W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.; Thomas Roland, Boston, Mass.; W. P. Craig, Philadelphia, Pa., and J. A. Valentine, Denver, Colo., with myself as chairman of the same.

This action was ratified by the meeting of the board of directors in Detroit last February, under President Vincent, and the status of the flower show committee was properly defined. It was also empowered to enter into the contract with the Exposition Co., should the same be considered by them right and just.

After the meeting in Detroit, the members of the flower show committee came to New York, saw the exhibition hall and closed the contract with the Exposition Co.

Coöperation of Societies.

The matter of holding the show was presented to the American Rose and American Carnation Societies at Detroit, and both of these societies were asked to coöperate, the flower show committee giving them the power and privilege of making their own schedules and underwriting the schedules to the amount of $2,000 to the Rose Society and $1,000 to the Carnation Society. Negotiations have since been taken up with the Sweet Pea Society, to whom a fund of $350 was allowed, and the Gladiolus Society, who will receive $200. All of these societies, I have reason to believe, will enthusiastically support this show and will bring in a considerable quantity of special premiums on their own account.

In addition to these, the National Association of Gardeners and members of other local horticultural societies of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut have pledged their support, and the outlook for the Third International Flower Show is bright.

The preliminary schedule has been prepared and mailed to every member of this organization, and the final schedule will be ready just as soon as we receive the list of prizes from the different societies that are coöperating with us.

For the purpose of handling the mass of detail and necessary matters which ensue in a show of this character, I appointed the following gentlemen as a local committee: F. H. Traendly, Walter F. Sheridan, Wm. H. Duckham, Harry A. Bunyard and Jos. A. Manda. These gentlemen held meetings every week in the spring until everything was well organized and under way, and at the present time we feel that things are in good shape.

Cash Contributions.

I have devoted considerable time to trying to get the wealthier people of New York and vicinity interested in this show, both by exhibiting their best products and contributing something for special prizes, and am hoping to get in considerably more money from this source. Also quite a few of the commercial men have shown much interest and are offering special premiums. The total amount of cash promised is about $3,000, $1,500 of which is from private parties and the balance from the com-

TREASURER'S REPORT.

W. F. Kasting, treasurer of the Society of American Florists, presented, at the Chicago convention, a carefully itemized report of the financial transactions of the organization. The document covered two periods, from January 1, 1911, to January 1, 1912, and from January 1, 1912, to August 1, 1912. Each item of income and expenditure, for both the general fund and the permanent fund, was shown.

The balance sheet as of August 1, 1912, was as follows:

Jan. 1.	Balance in Permanent Fund	$11,937.86
	Receipts to August 1, Permanent Fund	1,112.57

Bond and mortgage at 5 per cent interest.

Pittsburgh and Buffalo savings banks at 4 per cent interest.

People's Bank on savings account, 4 per cent interest.

People's Bank on checking account, 3 per cent interest on quarterly balances.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

[The following is the report of John Young, secretary of the S. A. F., presented to the Chicago Convention, August 21, 1912.]

The books and other properties pertaining to the secretary's office were turned over by the outgoing secretary early in January. The books were all in good order and accompanied by an inventory covering the property of the society that is in the possession of the secretary.

Membership.

Since January 1, 1912, to August 15, 1912, there have been added to the list of members the names of 135 annual members and 31 life members.

Since January 1, 1912, the following have sent in names for membership: Dan MacRorie, 6 life, 35 annual; J. Barker, 8; F. H. Weber and F. H. Traendly, 5 each; F. Lautenschlager, 1 life, 4 annual; H. E. Philpott, 4; W. B. Patterson, Jr., 3; C. E. Critchell and A. R. Baumer, 2 each; R. Vincent, Jr., 1 life, 1 annual; C. P. Dudley, Florists' Telegraph Delivery, August Poehlmann, J. G. Esler, G. W. Bartholomew, C. A. Moss, W. F. Kasting, J. A. Evans, H. G. Berning, J. E. Matthewson, N. Zweifel, J. F. Amman, A. T. Pyfer, J. R. Bather, W. N. Rudd, J. F. Huss, A. L. Miller, Vaughan's Seed Store, I. Bertermann, 1 each.

Since the last convention the following members have died: E. A. Mosely, I. L. Powell, Fred Ehret, C. A. Juengel, J. Labo, J. Pettigrew, J. F. Wilcox, J. R. Freeman, W. H. Moon, Frank Piorkovski, Wm. Bester, Charles Knopf and W. R. Smith, ex-president and father of the charter of the society.

Following the recommendations of the board of directors, a circular letter was sent to each name in the florists' directory, setting forth the advantages of being a member of this society. With this letter was enclosed a copy of the official program of this meeting and an invitation from the Chicago Trades Committee to attend this convention; also an application blank, and gratifying results are being shown.

Trade Exhibition.

The trade exhibition held at the time of the convention is growing in importance each year. At Baltimore the receipts of the trade exhibition managed by Mark Richmond were $3,808.05 and the expenditures $1,550.31, the net proceeds turned into the permanent fund of the society being $2,258.19.

The present trade exhibition has surpassed anything of the kind ever attempted, and the net proceeds should almost double those of the Baltimore convention. It will be well for the members to pause and think of the varied interests and high quality of the exhibits in the main hall. The secretary finds that much of the printed matter and material purchased for use at this exhibition can be saved and used again next year. Without question, many economies can be practiced for the next convention.

Application for rates was made to all the passenger associations and refused. They will pay no attention to such requests unless an attendance of 1,000 is guaranteed.

Plant Registration.

The following plants have been registered since the last convention:

No. 472, Sept. 21, 1911—Begonia Feastii Bunchii, by Lloyd C. Bunch, Fredonia, Kan.
No. 473, Oct. 7, 1911—Rose Oriole, by Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y.

THE PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL ADDRESS

The full text of the Address of Richard Vincent, Jr., President of the Society of American Florists, at the Chicago Convention, August 20, 1912.

STRANGE as it may seem, for the reason that no florists' club has been more active than yours in the affairs of our national society, this is the first meeting of the S. A. F. in this great city of Chicago since the society's organization meeting in 1884 and its annual meeting in 1887. In all the years which have passed since then, no annual meetings have been held here. At the time of the great World's Fair, held here in 1893, it was thought inadvisable to hold the convention in Chicago. It was, therefore, held in your annex, the city of St. Louis, although, after that meeting, there was one week devoted to a horticultural conference in this city. Later, at the time of the Milwaukee convention, our members were lavishly entertained in Chicago on the closing day of the meeting. At various other times we have passed through your city en route to our annual meeting tryst, and at such times we have been well and heartily received.

There is no city in the United States to which we can come with greater hope of a successful meeting than this, for your inhabitants claim your city to be the center of commerce, of population and of civilization. Their claim is well put and we agree with them.

We feel that our stay in this city is going to be one of wonderful interest and that our sessions will be marked by progress of a notable character.

For the recommendations I am about to make, I invite your earnest consideration. Some of them may, and probably will, meet with opposition, but generally through opposition only is a principle best worked out. My desire is that when we leave Chicago it will be with the knowledge that something tangible has been done for the future welfare of the society of which we are all so proud to be members. Let us not indulge in dreams, but in action.

On behalf of all our members, I thank you for the hearty welcome received this day.

The S. A. F. Executive Board.

In the past history of the society, its executive board, after mature deliberation, has presented plans for the benefit of the society which have been ruthlessly torn to pieces in general meeting; in some instances the membership has been in the right, but in most cases the officers have been defeated in their efforts in the direction of betterment for the society through the fact that the members who influenced the results of the debate had not had opportunity to consider the subject from all its angles, and, therefore, from lack of this consideration were inimical to the proposed changes, and so sought to defeat them. It would be but a slight expense to the society to print and immediately place in the hands of each individual member the full text of the work of the executive board at its meetings. Members would then be in prior possession of the reasons why certain policies had been advocated and would come to a convention properly prepared and fully informed on the subject, ready to discuss and vote aye or nay, according to their convictions. I urge that in the matter of the executive board meetings more light be given each individual member.

The Office of the Secretary.

The secretary of the society should devote his entire time to its business, and his compensation should be such as would justify the employment of the best man obtainable. I affirm that the appointment of a secretary should be absolutely controlled by the board of directors of this society. There has been much discussion on this subject hitherto, but my contention is that no president and board of directors of a large business house, corporation or bank would care to run their institution if its acting secretary were under the control of the stockholders, and so not directly responsible to himself and the board. While I do not contend that the S. A. F. is a business proposition only and solely, it cannot be gainsaid that there is more of business practice in its workings than not. In other words, while our society is working both for the elevation of its members and the benefit of the people of the country at large, it is in great measure controlled by its business interests. The work to be accomplished by our society in the future will be due as much to its secretary as to its president or its board of directors, and the only men qualified to judge as to the value of the secretary to the society are those with whom he comes in direct contact, namely, its board of directors.

A secretary whose time is to be given entirely to the affairs of the society can well earn a living by traveling through the country talking up the S. A. F. and obtaining members if, together with the National Flower Show, we present other salient benefits to be derived therefrom—which we can well do—such as a year book to be issued by the society, a permanent home, a school of horticulture wherein your sons or any worthy young men can be educated; all these and other features will prove attractive in leading to an enlarged membership, the limit of which should be placed at not less than 3,000.

Annual Dues and Membership.

Although membership in this society is probably worth more today than when it was originated, I do not believe that either the membership fee or the life membership fee should be increased; not, at least, until we have more inducement to offer prospective members. The most important point I have to make is in regard to regulation of membership: I urge that this society pass a rule whereby new members proposed must have the endorsement of the vice-presidents of their respective states or of their florists' clubs, or of two members of the S. A. F. in good standing, before their application is granted by the society; this to be through its secretary or a membership committee.

Increase in Membership.

Much has been said with regard to increasing our membership, but actually little has been done toward that end. Several of our members have distinguished themselves by bringing in many new members, but, taken as a whole, the majority have made no great effort to influence others to join with us. One need not seek far to ascertain the reasons for this passive condition. With all that has been said and done in the matter, the fact remains that until quite recently our society held one big meeting once a year, and when that meeting adjourned the society was practically dead for the next eleven months and three weeks. The institution of the biennial National Flower Show has already worked considerable change in this apathetic condition, and a few further live moves in the right direction on the part of our society will materially alter the condition of indifference to the S. A. F. prevailing among the trade at large. When we make membership sufficiently attractive to the pocketbooks of our fellow florists, we shall obtain their adhesion, not spasmodically at each city visited, as has been the case in past years, but for keeps, just as a live trade paper holds its circulation.

Annual Convention Date.

The subject of holding our annual conventions at the same time as the spring flower show created a lively debate at our meeting in Baltimore last August, and those in favor of holding the convention in the month of August had the better of the argument. Inasmuch as it is absolutely impossible to do convention work while a great flower show is in progress, this fact being fully demonstrated at our last National Flower Show held in Boston, when it was found impractical to bring our members together for a business session, although they were present in great force all through the week, it would seem just as well that this society continue its August meetings as heretofore.

Affiliation of Societies.

It is useless to further attempt to disguise facts. The society in its early days committed its first tactical error in not assuming the paternity of the Florists' Hail Association, and it has gone on from year to year disregarding the requirements of its specialists in all lines until today we have strong societies which, in the value of their work and the influence they wield, are nearly at par with the work done by the so-called parent body, the S. A. F. More discussion has been offered on the matter of closer relationship than possibly on any other subject, at our various meetings for the last ten years or so; yet, with it all, not one step in advance has been made to clear the situation or bring about the desired ends until the present year. Prospects are now brighter and, if a good working committee can be gotten together during this convention, results may follow.

There is no doubt in my mind that the most active of our societies will continue each under its own autonomy. Societies such as the Carnation, the Rose, the Gladiolus, the Sweet Pea, even the Peony, will each continue on its way, fixing their several policies to suit the needs of the hour and enlarging their organizations and scope as the years go by. In great part the men who are prominent in these societies are the men who are prominent in the S. A. F., and it must be said of these men that they are just as loyal to the old S. A. F. as they are to the separate societies in which they take so active an interest. It is for the reasons aforesaid that every plan of affiliation which has heretofore been brought forward has been laid on the table. There must, however, be some common ground on which these societies can come together in order to form that strong, compact body of horticultural interests which could produce far more good for the business than is possible through the efforts of isolated groups and separate organizations. I ask the most thorough consideration of the plans which will be presented on this floor with that object in view, the result of a "get together" meeting held in this city.

With regard to the affiliation of the purely local horticultural societies throughout the country, we think the way should be made easy whereby these may become affiliated with our society. It is for this convention to decide as to whether it would be in opposition to an attempt to form an amateur section of the S. A. F.; our constitution and by-laws and our national charter make provision for the admission of all interested in horticulture. I ask the privilege of appointing a committee to formulate plans to that effect, said committee to report to this convention in 1913. The admission of local horticultural societies should place no additional burden on the funds of this society, while much mutual benefit would result. The society itself would become better known locally throughout the country, while the amateur societies represented could have the assistance and advice of the society's officers whenever they were required. The S. A. F. could also afford to contribute silver and bronze medals to the various shows conducted by the affiliated amateur societies, could provide a uniform constitution and by-laws, scale for point judging, and rules for show handling among those affiliated. A feature of the affiliation should be that officials or members of the S. A. F. be in official evidence at all exhibitions of the societies, an easy detail to provide for on account of our universal membership.

With regard to the florists' clubs throughout the country, the question of the affiliation of these is the next most important to that of the affiliation of the various larger societies mentioned. Can we not offer representation to these clubs on a basis that would be satisfactory to both contracting parties? The individual florist clubs form the backbone of the S. A. F. and deserve better recognition. The same committee appointed to take up the affiliation of the local horticultural societies could also consider this proposition.

How to Bring About Affiliation.

Some of the lines on which our societies might be brought together and affiliated with the S. A. F. are as follows:

Liberty to join or resign—in effect state sovereignty and home rule.

Affiliation along coöperative lines.

Reason for affiliation being that there is strength in unity.

Each society to be represented in the S. A. F. directorate.

S. A. F. to exercise the functions of our federal government.

In the publication of an annual, each affiliated society could pay its proportionate expense of publication, taking as well a certain proportion of the copies printed.

Attendance at Meetings.

We most certainly need a reform in this direction. It is scant courtesy to ask a gentleman to prepare a paper on some special feature of interest and then have him lecture to a beggarly array of benches. If the members will not remain in session to hear the essays, we should eliminate them from our programs, and confine ourselves entirely to the matters of business which are presented for our consideration. In fact, it has often occurred to me that while in former days, when there were no trade journals to rely upon, the presentation of essays was most advisable, in these days such papers are not so necessary as a part of our meetings, unless they be connected with some special feature of the business which calls for elucidation or discussion. Subjects selected should be confined to those which appeal to the entire membership, for a carnation grower does not care to listen to a paper on roses, a rose grower to one on general gardening principles, and so on. Papers on cultural topics can well be confined to the societies which represent one phase of our business.

The Convention Exhibition.

Here we can report satisfactory progress. The recent action of the executive committee, which has brought about the long advocated change to the effect that the receipts of the exhibition belong to the society, has met with unqualified success. The further supervision of the exhibitions by the society's secretary is another step in the right direction. The surplus receipts from this and other sources could well go toward the maintenance of our required headquarters. On account of the value of these exhibitions to the trade at large, it does seem advisable that our conventions should be held in cities of large population. The trade exhibition is of more interest to the average attendant than any other feature of our conventions, and its development should be encouraged by every means in our power.

Tariff and Legislative Committee.

The affiliation of all horticultural societies and florists' clubs would go far toward strengthening the hands of the gentlemen composing that committee, inasmuch as in numbers there is strength. The work this committee is called upon to handle is mainly of a nature which brings it into contention with great interests, such as the railroads, the express companies, the various national and state legislative bodies, as also the Interstate Commerce Commission. From this it will readily be seen that when this committee succeeds in winning a decision on a contested case or in obtaining a concession, it is doing great work, not alone for the society, but for the trade at large.

Work Between Conventions.

We should make a strong effort to check the deadness which so often characterizes this society between its annual meetings. A real, live society should have something doing all the time. It should not be like the annual circus which comes to town, pitches its tent, performs for a week and then fades away to remain unheard of and unnoticed for a year to come.

Affiliation of societies, committees working on live issues, the National Flower Show and a progressive secretary always on his mettle and on the move for betterment of the society, will help greatly to remove an apathetic condition which has too often been directed against us in reproach.

Horticulture Flourishing.

For years past our successive presidents have felt called upon to make remarks upon the improvement of floricultural conditions, and I find myself joining in this acclaim with my predecessors, for certainly the development of our product has kept pace with that of all other arts and sciences which tend toward the betterment of the condition of the people of our common country. Within the last ten years there has been a wonderful "back to the land" movement on the part of our wealthy men. Consequently great amounts of money have been spent in the embellishment of estates; this movement has been in no way confined to that class, for we find that the desire is becoming universal on the part of all who own their homes to make their grounds beautiful. Civic improvement is the order of the day everywhere. The demand for the best in horticulture is increasing accordingly. As this added knowledge of plant life is gained it becomes necessary that we keep progressing, furnishing not only better but more diversified stock, meeting present wants, yet encouraging the call for more expensive stock.

The Experiment Stations.

These are valuable educational factors in the working out of experiments in regard to insect pests, diseases of plants, and in solving matters which could not be handled by the general horticulturists. As a trade, we are in a position to obtain bulletins, state and federal, practically free of cost, and in fact any information on any reasonable subject when it is asked for of the proper authorities. In the proposed "Annual" could be incorporated a list of the experiment stations and the names of the officers to whom to refer for guidance on the various subjects of insect pests, diseases, etc. The society and its members should endeavor to aid the experiment stations in every way in their power, in order that their managements may be provided with sufficient funds that they may be in no way restricted in their researches for practical knowledge. Efforts should be made to interest the stations in horticultural studies as well as in studies purely agricultural, to which latter they mostly incline.

Permanent S. A. F. Headquarters.

The national charter granted our S. A. F., and signed by President McKinley, requires that we maintain permanent headquarters in the city of Washington. We have dodged action on this subject from year to year. It is time that we took it up, got down to business, and instituted our home in that city, even though its start be on a most humble scale. Let us begin by making a beginning. We want a home there for our society. With this we should institute a practical school of horticulture for our children and a permanent trial ground for our members. If this convention will take the necessary preliminary steps to establish such a home, this desirable institution can be brought about. What we will, we can do. The permanent headquarters should contain the offices of the secretary of the S. A. F.; our executive board meetings can be held there; it could be made the rallying point of horticulturists; and, in fact, the institution can be so handled as to create an added attraction to that Mecca of America—the city of Washington. Possessing such an institution, the society would take on additional vigor; it would add to its name and to its reputation, and would then be in a position to assert itself and its influence. There are many things this society should do, but none more important. If this matter is placed in the hands of an able committee at this present convention, I have no doubt that it will find ways and means to make an early start.

Publicity.

To still further advance the cause of horticulture, the subject of florists' publicity is expected to be brought before this meeting. We have many important subjects before us, none much more important than this. I simply allude to the subject in order that not one of you be absent when the matter is brought up for discussion. It is one which appeals to your pocketbooks in that it is desired to plan ways and means whereby a much greater interest in our business may be stimulated, to the end that a still greater volume of business may be transacted. It is proposed to do this through cooperation, and I sincerely trust that a practical method of working out this idea will be evolved. For instance, if through publicity we could influence every man on the street to wear a boutonniere and every lady a corsage bouquet, can any one figure just how many cut flowers would be required daily for this one particular custom?

Overhead Costs.

Here is a subject which must appeal to us all. How many of our members have put into practice a system whereby they can tell, weekly or monthly, just what their overhead expenses amount to in actual money? There is no point more vital to success in any business than the possession of this knowledge. Houses which understand fully their overhead costs seldom go into bankruptcy; on the other hand, they will generally be found among the more prosperous of our country's establishments. By overhead costs I refer to the thousand and one expenses of a business which, being indirect, are all too often lost sight of when making a price. These overhead expenses comprise all details of cost which are responsible for the ability to produce your goods but which do not appear as direct expenses; for instance, rent, coal, original cost of building and ordinary wear and tear on same, the keeping up of horses and wagons or automobiles, advertising, taxes and insurance, necessary travel, the salaries paid to all non-producers and petty expenses. In clearer words, overhead expenses consist of the non-productive factors in a business, all of which, however, have to be reckoned with and provided for in making a scale of charges for your product.

I would like to see a committee appointed on overhead costs, to be directed to present a report at the 1913 convention, with such figures and data as they could bring to bear on this progressive subject. When a man in business has the certainty that the price at which he is selling his stock includes all the indirect charges incidental to its production, he can feel that his business is being run at a profit, but with these factors unknown, it must ever be a case of "hit or miss." With the establishment of the cost system, we will soon be made acquainted with those stocks we are handling on which we are making a profit and those on which we do not make a profit, and as the tendency of modern business is to throw out everything on which it is impossible to make money, this knowledge, once fixed, will certainly be of untold value to all of us who lack that knowledge, and who set a price on their goods, not because they know it will pay them, but because of the fact that others are selling the same stock at an approximate price.

This committee, if agreed upon, should have an appropriation of $100 for advice from experts as to how to correctly take up the consideration of the subject.

National Flower Show.

The chairman of the National Flower Show committee will make his report at this meeting, and, from what we have gathered, the same will contain much cheering information, prospects being exceedingly bright for a first-class exhibition. Chas. H. Totty, its chairman, having visited the great International Exhibition at London which took place toward the close of last May, has undoubtedly gathered together many pointers which will be of service to him in handling our own American enterprise. Now that a permanent flower show committee is in operation, it should not be too much to expect that, before many years have rolled around, this society will be

ADVERTISING; SOME WRONGS TO MAKE RIGHT

An address by L. W. C. Tuthill, of New York, before the Society of American Florists at the Chicago Convention, August 21, 1912.

Advertising—what is it?

Some say it is a hybrid tea rose.

Others, that it is a sport of Killarney.

But I say it is the American Beauty.

It is the strong-rooted, long-stemmed, vigorous plant that yields the deep red blooms of big business successes.

Right away many of you growers begin shaking your heads, saying: "Advertising is all right for the other fellow, but my business is different. In the first place, there isn't profit enough in the flower business to stand for advertising. (Every grower knows that isn't so the minute he has said it.)

"Second—I have tried it two or three times, and it was just like throwing so much money down a knothole.

"Third—my business always has paid without advertising, so what's the use of blowing in my money just because those blasted magazines and papers hound the life out of me, or Hot Air Tuthill gets up there on the platform and claims advertising is the American Beauty of business—the life-saver of profits, and all that rot?"

What Advertising Really Is.

In answer to all of which, let's back up and begin all over again, and find out just what advertising really is.

In short, it's the quickest and surest possible way of letting it be known to the greatest number that you are in business—where you are in business—what your business is. It's the shortest short-cut method between the seller and the buyer. It's the modern power that accomplishes in two years what it used to take ten to do.

But it's more than a builder—it's also a destroyer; a quick, unrelenting destroyer. Therefore it needs to be handled carefully — knowingly. It quickly builds up a business that is backed up by good goods and the square deal. It still more quickly wipes off the map, destroys, concerns that either misrepresent their stock, or that fail to meet their customers just a little more than half-way.

"Oh, well," you say, "of course I do in a way believe in advertising, because when I have a few thousand extra cuttings more than I can use, or am overstocked on some plants, I just send an ad to the florists' papers and unload. But as for my advertising at any other time, it's ridiculous, as I send all my stock to the commission man. What's the use of advertising to him? He knows me—knows my goods."

A National Awakening.

Listen: As old as the florist business is—it's really among the youngest there is. It's just beginning to really begin. The real beginning began about ten years ago, when Doubleday, Page & Co. started their Country Life and Garden magazines. These magazines brought a message of flowers and country beauty to thousands and thousands of people who simply needed to be thus stirred into action. Soon followed other magazines, like Suburban Life, House and Garden and ones of a similar nature, and then still other mediums, and even the daily papers caught the flower fever, until now the love of flowers, stimulated by all these publications, is fast becoming a noticeable national trait. Every time one of these country life magazines gets a convert to the joys of flowers, you growers have one more possible buyer of your products.

But this national awakening to the appreciation of flowers also brings with it every year a greater discrimination in the buyers. The so-called "bread and butter" carnations are fast becoming more difficult to sell, simply because the public is rapidly getting to know flowers, and insisting on better and better quality.

An Identifying Trade-Mark.

Now suppose I could go into one of the Chicago florist shops and ask for not only "just roses," but roses grown by one Frank Jones—and those Jones roses bore some identifying means so that I knew I was getting Jones roses. Now, don't you think it would pay both the grower and the florist to get together somehow and spend a little joint money in letting the public know that Jones' Superior Roses always carried an identifying trade-mark?

Most assuredly it would!

There is just as much of an opportunity to trade-mark Jones' Superior Roses as there is Butter-Krust bread or Borden's milk.

And it's going to be done.

One of your largest eastern growers, whose stock is always of the finest, has for a considerable time been suffering from substitution—stock being sold for his that is not his. You know!

He and the ad agency I am associated with are now working on a plan to overcome this trouble.

It's been a hard nut to crack.

It looks as if certain kinds of advertising and trade-marking were the only thing that can make this wrong right.

A Look Into the Future.

While the demand for flowers and plants is still at its height, and production has not yet caught up with demand, the advertising question won't receive from you the serious attention it even now deserves. But mark my word, that just as sure as anything that's sure is sure, the stimulating influence given by the magazines is, sooner or later, going to lose its force and some direct advertising by the growers, as well as the florists, must then be done to further stimulate the business.

Just how to set the wheels of advertising working to further this result, is going to be the cause of many a headache. Some of you who have your ears to the ground have long been turning this over in your mind, and when the time comes you will be ready with the answer. One of the greatest wrongs, then, to make right, is the overcoming of the impression that the flower market can escape advertising.

Tying Up One's Pocketbook.

The way some business men refuse to get aboard the advertising train reminds me of a cousin of mine who was determined to go to an evening party. All day it rained hard. His father said that if it rained he couldn't go, but if the wind would veer around to the west, it would surely clear off. So my cousin watched his opportunity and climbed up on the barn and tied the weather vane fast so it pointed west.

He went to the party—but it still rained.

You can tie up your pocketbook and refuse to advertise, but that won't stop the storm of competitors who will be getting your business away.

So much for the future.

Now let's get right down to the brass tacks of the present day situation.

First, let's find a little good-natured fault with the trade papers.

What would you think of a firm who put the index of their catalogue in some obscure part, so you needed an index to find the index? You would say they certainly didn't have an eye to business and that an index ought to be the easiest thing to find and should be placed where you couldn't miss it.

By the same token, what a lot it would help every advertiser in making it easy for buyers to locate his ad, if the index to the trade papers were placed every time right in the front row, on the first inside page facing the cover! As it is now, the publisher knows where it is, but it takes a regular Sherlock Holmes for one less familiar to find it.

Starting and Staying.

Now a word about starting and staying.

A serious and costly wrong that advertisers ought to make right is starting in to advertise and then dropping out before the ads have had half an opportunity to get their good, telling work in. Some men seem to think advertising is a sort of wizard game, that should yield extraordinary results in an extraordinarily short time—a kind of waving of the wand that will back a wagon up to their doors filled with orders. It's far from it, because it is a straight business procedure and not a fairy tale.

No single ax-stroke can clear a forest. The woodman who chops and stops, wastes time, timber and money. He had better not have begun.

Make up your mind you are going to spend so much money this year—and then spend it. Send out your message each week. Keep continually chopping away. But every week chop from a different side. In other words, change your ads. Remember that advertising is intended to arouse interest—to hold interest—and to turn that interest into an order.

Last week's paper doesn't interest you this week—so how can you expect last week's ad to hold anybody's interest this week?

A Real Ad or Only a Sign?

In preparing your ad, make up your mind whether it's going to be a sign, or a real, full-blooded ad. Don't try to mix them.

A sign is to attract people who are looking for you—a sort of guide post.

An ad is to attract and convince the people you are looking for, that your goods are the goods worth looking for.

Very few are looking for you.

It's up to you to look for them.

Having found them, it's all your fault if you don't make them remember you and your goods—not only remember, but remember to send you their orders. People are not going to bother to keep remembering you, especially when your competitor is continually remembering them, by weekly telling talks in the trade papers.

The indecisive, haphazard way some men start out to advertise reminds me of my neighbor, who is handy in carving wood. He started one day last week to carve out a Duke of Wellington. The duke was a tall man and he cut the wood too short, so he concluded to make it into a Napoleon, who, you know, wasn't tall. He then cut it too narrow for the broad shoulders of Napoleon, so he concluded to make it into an Isaac Watts, who was very thin. Then he carelessly split it, and finally whittled it into a button for the barn door.

The moral is: If you expect to get Wellington victories, cut your expenditure big enough to land somewhere besides on a barn door.

What to Say.

Now for the text of your ads.

What shall you say in them?

What do you say to your customers to get them to buy when you see them personally?

Your talk sells the goods, doesn't it?

Then why not use the same line of talk in your ads? Ads, after all, are only selling talks on paper.

Just forget forever and ever that an ad, to catch and win, must be clever or funny, or have some peculiar twitch or turn to it. Simply be frank and tell your straight, concise business story.

Illustrate it.

Don't crowd your space jam-full of text. Leave some white space about it, for it to breathe in.

If then you have the good goods your ad says you have, your ad will not only catch readers—but hold them and influence them to write to you.

Don't use up any part of your space telling how poor the other fellow's goods are. You have none too much room to tell about yours, the way they ought to be told about. Besides, ten chances to one, you stir up a curiosity in your readers to find out more about those other goods. Incidentally, they then find out from the other fellow some of the weak spots in yours, and promptly you have a man's size job on your hands to land the order.

A Contrast in Methods.

One boiler firm, for instance, that has only steel tubular boilers for sale, is making sweeping statements about the absolute worthlessness of cast-iron boilers.

On the other hand, as a contrast, one of the firms making cast-iron boilers comes out frankly and says that "each type of boiler has its particular uses and limitations, and each is particularly adapted for its particular purposes." Then the advantages and disadvantages of both are freely exploited.

There can be absolutely no doubt in your mind which firm you would appeal to if you wanted frank, dependable advice.

It's always well to keep in mind that the important things in an ad are the buyers' reasons for buying—not the sellers' reasons for selling.

Keep sharp watch on the other fellows' ads—not so much for pointers for what to say and do, as what not to do.

If you are too much influenced by what they do, you will follow them. If you do it the other way about, you will lead them.

And who wouldn't rather be a leader?

As for illustrations—by all means use them where possible. But for heaven's sake, use illustrations that illustrate what you want to sell. Don't use the smirking picture of a girl showing her pearly teeth if you have carnation supports to sell. Show the supports. Better yet, show them in use. Leave the pearly teeth girlies for dentists' ads.

How Much Space to Use.

"How much space should I use?" This is a question advertisers are continually tussling with.

Lincoln said, "A man's legs should be just long enough to reach the ground."

By the same token, you should use enough space to show your article and tell your story as it should be told.

Any more space is extravagant—any less is costly. Costly, because it's sending a boy to do a man's work. Generally the boy goes off swimming or to the ball game.

Unfortunately, there exists a certain fear in some advertisers' minds that if they don't use some space in all the papers in the field, the omitted ones will in various ways conspire against them to the serious detriment of their business. In short—a mild form of blackmail, if you please.

On the other hand, there are other advertisers that feel that because they place a large amount of business with certain papers, they can dictate the policy of the paper, even to the absurdity of either excluding or of giving undesirable locations to competitors' ads. Both points of view are not only highly absurd, but indicate a mighty poor business vision.

Too Small Space—Too Many Mediums.

Unquestionably, too small space is being used in too many mediums. Cut down the mediums half, and increase the space proportionately. In this way you cut out repeated duplication of circulation and give yourself a chance to both show and talk about your products as they should be shown and talked about.

In choosing your mediums, always bear in mind that the ones having the largest circulations do not necessarily represent the largest buying numbers for your particular product. Large circulation often means hundreds and thousands of readers who are absolutely worthless to you.

One of the trade papers, for example, has 10,000 subscribers—another only 4,000. One of our customers has proven, beyond a doubt, that for reaching a certain limited class with whom their business is large, the 4,000 paper yields greater returns than the 10,000 one.

On the other hand, this same concern is paying for a 30,000 circulation in one magazine to reach a certain few—a very few—not more than 500, in fact—and it's a remarkably cheap buy for them at that. Cheap, because it's the only medium that reaches their logical customers the way they want them reached.

On a Scientific Basis.

The greatest help to an advertiser that established advertising agencies of reputation have to offer to their customers is not the mere writing of the ads, but the directing of the advertiser's money in channels that shall be the most productive, regardless of personal friendships or "influences"; channels concerning which these agencies possess facts, figures and experiences to prove the soundness of the treatment and expenditures advised. This, then, is the bringing of advertising to the basis of a science, a profession that bids fair to make dollars by both the intelligent saving and the spending of advertising moneys.

The way advertising used to be placed reminds me of the story of a couple of darky janitors who were sweeping the snow off neighboring steps. Suddenly Tom's feet slipped out from under him and he slid down the steps on the end of his back.

Rubbing his head thoughtfully, he slowly remarked to Sam: "Say, Sam, the Bible says 'the wicked they stands in slippery places'; I don't see how the debbil they does it."

GREENHOUSE FOUNDATIONS.

Please tell us about the requirements for the foundation of greenhouse walls in which concrete blocks, eight inches in width, are to be used. The walls will be three and one-half feet in height and the houses will be 20x100, connected at the gutters. I am located in Ohio. G. F. B.

The requirements for a foundation such as described will depend largely on the character of the soil and subsoil. If possible, the excavation should extend to a firm hardpan, but under average conditions it will generally answer if the excavation is carried down to the depth of two feet. A width of eight or ten inches will answer, although for the bottom of the wall it will be well to give it a width of twelve inches.

The Special Prizes.

This does not take into account any prizes that will be received by the American Rose Society, the Sweet Pea Society, the Carnation Society, the Gladiolus Society, etc.

As there has been some friction in previous exhibitions over the special prizes, the different societies turning in a list of special premiums will receive these premiums and be responsible for their being paid out to the proper parties. Each society may also appoint its own judges for its own section, men who are familiar with the product and who will be able to render the most accurate judgment. The flower show committee feels that each society should be allowed its own latitude in its own department and, with everyone working harmoniously to the same end, the Third National Flower Show should be by far the greatest we have ever held. These exhibitions are going to do more to affiliate the different societies with the S. A. F. than any other scheme I know of.

If the business idea is kept prominently in mind, every florist in this broad land will be benefited directly or indirectly and the florists' business, as a business, will begin to receive the recognition to which it is now fully entitled. "Coöperation, not competition, is the life of modern business," and these exhibitions will eventually become so great a factor in the florists' industry that no live florist can afford to ignore them or not be represented.

National, Not Sectional.

While the present show is to be held in New York, I do not want any member of the S. A. F. to run away with the idea that only the members in the vicinity of New York should stand responsible. This is the Third National Flower Show of the whole S. A. F., and every member should feel some direct personal interest therein. The recent show in London was such a stimulant to horticulture in that section that not a few of the firms who had space in that exhibition are making inquiries regarding price for space in the exhibition in New York. The managers of the International Exhibition Co. consider these foreign inquiries of such importance that they are having their foreign representative in London work up the matter, creating interest and arranging for a complete entry of foreign exhibits.

When the foreign exhibitor is so interested, how much more should the American look to his own market!

Every man who has anything to sell to the public—and who among us has not?—will find that it will be to his advantage to be represented by taking as much space as he can and also exhibiting in the competitive classes, for New York and its vicinity furnish the greatest buying market of horticultural products in the world today.

through the American Carnation Society at its annual meeting held in Detroit.

Bronze medal to E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., for Carnation Commodore, offered through the American Carnation Society, at Detroit.

Silver medal to J. A. Peterson, Cincinnati, O., for Begonia Westwood, offered through the Cincinnati Florists' Society at the exhibition in Cincinnati, November, 1911.

Bronze medal to R. Witterstaetter, Cincinnati, O., for Carnation President J. A. Valentine, offered through the Cincinnati Florists' Society at the exhibition held in Cincinnati, November, 1911.

There were also three silver and three bronze medals offered at the International Exposition in London for plants and flowers of American origin. The secretary has not yet been notified to whom these medals were awarded.

Secretary's Office.

The trade press continues to publish all items of interest sent them from the secretary's office and publish all reports of the proceedings of the society and furnish complimentary copies of their publications for the use of the secretary.

The work of the secretary has been very interesting and fascinating.

I desire to thank publicly the officers and members of the society who have assisted me at all times with their advice and good council, which has made the work so much lighter and more pleasant.

Secretary's Financial Report.

BOWLING

AT THE CONVENTION.

The convention bowling occupied the whole of Thursday, Bensinger's new alleys at Chicago having been engaged for the day.

The Ladies.

The ladies bowled in the morning. Mrs. C. W. McKellar, of Chicago, again proved to be the champion. Her winnings included a silver loving cup for highest two games, a silver spoon for highest single game, a silk umbrella for most strikes and a hat for which P. M. Palez had raised a purse of $71.

The scores were:

Men's Individuals.

When the men's individuals were started Thursday afternoon things began to warm up. It was like old times, when bowling was more popular than it has been the last few years. There was a larger number of contestants than in recent years, the refreshments were abundant, the rooters enthusiastic and the interest high. The following are the scores:

Greenville, Tex.—E. D. Barlow has built an addition to his greenhouses and has engaged a competent florist as an assistant. Mr. Barlow recently completed the building of a large number of pecan trees. His place is well arranged and attractive.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Freesias.

The earliest planting of freesias should have been made by this time. If not, get them into pans or flats at once. Large pans are preferable to flats, those eight, ten or twelve inches in diameter being suitable. These, when placed on shelves in a carnation temperature, give the finest possible results and everyone who can get a batch of Purity, now the freesia par excellence, in for Christmas will get double the prices prevailing at any later date.

Primulas.

Do not allow the primulas to become potbound before potting them on. There is more danger of this occurring with the robust growing P. malacoides and P. Kewensis than with the more moderate P. Sinensis, P. stellata and P. obconica. The best place for the plants for some weeks yet is in a coldframe and, while sashes are an advantage during wet, stormy weather, when it is hot and dry they are better removed entirely, merely using the necessary lath shadings over the plants during bright sunshine. These can now be put on later and removed earlier as the season declines. Night dews are beneficial to the plants, and one or two light sprayings daily should be given during hot weather. Usually 5-inch and 6-inch are suitable pots for obconica and Sinensis, but Kewensis and malacoides, while they will flower in these sizes, are better in 7-inch and 8-inch pots. They also like compost a little richer than the other sorts.

Marguerites.

Suitable cuttings are not procurable on marguerites during the hot months, but are now to be had and a good batch should be placed in sand at once. These can be grown into nice, bushy plants in 6-inch or 7-inch pots for spring sales, but will hardly be in condition for Easter, 1913, coming, as it does, as early as March 23. In order to have nice marguerites at that date or earlier, we must depend on older plants which have been carried over in pots, and from which flowers have been kept removed. These should not be allowed to suffer from the want of a shift, and be sure to give them a rich soil. If your old plants were carried over in the field, lift and pot them during the present month. Be sure each has a good ball attached, and keep them well watered and shaded for a few days until they cease wilting.

Bouvardias.

Bouvardias are somewhat tender plants and are better lifted during the month of August if they have been planted in the field. They should have some ball attached or they will wilt badly, even if they do not die altogether or, at least, lose a lot of their foliage. While not grown to the extent of former years, there is still a place for this flower. Particularly is this true of B. Humboldtii, with large, jasmine-like, pure white flowers. This variety is now coming into flower outdoors and, if kept tied up to prevent rain discoloring the flowers, will provide some useful cuttings for some time.

Transplanting.

Advantage should now be taken of every spell of suitable weather to transplant all kinds of seedling biennials and perennials into nursery rows. The ideal time to do this is after rain, and especially if the day is overcast. Such plants as digitalis, delphiniums, sweet williams, coreopsis, campanulas, hollyhocks, gaillardias and many others will make quite strong plants before winter sets in, if transplanted now and the cultivator or hoe is kept steadily at work among them.

STERILIZING WITH ACIDS.

We wish to sterilize the soil used in our cucumber and tomato houses last season, and, as we heat with hot water and do not wish to install a steam boiler this season for sterilizing purposes, we should like to know whether it can be done with acids. If you know of such a method, please inform us about it, stating, if possible, the cost per bench. Our benches are 5x90 feet and are all solid, with eight to ten inches of soil. G. & F.

While acids have been recommended for purposes of sterilization in certain experiments, they are hardly applicable to greenhouse work. In the first place, the method cannot compare with steam in ease of application and practicability. Second, it leaves the soil in poor physical condition, a danger especially to be guarded against when the soil in benches is used for successive crops. Third, the soil is left acidic, a condition unfavorable for the best plant growth. For these reasons acid sterilization could not be recommended for your houses.

In case you do not wish to install a boiler for steam sterilization, it is possible that a traction engine might be connected up to pipes in the benches and furnish enough steam for the purpose. Fred W. Muncie.

PAINTING CONCRETE.

Many persons have been desirous of altering the gray surface common to concrete walls and other structures of cement, but there have been many disappointments in the use of paints. They seem to have a tendency to discolor or to peel. This is to be expected, for the oil of the paint will make a lime soap with the caustic lime of the cement.

The use of silicate of soda is indicated as a first coat. When dry, repeat, and when again dry, use oil colors.

Goodland, Kan.—The Goodland Floral Co. is getting into shape again after a double misfortune. In January the greenhouses froze up and, in June, 1,545 panes of 12x20 glass were broken and the stock badly cut up by hail.

OBITUARY.

Harry Dampier.

Harry Dampier, a gardener of New Orleans, La., committed suicide August 10, at his home, 1133 State street, by taking carbolic acid. He was 57 years of age. He was a native of Devonshire, England, and came from that country to New Orleans twenty-two years ago. He was well acquainted with the gardeners and florists of that city, though not a member of their organization. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

John Craig.

Prof. John Craig, one of the leading horticulturists of the United States, died August 12 at Siasconset, Mass., aged 48 years. Prof. Craig was head of the Department of Horticulture in the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, a part of Cornell University. He was editor of the National Nurseryman and head of several development companies in southern states.

Among the honors which came to Prof. Craig was a fellowship in the Royal Horticultural Society, the secretaryship of the American Pomological Society, and a position on the advisory board of the American Civic League. He was one of the founders and trustees of the Cornell Cosmopolitan Club. Prof. Craig was the author of "Practical Horticulture" and other scientific works. He contributed to various agricultural magazines. Prof. Craig was born in Canada, and before going to Cornell to take the chair of horticulture, made vacant by the elevation of Prof. Liberty Hyde Bailey to the directorship of the agricultural college, had been professor of horticulture and extension teaching at Iowa State College.

Among the work that had made him widely known in the trade was that done at Cornell for the American Peony Society, the American Gladiolus Society and the American Sweet Pea Society, all of which was under his direction.

Andrew Johnson.

Andrew Johnson, gardener for Mrs. David King, Newport, R. I., died recently at his residence, 299 Spring street, in that city, following an operation and the subsequent development of pneumonia. He was born February 1, 1851, in the province of Shone, Sweden, and first came to Newport as a sailor in 1871, where he decided to remain. He found employment at various jobs until he finally secured work as an assistant to the gardener of one of the large estates. He took an especial interest in this work and rapidly advanced in the business, and for more than a quarter of a century had been in the employ of the estate of the late David King, Jr., having been head gardener for many years and occupying that position at the time of his death. Some months ago he had a serious attack from which he partially recovered, but recently the attack recurred and an operation was decided upon to relieve him of gall stones. He leaves a widow, one son and a daughter. He was a prominent member of the Swedish Methodist Episcopal church, which he helped to organize; also a member of Excelsior lodge, I. O. O. F., and of the New England Order of Protection. W. H. M.

Charles E. Keith.

Charles E. Keith, for the last fourteen years superintendent of parks at Bridgeport, Conn., died August 15, in his sixty-fourth year. Mr. Keith was one of the ablest park superintendents in America and only two days before his death was elected honorary president of the American Park Superintendents' Association at their convention in Boston. The deceased had been in failing health for about a year.

Peter Erickson.

Peter Erickson, a gardener of Berkeley, Cal., died at Fabiola hospital, Oakland, Cal., August 8, following an operation for appendicitis. He was a native of Sweden, aged 67 years, but had lived in Berkeley for the last fifteen years. He is survived by two children, O. F. and Amanda Erickson.

DAYTON, OHIO.

The Market.

It was a busy time in funeral work among the Dayton florists last week. Everybody seemed to have a good share in it and, as a result, stock was kept on the move, with the exception of some of the overabundant varieties, such as gladioli and asters, the supply of which seems to have no bounds. In giganteums it is between crops; there was a scarcity of these last week, and consequently the demand was great. There was a brisk demand for valley, but it was almost impossible to get any. Roses and carnations are coming in abundantly. The rainy season seems to have ended with last week, and hot, dry weather has set in.

Various Notes.

Mrs. John Q. Mulford, of Lebanon, O., spent August 18 in this city, visiting relatives. She reports good business, with an abundance of funeral work.

M. Anderson has been in Cleveland, O., on business again. And, aside from business, there seems to be another big attraction there.

Herman Hearlin spent August 18 visiting his aged mother in Cincinnati, O.

Walter E. Cook, of the Stumpp & Walter Co., New York, was in town August 17.

Walter G. Matthews was so unfortunate as to sprain his ankle last week.

Miss Katheryne Young, accompanied by Miss Helen Showalter and Lauretta McGee, left August 18 for a ten days' vacation, stopping first at Cedar Point, O., and from there making an extended lake tour.

Miss Minnie Graham was called to Richmond, Ind., on business last week.

Joseph Furst is putting in several new concrete benches this season.

Another visitor to Dayton florists last week was D. E. Adsit, of Jamestown, O.

Miss Bessie Bartholomew is spending a delightful vacation with Gladys Weber, of Cincinnati, O., this week.

A pretty window display last week was that of the Dayton Floral Co., in the firm's Main street store. In the center of the window was a fountain, surrounded by palms and ferns.

"Business at our place last week was just dandy," says Mrs. L. D. Johnson.

Many conventionists who expected to see George Bartholomew in Chicago were disappointed, but their disappointment could not compare with his, as he had fully intended to be among them until the last minute, when he was detained on account of unforeseen business transactions. August 18 Mr. Bartholomew spent the day in Cincinnati, O., and while there he visited the plant of J. A. Peterson & Sons. He found everything at the Peterson place in fine shape, with begonias looking the best he has seen them in many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Leslie will leave Dayton, August 24, for Oriskany Falls, N. Y., where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Jones. En route to Oriskany Falls they will stop over at Cleveland, O., take the boat to Niagara Falls, N. Y., spend a day there, and then continue their journey to Oriskany Falls. R. A. L.

CLEVELAND, O.

The Sixth City.

"Nothing doing," was the word passed around last week. There was little good stock on the market and not much demand. Japanese lilies, which have been in heavy supply, are now about equal to demand. Valley has been extremely scarce. Roses are of good quality for this season. The first mums have made their appearance, but they are too much out of season to sell well.

Club Picnic.

The picnic was a success; everybody says so. The day was perfect—just warm enough. About 200 people were present. The ball game between the wholesalers and retailers was won by the former, and this evened up the score between them, as the retailers were the victors last year.

The complete list of contests was as follows:

Babies' race—First, Herbert Leuschner; second, Bud Bastian.
Girls, 5 to 8 years—First, Dorothy Smith; second, Madeline Smith; third, Helen Bate.
Boys, 5 to 8 years—First, Don Smith; second, Paul Parks; third, John Kramer.
Girls, 8 to 12 years—First, Nellie Smith; second, Marie Kramer; third, Josephine Wasner.
Boys, 8 to 12 years. This class was so large that it was run in two heats. First heat—First, Alfred Bate; second, George Bate; third, Lloyd Mercer. Second heat—First, Louis Baldwin; second, William Kramer; third, Arthur Schabb.
Single ladies' race—Won by Gertrude Kramer.
Single men's race—Won by Arnold Williams.
Married ladies' race—Won by Mrs. Clarence A. Myers.
Married men's race—Won by Al. Lingwen.
Sack race—First, "Luna" Parks; second, A. Lingwen; third, Steve Bertholdt.
Three-legged race—First, A. Lingwen and F. Friedley; second, S. Bertholdt and C. Ross; third, H. Keyse and A. Williams.
Hop, skip and jump—Won by Philip Darnell.
Running broad jump—Won by Philip Darnell.
Fat men's race—First, Charles Graham; second, F. H. A. Warren.
Special race, boys of 12 to 16 years—First, H. Keyse; second, G. Koellisch.
Special sack race—First, Eugene Berger; second, John Schiedel; third, George Pate.
Special hop, skip and jump—First, A. Williams; second, Philip Darnell.
Free-for-all long-distance race—First, A. Williams; second, P. Darnell; third, S. Bertholdt; fourth, A. Koellisch; fifth, "Luna" Parks.

planting of 50,000 plants, and Manager Guy Bate says the quality of the stock that went into their houses this year could scarcely have been better. Their entire range was planted without shade on the glass, and during the hottest days the plants held up well. This firm also has mums in fine, clean shape, with prospects of a heavy crop this fall.

The Market.

The weather during the first two weeks of August was remarkably cool, and the quality of all kinds of stock was superb. There have been a few warm days lately, but the stock has not been noticeably affected. The supply is plentiful and in most cases greater than the demand, though business is rather brisk for the summer season. Funeral work is mostly in demand and there have been an unusual number of orders for wedding decorations during July and August. Some fine gladioli are on the market; a great number of the fancy varieties are to be seen. Asters, grown under glass, are exceedingly thrifty and find a ready market. Easter lilies find a good sale, and hydrangeas are valuable for both decorative purposes and for selling. Carnations are entirely out of the market. Roses are coming in fairly well. Outdoor flowers, such as Golden Glow, daisies and goldenrod, are used a great deal for decorating and brightening the shops.

Various Notes.

The Bradley Flower Shop is the name the new firm has chosen for its business, which is located at 828 Calhoun street, and which was purchased from the Veseys a few weeks ago, the latter deciding to devote all their time and efforts to their ever increasing wholesale business and orchid specializing. The Bradley firm is composed of Mrs. M. Bradley and daughter, Miss Marjory Bradley, both formerly of Chicago. They will be assisted by Herbert Z. Muehlin, former manager of the store. Mrs. Bradley possesses good business ability and initiative. Miss Marjory Bradley has done considerable work in her profession as landscape gardener, and is a graduate of the Michigan Agricultural College, Lansing, Mich. They have the best wishes of the trade for success in their business venture.

Among the visitors to the Chicago convention from this city are: Judge W. J. Vesey, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Vesey, Jr., Miss Margaret Vesey, Miss C. B. Flick, Miss Marguerite Flick, Frank Knecht and A. Shive.

The carnation houses of the C. B. Flick Floral Co. are now complete, with the young stock of fine field-grown plants of their own cultivation. This firm has found a good demand for thousands of these exceedingly fine plants, and have been shipping to all points of the country.

Among recent visitors to this city was I. Rosnosky, of the H. F. Michell Co., who was bound for the Chicago convention. R. R. F.

POINSETTIAS LOSE FOLIAGE.

We have 300 poinsettias in 2½ to 4-inch pots and pans, made up. How can I keep them from growing tall and from losing foliage? They are apt to get hard and lose their leaves or else grow much too tall. J. T. T.

Keep the poinsettias in a coldframe or cold greenhouse until the end of September. By that time the nights will be getting so cool that it will be better to move them into a light, airy greenhouse. If you have no coldframes at disposal, a greenhouse will answer well for them. If kept quite close to the glass, well ventilated and watered carefully, they will not grow too tall, nor will they lose their foliage. When the bracts begin to show, more heat must be afforded. A temperature of 60 degrees at night should be maintained, in order to insure full development of the bracts before Christmas. Loss of foliage is due to several causes, such as too low a temperature, excessive feeding and too much or too little moisture at the roots. Be sure to afford the plants good drainage. If once they get water-logged, the foliage will soon turn yellow. C. W.

LATHYRUS FOR FORCING.

I have to call on The Review again for advice and should like to ask you to allow me space in your paper for the following question: Can Lathyrus latifolius, the everlasting pea, be forced for winter flowering? If so, when should it be planted to bloom in January or February? How high does it grow? Please give general information about its culture. Is it profitable? B. W.

I have never grown, nor do I know of anyone who has tried the everlasting pea for winter flowering. I doubt whether it would be a success under glass. Even if so grown, it would not flower before spring, and even were it possible to grow and flower it well, it is questionable whether the flowers, lacking all odor as they do, would be of much value when sweet peas are to be had in abundance and of fine quality. C. W.

THE American Gladiolus Society issued Bulletin No. 5 just in time for the Chicago convention. It contains a list of members designated as to their professional or amateur standing.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

GLADIOLI have had a wonderful advance in popular favor, but from the way the cut flower markets are crowded this season it looks as though production still is a lap ahead of the demand for the flowers.

FIELD-GROWN carnation plants are selling well. If you are so fortunate as to have a surplus, turn the stock into cash by offering in the Classified columns of The Review. Don't wait until everybody has bought elsewhere.

THE price of freshly collected plants of Cattleya labiata has advanced fully one-third in the last two or three years and those in position to know predict that in another five years the plants will be so scarce that florists can not afford to buy them.

IF a florist is located inside a city limits the authorities no doubt require him to keep his fertilizer pile covered with black soil, but if he is outside official jurisdiction he should see to it just the same, in his own interest. The manure pile is where the flies breed most prolifically; and flies carry the germs of typhoid. You can not be free from flies if you leave the manure pile uncovered, or from mosquitoes if you leave stagnant water open.

THE white paper consumed in printing this edition of The Review weighed 12,320 pounds, or a little more than six tons. The stock used for the Welcome Number a week ago weighed 10,910 pounds, or 23,230 pounds for the two convention issues—over eleven and one-half tons of them.

THERE will not be many big flower shows next autumn. Last season not one of the shows that depended on gate receipts met its expenses and, almost without exception, the florists' clubs in these places are passing the show for 1912. In the west Denver and St. Paul, which had no shows last season, will have a try at it this year, but Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Indianapolis will rest on laurels previously won. In the east there will be the usual number of exhibitions not depending to any great extent on gate receipts.

"OLD MEN FOR COUNSEL."

An elderly person usually is slow to form an opinion, but when formed it usually is worthy of respect. Consequently The Review prizes the letter printed below:

In sending the renewal of my subscription I will say that I can not do without The Review. I have been a gardener, now, seventy years, but I find much that is new and helpful to me in the paper.—Charles Long, Rochester, N. Y., August 15, 1912.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Last week closed with an excellent run of business, Friday producing a volume of shipping orders that was certainly as good as anything which has been seen this summer. There was an abundance of stock of all kinds called for, except white roses. These have been scarce for weeks and, as always under such circumstances, the demand ran heavily for them. Beauties also were more or less difficult to supply in just the grades wanted; not that Beauties were especially scarce, but because a large part of the cut from young stock is short-stemmed, while the cut from old plants mostly is long. The demand, on the other hand, ran mostly to medium lengths, of which there were hardly enough to go around. There were not many carnations, nor was there much demand for them.

This week has been given more to visiting than to business. There has, of course, been something doing all the time, but more has been done in the way of laying the foundation for future business than in actual sales. The market has been full of convention visitors. It began as early as Friday, August 16, when the San Francisco and Baltimore delegations met in a wholesale store. Practically everyone who has attended the convention has made the rounds of the wholesale establishments; at times there were so many visitors that the wholesalers have not been able to accord individuals the attention they would like to give their friends. Practically every wholesale house has been putting its best foot forward. All were made spick and span for the visitors, and in most cases some little effort was made to display the stock, instead of putting it out of sight in the ice-boxes as quickly as possible after being received from the grower. The conventionites have evidently been impressed with the resources of the Chicago market. While the supply is nothing like

We have told the Trade of the Superior Quality of our Stock, the Extent of our Supply, and the Adequateness of our Facilities—but buyers are inclined to discount all such statements. There is no doubt, however, on the part of any Convention visitor, for

If you were not one of the many hundreds who have inspected our Stock and Facilities this week, you still can SEE—if you couldn't come to us, let us come to you. Let us make you a few shipments—you'll see, just as the Convention visitors saw, that we've got the goods and the best facilities that money and thought can provide.

AMERICAN BEAUTIES

The Largest and Steadiest Supply in the West.

You need good Beauties, to be sure, but you also need to be able to get them when you want them. Our Beauties always are fine, and we have them in quantity all the time. These special summer Beauties, all lengths, are great sellers. Try them and see. You can work up a fine trade on Beauties if you use our stock.

FANCY ROSES

MRS. WARD RADIANCE SUNBURST
BULGARIE RICHMOND KILLARNEYS

Our Roses sell specially well, because of superior quality, but we have a large supply and can take good care of all out-of-town orders—we aim to never be without Roses in the ice-boxes.

GOOD ASTERS

All colors. Can furnish any grade you want. Long, fancy, for decorations, or short, for work. Let us hear from you if you can use good Asters in quantity. Let us quote you on any special orders.

GLADIOLI

We are specially strong this year on the Gladioli the trade wants in quantity, America, King and Augusta. Once you try these you will not be able to get along with the ordinary quality even of the same varieties.

FANCY LILIES

Lilies are selling well—you'll find it so if you use our stock for funeral work or for decorations. Easter Lilies, Auratums, Rubrums.

Fancy Valley always on hand.

what it is during the busy season, still Chicago never has had more or better flowers in August than have been on display this week. Possibly this does not apply to white roses, Beauties or asters, the low grades of the latter predominating. The supply of pink roses is strong and the visitors also have found much of interest in the newer varieties of roses, which this season will be in large supply and which are just beginning to come onto the market in some quantity. As a result of the convention, many who have not heretofore used Chicago flowers will handle them this season.

Various Notes.

The Chicago Florists' Club held a special meeting August 15, at the Union restaurant, with an attendance of fifty members. Complete reports were made of convention arrangements, which now are a matter of history. John Young, secretary of the S. A. F., was present and talked on society affairs. G. L. Grant told of the first Chicago convention, a quarter of a century ago. Two new members were elected, E. Farenwald, who is with the Foley Mfg. Co., and Frank Balkenhol, of Mankato, Minn.

Frank Ayres, right-hand man for C. W. McKellar, returned August 16 from his canoe trip into Canada.

E. T. Wanzer, Wheaton, Ill., is growing asters more extensively this year than ever before. He has been shipping 15,000 to 18,000 per day to his selling agents, the A. L. Randall Co.

John Reardon, now of Ames, Ia., has been renewing acquaintances here for the last fortnight.

A. Henderson & Co. received a car shipment of Chinese lily bulbs this week and the shipping force is busy with their distribution. A. Henderson reports that the present call for these will exhaust the supply if it keeps up.

A surprise was in store for the trade when A. L. Vaughan, of A. L. Vaughan & Co., gave out the information that W. E. Lynch had become a member of the store staff. Mr. Lynch is well known to the trade, having been manager of E. H. Hunt's cut flower department for a number of years. He took up his new duties August 19 and assisted in greeting convention visitors throughout the week. His accession will materially strengthen Vaughan & Co.

OUR SPECIALTIES

The Cook County Florists' Association held its monthly meeting at The Tavern August 15, with a large attendance, President A. C. Kohlbrand in the chair.

Gus Alles and Henry Wietor returned August 18 from their annual Wisconsin trip.

Miss Jeane Armit, saleslady in Vestal's Little Rock store, has been visiting here for a fortnight.

The Batavia Greenhouse Co., Batavia, Ill., finished its four new houses last week and is planting them. The new range, according to O. Johnson, now contains about 120,000 feet of glass, with about 30,000 in the old range.

Word was received August 17 of the drowning of Joe Dunn's oldest son. Mr. Dunn formerly was foreman for J. A. Budlong, but now is in business for himself at Savanna, Ill.

E. E. Pieser is the only wholesaler missing from the market this week. He is in Canada with Mrs. Pieser, who has been ill for a long time. The affairs of Kennicott Bros. Co. are in the hands of N. P. Miller and Ed. Armstrong.

A. T. Pyfer says the Chicago Carnation Co. had a poor summer for field stock and the anticipated surplus of plants has failed to materialize.

The Northwestern Floral Co., Gross Point, has had an exhibit of field-grown carnation plants at Kyle & Foerster's this week.

N. J. Wietor will now be the busy man for a few days. It is his job to audit the convention bills.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., says the talks with the out-of-town florists this week have strengthened his conviction that business will be big as soon as the fall season opens.

To The Trade
In Attendance at the S.A.F. Convention,
Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen:

I greatly regret my inability to return to Chicago in time for the big Convention, and assist in welcoming my S.A.F. brothers; but the fact is, that I feel my presence is required here in Hamburg to look after this year's Valley crop.

As you well know, my CHICAGO MARKET BRAND is my hobby, and the quality has been maintained so many years that I owe it to my customers to stay on the ground and oversee operations. In this way they, as well as I, can be assured satisfaction in the quality of next year's supply.

Everything is in fine shape now and I believe the quality of my CHICAGO MARKET BRAND will be even better than usual, although that seems almost impossible.

I extend a most cordial invitation to every florist to visit my greenhouses, 3032-3042 West Madison Street, Chicago, and can assure them a cordial welcome from my assistants, Messrs. A. Billerbeck and Peter Samuelson.

With a hearty wish for a most successful meeting, I am,

Very truly yours,

H. N. Bruns.

A. L. Randall is spending a few days as the guest of Frank Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, having left his family in Michigan while he attended the convention.

J. P. Degnan, of Winterson's Seed Store, says that all bulbs appear to be of excellent quality this year. Everything is in but the Dutch.

Tim Matchen, sales manager for Peter Reinberg, says convention visitors began to show up as early as August 15 and that he expects there will be many looking over the growing establishments all next week.

The S. A. F. convention brought about a family reunion of the Weiland clan and for the first time in ten years the nine children of M. Weiland met. The nine present were Henry Weiland, Denver, Colo.; Peter Weiland, New Castle, Ind.; Mrs. P. J. Olinger, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. John Didier, Rogers Park; John Weiland, George C. Weiland, Anna Weiland, Margaret Weiland and Helen Weiland, Evanston, Ill.

Miss Wolf, of Zech & Mann's auditing department, is back from a two weeks' vacation spent at Leesburg, Ind.

Erne & Klingel have had a run on fancy asters and, according to Mr. Klingel, the opening days of this week, August 19 and 20, were unusually lively, although it was expected that convention week would show a decline.

Hoerber Bros. made the first cut of indoor carnations this week, Beacon, Enchantress, White Enchantress and Victory being among the varieties in the first shipment.

The store of Poehlmann Bros. Co. was decorated in holiday attire during convention week in honor of S. A. F. visitors and presented a pretty picture to those who dropped in.

Miss Marie Hayes, of E. H. Hunt's, reported back this week after a vacation absence.

New and attractive settings have been added to the display rooms of H. Wittbold, where autumn and other decorations have been used effectively.

Percy Jones sent a new supply catalogue to press last week and will begin mailing it to the trade this week.

Phil Schupp, of J. A. Budlong's, says that the Giant Snowball asters now being shipped that firm are the best he has seen this season. The store was decorated with American flags and bunting during convention week.

President John F. Kidwell, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, gave up the idea of going home to Downers Grove this week, owing to the fact that his services were demanded on five different committees of the Chicago Florists' Club.

Louis Wittbold says the roses at the Edgebrook greenhouses of the Geo. Wittbold Co. are coming along in fine shape. As evidence he is showing some fine blooms with stems from twenty-four to thirty inches long.

Mr. Gelderman's labors as proofreader are finished, at least for the present. The new catalogue of L. Baumann & Co. is ready for distribution and contains eight pages of color illustrations.

E. F. Kurowski, of the J. C. Moninger Co., recently made his first trip out to where Bassett & Washburn are building their new range of Moninger houses. He came back greatly enthused over the location, saying it is ideal for the purpose. He reports that Mr. Washburn's ambition is to eventually have a range of twenty houses, identical in construction with the five now being built.

S. Freund, sales manager for A. A. Arnold, returned from an extensive and successful western trip just in time to look after the arrangement of the Arnold box exhibit at the convention.

Frank Ayres, right-hand man for C. W. McKellar, returned August 16 from his canoe trip into Canada.

E. T. Wanzer, Wheaton, Ill., is growing asters more extensively this year than ever before. He has been shipping 15,000 to 18,000 per day to his selling agents, the A. L. Randall Co.

John Reardon, now of Ames, Ia., has been renewing acquaintances here for the last fortnight.

A. Henderson & Co. received a car shipment of Chinese lily bulbs this week and the shipping force is busy with their distribution. A. Henderson reports that the present call for these will exhaust the supply if it keeps up.

A surprise was in store for the trade when A. L. Vaughan, of A. L. Vaughan & Co., gave out the information that W. E. Lynch had become a member of the store staff. Mr. Lynch is well known to the trade, having been manager of E. H. Hunt's cut flower department for a number of years. He took up his new duties August 19 and assisted in greeting convention visitors throughout the week. His accession will materially strengthen Vaughan & Co.

OUR SPECIALTIES

The Cook County Florists' Association held its monthly meeting at The Tavern August 15, with a large attendance, President A. C. Kohlbrand in the chair.

Gus Alles and Henry Wietor returned August 18 from their annual Wisconsin trip.

Miss Jeane Armit, saleslady in Vestal's Little Rock store, has been visiting here for a fortnight.

The Batavia Greenhouse Co., Batavia, Ill., finished its four new houses last week and is planting them. The new range, according to O. Johnson, now contains about 120,000 feet of glass, with about 30,000 in the old range.

Word was received August 17 of the drowning of Joe Dunn's oldest son. Mr. Dunn formerly was foreman for J. A. Budlong, but now is in business for himself at Savanna, Ill.

E. E. Pieser is the only wholesaler missing from the market this week. He is in Canada with Mrs. Pieser, who has been ill for a long time. The affairs of Kennicott Bros. Co. are in the hands of N. P. Miller and Ed. Armstrong.

A. T. Pyfer says the Chicago Carnation Co. had a poor summer for field stock and the anticipated surplus of plants has failed to materialize.

The Northwestern Floral Co., Gross Point, has had an exhibit of field-grown carnation plants at Kyle & Foerster's this week.

N. J. Wietor will now be the busy man for a few days. It is his job to audit the convention bills.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., says the talks with the out-of-town florists this week have strengthened his conviction that business will be big as soon as the fall season opens.

AN INVITATION

We cordially invite Florists attending the Chicago Convention to inspect one of the most up-to-the-minute printing plants in the country.

The Wedding Booklet "Flowers for the Bride" is made here. Two other Florist Booklets are in preparation.

We specialize in Florists' advertising, making artistic cuts, booklets, etc. Have many interesting things to show you.

If you can't call, telephone Harrison 6591, and our representative will call at your hotel with complete samples and interesting data.

HAMBURG 5, den August 3, 1912.

To The Trade
In Attendance at the S.A.F. Convention,
Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen:

I greatly regret my inability to return to Chicago in time for the big Convention, and assist in welcoming my S.A.F. brothers; but the fact is, that I feel my presence is required here in Hamburg to look after this year's Valley crop.

As you well know, my CHICAGO MARKET BRAND is my hobby, and the quality has been maintained so many years that I owe it to my customers to stay on the ground and oversee operations. In this way they, as well as I, can be assured satisfaction in the quality of next year's supply.

Everything is in fine shape now and I believe the quality of my CHICAGO MARKET BRAND will be even better than usual, although that seems almost impossible.

I extend a most cordial invitation to every florist to visit my greenhouses, 3032-3042 West Madison Street, Chicago, and can assure them a cordial welcome from my assistants, Messrs. A. Billerbeck and Peter Samuelson.

With a hearty wish for a most successful meeting, I am,

Very truly yours,

H. N. Bruns.

A. L. Randall is spending a few days as the guest of Frank Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, having left his family in Michigan while he attended the convention.

J. P. Degnan, of Winterson's Seed Store, says that all bulbs appear to be of excellent quality this year. Everything is in but the Dutch.

Tim Matchen, sales manager for Peter Reinberg, says convention visitors began to show up as early as August 15 and that he expects there will be many looking over the growing establishments all next week.

The S. A. F. convention brought about a family reunion of the Weiland clan and for the first time in ten years the nine children of M. Weiland met. The nine present were Henry Weiland, Denver, Colo.; Peter Weiland, New Castle, Ind.; Mrs. P. J. Olinger, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. John Didier, Rogers Park; John Weiland, George C. Weiland, Anna Weiland, Margaret Weiland and Helen Weiland, Evanston, Ill.

Miss Wolf, of Zech & Mann's auditing department, is back from a two weeks' vacation spent at Leesburg, Ind.

Erne & Klingel have had a run on fancy asters and, according to Mr. Klingel, the opening days of this week, August 19 and 20, were unusually lively, although it was expected that convention week would show a decline.

Hoerber Bros. made the first cut of indoor carnations this week, Beacon, Enchantress, White Enchantress and Victory being among the varieties in the first shipment.

The store of Poehlmann Bros. Co. was decorated in holiday attire during convention week in honor of S. A. F. visitors and presented a pretty picture to those who dropped in.

Miss Marie Hayes, of E. H. Hunt's, reported back this week after a vacation absence.

New and attractive settings have been added to the display rooms of H. Wittbold, where autumn and other decorations have been used effectively.

Percy Jones sent a new supply catalogue to press last week and will begin mailing it to the trade this week.

Phil Schupp, of J. A. Budlong's, says that the Giant Snowball asters now being shipped that firm are the best he has seen this season. The store was decorated with American flags and bunting during convention week.

President John F. Kidwell, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, gave up the idea of going home to Downers Grove this week, owing to the fact that his services were demanded on five different committees of the Chicago Florists' Club.

Louis Wittbold says the roses at the Edgebrook greenhouses of the Geo. Wittbold Co. are coming along in fine shape. As evidence he is showing some fine blooms with stems from twenty-four to thirty inches long.

Mr. Gelderman's labors as proof reader are finished, at least for the present. The new catalogue of L. Baumann & Co. is ready for distribution and contains eight pages of color illustrations.

E. F. Kurowski, of the J. C. Moninger Co., recently made his first trip out to where Bassett & Washburn are building their new range of Moninger houses. He came back greatly enthused over the location, saying it is ideal for the purpose. He reports that Mr. Washburn's ambition is to eventually have a range of twenty houses, identical in construction with the five now being built.

S. Freund, sales manager for A. A. Arnold, returned from an extensive and successful western trip just in time to look after the arrangement of the Arnold box exhibit at the convention.

In a recent letter from Hamburg, Germany, H. N. Bruns says the ocean voyage was quite enjoyable and the weather ideal. He reports: "I have looked into the valley district around Hamburg and things look pretty good. I believe we will have an especially good crop this season, even if not a heavy one." Mr. Bruns and family expected to visit Berlin, Leipzig and Dresden before returning.

Peter Weiler says the Superior Machine & Boiler Works is rushed with work, much of it being special made-to-order jobs.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

Plenty of all sorts of outdoor flowers are to be bought at one's own prices. Asters are plentiful, especially the colored ones, but white are the only ones which find ready sale. Everyone grows gladioli and some of the finest ones are produced right here in close proximity to our city.

Roses of excellent quality are being sent in by our local growers. No one grows Beauties in this territory, this market drawing its supply from farther east. They are quite good and meet with fair demand. Valley is not plentiful. Fine local orchids are to be had at reasonable prices. Lilies are again more plentiful.

Various Notes.

George Burke, superintendent Bureau of Parks, and his assistant, John Jones, are to be congratulated on the beautiful plantings of beds and shrubbery at Schenley and Highland parks.

Allegheny—someone will ask, "Where is Allegheny?" It is the city of Ludwigs, Faulks and other florists, with about 250,000 citizens who permitted themselves to be annexed to Pittsburgh some years ago, at one time the bonton section of its sister city. Here we find Brother James Moore and his assistant in charge of the park system, and their skill and artistic work in carpet bedding, etc., are the talk of the community. The plantings here are the best ever seen for many years.

try. It is the Allegheny cemetery, where William Falconer is superintendent. Sorry to say, Mr. Falconer was not at home. The place is beautiful and the plantings are grand.

The Landscape Floral Co. is in the midst of planting its houses at Cheswick, Pa.

Mr. McRae, of the McRae-Jenkinson Co., New Kensington, Pa., reports business far ahead of last year, with an increase also during the summer months. They are now busy planting three houses to carnations.

W. C. Beckert, the north side seedsman, has bought the property at 101-103 Federal street, adjoining his present place of business. This will now be improved and altered to suit the growing demands of his business.

Harry J. Hamm, one of the progressive young florists of this city, is receiving congratulations from his many friends. He was married Monday, August 12, to Miss Loretta F. Shaw, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Hamm spent their honeymoon in Atlantic City, also visiting Philadelphia and New York city, and will live on Frankstown avenue after their return.

B. L. Elliott, of the John Bader Co., Gilbert Weaklen, of South Highland avenue, Miss McKinley and Mrs. P. S. Randolph have joined the convention party.

P. S. Randolph & Sons, of Verona, Pa., contemplate the erection of a number of greenhouses this fall.

T. P. Langhans, secretary of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., has been interesting himself in collecting information on an invention for protection against hail—the electric "Niagara," invented by the Count de Beauchamp and General Negrier, of France—with a view of testing its merits at this company's plant at Bakerstown, Pa. The Department of Agriculture, at Washington, does not report enthusiastically; denounces it, in fact, as a "humbug."

J. W. Elliott writes us from Bern Goschenen: "This is a quaint and charming city, with no slums or untidiness anywhere, and the country surrounding is like a great park. The meadows are like lawns without fences."

The death of Mrs. A. M. Byers, widow of a former Pittsburgh philanthropist, called for much funeral work last week. The most of this was executed by Mrs. E. A. Williams and called for the finest of flowers. A casket cover alone contained 3,000 valley, besides fifty-nine other handsome bunches, and kept Manager Sheaf, Mr. Higgins and the entire store force busy all one night.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

Never in the history of the cut flower market have such asters been seen. They are marvels of perfection in the strain and in culture. They command a record price, $6 per hundred, and are considered excellent value at that surprising figure by competent judges. There are just a few of them; they are received by the hundred, almost by the thousand, with a good range of color. Asters dominate the market. There are more good asters than a week ago, but the bulk of the stock is of poor quality and hard to sell.

Roses are much more plentiful, Maryland especially so. Prices rule low. There are more Beauties than is usual in August, mostly medium and short. They sell fairly. There are a few good carnations; Mrs. C. W. Ward is the best grown. Gladioli are in strong supply. There is no special demand for them, although many are sold at moderate prices. Cattleyas are exceedingly scarce. Outdoor flowers generally are little sought. Valley is in fair request. Gardenias are quiet. There is just a little call for adiantum. The shipping orders are the life of the market.

Our Delegation.

The main body of Philadelphians left Twenty-fourth and Chestnut streets Monday, August 19, at 10:17 a. m., over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. That is, they were supposed to leave then. As a matter of fact, their patience was tried by a forty-minute wait before the train pulled out of the depot. The party consisted of Robert Craig, Charles W. Kahlert, Robert Kift, Arthur H. Lanser, Clifford Earl Larzalere, Fred J. Michell, Jr., Stephen Mortensen, Mrs. Mortensen, Leo Niessen, William Robertson, Theodore Shober, J. Otto Thilow and John Westcott. The Pennsylvania railroad carried William K. Harris and Mark P. Mills, while the list of those who went out earlier and later swells the total to nearly fifty. The convention tells of their doings.

A New Idea.

The scaffolding from the Ritz-Carlton had come down, showing the strong architectural lines of the hostelry and the quiet beauty of the Sign of the Rose beside. Inside the flower shop there are two men; one is talking earnestly to the other. It is Mr. Fox. Listen! "My idea is to teach bright young men to become florists, to do all the practical work under supervision, from the rudiments up to the most elaborate arrangement. They must study, too, carefully, lessons about flowers, their meaning, their uses, all that teaches a thorough knowledge of salesmanship. One year with me will fit the student to fill a first-class position anywhere, far better than will three years spent as an employee in a florist's shop."

Mr. Fox then read extracts from the lessons, showing great care in their preparation, combined with a happy manner of explanation that was most pleasing. Mr. Fox's school of instruction has been run three years in connection with the Sign of the Rose. He a large quantity of junk offered to the buyers, for there is a general uplift in average quality. The demand, too, is stronger than it was, both locally and out of town.

The rose cut is large and the choice stock of all varieties sells quickly. The short stock must be moved, if at all, at sacrifice figures. American Beauties are good and in large supply. All sizes sell well. In fact, this rose has proved the most popular the entire summer.

The small early asters have bid their last farewell and now nearly all the offerings are choice. There are plenty of these, however, to be had. The usual story concerning them is: Quite short of the demand on Monday, just enough to go around on Tuesday, too many during the middle of the week, and sell well at the close.

Gladioli continue to be long on the market. The best varieties are selling, while the poorer ones do not move at all. Even at that, the glut is not as large as was anticipated.

The offerings of longiflorum, giganteum and auratum lilies have shortened somewhat, and as a result the good ones bring better prices than has been the rule for several months. Speciosum, rubrum, pond lilies and valley are also offered.

The green goods supply is more than ample.

NEW YORK.

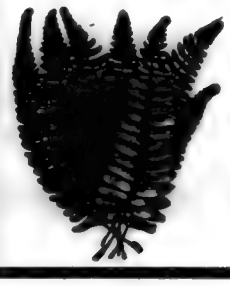
The Market.

Here convention week has been dull. With the market flooded with asters and gladioli, many of our leading citizens at Chicago, and absolute stagnation in the retail stores, there is no business at all in the wholesale section after noon. One o'clock sees many of the doors closed for the day. Many of the principals are away.

Shipments of American Beauty roses show marked improvement. The orchid market was depleted August 17. Orders reached the thousands and could not be filled. Roses generally are small and short-stemmed. The few that are worth while are sold before arrival. A great many of the lower grades do not sell at all. There are few carnations, and these are hardly worthy of the name. Valley is firm. Lilies are abundant, longiflorum bringing from $3 to $6, and rubrum $2 to $3 per hundred, the stock all of excellent quality.

The waste in asters is lamentable. The market cannot possibly digest the tremendous shipments. To quote prices on the mass that flows in here daily would not encourage growers to continue to plant them. The weather has been especially favorable for them, and for gladioli. These are now at flood tide and the usual hardpan level has been reached earlier than usual. Some of the big growers ship direct to the retailers at the same concession in prices on quantity that the wholesale distributors receive. The result is not conducive to harmony and protests are numerous. The dahlia growers have sent their first installments. The outlook is for larger supplies than ever before. Cosmos is arriving in goodly quantity and all the other outdoor flowers are abundant.

Various Notes.



The National Flower Show has an excellent and early foundation. Floor plans and the prospectus for a 160-page souvenir program are ready for the consideration of those interested.

A. T. Boddington is shipping quantities of French bulbs. Sweet pea seed is in.

W. J. Elliott says he will spend part of his vacation in the Maine woods and hopes to bring home a bull moose as one of his trophies.

"SINCE 1867"

In 1867 we commenced the Fern business; in fact, we were the first dealers in the country.

Since then our business has increased yearly, because we take proper care of our customers.

Our Ferns are always of the highest quality, and our prices reasonable.

We save you twenty-five per cent of your express charges, by shipping in corrugated paper boxes.

As to our responsibility, ask practically any wholesaler.

If you send us your Fern orders, you will never regret it.

We also sell Christmas Trees, and Spruce Branches for Cemetery use.

RAILWAY GARDENERS.

At the meeting of the Railway Gardening Association, at Roanoke, Va., last week the following officers were elected:

President—C. H. Tritschler, N. C. & St. L. R. R.

First Vice-president — John Gipner, Michigan Central R. R.

Secretary—W. F. Hutchison.

Treasurer—J. K. Wingert, Cumberland Valley R. R.

Nashville, Tenn., was selected for the next annual convention, August 12 to 15, 1913.

TOPPING STEVIAS.

My stevias are planted outside and are making good growth. Shall I cut them back? They are new to me.

C. P. N.

The dwarf stevia will not require any pinching, but the tall variety would better have one more topping, or it will be too tall. Plants of both varieties should be potted before the beginning of September. They are quite tender and the least breath of frost will kill them. Keep them outdoors, however, as long as you can after potting, and give them a cool, airy house to grow in. Anything just clear of freezing will suit them.

C. W.

MAHONIAS.

In Europe a great number of mahonia leaves are used for binding, etc. Would it pay to cultivate that plant in eastern New York state? J. K.

Mahonia aquifolia, commonly called the holly-leaved mahonia, is a native species which is valuable for decorative planting. The shining, prickly leaves are also fine in design work. Unfortunately, the plant is not reliably hardy in your latitude and needs careful protection to winter it. The foliage usually gets badly scorched in your part of New York state and the plants are not infrequently cut to the ground. Further south this is a useful shrub for florists to grow. C. W.

FOR SALE

THE FAMOUS ULLRICH GREENHOUSES, OF TIFFIN, OHIO.

Sale made necessary by the death of the owner, Lewis Ullrich, well known to the floral world. Tiffin is one of the most progressive towns in northwestern Ohio. Good shipping facilities, good schools, in fact, an ideal place to live and do business in. There are on the Ullrich lands sixty thousand or more feet of glass, and well stocked. Two substantial residences, one recently completed, barn, sheds, bulb and cut flower cellars, wagon shed, tools, wagons, in fact, a complete equipment. Located on one of the principal streets of the city. Land for growing stock. Floral store, white enamel fixtures, located down town, and everything there required by a first-class floral store, and practically new. Everything must be sold to settle up the estate. A bargain for the right man. No others need apply. For further information address

EDMUND J. ULLRICH, Administrator,
Sycamore Street, Tiffin, Ohio.

Floral Plant For Sale

To close up the estate of Ivend Krohn, deceased, the floral business conducted by him at Morris, Illinois, sixty miles from Chicago, will be sold at a bargain.

The business has been long established as a wholesale and retail plant. It contains six acres of ground with three new greenhouses, 125 feet by 28 feet, and twelve smaller houses. It is stocked with 5000 fine Pink and White Killarney roses, 800 Richmond, 3500 carnations, 7000 mums, 5 benches of Sprengeri, a lot of calla lilies and bedding plants. On the premises are one twelve-room house with all modern conveniences, and one five-room cottage, in good condition, big packing shed, cellar and barn, 2 artesian wells, wind mill and steam pump; three boilers; about 600 fruit trees and all kinds of small fruit.

Only the death of the proprietor places this plant on the market.

Title to property will be shown good, and easy terms of payment given.

HOUSE AND BEDDING PLANTS.

I should like to get a list of good house and bedding plants.

R. L. S.

The number of house and bedding plants you could grow is legion. Some of those most in demand and of comparatively easy culture, as house plants, are: Nephrolepis, Ficus elastica, fuchsias, zonale geraniums, show pelargoniums, tuberous rooted begonias, gloxinias, hydrangeas; dracænas, particularly Australis; Primula obconia, Sinensis and Kewensis; cyclamens, kentias, petunias, azaleas, lilies, rambler roses, spiræas, marguerites, genistas, Asparagus plumosus, Asparagus Sprengeri, Jerusalem cherries, chrysanthemums and poinsettias. Probably you will not want to grow all these varieties, but such as are most likely to sell should be tried.

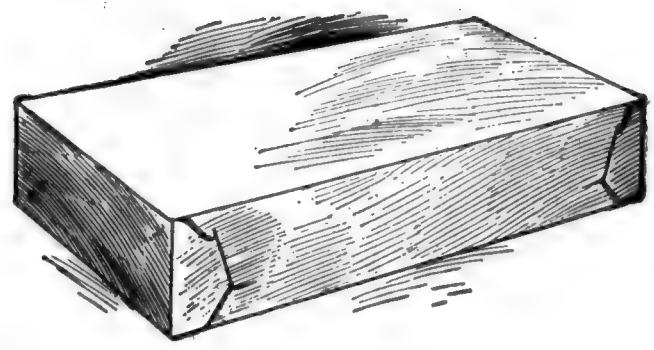
In bedding plants, such geraniums as Ricard, S. A. Nutt, La Favorite, Beaute Poitevine, Marquis de Castellane, E. H. Trego, Jean Viaud, Paul Crampel, Dryden, Jacquerie and John Doyle always sell. Cannas are in great request; so are scarlet salvias, heliotropes, petunias, verbenas, variegated and green vincas for vases and boxes, dahlias, coleus, alternantheras, ageratums, asters, English and German ivies and lobelias. In early spring, pansies, forget-me-nots, double daisies and English primroses are popular. C. W.

SOUNDS FAMILIAR.



A retail dealer who says he is sick and tired of reading the ordinary line of "bunk" some manufacturers hand out about their factories, writes the following to the Boot and Shoe Recorder:

My store is located on one side of a street, paved principally with Illinois mud. The front portion of the store I use for windows. These are made of glass, set in square frames. The door is also in the front of the store, of the most approved pattern, opening on hinges. At the bottom of the store I placed the floor, reserving the top of the room for the ceiling. The walls are at the side and run straight up. An improved Jewel heating stove is part of the equipment, and in the year 1907 I put in a new 8-inch stovepipe, two feet longer than the other one. I use the wall space for a variegated stock of shoes, some of which I had the misfortune to buy four years ago. The shoes are kept in pasteboard cartons. A number of chairs are scattered about the premises and are used principally for customers to sit on.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The local wholesalers say that last week was a dull one and that stock of all kinds moved slowly. Reports from the retailers are also to the effect that the week was a mighty dull one and, aside from funeral work, there was little going on. This is convention week and the large delegation of florists from here will make things rather lonely in the wholesale district for this week.

Stock of all kinds is plentiful, and the florist with a big job on hand can have things his own way, as prices are governed by the quantity bought. This is especially true of asters, roses and gladioli. Killarney roses are arriving in great abundance and the hot weather has caused shipments to come in bad condition, especially such shipments as have had a night's ride in the express car. Asters are more satisfactory, but there is a great glut of them and they sell at extremely low prices. An abundance of gladioli is still being received from local growers, but the quality is not so good as a few weeks ago. Carnations are of poor quality and mostly field-grown.

Hydrangeas, cosmos, tuberose stalks and a raft of other outdoor stock come in daily and can be had at any of the wholesale markets.

Various Notes.

Our old friend, Dan MacRorie, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., San Francisco, Cal., spent a day in the city last week. With him there was a party of San Francisco florists, including Mr. and Mrs. Julius Eppstein, A. J. Rossi and H. Plath. They were booming the S. A. F. convention for Frisco in 1915, and with that in view they left for the convention city on Thursday night, August 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Weber left on Wednesday night, August 14, for a trip east. Their first stop will be at Atlantic City, N. J. Their trip will occupy the rest of this month.

William Dee, of the C. Young & Sons Co. force, has returned from a month's vacation, which was spent at Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash. His return has enabled James Arata, head of the cut flower department, to attend the convention. William C. Young, vice-president of the firm, also made the trip to Chicago.

David Geddes, who is with F. H. Weber, has returned from Pittsburgh, where he went to visit a sick brother. Mrs. Geddes will remain at Pittsburgh until the first part of October.

John M. Connon, of the Connon Floral Co., at Webster Groves, Mo., left August 14 for an extended western trip. Portland, Ore., will be his first stop.

The Bentzen Floral Co. had an extensive decoration of booths at the Coliseum last week. They were assisted by John Barnard. This work was all for the North St. Louis business men. Their own booth was quite handsome, with a big pond of goldfish in the center.

Grimm & Gorly also had a pretty booth during the week at the Coliseum. Both Vincent and Frank are at Chicago this week.

Otto Berning, Arthur Kring and Otto Niehaus are in charge at Berning's while the boss and Mrs. Berning are taking in the sights at the S. A. F. convention at Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Angermueller and Harry Schlechter have returned from a month's motoring trip as far west as Colorado. They left for Chicago on Monday, with the St. Louis delegation.

Frank Windler, vice-president of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., is representing his firm at the S. A. F. convention in Chicago.

The Mullanphy Flower Co. will soon occupy the new store at 3514 to 3518 North Grand avenue. With this branch, they will have the largest retail flower stores in North St. Louis.

Werner Bros., of Clayton, Mo., had a fine cut of Killarney roses last week. Their cut was large and of extra good quality, with long stems. The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. will again handle their output this season.

state vice-president for southern Illinois, took his delegation to the convention over the Wabash railroad, leaving here at 1:30 p. m. He had quite a large party.

Frank Fillmore and Frank, Jr., are busy planting their carnations. A house of Pink Delight is finished. Repainting and alterations are also well under way.

John Held has several houses planted to mums and in fine shape. He also has a large field of Christmas Cheer carnation plants.

Joe Matter, a florist on the Watson road, was reported to be quite ill last week. He had his heart set on taking in the convention, but was not able to attend.

William C. Smith, with Mrs. Smith, is vacationing at Blue Springs Lodge, Mo. He writes that they are having a great time. Fishing is good, but hunting is dull. He says that bull moose and elephants are scarce in that locality.

Fred Ostertag, of Ostertag Bros., has been seriously ill during the last week, and is reported by his brother, Henry, as being no better.

The Grimm & Gorly baseball team defeated the Mullanphy team on Sunday, August 18, by a score of 8 to 1.

Chicago convention left here on Monday, August 19, at 9 a. m. It was a jolly crowd and by the time this issue is in the hands of the readers will be enjoying the hospitalities of our Chicago friends. J. J. B.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

Business was fair the latter part of last week, with some large funeral orders, the store of S. E. Thompson having quite a lot of them. Sunday, August 18, was all bustle here, with a large parade of the Federation of Catholic Societies, this being one of the largest we have had for quite a while. However, it didn't help the cut flower business much, as there were only a few decorations of ferns and palms.

Quite a good lot of asters are coming into the market and find a ready sale.

Henry Konzman, representing D. Rusconi, Cincinnati, O., was a caller the latter part of last week on his way home from the south. G. B. T.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Charles N. Page, Des Moines, Ia.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE Oxley Seed Co. is being organized at Gibson City, Ill.

C. H. KENNEDY has opened a seed store on Lemon street, Palatka, Fla.

E. E. CONANT, Bartow, Fla., has sold his seed business to R. M. Oglesby.

THE Eber Seed Co., Quincy, Ill., has been incorporated with $15,000 capital stock, by Suzanna Eber, Wm. H. Eber and Eugene Eber.

PRACTICALLY all the large catalogue and retail seed houses have been strongly represented at the florists' convention at Chicago this week.

WHILE peas are not by any means a good crop, the reports are more cheerful than was the case at the opening of the season. Threshing has begun.

IT is reported that J. W. Edmundson, sales manager of the Braslan Seed Growers Co., has tendered his resignation to that firm and will not be with them after the completion of the present harvest.

W. ATLEE BURPEE is devoting practically his whole energy to fighting the zone plan and to advocating "a real parcels post." He favors the Sulzer bill, introduced in the House July 27.

THE German Nursery & Seed House, of Beatrice, Neb., has filed articles of incorporation. The company is capitalized at $100,000, of which $75,000 is paid up. The incorporators are Mr. Sondregger and his four sons, Charles, Fred, Ernest and Arthur.

THE reports from Holland are to the effect that the tulip crop in general is below the average, yet a grower's list just to hand offers no less than 900,000 bulbs. The season, originally early, has fallen back to the point where shipments are promised for about the same dates as last year, possibly one boat later.

BOW PARK FARM, owned and operated by Dominion Canners, Ltd., Brantford, Canada, said to be the Dominion's largest seed and experimental farm, writes: "We are threshing a part of our peas and, although the threshing is not finished yet, we find that we have a medium crop. From reports we have received from other sections, we come to the conclusion that the total pea crop of Canada will be in all probability less than an we are able to offer to our customers (and others whom we should like to be our customers) those strains for which we have had a reputation for three generations, and to give decided advantage equally in quality and price. We live among and personally handle and select the majority of our stocks, for our farm lands are not trial grounds merely. This is an important point and should carry weight with those in the trade who are earnestly seeking to obtain their supplies not only of best quality but first hand.

Our special prices, independent and real, and always up-to-date, are now ready for all kinds of Garden, Flower and Farm Seeds (also choice true Langport-grown Sweet Peas), for delivery for fall 1912, also 1913. We should like again to lay emphasis on the fact that farming our own freehold land (300 acres under cultivation) and living on and in the midst of the best land in England, we are in an almost unique position to supply the wants of all Seedsmen and Nurserymen and all buyers of high class seeds at very reasonable prices first hand.

average crop. Some fields will give a good crop, but the majority will be below medium. It is regrettable that many peas of poor quality and untrue to name have been sown. It is difficult to get first-class stock seed."

THE Champaign Seed Co., Champaign, Ill., has been incorporated with $10,000 capital, to do a commission seed business. The incorporators are Geo. B. Ransom, May B. Ransom and Bert C. Henness.

THE steamer from Holland that reached New York August 13 had 63 cases of bulbs, consigned as follows: Maltus & Ware, 21; Bernard, Judae & Co., 3; J. W. Hampton, Jr., & Co., 7; M. D. T. Co., 26; P. C. Kuyper & Co., 6.

THE Gurney Seed & Nursery Co., Yankton, S. D., has had a successful year and has increased its capital stock to $100,000, $65,000 of which is common, paid up; $35,000, six per cent, preferred, redeemable by the company in five years at par with accrued interest. It also is building a new tree storage and packing house 64x100 feet, concrete and up to date. If this tree storage plant is completed in time, two 150-foot greenhouses will be erected this fall.

LOS ANGELES SEED NOTES.

Fall trade is already beginning and the retailers are preparing for it by getting popular seeds packeted up ready. The prevalent idea seems to be that the seed crops generally are in better condition than was at one time thought, but sweet peas are extremely short.

C. Winsel is digging lily ponds at the Montebello place, and will use waste water from irrigating to grow them in. Considering the short time he has been at work, the place looks remarkably well and reflects great credit on him.

"BURPEE'S FLORISTS' SEEDS GROW" and are the Best Seeds that can be grown

QUALITY IS THE FIRST CONSIDERATION in Burpee's Seeds—the best possible quality regardless of the cost of production—that is the rule with all Burpee's Seeds. While our prices may be higher than those of some other houses, yet the quality of the seeds in every case warrants the prices charged. We aim always to excel in quality rather than to compete in price.

Burpee's Seeds are Grown by Burpee!

As a rule, this is absolutely true. Those varieties of seeds that cannot be produced to the highest standard of excellence upon our own farms are raised under private contract, subject to our personal inspection during growth, in such sections of America and Europe as long experience has shown to be best adapted to their proper development. Ordinarily, we buy no seeds on the open market.

Those who once use Burpee's Seeds continue to want them year after year.

Burpee's Blue List for 1912 contains 146 pages, with hundreds of half-tone and engraved illustrations. Within the pages of this catalogue we have condensed an experience of thirty-five years both in handling and the actual growing of seeds. If you garden for profit (that is, sell your products in the market) you are entitled to a copy of this complete and easily understood catalogue. It is sent only to growers for market, for we must protect the trade.

Of any florists who have not used Burpee's Seeds all that we ask is a fair comparative trial—no matter how small your first order may be. Shall we send you a "Blue List"?

ture in the line of seed testing, is manifest from an inspection of the catalogues of more than fifty of the principal seed dealers of the country.

"All of the firms referred to make definite statements that they test their seeds for germination. Nine firms advise purchasers to send samples either to the seed testing laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture or to a state experiment station to be tested. Seven firms state that they themselves follow this course in regard to the seeds they offer and that the seeds are thereby officially guaranteed to be of the high grade represented. Six firms allow a stated time for making a test, advise purchasers to make such test on receipt of seeds, and request the return of seeds which do not satisfactorily meet the test.

"Five firms state that the seeds they are selling comply with state laws, and a number of firms give the percentage of purity and germination in compliance with state laws.

"These statements indicate that competition between seed dealers is becoming more and more a competition based on quality—a healthful tendency from the standpoint of both customers and honest dealers."

enabled to successfully hold a flower show annually.

An S. A. F. Annual.

I have elsewhere mentioned that the publication of an annual by this society would be of practical value to our membership. This annual could contain, in addition to the report of the proceedings as now published annually, much material of trade value and interest. If all our national societies were affiliated, the one publication might embrace the proceedings of all the societies. Additionally, could be given all the facts and data of horticultural progress from year to year, with condensed reports of the various exhibitions taking place during the year, together with fixtures for the year following. It should contain a list of American novelties seeing the light during the year and the varieties certificated by the various societies. It would necessarily have to be a progressive book; that is to say, built on the idea of a calendar, increasing in value from year to year as the data became available. The actual value of such a book would depend, in a great measure, upon the one into whose hands it would be entrusted for publication. The cost of the work would,

Owing to the backward season in California, all Winter and late Sweet Pea Seed will be late in maturing. To avoid late deliveries, I will send all early orders of Winter Sweet Pea Seed directly from our ranch in Lompoc, Cal. These will reach my farthest customers not later than August 10th, saving over four weeks' time. Send all letters of importance to Lompoc, Cal. We will have all the leading colors and many novelties. Orders booked now.

My new list of Winter Sweet Pea Seed has been mailed. If you have not received a copy, ask for one.

Here is a testimonial from one of many satisfied customers:

Mt. Airy, Md., Feb. 26, 1912.

Dear Sir:—We have been cutting very fine peas this season from your stock. Stems 18 and 20 inches, with 3, 4 and 5 flowers, and in several instances with 6 flowers to a stem. You deserve and receive great honor from the trade for bringing Winter flowering Sweet Peas to their present high position in the market. You have already done more for the florist than the great Burbank will ever do.

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" CHRISTMAS

FLOWERING SWEET PEAS

WE ARE SUPER-HEADQUARTERS

¶ All true stocks of Winter-flowering Sweet Peas will be scarce this season. Some varieties are a total failure owing to the exceptional season in California this Spring. Our advice to intending planters is to order at once. ¶ Mr. William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., the great Winter Sweet Pea specialist, sows our seed almost exclusively. ¶ Our stocks of Christmas-flowering Sweet Peas have stood the test for years, and we can refer you to the largest growers of this increasingly popular flower, as to the trueness and quality of our seed, earliness of blooming period and strength and habit of plants. ¶ The following varieties are the "best by test" and include Zvolanek's and our own introductions, grown for seed from selected stocks by the leading California grower and specialist in Sweet Peas. ¶ Our output last year was nearly 3000 lbs. Few kicks and plenty of testimonials as to quality, germination and trueness to type. ¶ We can make immediate delivery of the following:

BODDINGTON'S EXTRA-EARLY CHRISTMAS WHITE SNOWBIRD. An exceptionally early Sweet Pea for indoor flowering—will bloom six weeks after sowing. Color, clear white, upon long stems; habit fairly dwarf and of exceptionally free flowering qualities. Without doubt the finest early white for indoor planting. We sell one grower in Pennsylvania 35 lbs. of this variety every year; name on application. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

BODDINGTON'S CHRISTMAS PINK. This is the earliest and most profitable and useful Sweet Pea in cultivation, as by sowing the seed under glass in latter part of August, flowers can be cut from Thanksgiving on during the Winter months. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

BODDINGTON'S CHRISTMAS WHITE. A companion to our Christmas Pink. Just as free and profuse a bloomer. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

ANGELINO. Self pink; new variety. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $4.50.

CANARY. Similar to the above, but flowers of an exceptionally good yellow. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.75, lb. $3.00.

CHRISTMAS METEOR. Scarlet; fine open red flower. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

CHRISTMAS STELLA MORSE. Creamy buff standard, wings slightly tinged with pink. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $4.50.

FLAMINGO. Color scarlet; free flowering and early. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $5.00.

FLORENCE DENZER. Pure white. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

LE MARQUIS. This is the same color as Princess of Wales, violet; has very large flowers. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

MRS. ALEX. WALLACE. Lavender; very scarce. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

MRS. F. J. DOLANSKY. Daybreak pink. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.25, lb. $4.00.

MRS. GEO. LEWIS. Large, pure white, wavy flower. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

MRS. E. WILD. Carmine or dark pink. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

MRS. HANNAN. Deep rose-pink; very pleasing shade. Oz. 40 cts., ¼-lb. $1.25, ½-lb. $2.00, lb. $3.50.

MRS. W. W. SMALLEY. Satiny pink. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.75, lb. $3.00.

MRS. WILLIAM SIM. Salmon-pink. Oz. 30 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

MRS. ZVOLANEK. Blue, variegated. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $5.00.

MISS HELEN M. GOULD. White, open flower; standard lilac, marbled. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

MISS JOSEY REILLY. Lilac; very large flowers. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

I believe, be met in considerable part through advertising patronage.

Parcel Post and Postal Reforms.

Inasmuch as both our great political parties now realize the fact that the parcel post must become an established institution of the United States, the work which now remains is for us to assist other organized bodies in the endeavor to bring about a genuine parcel post and not a "make believe" —a parcel post institution that will be of advantage to the business men of the country, as well as to the masses, and not one that will work into the hands of the organized express or other interests. The subject is one which demands the closest attention, and I will not attempt to go into details or advocate the passage of any particular measure now before Congress, as, of the several bills now before one house or the other, there are none which are to be recommended in their entirety. I would counsel all our members to watch their daily and trade papers most carefully, and to take such action as may be recommended by these journals, assisted by their own good common sense. In this connection, it has been proved, without doubt, that if you write your congressmen and senators, with conviction, a letter expressing politely but forcibly the result of your own thought in the matter, it will be given attention. My recommendation is that we pass a resolution on this floor, calling for the enactment of a parcel post bill which will give us the same low rates and privileges as to parcel post as are now being enjoyed by the people of nearly every European country. We cannot attempt to make rates, but we can protest against the charges being made so high as to render the institution of parcel post a farce.

The Trade Press.

To our trade press much is due for the advancement of horticulture in the twenty years that have passed, and for the unremitting efforts of the directors of these publications to keep us in the vanguard of events should our utmost thanks be expressed. As conducted, they keep us apprised of everything that is going on in our line throughout the entire country, often obtaining their news at great expense. Added to their educational side, they conduct business for us at extremely small returns to themselves; in fact, they act as brokers, spending the money received for advertising in efforts to improve their service to their subscribers. We have no figures showing the amount of money which changes hands as a result of the advertising contained in the columns of our trade papers, but it certainly must run up into several millions of dollars a year.

The great advantage which our trade possesses over other lines of business in its use of these papers lies in the fact that it obtains direct returns from its advertising as against the very indirect and sometimes wholly unsatisfactory returns obtained by the general advertiser, who may spend thousands of dollars in a campaign of education of the people, where it is only necessary for us to spend our tens.

The Convention Sports.

These result in decided pleasure to a great proportion of those who attend. Were it not for the sports, the probabilities are that attendance at our meetings would be considerably reduced in number. It is also true that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." To the sports and games there can be and is no objection, but these events should be arranged so as not to interfere whatsoever with the business program. For that reason, I would urge that all sports take place on the fourth day of the convention, our day of recreation. All business having then been transacted, everyone could enjoy the games, whether it be a bowling match, shooting, or the races, and so on, and I believe each and every member would appreciate the privilege of being able to attend. As the sports program is now conducted, many of us cannot be present on account of other duties.

Finale.

I am proud to be your presiding officer this year. Let us come together during this meeting to the material benefit of ourselves and of all mankind, so that when we leave this wonderful city we may return home rejoicing in the knowledge gained, the friendships renewed and the new ones made, which will cement us in stronger bonds to the ends of our lives.

Generosity of thought and action is an attribute of the florist, because we live close to nature, and no body of men and women anywhere stands more ready to extend a helping hand to a brother or sister in trouble. We are becoming more broad-minded as we mingle with the world, more united for progress and the general distribution of our discoveries in order that our fellow tradesmen may be benefited.

Let us strive to increase the love of flowers universally, not only for our own selfish or money making purpose, but for the elevation of mankind. Neither should we confine our efforts to our own country, but let us make use of them freely wherever we can extend our cult from country to country the world over, in the endeavor to bring about that peace and good will which will ultimately reign throughout the world and bring us into one brotherhood of communion and fellowship. I thank you yet again for your attention and your welcome.

has made good and we have had high praise for it. Having perfected this strain TRUE FROM SEED

I can now distribute it to any part of the Globe. Figuring increased expense to get perfect seed, principally on account of drought, I am forced to make a uniform price of $1.00 per packet of over 500 seeds; 3 packets $2.50; ½ packet 60c. This is new crop seed, absolutely pure and true, grown upon our premises under my personal supervision, and is backed by my reputation and guarantee.

The Market.

Business continues quiet in the market. Asters easily overtop all other flowers in importance. The flowers of the early varieties are now getting smaller, but are overabundant. The late kinds are not in good crop, yet some of the ostrich plume section are remarkably fine. The best command $1.50 per hundred, while some small flowers can scarcely be moved at this price per thousand. Gladioli from outdoors are now plentiful and are hard to move. Augusta, America and Mrs. King continue the favorites. Sweet peas have been coming longer stemmed, but the frequent rains and humid weather make them weather-marked.

In roses Kaiserins are in strong demand, and for the season are fine in quality. Tafts, Wards, Beauties and Christy Millers are other favorites. There is a heavy overplus of short stemmed stock. Two thousand flowers for $1, sold August 17, did not leave much profit for the grower.

Carnations are few and poor in quality. Valley sells tolerably well. Cosmos is more abundant and in fair demand. Miscellaneous annuals and perennials are little called for. Cattleyas are practically nil. It took a lot of scurrying around for a leading retailer to secure a dozen blooms August 17. Asparagus and adiantum are plentiful, but the call for these is slim.

Various Notes.

The Boston delegation to the S. A. F. convention left the South Station at 2 p. m., August 18. They comfortably filled a special car. A good number of friends gave them a hearty send-off. Among those making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Patten, Mr. and Mrs. Goddard, William Sim, E. Allan Peirce, J. K. M. L. Farquhar, Patrick Welch, W. J. Stewart, Frank Gibbs, B. Hammond Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bartsch and W. A. McAlpine. Some of the party will return at the end of the week, but others will spend some additional time in and around Chicago.

The wholesale flower markets are receiving their annual overhauling and cleaning, preparatory to the auction sales of stalls August 31. The Boston Coöperative Market anticipates a record sale, as quite a number of additional growers are applying for stalls.

J. Leach & Sons, of North Easton, are strong at present on gladioli and asters at the Boston Coöperative Market.

McAlpine Bros. have their large new

French Grown Golden and Silver Spur NARCISSI

(For Immediate Delivery)

N. B —Do not confuse these with French Trumpet Majors; they are entirely different, and flowers are much superior. For Early Flowering they are exceedingly useful, blooming as they do two to three weeks before the Holland grown stock.

Somerville, N. J., Jan. 19th, 1912.
Mr. A. T. Boddington. Dear Sir:—The "Silver Spur" Narcissus bulbs received from you last August flowered on the 10th inst. They are a welcome addition to the list of early-flowering Narcissus. Being earlier than Empress—which it resembles in color—will undoubtedly make it valuable commercially. We think so well of it that it will partly displace the early trumpets on our future Bulb list. Very truly yours,
(Signed) A. A. Macdonald.

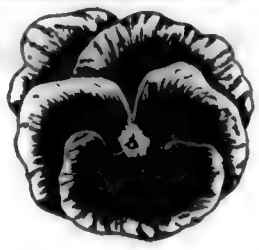
rose house at Exeter planted and will soon start cutting. They are sending in some fine summer flowers from their older houses.

J. Newman & Sons, on Tremont street, are having good summer business in funeral work. They are catering also for steamer orders and report good business in this line of late.

J. W. Duncan, of Spokane, a past president of our local Gardeners' and Florists' Club, looked up many of his old friends while here last week at the Park Superintendents' convention. He will visit establishments in New York and Philadelphia before returning to the northwest.



J. M. Cohen, the popular salesman at the Boston Coöperative Market, is spending his vacation at St. Albans Bay, Vt.

Mrs. J. W. Rogers, the Summer street florist, is doing a nice summer trade. In addition to cut flowers and plants, she carries seeds, bulbs and fertilizers, which are attractively displayed.

Johnson Knight, the courteous manager of the Boston Coöperative Market, is back from his vacation, spent at Nahant, Mass.

William Swan, for the last nine years in charge of the Hooper estate at West Manchester, Mass., and one of the most successful of the north shore growers, will assume the management of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter's estate, at Beverly Farms, Mass., September 1.

Eugene O'Hara, a former resident here, but now in charge of the nursery department of the Portland Seed Co., Portland, Ore., visited old friends in this vicinity last week.

"THE KENILWORTH STRAIN" of

GIANT PANSY SEED

Must not be compared with the flimsy Trimardeau

It is much larger and of good substance; the immense flowers, of 3½ to 4 inches are of perfect form, and every tint and shade is produced in striking combinations and endless variations of beautiful colors and markings. The Stock Plants are most critically selected. It is rich with shades of brown, bronze, red, mahogany, and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures. A. F. Barney, of the T. J. Grey Co., is spending his vacation in New Hampshire.

The Massachusetts Moss Greenery Co., at the Boston Coöperative Market, has added a wire design department. Bert F. Sloan is their salesman.

The W. W. Edgar Co. has just finished building new cement pits. They have a grand stock of both pot and field-grown hydrangeas, while they are extra strong on Lorraines, cyclamens, genistas and poinsettias.

Mann Bros., of Randolph, are now the largest shippers of gladioli and lilies to the Boston Flower Exchange.

Edgar Bros., of Waverley, have finished a large house of tomatoes and will plant it with winter flowering sweet peas. Their other houses are devoted to mums, which look well.

The exhibition of the North Shore Horticultural Society on the grounds of Mrs. R. C. Winthrop, Manchester, August 21 and 22, will as usual attract many Boston visitors.

H. M. Robinson & Co. have moved into their commodious and up-to-date offices on the second floor of their building.

Boston's swell new hotel, the Copley-Plaza, built at a cost of over $4,000,000, opened last week. Galvin supplies all the cut flowers and window boxes for this mammoth hostelry.

The finest Kaiserins in the city are those handled by A. R. Hutson for W. H. Elliott. They also have extra fine Mrs. Aaron Ward and Christy Miller. The latter proves to be an extra good summer rose.

Robert W. Grey, of Soledad, Cienfuegos, Cuba, sailed for home via New York August 17. He looks well and his many friends here were pleased to see him. He is doing a fine work in raising improved sugar canes by hybridization and now has eight acres of splendid varieties, which are a great advance on the older types.

The business outlook in Boston and throughout New England is excellent. Building statistics for 1912 to date are $20,000,000 ahead of any previous year and all our leading industries are anticipating prosperous times.

Carbone's, on Boylston street, are having a good summer trade. They have done a greatly increased business in sundries, of which they have a good exhibit at the convention this week.

The Boston Flower Co. is having an excellent call for its artificial shower casket covers and has made up several within the last few days. This company sells a great many roses, putting up twenty-five in a box for 50 cents. The bargain price appeals to many.

New houses for orchids and pot fruit trees are being erected for Colonel H. E. Converse, Marion, Mass., where D. F. Roy has charge.

The Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. has a fine collection of dahlias and gladioli at its trial grounds. At the store they report a brisk call for grass seeds and bulbs.

The Best Investment Any Beginner Can Make

FLORISTS' PUBLISHING CO., Caxton Building, 330 Dearborn St., CHICAGO

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business is down to the summer level, and there is little activity in the trade. Most of the flower buying public is out of the city, but an occasional funeral helps to utilize the surplus. Carnations are almost out of the market and of poor grade, and asters are rapidly displacing them in demand.

Gladioli are unusually choice and have proved a fine seller this season. The market is deluged with rubrums, which seem hard to move at any price. Sweet peas are poor, with no salable stock obtainable; this has been a hard year for the sweet pea growers.

Various Notes.

Steele's Mastodon Pansy Gardens report sales far in advance of former years, especially in the seed department, which has grown by rapid strides.

The Portland Seed Co. is building a five-story warehouse on East Alder street, this being necessary to take care of their increasing business.

While there is considerable interest centered on the convention in Chicago, so far as known no one is in attendance from this city.

Byron H. Ives, Albuquerque, N. M., was a recent visitor.

Martin & Forbes are remodeling the store these quiet days, getting everything in readiness for the coming season.

The Florists' Club has arranged to go out in a body August 27 to the Oregon Nursery Co., Orenco, Ore., on a tour of inspection.

John Gill, of West Berkeley, Cal., was a week-end caller. E. R. C.

VICTORIA, B. C.

The Market.

Trade here is of the summer variety; little doing and good stock none too plentiful. Most of the growers have thrown out their old carnations and in consequence the price has risen from 25 and 35 cents to 50 and 60 cents per dozen.

Sweet peas, usually so fine here, are this year a great disappointment. The seed used is practically all imported direct from England and includes the newest varieties. This year almost everyone has been troubled with a disease that seems identical with the tomato stripe and affects the plants the same way. The usual remedies have all been tried, but without success. Perhaps our young Canadian "Burbank," from Brampton, can tell us a remedy for it. It is so bad with the leading amateur growers that it has been thought advisable to hold no sweet pea exhibition this year.

Various Notes.

At the last meeting of the Florists' Club the matter of duty on nicotine preparations for spraying and fumigating purposes was taken up. The meeting was strongly of the opinion that thirty-three per cent was a great deal too much duty to pay on this class of goods, and it was decided to petition the provincial government to take the matter up with the governments of the various provinces and make a united appeal to the Dominion government to reduce or repeal the tax in the interest of horticulture. It is hoped that any other Canadian clubs which see this will do likewise.

The weather this summer has been remarkable. Usually three or four of the summer months are dry. This year we have had a great deal of cloudy weather and some quite heavy rains.

The florists' picnic was held August 7 at Goldstream, a most beautiful canyon in the mountains of the interior. Old-timers who were of the party assured us there was still plenty of the yellow metal to be had for the washing, but we were all so busy forgetting such things as greenhouses that their veracity was not put to the test.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Funeral work and some few decorations form the principal outlet for flowers now, and with the quantity of stock of all kinds arriving, it takes some pretty tall hustling on the part of the wholesalers to make anything like a decent clean-up. Asters are arriving in extra large quantities and the quality in most cases is excellent. All colors are well represented, though good reds are a little scarce at times. Gladioli are also too plentiful and the quality leaves nothing to be desired. Mrs. Francis King and America are especially fine. Rubrum lilies are arriving in good shape and come in extremely useful for funeral work. Indoor roses are good for the season, especially My Maryland, which stands up well. There are quite a number of good outdoor roses also coming in, Maman Cochet and White Cochet being among the best. Carnations are short in the stem, but otherwise the quality is good. Centaurea in all the popular colors helps out and stands well. Coreopsis is bright and telling, but not much in demand. Valley still keeps in good demand and runs along about even with the supply. The demand for orchids is not large, but the stock offered is good. Greens of all kinds are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Manager Charles Morton, of the Los Angeles Flower Market, took a trip in his Buick to San Diego August 11, business at the store being in charge of his brother, Will. Fine stocks of all classes of flowers are on hand, and I noted some fine statice. This long-lasting flower is in considerable demand. The gladioli and asters are extra fine here.

Tassano Bros. are showing particularly fine pink Cochet roses from the Eagle Rock grounds. The new-crop Mexican ivy is coming in excellent shape. Tony says he has planted some 20,000 Asparagus plumosus at Edendale and intends to go into this still more largely.

Morris Goldenson was seen in the store with his coat off and working one day last week. The explanation is that Walter Garbett was away on vacation and the funeral work was overplentiful. Morris has promised not to offend again. The funeral of a relative of President Schneider of the Boston Store led to a lot of work, one beautiful pall being included.

H. N. Gage has returned from his trip with big stacks of orders. Asparagus plumosus seed is still selling freely, and business keeps up well in the cut flower end.

Frank Lichtenberg is down with a severe attack of nerve strain. He has been working at a fast clip of late and looking far from well, and is now down and out temporarily. All his friends in the trade wish him a speedy recovery. Mrs. Lichtenberg and the staff at the store are finding plenty to do.

O. C. Saakes uses up a good deal of Amaryllis Belladonna in his funeral work; the stock is the product of his ranch near Redondo. Trade keeps up well here for the season.

Staiger & Mundwiler are progressing with their new place at Lomita. Mr. Mundwiler is putting in a good deal of his time there, while Mr. Staiger stays at the city place. There is a lot of good stock at the latter place that begins to need more room, and this they will have at Lomita.

S. Murata reports city trade as fair, but the shipping business is excellent. His high grade asters are extra fine.

Everyone in the trade was sorry to hear that Viola Dieterich, youngest daughter of Jacob Dieterich, had been taken ill with appendicitis. At the time of writing she was reported much better and it was hoped that no operation would be necessary.

Harry Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, of Montebello, have gone on a trip to San Diego.

Dieterich & Turner are busy getting the new land in order, and in the evenings Mr. Turner tours around the delightful country hereabouts in his big Stoddard-Dayton, which he now handles as efficiently as he handles his roses. His partner takes a ride with him occasionally and, although sticking to the horse as yet, "Jake" will have to come in line sooner or later.

H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The weather is turning cooler, the days are getting shorter and the fall season will soon be here. With the returning of the town folks from the country, trade is on the mend and the month of August is fully as good as that of one year ago. In a general way it may be said that flowers of all kinds are cheaper than they usually are even at this time. Asters were never better or sold at so low a price, and the same can be said of everything seasonable. Carnations are good and cheap. This can be explained by the fact that we have had, on the whole, an unusually cool summer. At no time was there a sufficiently long spell of hot days to bring any excess of stock; besides, there has been no trouble to keep flowers on hand for a few days with the chance of finding a possible demand.

At the present writing even roses are fine, both in color and form. Other lines, such as dahlias, gladioli, amaryllis, lilies, violets and hardy flowers, while not moving fast, are in fair demand. Valley and orchids are in fair supply.

Various Notes.

William Hamlin, well known to the gardening fraternity in this neighborhood, has returned from a year's visit to England.

James Forbes and wife, of Portland, Ore., are in town on a short visit.

John Gill, of the E. Gill Nursery Co., of West Berkeley, is on a trip to Seattle and vicinity.

The annual fall flower show, given under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, will be held at the Fairmount hotel, October 23 to 26. A. J. Rossi will be manager and H. Plath assistant manager. Several valuable prizes will be awarded, including a magnificent cup, valued at $250, donated by Mrs. James L. Flood.

Ernest Ludwig, formerly foreman at the Burbank Seed Farms, Elmhurst, Cal., has severed his connection with that firm and gone to southern California. G.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

The supply of flowers this week has been far in excess of demand, and trade has been unusually quiet. Growers of outdoor stock are cutting heavily, causing a glut along all lines. Carnations are not in qnite such good demand as at last report, but the supply is not heavy and will not be so for the next six weeks. Roses are plentiful, but are not selling fast, and gladioli are a drug. Asters are plentiful, but so far are of poor quality. The bugs are working their usual havoc, and spraying seems to have little effect on them.

Most of the growers have got their carnations benched. The young stock has done well in the field and looks generally better than usual in the benches. Several growers are holding over their old plants and waging continual war on the spider. Speciosum lilies are arriving in fairly large numbers and are selling better than most flowers.

Club Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Florists' Club was held in the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening, August 13.

Officers for the ensuing season were elected, as follows: President, Thomas Wylie; vice-president, Felix Rosaia; secretary and treasurer, A. B. Matthiesen; executive committee, Joseph Stuber, Christ. Jochimson and L. P. Walz; reception committee, J. J. Bonnell, John Holze and Felix Rosaia.

The project of giving a florists' ball sometime in the winter was discussed and practically decided on. One new member was elected, and the club is prospering.

Various Notes.

A. B. Matthiesen received a shipment of roses for his greenhouses from Long Island this week. His blessings on express companies and their charges have since been loud and frequent.

Frank Elliott and George Hotchkiss made a trip to Cleveland last week, where they purpose remaining for a month or two.

C. Hoffmeister and John Holze have just returned from Vancouver, where Mr. Hoffmeister acted as judge at the flower show. They report a fairly good show, mostly confined to the local trade.

It Pays

To Pacific Coast Florists:

What stock have you for sale to the trade? Is it moving as it should? No?

Then tell the trade about it by using the Pacific Coast Pages of The Review.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash., June 26, 1912.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results.—Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

The transient rate for space is $1 per inch per insertion. Those who have stock to offer all or a considerable part of the year around should write for contract rates.

Florists' Publishing Co.
508 So. Dearborn Street CHICAGO

Business seemed to be good, both in Victoria and Vancouver. The firm of Brown Bros., in Vancouver, is carrying on an extensive trade, employing nearly 100 men, and other firms up there are doing good business.

George Antenen, of the Seattle Floral Co., has gone visiting at Chicago, intending to take in the convention as well.

The decoration of the windows of the H. Harrington Co., on Second avenue, have been remarkably pretty lately. They have used quite a number of hardy perennials with good effect.

The foundations of the city greenhouses, in Volunteer park, are built and everything is ready for the superstructures. Apparently they will be substantial erections.

The King County Fair, which opens at the Meadows September 8, will be an attraction for many flower lovers. Facilities are offered to the florists' trade to take part. T. W.

La Grande, Ore.—The La Grande Floral Co. has just completed one new house, 30x85, and opened a new store in the business part of the city.

Los Gatos, Cal.—E. E. Edmondson, the florist and nurseryman on Tait avenue, is erecting a greenhouse, said to be one of the largest in the county.

Dayton, Wash.—Harrison & Hutcheon started business here last spring with one greenhouse, 18x80, besides an office and basement, but trade has been so good and the prospects are so encouraging that they are already planning to increase their glass and will probably do so next year. They have enough land to permit all needed expansion. There is no other florist here or in the three neighboring towns.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1912-1913: Pres., Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; Vice-Pres., J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-eighth annual meeting, Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

H. HAMMERBUSH, of Decatur, Ill., is at Decatur, Ala., looking for a site for a nursery.

AT Roseburg, Ore., A. L. Kitchin and Guy Black have organized the Roseburg Nursery Co.

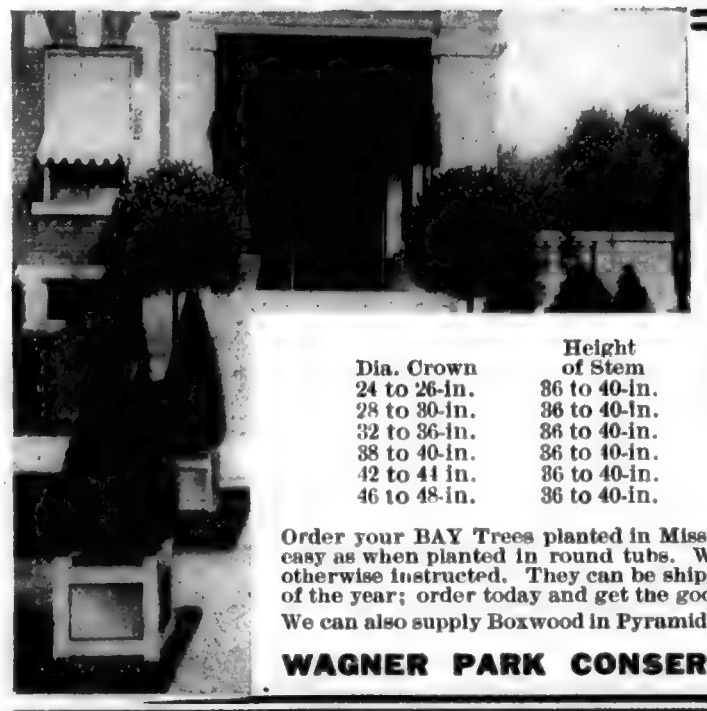
E. A. REEVES is reported to have donated 5,000 peony roots to the Cleveland park system as a means of increasing the public appreciation of the plant.

GEO. W. JOHNSON, proprietor of the Highland Nursery, Palouse, Wash., is making a collection of the agricultural products of his county to be exhibited at the Spokane Interstate Fair.

THE Birmingham Nurseries Co., Birmingham, Ala., has filed articles of incorporation, capital stock $2,000. Officers and incorporators are: W. H. Kessler, president; H. C. Wood, secretary, and S. L. Yerkes, treasurer.

ISRAEL BARNES, of Beverly Farms, Mass., who has been conducting the nursery business established by the late Jesse Pierce, has purchased some land on Pleasant street, Manchester, Mass., and will remove the business to that location.

THE German Nursery & Seed House, of Beatrice, Neb., has filed articles of incorporation. The company is capitalized at $100,000, of which $75,000 is paid up. The incorporators are Mr. Sondregger and his four sons, Charles, Fred, Ernest and Arthur.



NURSERY CONDITIONS.

In response to a letter from Frank B. White, Wm. P. Stark had the following to say in regard to nursery conditions, past, present and prospective:

"Advertising men of your wide acquaintance appreciate that the nursery trade has been undergoing a revolution. The changing conditions necessitate a change of methods. The season's trade along all lines is not up to the high-water mark of past years—a condition resulting in part from the decreasing trade in the far west.

"A few years ago nurserymen east of the Rocky mountains were unable to propagate sufficient apple trees for the western demand. Every nurseryman worked his plant to its maximum capacity; so did the nurseryman in the far west. Innumerable farmer-nurserymen sprang up over all that country, planting cheap grafts made chiefly from unmerchantable seedlings. Some years ago, after visiting the principal orchard regions of the west, I predicted just what has happened.

"The remedy is self-operating; it is a survival of the fittest.

"Strange as it may appear in the carrying of coals to Newcastle, we find that the far western nurserymen are offering and selling east, at rather low prices, two-year apple because they are overstocked. Western planters will plant but few two-year apples—there they plant practically of one-year trees. Thus market conditions shift and change. Orchard emigration will do the same thing.

"This same condition will prove true east of the Rocky mountains, because of overproduction and underconsumption; a lack of up-to-date publicity methods, and the producing of millions of apple trees by farmer-nurserymen without marketing experience, or an established trade. Thus nurserymen kill the goose that would lay them golden eggs.

"How long will it be before production and consumption are conducted along safe, sane and reasonable lines?

"Again, the survival of the fittest.

"The high prices of western orchard lands are turning away buyers of moderate means. These are heading eastward where there is yet much virgin land at almost their own price, where great fruit-growing possibilities exist, and where the country's greatest markets lie at their very doors. Therefore, even greater attention should be given to publicity development in New England, the Appalachian region, and the shores of Lake Erie and Michigan—land of wondrous and untold possibilities. Nowhere are there cheaper lands or more equable orchard climates; nowhere are the markets so conveniently and economically reached. The Michigan sweet cherries yield more generous profit than those from the Pacific coast.

"J. H. Hale has demonstrated the marvelous possibilities of New England peach growing. He is the father of the great peach industry of Georgia, and now he is destined to become an apple king. J. H. Hale, as you know, is the only man who ever declined a seat in the United States Senate. The ambition of his life has been to produce the ideal peach, which he has created in the J. H. Hale peach, a marvelous variety that will ship equal to the Delicious apple; it is a peach without fuzz, something which Burbank attempted and failed.

PEONIES

WE have been growing Peonies more than fifty years, endeavoring always to obtain and grow the best varieties obtainable, using our best endeavor at all times to have everything true to name. The best time to plant Peonies is in the fall, from September 1st until frost interferes with the work. They start root growth as soon as set. Mulch with coarse manure as soon as ground freezes. Do not apply manure among the roots at planting. Home-grown Peonies are much more desirable than imported, because these may be procured and planted much earlier than imported plants can be obtained.

"Apple growers, as well as nurserymen, have a work to do. Apple production for many years has been shrinking, in face of an increasing demand and extended markets. The secret of success is distribution. The apple crop this year promises to be one of the largest, most general crops for some years, but apple growers must not only grow high-class, quality fruit but must practice expert packing and scientific marketing which aims at reaching and supplying the masses. They must do just what has been accomplished by the California Citrus Association and the orange growers of Florida.

"The greatest trade shrinkage has developed chiefly along the dealer and agency lines, methods which have been of a missionary character, but right here conditions have changed. Economic conditions and the desire for direct business through the mails demand high-class catalogues, all of which means each year, to a greater degree, the elimination of unnecessary middlemen. Here come in the need, use and effectiveness of good advertising.

"For many years, Mr. White, I have appreciated the missionary work that you and other advertising men have been doing, in the cultivation of the possibilities for increased trade along educational lines. It is no experiment,

ORDER NOW FOR EARLY SEPTEMBER DELIVERY

PEONY ROOTS

We begin digging and shipping September 3rd. Any peony is much surer to bloom, and will be twenty per cent stronger, if moved in September, so that new rootlets may form before freezing down.

OUR STOCK IS GUARANTEED true to description and we will REPLACE WITH THREE any that prove not true. We can make this UNPARALLELED guarantee because of the extreme care we have always used in growing our stock.

The prices in our list are for stock packed for shipment. On Peony orders amounting to $100.00 or more, we will make a special discount of ten per cent. The sizes given are: DIVIDED—Strong divided plants of two to four eyes; SMALL—Are plants of one or two stalks of this year's growth, one year since divided; MEDIUM—Plants of three to five stalks, two years since divided; LARGE—Plants of six or more stalks, three years since divided. Will not supply less than six at dozen rate and twenty-five at hundred rate.

We can supply other varieties in moderate quantity, but from our many years of growing the choicest Peonies and of selling the blooms in the wholesale markets, we know the varieties listed here are the ones that produce the most money. We offer in quantity.

All are listed under colors in the order of their blooming, and described as by the American Peony Society.

because the same methods have succeeded when applied to other lines. The truth is that nurserymen have been slow to profit, but at last you men are beginning to reap from your sowing, and I predict that the nursery business of the future will show that the trade revolution has not been in vain. Go through the country as you may, speaking broadly, generally, and you know that scarcely one farmer in ten has one-tenth enough stuff planted in the way of fruits and flowers. Here the east is teaching the west a lesson."

ST. PAUL.

The Market.

Business last week took a decided drop. With continual rain and cool weather, general business has not been up to the standard, and a number of the retailers state that there is a decided dropping off as compared with the last few weeks.

Outside stock is still in its usual good form, except asters, which are showing the effects of too much wet weather. Gladioli are extremely fine, but the supply so far exceeds the demand that last week experienced a slump in that flower. Inside flowers, such as roses, carnations and mums, are fine. The demand takes care of the supply of roses and carnations, but of mums there is an oversupply.

Various Notes.

A number of St. Paul florists are attending the S. A. F. convention at Chicago this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg, of Rugby, N. D., spent a few days in St. Paul and

THE OTTO WITTBOLD NURSERY

NURSERY AND OFFICE:

EDGEBROOK, CHICAGO, ILL.

Minneapolis, and then went to the Chicago convention with the Twin City florists, who had chartered a special coach. Mr. Lindberg reports business as exceptionally good, and, judging from the crop outlook, he expects a big increase next season.

The publicity committee of the flower show is using a unique idea in advertising the show. They are procuring envelopes from all the large business houses of the Twin Cities, and at the bottom are printing in red letters, "Boost the Flower Show." As the mail from the business houses goes into the various homes, the flower show is getting considerable advertising. The merchants of the cities are anxious to lend a hand in making the show a success.

Holm & Olson are cutting at their nursery some of the largest Hydrangea grandiflora that have been seen in this city and, as the blooms are shown at the store, a great deal of comment is heard about their size.

The Acorn Greenhouses are bringing in an exceptionally fine lot of Sunburst roses. They have no trouble in disposing of them, and this coming season they expect to cut quite heavily, as they have a house planted to them.

Schwabek & Glamoos, the St. Paul wire workers, report an exceedingly good business. They also state that the out-of-town business is far better than ever before.

C. Bussjaeger had the misfortune last week of getting his arm broken. In endeavoring to free a horse that was tangled up in the halter rope, he was kicked in such a way as to break the arm above the wrist. He will be laid up, no doubt, for the next month. This happened at an especially unfortunate time for Mr. Bussjaeger, as he is in the midst of his rebuilding.

The Merriam Park Floral Co. is busy remodeling the greenhouses. This firm is cutting a fine lot of lilies.

C. Elmer Frey, of Lincoln, Neb., spent a few days visiting the florists of St. Paul and Minneapolis. The Frey family are spending the summer at their summer home at Nisswa, Minn.

The Misses Distel and Benson, of Holm & Olson's, are spending their vacations on a lake trip to Buffalo, N. Y. C. R. F.

The Market.

The market in this city is about the same as usual for this season of the year. There is not much doing outside of funeral work, and it takes a good amount of this to make any impression on the stock that is coming in. We have had, from all accounts, a fairly good August so far—just as good as any previous year; so we have no complaints to make. The stock that is coming into the market is the usual summer run of roses, asters, carnations, gladioli, lilies, peas, snapdragons, etc. Some fine roses are received, and also some that are extremely poor, but this is always the case, as it is almost impossible to get them all up to the top grade. Asters are improving and some particularly fine ones are being received. Some fine white and pink asters, grown inside by the local growers, compare favorably with early mums. This stock, of course, is all cleaned up on sight.

Sweet peas have been off crop, owing to the heavy rains, but we expect them to pick up again soon. Gladioli are plentiful. Easter lilies are good and there is just about enough of them to meet the demand. Valley is in good supply and cleaning up fairly well. Greens of all kinds are to be had and there is no shortage.

The retailers and wholesalers are getting ready for a busy season and, from the outlook at present, we are going to have a banner year. The growers in this locality have been quite busy the last two months and report everything in grand shape. Nearly all the growers are figuring for an early start and have their places all planted and in tiptop shape. There will be a lot of fine mums here this year, from the present outlook, and carnations are reported to be looking fine. The field-grown carnations are excellent this season and should give good satisfaction all around. There is a lot of this stock being shipped out of town with good success.

Various Notes.

Thos. F. Browne's new seedling carnation is looking the best of anything

Geraniums

VINCENT and Geraniums, Geraniums and Vincent, are two names that have become so intrinsically linked together in the minds of a great majority of the florists that to think of one is to think of the other, and the reason for this is that they have learned by actual experience that it is to their advantage for them to secure their raw material from a specialist in that line, the same as other manufacturers do, rather than to go to the expense of carrying a lot of surplus stock of their own. It is our business to produce the raw material in the shape of 2-inch stock, so that the finisher can get what he wants when he has the room and is ready for it.

Last season we had to disappoint a great many of our customers who failed to get their order in on time. Although we have doubled our stock this year, we would suggest that you place your order early.

DETROIT NOTES.

on his place and the indications are that he has a wonderful carnation, as the color is right and the habit seems all that could be desired.

George Browne is busy these days on his new movable house and reports everything as going along in good shape.

Fred Breitmeyer's place at Mount Clemens never looked better for this season of the year and his houses are all looking fine. The mums and roses are all that could be desired and he is justly proud of the outlook.

Robert Klagge is always on the job. His houses are all planted and the stock is looking first-class in every particular.

J. E. Carey, of Mount Clemens, has just completed a new house, which will be devoted entirely to the growing of sweet peas. Mr. Carey's son has acquired the interest of Mr. Fels in their Detroit retail store and will hereafter conduct it himself.

Louis Rush and a party consisting of President-elect J. K. Stock, Louis Charvat and John Klang, left Detroit en route for Chicago in a touring car, and when last heard from they had arrived at Wayne, Mich., eighteen miles from Detroit, after about two days' going, or rather fixing. Mr. Rush is contemplating entering the Glidden tour, with Louis Charvat as mechanic.

Peter Reuss, of Schroeter's, is sojourning in Bad Axe, Mich. Besides being a floral artist, Mr. Reuss is a walking encyclopedia on matters pertaining to politics, and is probably now delivering stump speeches.

Albert J. Stahelin, of Redford, is glazing the four new movable houses, which will be coupled to the four built last season, forming one large unit. As soon as the glazing is finished, the whole unit of eight houses will be moved north, over the ground planted with this season's carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Stahelin left Detroit Tuesday morning, August 20, for the convention city, with friends, in a powerful touring car.

Among the Detroiters attending the convention are: Robert Rahaley, Albert Pochelon, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fetters, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Scribner, Mr.

DETROIT NOTES.

and Mrs. William Hielscher, Philip Breitmeyer, Fred Breitmeyer and son John, J. F. Sullivan, Norman Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Gus. Taepke, W. B. Brown, Robert Jean, Ed. Beard, Michael Bloy and Mr. and Mrs. R. Klagge.

Breitmeyer's have just completed three new houses at their Mack avenue plant. The houses are built of material supplied by Foley Mfg. Co. and are 20 x 80, using 16 x 16 glass.

The outing of the Detroit Florists' Club, held at Bois Blanc Island on Friday, August 16, was well attended. The big feature of the day was the ball game between the retailers and wholesalers. The latter, captained by Robert Rahaley, won, after a hard struggle. A liberal list of prizes was competed for by the members in various games.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

The only improvement in local conditions that was noticeable during the last week has been in the quality of the stock that has been brought into the market. The long continued drought had a disastrous effect upon the stock, but the good, soaking rain of Sunday, August 11, made a vast difference in its appearance.

Asters are now coming to hand in larger quantities than the market is consuming, in consequence of which the prices are low. Carnations are almost entirely off the boards, but roses are in good quantity and quality, some of the growers cutting exceptionally good blooms for the summer season.

Various Notes.

At the auction sale of the extensive land holdings of Mrs. Alva E. Belmont, at Newport, a few days ago, John B. Urquhardt, gardener for R. Livingston Beeckman, purchased 43,955 square feet of land for $1,098.88; James Judd, gar-

Country Fairs are Next on the Program.
Are You Prepared?

Hit the bull's eye, be successful, and buy your exhibition plants from Godfrey Aschmann. You will surely meet with success in carrying both prizes and certificates of honor. We make a specialty of raising plants for country fairs.

READERS OF THE REVIEW

Our Specialty, the Araucaria, is so well known that an exhibit of them by us is entirely out of date, but intended customers and others are cordially invited to come direct to the spot, to the place that produces the plants for the wholesale market, profitable to every florist who buys from us.

WE COVER THE FIELD

Who? Godfrey Aschmann, the Araucaria King of Philadelphia. He and his Araucarias are more popular than pennies are with school children. No arguments needed to sell his goods; 25 years' experience in importing and shipping the Araucaria (his specialty) makes him the Araucaria King of all America. Now is the time to stock up your houses.

Araucaria Excelsa, raised from top cuttings, spring importation, 1911. 6 to 7-in. pots, 4 to 5-year-old, 5, 6, 7, 8 to 9 tiers, 25, 28, 30, 35 to 40 inches high, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 to $2.00 each.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When In Philadelphia be sure to Look Us Up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

1200 BOSTONS, 1000 WHITMANI COMPACTA (new). This stock is from the bench and is in fine condition. The Whitmani compacta is simply a greatly improved Whitmani—it does not revert back to the Boston leaf as the old Whitmani does, and while in appearance it is much like the old variety, the fronds have a stiffer mid-rib and make a handsomer plant. Stock is 5 and 6-in. size, being mostly 6-in. As these plants now occupy my propagation benches, they must be closed out early. I can quote you bargain prices. A. A. Gannett, Geneva, N. Y.

TIME REQUIRED FOR LETTUCE.

How long does it take to mature lettuce at this time of the year, and when should the seed be planted to have a crop for Thanksgiving, in this Iowa climate? J. A. & S.

In good weather, about ten weeks' time is required from the planting of the seed until the lettuce is ready to market. Head lettuce requires about two weeks' longer time. Later in the fall, with more cloudy, cool weather, it is better to figure on about twelve weeks for leaf lettuce. H. G.

FORT SMITH TRUCK GROWERS.

The truck and fruit growers in the vicinity of Fort Smith, Ark., recently held a meeting in the courthouse of that city and took the first steps toward organizing a society, which will be known as the Fort Smith Truck and Fruit Growers' Association and will be affiliated with the Ozark Fruit Growers' Association. A constitution and by-laws were adopted.

Senator P. A. Rodgers, manager of the Ozark association, addressed the meeting, stating, among other things, that Roy Campbell, manager of the Southwest Texas Truck Growers' Association, had saved his members more than his salary of $7,000 on the purchase of onion seed alone. Permanent officers for the new society were to be elected at its next meeting.

CELERY RUNNING TO SEED.

As I see by The Review that you answer questions when anyone is in trouble, I come to you with mine. I have grown celery plants for the last twenty years and have not had any complaint about them before. The plants are all right in the bed to which they are transplanted from seed boxes, but when taken up and re-transplanted into the field or garden they all run to seed. Can you tell me what causes this? I sow the seeds the first week in March and then about a week apart thereafter. I always have started about that time. That does not seem to be the reason for the trouble, for some plants from later sown seed act the same way. The variety is White Plume. This has been a changeable season in this part of Connecticut. Has that anything to do with it? It was cold and rainy at first, with lots of frost, and then dry and hot. I have heard all kinds of opinions. Some say I sowed too early, but both early and late are the same. Some say it was old seed, but we have bought seed at the same place for years and always found it good. Some say to cut both top and root when resetting.

I shall be glad if you can tell me what causes it, and if it is any fault of mine I would gladly refund all I have taken in. There has never been any fault found with my plants before and I have taken great pains with them. Can you state the cause and a remedy? H. B.

Your case is by no means exceptional. A great many growers in your section of the country are having the same trouble with celery this season. The seed is not at fault and your time in starting was all right. The whole trouble has been in the exceptional season, cool with frequent rains until early June, then practically rainless with excessive heat for many consecutive days, followed by cooler and moister weather.

Celery kept in beds, transplanted for a considerable period and probably pretty dry at the root for a large part of that time, is liable to get into a hard condition, which will cause bolting to seed when it once gets really wet at the roots. If the plants get moderately large it is always good policy to cut back the leaves well. With some plants it is well to shorten the roots also, but not with celery. I find it starts much better with the leaves cut back fairly hard. You should not be held in any way responsible for the plants running to seed. The only way to have avoided the trouble would have been to keep the plants damp at the root all the time, something difficult of accomplishment when for weeks no rain falls. C. W.

Greenhouse Heating.

THE Fuel Directory in this issue of The Review occupies five pages.

SMOKELESS coals are not to be had except at the full circular price or at some advance. The conditions in the anthracite market are such that many who have burned hard coal are trying the smokeless soft coals and the producers of these feel so confident of an unusually strong demand this autumn that they are not at all anxious to sell except at advancing prices.

TWO FLORIDA HOUSES.

Will you let me know which will be the cheaper for me to install in my two greenhouses, a hot water or steam system? One of the houses is 32 x 37, six feet high to the eaves and fourteen feet to the ridge, with thirty inches of glass in the sides and no gables. This house runs approximately east and west, though not exactly so. The other house adjoins it on the south side and runs north and south. It is 28 x 75, six feet high to the eaves and twelve feet to the ridge, with thirty inches of glass in one side. The boiler is located at the southeast corner of the smaller house, and is thus at the junction of the two houses. How much piping should be placed in each house, and where? My idea was to run a main overhead to the west end of the house 32 x 37 and back on the side walls, and also a main to the south end of the other house and back on the side walls. The lowest outside temperature in this part of Florida is 20 to 30 degrees above zero. H. V. B.

While hot water costs rather more to install, it requires less care than steam and hence is generally preferred for small ranges, and would be better adapted for conditions in Florida.

The temperature desired is not stated, but for 60 degrees at night, when it is slightly below freezing outside, in the house 32 x 37 feet use two 2½-inch flows on the walls and five 2-inch returns on each wall underneath. In the house 28 x 75 feet, use two flows and nine returns of the foregoing sizes, placing five of them on the side where there is glass in the wall.

LARGER PIPE IS PREFERABLE.

We have two greenhouses, each 25x 92, running east and west. The south house has forty-two inches of glass in the south wall and both ends are glass. The north house has solid walls, except for 70 degrees? We are using a mercury generator. Our location is northwestern Illinois. G. & F.

DEPENDABLE COAL

¶ Many satisfied patrons say that our Maryd Number One Buckwheat (Anthracite) and Abrams Creek Minerun (Bituminous) coals are particularly suitable for heating Greenhouses. Abrams Creek coal is about as near smokeless as a Bituminous coal can be.

While the piping in the south house will probably prove satisfactory in mild weather, and keep up a temperature of 60 degrees in severe weather with careful attention to firing, I would advise the use of two more returns, for economical heating. If the returns are well above the heater, or if a closed system is used, 1½-inch pipe is satisfactory in houses 150 feet or more in length, but with open systems it is preferable to use 2-inch pipe for the returns, especially if the houses are more than fifty feet long. For the houses in question I would advise the use of two 3-inch or three 2½-inch flows, and fourteen or fifteen 2-inch returns for 60 degrees and eighteen returns for 70 degrees.

Wishing to change the heating plant in my greenhouses, I am sending you a diagram of them and wish you would reply as soon as convenient. Please let me know, by number of house, the radiation you think each house requires for a night temperature of 55 degrees. State also what size of boiler, in radiation, it will be necessary to use, without having to rush it. G. H. W.

The diagram shows five houses, arranged about three sides of the boiler room. House No. 1 is 12 x 40 feet and six feet to the ridge, with one 4-foot wall exposed. To heat this house with hot water, run one 2-inch flow pipe upon each wall, at the plate, and use three 2-inch returns on the inner wall and four on the outer wall.

Make Your Boiler an Asset, Not a Liability

A boiler costs enough so that every florist should be anxious to get the most possible for his money; he should closely investigate several styles before choosing. The more you investigate the more sure it is that you'll buy the Superior Standard. It was designed specially for greenhouse work after a close study of what was needed. It is easily cleaned, although it has more flues than any other boiler, but —more flues give more heat; more flues require less fuel; the water heats quicker and hotter because the volume of water heated by each flue is smaller. All we ask is a chance to show you.

REGULATES THE WATER TEMPERATURE

EXTREMELY SIMPLE

COSTS LITTLE

THIS extremely simple and dependable little instrument is the No. 3 Honeywell Water Regulator. It will keep the water in your hot water heating plant at any desired temperature, night or day, by automatically regulating the dampers. Thousands in use. Is greatly appreciated by florists. It saves coal—saves labor—saves worry. One or two degrees change in temperature will open or close the drafts, and can be easily arranged to sound an alarm.

The No. 3 Honeywell Water Regulator is fully guaranteed and will last a lifetime. It is sold at an extremely low price. It is easily connected to any hot water heating plant and needs no further attention after connecting. It will pay for itself in a single season. One customer writes: "Your Regulator paid for itself last winter, to say nothing of the hundreds of steps saved in running up and down the boiler pit stairs." Another says: "I would not do without your Regulator for ten times its cost. I quit worrying at nights about the temperature after connecting it."

House No. 3 is 15 x 30 feet, with two side walls and one end wall exposed. This can be heated by means of one 2½-inch overhead flow and eight 2-inch returns, which can either be on the walls or under the benches.

Houses 4 and 5, which are 16 x 50 feet and eight feet to the ridge, with two 4-foot walls exposed, will require one 2½-inch flow pipe and eight 2-inch returns.

The five houses will require about 1,300 square feet of radiating surface, but for economical heating it will be well to put in a boiler with a rating of 1,600 to 1,800 square feet.

Foster Pressure Regulator

With this simple device attached to your steam main just inside the greenhouse the pressure on the heating coils will be absolutely constant, anywhere from 1 to 15 pounds (whatever the grower sets the Regulator at), no matter how the pressure on the boilers runs up and down.

If the weather changes, or the sun heat varies, instead of turning on more pipes, just turn a nut on the Regulator, and get more steam, or less steam, at once. Made in sizes from ¾-inch to 10-inch just for this work.

The "Ideal" Hot Water Circulator

THE "IDEAL" is the Original Automatic circulator, and is the simplest and most efficient circulator on the market.

Sectional Cut of Improved Circulator No. 6

Some Advantages of the "Ideal" Circulator

(1) Improves to perfection the circulation in hot water plants that are defective.
(2) Enables present hot water systems to be extended to a very large extent without increasing the size of the pipes or the height of the circulating head.
(3) Owing to the reduced size of the main piping required, it considerably reduces the first cost of installation.
(4) Gives an even temperature in the pipes throughout the system.
(5) Reduces the amount of radiating pipes required.
(6) Enables smaller piping to be used.
(7) Piping may be placed below boiler level as well as above.
(8) Effects a large economy in cost of fuel.
(9) Requires a very small amount of power to operate (1-10 of one horse power being sufficient for 5,000 sq. ft. of heating surface).
(10) Can be used as an auxiliary to gravity system, and does not impede the flow of water at times when forced circulation is not required, as its action is perfectly automatic.

the flow under the ridge, if one flow is sufficient, and the returns on the side walls. We want to maintain 50 degrees at night, using 2-inch pipes for the returns. The house is detached except the one gable. Missouri climate.

W. C. L.

INSUFFICIENT PIPING.

I am enclosing a diagram of our houses, showing the heating plan in such a way that I think you will understand it. We cannot heat satisfactorily even one house, the west one, which is the only one we try to run during really cold weather. The outside temperature in this part of Maine occasionally runs from zero to 20 degrees below, rarely 28 degrees below. Kindly suggest a practical way to pipe so as to heat both houses to grow carnations or bedding plants. We grow lettuce early, then tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, asters, stocks, etc., and we also carry some geraniums and ferns, trying to do everything for a town of 3,000 people.

I have thought that, if we should get to running all winter, instead of starting in February as we do now, and should grow, say, carnations in one house and vegetable plants in the other, it might be practical to increase the boiler capacity and run pipes into the residence, which is 30x30 feet, and which we now heat with a hot air furnace, using five to six tons of coal. Would this combination heating plant be satisfactory. L. W. R.

The sketch shows two houses, each 16x40 feet, with wooden walls. The piping consists of four 2-inch flow pipes along the walls, each of which supplies a 2-inch return. This would furnish a little over 200 square feet of radiating surface, while to maintain a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees at night, under the strenuous conditions mentioned, would require approximately 300 square feet. The method of piping, also, is calculated to give a sluggish circulation.

A Steady Pressure

will always be maintained in your steam pipes, no matter how the pressure at the boiler fluctuates, if you equip your main lines with these valves. Carry 40 or 50 pounds pressure on the boiler, set the

to carry 5 or 10 pounds on the line and you will always have a reserve in case of a sudden drop in temperature. This valve saves both fuel and worry. Ask for catalogue and particulars.

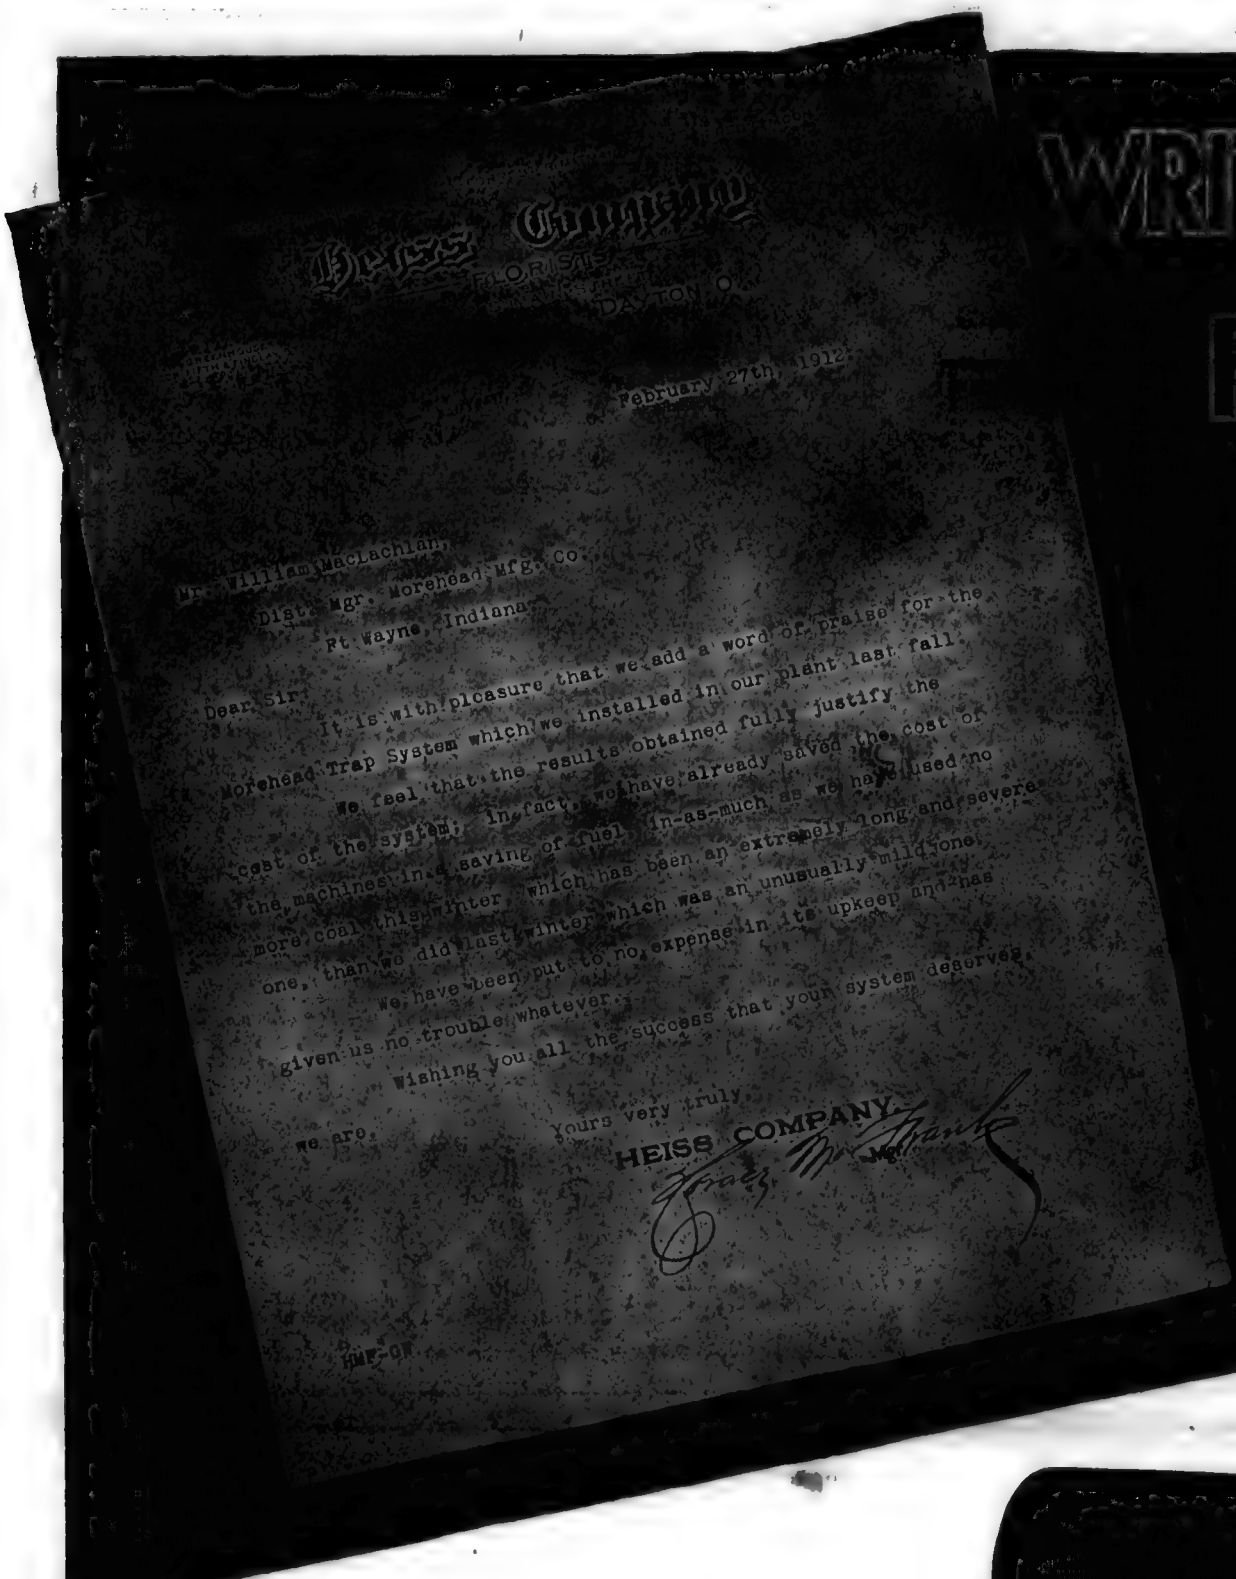
By using all of the present pipes as returns, and running two 2½-inch flows overhead, but with a slight fall, to the farther end of the house, where each should be connected with the four pipes on one side of the house, a temperature of 50 degrees can be obtained. One 3-inch flow and one 3-inch return can be run to each house and connected with the pipe just specified. While only 600 square feet of radiation will be used, it will be well to use a boiler rated at about 1,000 square feet.



To heat a dwelling 30x30 feet would require from 300 to 500 feet additional, according to the thoroughness with which it is heated. There should be no difficulty about heating the dwelling from the greenhouse boiler if one of sufficient capacity is installed, and it will give great economy in fuel and labor.

This one is a 10-section, cast-iron boiler, five and one-half feet long, four and one-half feet high and three feet wide, with a firebox 18 x 42 inches.

I heat the north house and half of the middle house with one boiler, the rest with the other boiler. The north boiler has a 4-inch flow until it reaches the house, then two 3-inch flows to the far end, dropping down and coming back in coils under the benches. The returns have about one foot of fall, and when they reach the boiler are still above the top; they drop down alongside the boiler to the bottom, with 4-inch returns. The coils are of 2-inch pipe. This boiler is extremely slow acting.

The south boiler has a 3-inch flow until it reaches the house and has three 2-inch flows overhead, dropping down to coils in the wall and entering the boiler at two 2-inch openings. Half of the returns are below the top of

Dear Sir:

It is with pleasure that we add a word of praise for the Morehead Trap System which we installed in our plant last fall.

We feel that the results obtained fully justify the cost of the system; in fact, we have already saved the cost of the machines in a saving of fuel, in-as-much as we have used no more coal this winter, which has been an extremely long and severe one, than we did last winter which was an unusually mild one.

We have been put to no expense in its upkeep and has given us no trouble whatever.

Wishing you all the success that your system deserves,

WHAT THE USERS SAY ABOUT KROESCHELL BOILERS

Kroeschell Better Than Cast Iron

I bought a No. 6 Boiler in 1903. It has now 10,000 sq. ft. of glass, and we could add 3300 more. This is ahead of five or six cast iron boilers which I have used. I saved $50 per season on the coal bill.

M. C. WARD, Quincy, Mass.

Kroeschell Versus Cast Iron

I have one of your new 1910 model Kroeschell Boilers, and same has proven very satisfactory. We have no trouble to keep temperatures in the coldest weather. We fire once or twice during the day, and once at night, and have had the best satisfaction I have ever experienced in a boiler. Formerly I had two cast iron boilers; one cracked and I took both of these boilers out. My coal bill with the cast iron boilers ran from $195 to $207 per season during the past seven years. This year, with your boiler and soft coal, my coal bill was only $103, and I still have some coal left. Your boiler is the best and cheapest on the market, not alone for the price, but also in fuel saving. I am very glad that you are so well known in Buffalo, N. Y. I have never heard anything but praise, in which I join heartily. Wishing you every success, I remain,

MAX BUEHLER, Forks, N. Y.

Cost of Heating One-Half Less Than With Cast Iron Boilers

I bought a No. 8 Boiler in 1901. We had a corrugated cast iron fire box boiler and a sectional cast iron boiler before we bought yours in 1901. The cost of the heating with your boiler is one-half less than it was with my cast iron boilers. Your No. 8 Boiler, which we bought recently of you, is not being run to its capacity.

WM. GEENEN, Kimberly, Wis.

Has enlarged place and installed another No. 6 Kroeschell.

Kroeschell Boiler Durable

Have 20,000 sq. ft. of glass. Can keep 60° in coldest weather. Have one boiler 15 years, only expense one set of flues. Kroeschell Boiler is so satisfactory that I do not care to try any other.

the boiler, but have about six inches more fall. This boiler works about perfectly with two coils on, but not so well with the third one on. Still, it does much better work than the other.

Circumstances at the time compelled me to place the boilers and pipe in this way, but the arrangement was somewhat contrary to my ideas. I was afraid the flows on the second boiler would be too small, and I thought the pipe should all be above the boiler and should not be brought down till the very last. What I wish to know is: Can I drop the lower end of the coils at the first boiler, say six inches or a foot, and get results something like those from the other boiler? And can I pipe each house half from each boiler, so as to fire only one boiler during mild weather? Or could I pipe all with coils on the walls at the same level, and connect them so that each boiler could heat any coil? I have two radiators in rooms built east of the middle house; these are fed by the north boiler. I have been told that the sectional boiler is large enough to heat all the houses. The second boiler's returns are of 2-inch pipe also. My location is eastern Indiana.

L. G. B.

Several important points have been overlooked in describing the heating plants, such as the temperature desired in the houses and the number of return pipes in each coil.

As a rule, the best results are obtained when the returns are kept as high as possible above the boiler, provided a slight slope at least is given them, and the larger the flow pipes, within reasonable limits, the better.

There is nothing in the explanation which gives any idea why the smaller flows and lower returns are giving the better results. Such would be the case provided the flow pipes are put in so that they run uphill from the boiler; if the two 3-inch flow pipes run uphill, the ends next to the boiler should be raised so that they will have a slight fall.

The main flow and return pipes can be so connected that either boiler or both of them can be used for heating the two houses.

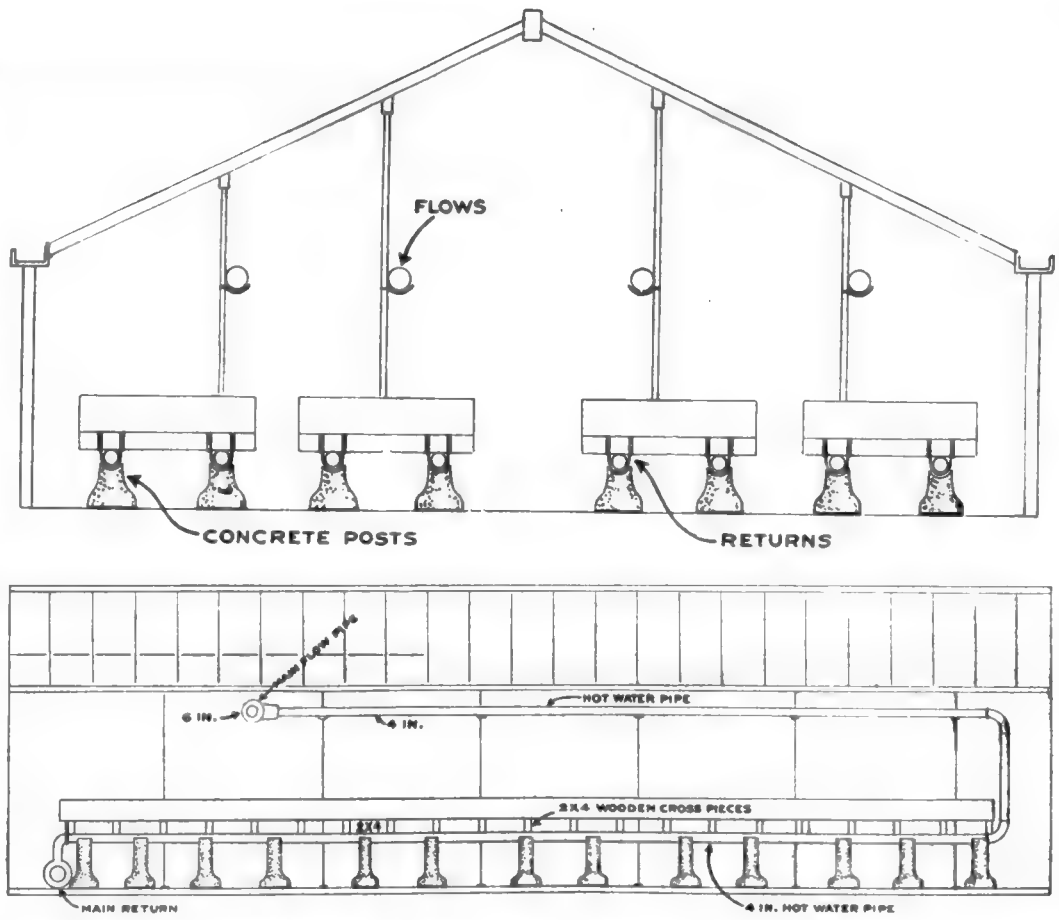
Decatur, Mich.—James I. Huff has ordered materials for a greenhouse and is making other preparations for starting in the florists' business here.

Ottumwa, Ia.—C. Kranz has installed a new boiler and overhauled his heating system. He recently added a new automobile to his delivery outfit. He grows a general line of stock. His establishment, including his residence and grounds, occupies an entire city block, and more than an acre of the space is under glass.

WINANDY'S NEW BENCH AND HEATING SYSTEM

THE accompanying illustration shows our New Patent Bench and Heating System as it is installed at M. Leider's place, Oakton street and Asbury avenue, Evanston, Illinois.



If you are expecting to build in the future it will be worth your while to inquire into what we know to be the most successful as well as economical method of securing regulated flow and even temperature at a minimum cost. There is no guesswork about this system, for it has been tried out under the most difficult of tests and in every case it has made good. Of the 45 greenhouses we have built and installed this heating and bench system there is yet a failure to be reported, while the owners declare it solves the question of greenhouse heating. Before you complete your plans it will pay you to investigate. Write for full information; you owe that much to yourself and your pocketbook. We will save you money.

THIS new system, when well understood, will satisfy anyone that this is the best arranged for economy and gives better service than anything known of before in this line, whether for new greenhouse construction or reconstructing new benches in old houses. It was invented by Michael Winandy after he had been in the greenhouse construction business for over 35 years, and he was always held as an expert in greenhouse construction.

The new invention was patented April 9, 1912, and by right of this patent the only manufacturer and constructor of this new system for the United States is the M. Winandy Co., Mfrs.

During the last 10 months we have built 45 new greenhouses, covering a space of 200,000 square feet of glass, with this heating system, and we can refer you to all these owners as to the truthfulness of what we claim for this new system.

For full information about this new construction send to

The above is an illustration of the cross and side view of the improved heating and bench construction for greenhouses and conservatories.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Gateway of the West.

The market is decidedly encouraging, as the supply does not exceed the demand. Prices are fair, and everyone is happy. The wholesalers are able to take care of everyone and, best of all, to make a profit.

The new crop of Beauties is coming in and is of unusually fine quality. Some new Killarneys are seen, but they are poor. Asters are advancing rapidly in quality and price, and sweet peas are again manifesting activity, owing to our cool weather and rains, which have also helped other stock.

Various Notes.

The San Francisco delegation to the Chicago convention was in town Tuesday, August 13. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Julius Eppstein; H. Plath; Angelo J. Rossi, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., and Mr. MacRorie, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co. Kansas City held many attractions for them, and after spending a delightful day they boarded a train for St. Louis, the next town to visit on their way.

Mr. Parker and wife, of Kellogg's, are attending the convention, after which a trip over the Great Lakes to Niagara Falls and Buffalo is scheduled.

Miss Hadden, of Murray's, is at the convention, after which she will continue on her well earned vacation. This firm is now painting and redecorating the interior of the store.

Ray Blessing and William Miller, of Rock's, have returned to the city with their families. Mr. Blessing says he is a city man; no country life for him.

A new sweet pea specialist has made his appearance. He is P. Montague, formerly of Independence, Mo. Mrs. Bullock, also a new-comer, is now preparing to build for the winter trade.

Henry Kusik enjoyed a trip to the convention, where he purchased many supplies for his new store.

The peony specialists, Kansas City Nurseries and K. C. Peony Gardens, are well stocked with unusually good stock, and report present business good, with indications of a successful fall season.

James Biggam is busy these days on his Garden theater decoration.

W. J. Baker, of Fort Worth, was a visitor recently while on his way to the convention. Other visitors were Mr. McDaniels, of Dallas, Tex., and Chas. P. Mueller, of Wichita, Kan.

Hugh Clark, formerly with Rock's, is now in Chicago, having severed connections with the firm. E. H. H.

FLORISTS' REVIEW
When Writing Advertisers

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

The Market.

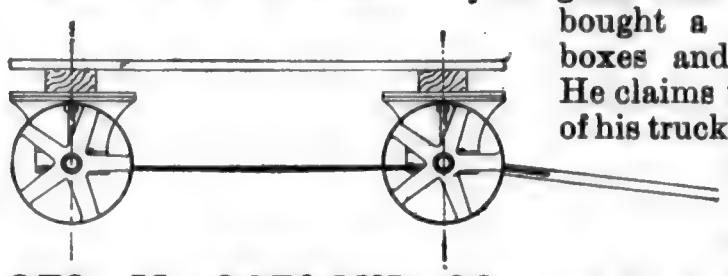
The weather continues wet, an abnormal amount of rain having fallen. Crops in the surrounding country are water-soaked. Wheat, oats, corn and potatoes are in many instances a total failure. However, it is fine carnation-growing weather, accompanied, as it is, with cool nights.

Business is of the dull, summer type, with occasional funerals to set everybody busy. Carnations are scarce. The old plants, such of them as are still in, are exhausted. It being so wet, it is difficult to get the soil dry enough to plant in. Gladioli are the main flowers used at present, particularly for window display.

Club Meeting.

On Thursday night, August 15, the Florists' Club met at Henry Smith's store, on Monroe avenue, and there was both a large and enthusiastic meeting. Everyone seemed to be impressed with the fact that the prices charged for bedding plants, porch boxes and shrubbery were far too low. The whole price subject was thoroughly discussed, item by item, as to what price should be charged to make their sale profitable, and it is to be hoped that much good will grow out of the discussion.

The next meeting will be at Crabb & Hunter's store, 114 East Fulton street, September 19.



The committee to induce outside florists to come to Grand Rapids and join with the club in going to the Chicago convention reported the following as going: William Krieger and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bissinger, of Lansing; S. B. Brown, of Lapeer; M. A. Herrick, of Owosso; Mr. and Mrs. Wasserman, of Muskegon; Mrs. Herzog, of Big Rapids; G. Fred Bauerle, of Lansing; Mr. Moses, of Petoskey, and Mrs. H. D. Franks, of Allegan. Several others are reported as coming in, including Mr. and Mrs. Vincent, of Ionia. Those going from here are Henry Smith, Arthur Crabb, Geo. F. Crabb, Mr. Freyling, Mr. Mendalls, Peter Kunst and his son, William Cunningham, Mr. Bruinslot and Eli Cross. Everyone will wear a badge with "Michigan Florist" in large letters on it, thus booming Michigan.

The regular monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held here August 14, with a good attendance and with President Johnston in the chair.

Asters were exhibited at their best by Messrs. McCarthy, Barton and Boettcher. J. W. Everett had fine melons and was awarded a cultural certificate for them, and also for a vase of Lycoris squamigera. H. Boettcher received a cultural certificate for twelve varieties of asters, which were fine. Honorable mention was awarded to F. Petroccia and J. Marmolate for tomatoes and cucumbers. In the society's classes, G. Barton was first with asters, and J. W. Everett with melons and corn.

H. Detz, Glen Cove, was elected an honorary member.

Mrs. J. H. Uttley donated a silver cup for eighteen Killarney roses, to be competed for at the fall exhibition.

It was decided to have the annual summer outing at Karatsonyi's, Glenwood, August 27.

The prizes at the next meeting will be for twelve gladioli, six onions and three heads of celery. J. M.

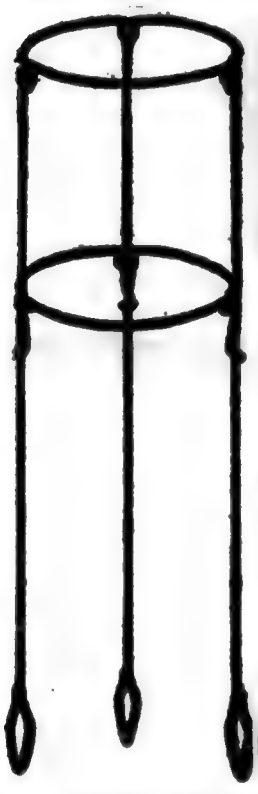
A PERFECT GREENHOUSE HOSE

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.



The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking.

"Magic" Hose is guaranteed to stand a pressure of 500 pounds per square inch, although its bursting pressure is far in excess of this.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

Three prominent western growers passed through here early this week on their way to the S. A. F. convention at Chicago.

T. W. Duggan and J. E. Cooper, of the Dale Estate, have just returned from a trip to Cobalt and surrounding towns with the Associated Boards of Trade. They were much impressed with the possibilities of business in these new centers, and agreeably surprised to find so many beauty spots in the neighborhood of the silver mines.

Trade continues fair considering the peculiar weather conditions, and the quantity of stock remains unequal to the demand.

Orders for florists' supplies for the coming winter are an indication of the continuation of good times throughout the Dominion.

Mark Henderson has a house of early mums coming in, and the Dale Estate has been cutting some fine Golden Glow for the last three weeks. W. G. P.

RICHMOND, VA.

The demand for good stock for the last week proved excellent, the supply being none too large. Gladioli and asters are the leaders, with a few good Maryland. Killarney and White Killarney are poor. Carnations have held their own and seem to be getting better each day. As a whole, business has been better this season than it has for a number of years.

Mr. Apt, manager of the Hammond Co., reports business excellent for the summer season.

John L. Ratcliffe & Co. are erecting three greenhouses, 36x200, to be used entirely for roses and carnations.

E. I. Tanner, president of Ratcliffe & Tanner, is cutting a fine lot of roses.

50 gallon bbls.	81.00

Reasons why you should use Hunt's Greenhouse Pure White Paint

1st. It is made to withstand the excessive moisture and variation of temperature which is so prevalent in greenhouses.

2d. It will cover more surface than any other paint now on the market, making it cheaper in price than paint of inferior quality.

3d. It will not peel, blister or crack, hence will outlast by years other products and add to the life of the house without any additional expense.

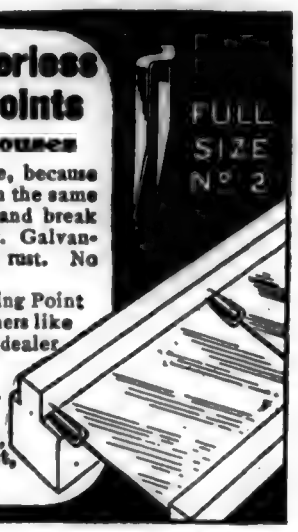
Harold S. Mabie, proprietor of the store which bears the name of the Birchwood Gardens, has entered into partnership with C. W. Wells, and the new firm has secured a lease on one of the large stores in the new Lyric theater building, which is now under construction. The firm has also purchased the business formerly conducted by F. & I. Kuhnert and will consolidate the two stores at the new location, under the name of Birchwood Gardens Co. Upon completion of the new store they will have one of the finest display windows in town.

They have secured the services of Mr. Hankey, an expert decorator and designer, and will also retain Mrs. Heater, who has had charge of the Birchwood Gardens store ever since its opening. Mr. Wells will take charge of the financial end and will represent the house on the road, as the Birchwood Gardens has built up a large shipping trade throughout the country. Mr. Mabie will spend his time between the store and his range of glass at Maywood. It is his intention to operate his greenhouses independently of the Birchwood Gardens Co., simply supplying the store with the products of the Maywood place and carrying on a strictly wholesale business at Maywood.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y.

The regular monthly meeting of the Oyster Bay Horticultural Society was held in the Board of Trade rooms, August 16. President Duthie occupied the chair. Several letters were read from the various seed stores offering prizes for the fall show, which is to be held September 19 and 20. One new member was enrolled.

The judges for the monthly competition were as follows: Charles Bertanzel, Charles Plumb and John Devine. Their decisions were as follows: For points—Frank Petroccia, two cucumbers, 85; Joseph Robinson, collection of asters, 78⅓. Several other exhibits were staged and received honorable mention. The exhibitors gave interesting talks on the various ways in which they grew their exhibits.



The executive committee read the schedule which they had drawn up for the fall show and, after some alterations, it was adopted.

The advisability of holding an outing and dinner was discussed and it was decided that it be held on Tuesday, September 10. J. T. I.

The Market.

Both business and market conditions last week were much the same as the weeks previous, the main run being funeral work. This summer the weather has been greatly different from what we have been used to; generally the month of July and first part of August are hot and dry, but this year it has been just the reverse; plenty of rain and not any too warm. Asters and sweet peas are not of the standard quality, but gladioli seem to be faring well. Carnations, which are things of the past, are not missed much, as there is plenty of other stock to take their place. The supply of roses is quite plentiful, while the opening of this week found plenty of lilies to start off with.

Various Notes.

A party of three of San Francisco's most enterprising florists, who were on their way to the Chicago convention, stopped off at our "burg" last Friday to take a look around. They want the S. A. F. convention in 1915, the year that the Panama exposition will take place. Those in the party were: Mr. MacRorie, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., H. Plath and A. J. Rossi.

Albert and Philip Fietch, formerly employed at the Edlefsen-Leidiger store, have opened a stand of their own at 575 National avenue, under the name of Fietch Bros.

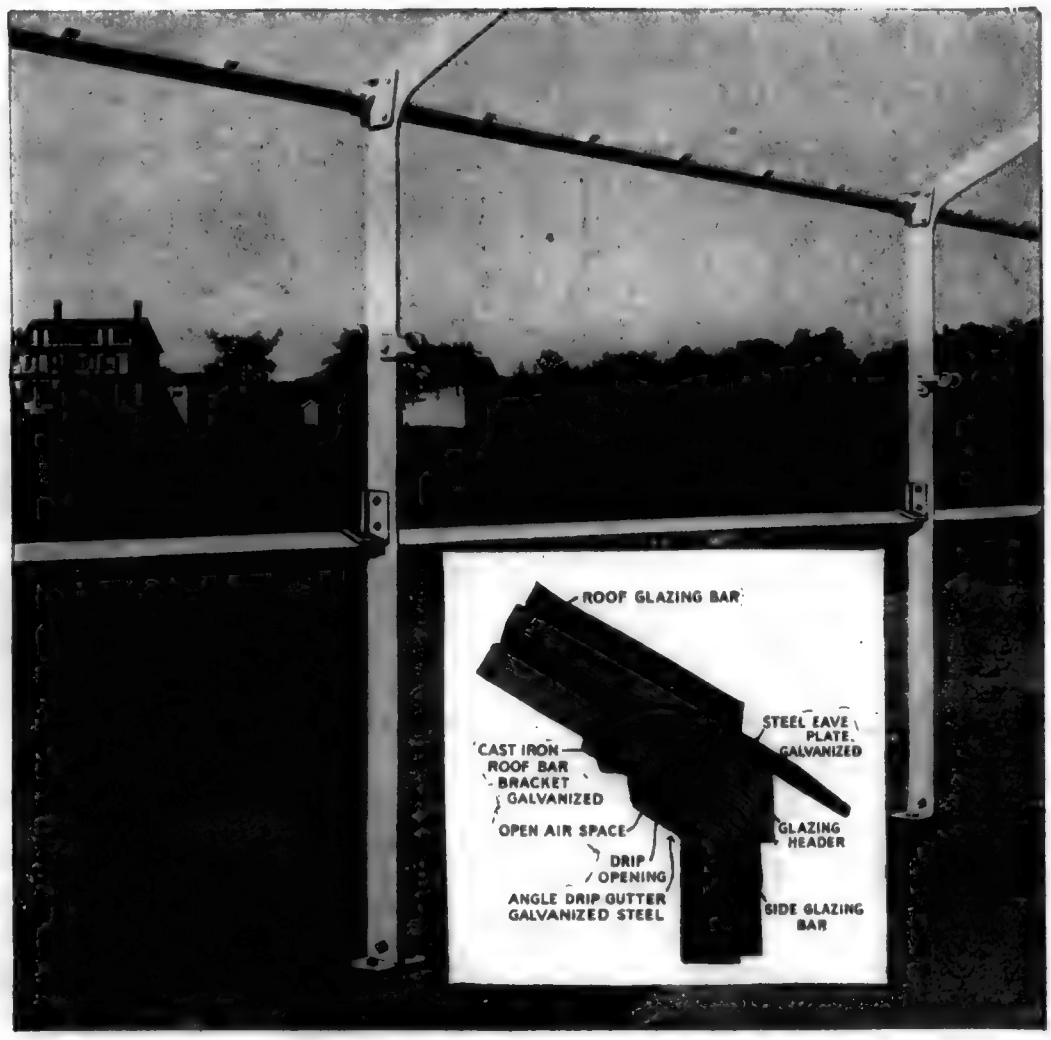
Gutermuth & Klein, successors to William Edlefsen at North Milwaukee, are gradually getting their place into shape; having disposed of a good many of the odds and ends, their long suit will be carnations and mums, the latter to be followed by bedding stock.

A. Groth, of North Milwaukee, contemplates planting only two houses with carnations this coming season. He also plans to replace several of his old greenhouses with new ones early next spring.

Roy Currie, who has been spending the last two weeks at Army Lake, was back in the harness August 19, ready for business.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. was kept busy last week packing and crating their exhibit for the S. A. F. convention. This company has just received a carload of French bulbs.

Harry Mann, of the Gust. Rusch Co., has returned from a week's vacation spent at Fox Lake and vicinity.



Mr. and Mrs. Gust. Mueller, of the Mueller Greenhouse Co., Brown Deer, Wis., after attending the Chicago convention will go to see the Wisconsin Dells.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. reports shipping trade as good as can be expected for this time of the year; so far it has been ahead of last year.

It is rumored that the Edlefsen-Leidiger Co. will have an auto delivery car in the near future.

Currie Bros. Co. was kept quite busy August 14 with an elaborate wedding decoration for an event at Schleisingerville, Wis.

The list of visitors last week included: James Matthewson, Sheboygan, Wis.; August Meyer, Kenosha, Wis.; Charles Petersen, Escanaba, Mich.; J. Brillhardt, Ludington, Mich.; Phil Foley, Chicago; Harry Balsley, Detroit, and Mr. Elliott, Pittsburgh. E. O.

Side Members of Iron

UP AT Rowayton, Connecticut, we lately built two big Iron Frame Houses, 56 feet wide. The iron work on the sides was constructed as shown above.

Illustration shows our BIG ADVANCE MACHINE.

This machine is an enlarged duplicate of our well-known ADVANCE MACHINE, and uses 1¼-inch standard pipe for shafting and 1½-inch pipe for post.

About the middle of February we were testing pipe and found that 1¼-inch standard pipe was approximately 42% stronger in twist relation than 1-inch double strength pipe. We therefore decided to enlarge our ADVANCE MACHINE to use this 1¼-inch pipe.

By economical methods of manufacturing, we were able to maintain the same prices for this machine and parts as we have always sold our ADVANCE MACHINE and parts for. We also discovered that at a very small margin of profit we could sell the 1¼-inch standard pipe for six (6) cents per foot, or two (2) cents less per foot than 1-inch double strength pipe. The advantage of our BIG ADVANCE MACHINE can be clearly seen by this relation.

Up to the present time we have sold over 800 of these machines, and every one has given better satisfaction than the purchaser expected.

Our prices on the machine and parts are as follows:

BIG ADVANCE MACHINE, including post	each,	$10.50
BIG ADVANCE MACHINE, without post	"	9.75
Arm, twistless or elbow	"	.25
Hangers	"	.08

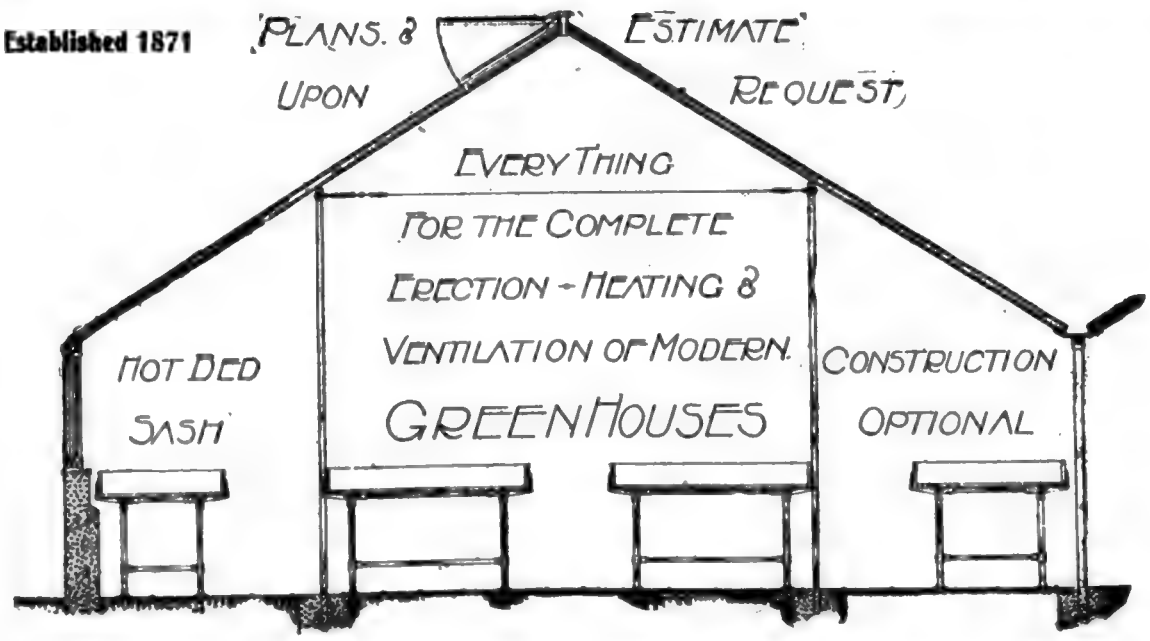
NEW ORLEANS.

Club Meeting.

The New Orleans Horticultural Society held its regular monthly meeting August 15, at Kolb's German Tavern. Our alert veteran, Ed. Baker, presided in the absence of the president, Hermann Doescher. C. R. Panter, the secretary, was at his desk, but owing to the fact that many members are out of town the attendance was small.

After the regular routine work was disposed of, C. R. Panter, in a highly spirited, progressive manner, went into the details of the proposed state fair to be held here next year, and offered a resolution endorsing this enterprise, from which much benefit of a financial and educational nature is expected. J. A. Newsham seconded the motion and it was carried unanimously. The society will take up the matter at one of the fall meetings, with the intention of subscribing to the stock as an organization, several members having done so already in person.

Various Notes.



As far as known, the following are attending the convention in Chicago: Otto Abele, P. A. Chopin, Charles Eble, Sr., J. A. Newsham, Harry Papworth, Henry Scheuermann, Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Virgin and Miss Florella Virgin.

You Ought to See

Our Enlarged Factory at Des Plaines

THIS is one of those interest points in the vicinity of Chicago that every florist and grower should be sure to visit when in Chicago. We are only seventeen miles from Chicago on the C. & N. W. railroad, with nearly fifty trains a day, so you can come and go whenever you please. Moreover, our factory is located right in the center of an interesting colony of up-to-date greenhouse establishments. Surrounding us are the ranges of the Des Plaines Floral Co., Des Plaines Violet Co., Sol Garland, Frank Garland, and Warren Garland, while many others are within walking distance.

We have heard some growers say a successful truss house could not be built, but a visit to our factory and to these ranges will positively prove to all doubters and sceptics that, no matter what faults may be found with other truss constructions, the Garland Truss is not only a success, but by all odds the lightest, strongest, most satisfactory construction ever designed for greenhouses. The Garland Trussed Iron Frame Houses are the only houses ever built on wheels. The movable range erected last year for Albert Stahelin, Redford, Mich., was, and still is, the wonder of greenhouse construction. Strength, rigidity and accuracy, combined with light weight, were absolutely necessary and the Garland Truss was the only construction that filled the bill.

Make your arrangements today, now, to come to Des Plaines, to visit the Garland factory, and to satisfy yourself that the Garland Trussed Iron Frame is the construction you want and need in your next houses. Trains leave Northwestern station, Canal and Madison streets, as follows:

5-inch pots, ready September 15.....$50 per 100
6-inch pots for specimen stock for Christmas.....$9 per dozen

We also have a very large stock of Light Begonia Lorraine (Edwin Lonsdale) sport at the same prices. This variety we consider far superior to the original type, it making a finer shaped plant as well as holding the flowers much better, while the color is a little lighter than that of the original Lorraine.

THE NEW CLEAR SCARLET BEDDING GERANIUM "HELEN MICHELL"

The best commercial novelty for 1913 (name registered with S. A. F. & O. H.). Seedling cross Jean Viaud and Alphonse Ricard. This sterling novelty will be introduced jointly by Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, Pa., and ourselves and the plants will all be grown by us at our place at Norwood, where we will be pleased to have you call. You will find that this Geranium has all the good points claimed for it. "Helen Michell" is semidouble, of the clearest possible shade of scarlet, is early in bloom and produces these continuously during the season. It grows compact medium dwarf, with lustrous green foliage, and throws up gigantic flower heads continuously; we claim it to have the largest flower heads of any of the bedding geraniums. The individual blooms measure 2½ inches across. It is a common occurrence that a single 4-inch pot plant shows 4 fully open gigantic flower heads, several half open, and more in bud. We are booking orders that will be filled in rotation from January, 1913.

2¼-inch pots.....$2.50 per dozen; $15 per 100; $125 per 1000

to tell you something of interest to every Florist. Do you know that you can keep your flowers perfectly fresh and beautiful from three to five times as long as you have heretofore been able to?

My refrigerator requires no ice or chemicals. It consists of a simple circulation of fresh air, very slightly moistened, which is life to flowers.

As to the cost of maintenance, take this for example: A refrigerator twenty feet long, eight feet high and seven feet wide, will cost less than one dollar and fifty cents per month. Deduct one dollar and fifty cents per month from your ice bill and see what you will save, independent of the length of time you can keep your flowers in perfect condition.

Now, in order to introduce this wonderful invention of mine to the Florists, I am going to make you an offer: Until January 1, 1913, I will send you blue prints and complete instructions for making this great money-saver, for the very small sum of TEN DOLLARS ($10.00).

The refrigerator may be made with entire glass front and ends. At a very slight expense you can install this system in your show window, making a most beautiful display of your cut flowers. No more bother with icemen. No lost space with ice. No wilted flowers.

Your ice refrigerator can be made over at a very low cost. The plans and instructions are very simple. You cannot fail to get the most satisfactory results.

After being installed, this system requires no attention whatever.

With your ice bill eliminated, your flowers kept in perfect condition for so great a length of time, you can readily see that your investment will be returned to you several times each month.

THE RETAIL FLORIST.....

BASKETS FOR FUNERALS.

I heartily approve of E. H. Harvey's sensible and timely remarks in The Review of August 15, page 38, on the use of the basket at funerals. It is not as appropriate as a bunch or the numerous pretty and suggestive designs, and its continued use for funerals would discourage people from sending it to the living as a present, on account of its being considered "too funereal." Some flowers are in the same boat, simply because their fragrance has made an impression upon people and they associate the blooms with funerals. In the south many people will not permit a cape jasmine in the house, as it reminds them of death.

I also dislike to see the use of the shower effect for casket bouquets. It is bride-like and suitable for weddings. Why not use it solely for that joyous occasion, and exclude its use at that somber occasion when the simpler arrangements of flowers are in much better taste?

Another objection to the basket as a funeral offering is that it is difficult to arrange it gracefully and substantially at the same time. A basket is easily upset. Who feels like turning in and arranging flowers at a funeral? I have seen people send large trays of loose flowers. What was their fate? They were dropped and stepped upon by the heedless, while more thoughtful individuals were stooping and gathering them together, meanwhile wondering why people would send loose flowers at such a time.

If a basket is wanted, and nothing but a basket, suggest sending it to the family in the sad days after the funeral, when they can enjoy the arrangement and afterward take them to the grave, which by that time will need some fresh flowers to take the place of the dead tributes sent to the funeral.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

About this matter of retail orders from other florists: The Review frequently has pointed out that this business not only is large but that it is growing steadily and can be greatly increased by giving it publicity.

Just how important this feature is was shown in figures by one of the inland retailers present at the Chicago meeting of the Telegraph Delivery Association August 21. He gave this record of the retail orders he has sent to other florists—too far away for him to ship his work:

The Year.	No. of Orders.	Gross Value.
1909	360	$2,950
1910	405	3,150
1911	435	3,450

So far this year, he said, there has been another good increase.

Is there a florist in America who would not consider $3,500 worth of business important?

Mind you, these were the orders he has sent out; the record does not show the business he received from other florists too far away to make deliveries in his town.

His profit on the orders sent out was twenty per cent. The profit on the orders he received from the florists was, of course, correspondingly less, for he allowed the twenty per cent discount from his regular prices to the florists who sent the orders.

To receive your share of the stream of exchange orders that flows into your city, carry a card in the Department for Leading Retail Florists in The Review—there already are seven pages devoted exclusively to these cards.

To get orders to send out, and make your twenty per cent, you have only to let the public know of your facilities for delivering flowers anywhere on short notice.

A FLORAL EMBLEM.

Although from an artistic standpoint designs and emblems carried out in flowers are not usually a success, yet there are times when retailers are called upon to make them, and, as they are in the business to make money rather than to educate the public, they naturally do what their customers wish. The panel shown in the accompanying illustration was made to the order of the White Rats Actors' Union of America for the funeral of its founder, George Fuller Gordon, and was the work of the Hayward Floral Co., of Los Angeles, Cal. This panel stood eight feet high and was over four feet wide. The rat was made of white chenille and carnations, the star of red and the ground of white carnations. The greens used were galax and adiantum.

"GREETINGS!"

One of the customs not in vogue to the extent the florists wish it were is that of presenting flowers to the presiding officers at conventions and other meetings. Possibly stage decorations and vases of loose cut flowers are in better taste than the presentation of floral designs; but the florist likes to make the designs. Also, the average president of a trades union or fraternal order is tickled to death when the local people present him with some such an arrangement as is shown in the accompanying illustration. This is a design made by the Art Floral Co., San Francisco, for a meeting of the Eagles. Note the bird at the top. The portrait of the president, of course, occupied the center.

THAT EMPIRE WREATH.

With reference to the empire wreath submitted for criticism in The Review of August 8, page 9, I would say that the designer failed to retain the shape of the wreath properly. The galax looked as if it had been put on carelessly. Some asparagus should have been used to cover the easel, and a few sprays should have been used with the flowers. Two or three fronds of the Whitmani fern would have added a graceful look to the design.

I find that in making up empire wreaths it pays to use flowers of one kind; that is, to put on a cluster of carnations, sweet peas, roses or other flowers, but put a stop to mixing all kinds of flowers together, on designs of this kind. It is not necessary to educate people in order to create in their minds a preference for one kind of flowers; you will find that after they have seen one made up in the manner I have stated, they will always want them that way. This applies especially to empire wreaths.

Some florists think that if they have some odds and ends on their hands, they must use them in the first design that is ordered. It would be more prof-

THAT EMPIRE WREATH.

With reference to the empire wreath submitted for criticism in The Review of August 8, page 9, I would say that the designer failed to retain the shape of the wreath properly. The galax looked as if it had been put on carelessly. Some asparagus should have been used to cover the easel, and a few sprays should have been used with the flowers. Two or three fronds of the Whitmani fern would have added a graceful look to the design.

Combining Portraits and Flowers.

I find that in making up empire wreaths it pays to use flowers of one kind; that is, to put on a cluster of carnations, sweet peas, roses or other flowers, but put a stop to mixing all kinds of flowers together, on designs of this kind. It is not necessary to educate people in order to create in their minds a preference for one kind of flowers; you will find that after they have seen one made up in the manner I have stated, they will always want them that way. This applies especially to empire wreaths.

Some florists think that if they have some odds and ends on their hands, they must use them in the first design that is ordered. It would be more profitable to most florists if they would wait, and use up the odds and ends in such cheap work as we all get orders for occasionally. Or, if the flowers will not keep until cheap work comes in, better put them in the waste barrel.

James L. Kenney.

THE LYRE OR HARP.

The accompanying illustration shows a design made by Fred W. C. Brown, of the S. A. Anderson establishment at Buffalo. It is the lyre; most people would call it a harp, though the harp design is entirely different in form. However, the sentiment and principles of construction are the same. The lyre is better than the harp, because the proportions are better. The width of the harp is greater at the top than at the bottom, and it makes a rather awkward piece to handle, with big base, narrow bottom and wide top. A harp must necessarily be a large design.

In this lyre the instrument was made solidly of white carnations. The trimming was of selected cattleyas, with chrysanthemums for the base.

UNDERTAKERS' COMMISSIONS.

Are They Reasonable?

A recent issue of The Review contained an inquiry, received from a subscriber, in regard to the rates of commission usually paid by florists to undertakers. The subscriber expressed his doubts as to the reasonableness of the twenty per cent rate and asked for the opinions of other readers on the subject. The inquiry is here reprinted, followed by two replies:

Is it a general custom among the florists of the United States to allow undertakers twenty per cent discount on orders for funeral flowers? It seems as though this percentage is more than it ought to be, when we take into consideration the small effort put forth by the undertaker. Our wholesale men ask fifteen per cent and run a large part of their business on that percentage. It means plenty of hard work for them. We should like the opinion of several florists in this matter. Should not the percentage allowed be one generally used throughout the country?

S. & S.

Thinks the Rate Excessive.

It seems to me that undertakers expect a high percentage because the florists are willing to give it. I know of florists in New England who offer twenty-five per cent and even thirty-three and one-third per cent on all orders, and, if an order amounts to $10 or over, telephone, telegraph and express charges are paid in addition. Now, I do not consider such business as that to be any credit to any florist. The rates I have just mentioned were quoted to me by a prominent undertaker, who wished to give me his orders, as I was nearer to him than Boston and shipments could reach him more quickly, but I absolutely refused to do this, for I do not believe such rates should be allowed to any undertaker.

I think fifteen per cent should be a reasonable consideration to give any undertaker, for he only takes the order and delivers it, with no expense to him. When the florist has to give away such high commissions, the undertaker gets the cream and the florist the skimmed milk, and I believe the florist is entitled to his own profits.

If the florist is giving the customers what they are paying for, he cannot get his living during these times of high prices and give away such high percentages. Either the customer must have a tremendous imagination as to the good quality of what he receives for his money, or the florist must come far short of his proper income.

I hope many of the readers of The Review will carefully consider this question and that a profitable discussion may be brought out, so that ultimately a universal rate of commission for undertakers may be established among the florists of this country.

G. J. Benedict.

The Other Side of the Subject.

Apropos the subject of "Undertakers' Commissions," as introduced by S. & S. in The Review of July 25, the writer is of the opinion that the rate of twenty per cent is a result of competition among the retail florists, and is so nearly in universal use now that a general change downward could only be effected by a close agreement among all the florists in a given territory or district. The possibility or probability of such an agreement, or its observance by all the parties thereto, is so remote that it would hardly encourage one to take the trouble to work it up.

It is just another of those conditions in business that we have to meet as they are, and not as we should like them to be or even as they ought to be.

However, there are some relieving features in the case. The bulk of the business from the undertakers is funeral work, and the profit on this class of work will stand twenty per cent better than the business resulting from a general line of petty sales, which would largely include loose flowers in dozen counts, with green, etc., and at an average price per item much less than on a list of funeral items.

Another point is that it is often "emergency business," inasmuch as, if the undertaker did not know where he could be reasonably certain that flowers could be had, and was not able to give information as to prices, suitable designs, etc., the bereaved family or friends would pass up the matter as out of the question, owing to lack of time to get proper information as to where and what to buy. This applies especially to communities in territory tributary to the city or town in which the florist is located.

Another point is that the florist has an opportunity to pass upon the credit standing of the undertaker, and this will cover all the deals coming through him, as he is charged directly with the goods and is responsible for the payment. He, being on the ground, can make his own arrangements with the customer, and the florist is relieved from the bother of a number of accounts that are thus covered by one account with the undertaker.

Besides, we find that our business with the undertakers is a source of new customers, who buy from us direct, having first known of us and our work through orders filled for the local undertaker. When they want flowers for a party, wedding or other social function they often wish to make some preliminary inquiry and make it direct to the florist.

All the foregoing points apply mainly to out-of-town business. Locally, the business done with the undertaker does not show the same arguments so strongly; nor does he, as a rule, turn in so large a proportion of business, as the local buyers are usually at least as well informed about your business, name and location as they are about that of the undertaker. However, the local undertaker is the source of most of the orders for grave decorations, handling of flowers at important church and residence funerals, etc., all of which helps in the business, especially from an advertising standpoint.

In the matter of looking after the flowers at a funeral, and taking care of their transportation from residence to church or to cemetery, we make a net charge of whatever we consider it worth, according to a schedule of our own, and give the undertaker no discount. We consider it professional services rendered to him, he having charge of the funeral, and he can consider it as one of the expense items.

A Lyre of White Carnations, Mums and Cattleyas.

Pillow of White Carnations, Lilies and Sprengeri.

Although it may look like it, I have not written this article to defend the undertaker or his twenty per cent, but to present for consideration the points which occurred to me when I began to look around to see what we florists were getting for the twenty per cent which it seemed the undertaker was getting with so little effort. The fact is, the undertakers are a pretty good bunch of fellows, and with the doctors and florists they make an aggregation that would be sadly missed if removed from any community.

W. H. Culp.

THE PILLOW.

Next to the wreath, the pillow is the most frequently called for design the florist makes on a wire frame. The accompanying illustration is a particularly good pillow. It lacks the solid regularity that usually is the principal characteristic of the design. The pillow ought either to be solid and smooth, with nothing more than a spray of the finest flowers thrown across it, or else it should be made with the flowers on sufficiently long stems so that a soft effect will be produced. Naturally, when this is done, the design must first be filled solidly to afford the proper background. The space for the inscription which almost always is required should be no larger than necessary.

BE FIRST IN YOUR TOWN.

Not in Talking, But in Doing.

One of the cheapest and one of the most useless short cuts to local notoriety is knocking the town in which you are getting your living, constantly talking up the many good things you have done or seen done in this, that or the other big city, and comparing them disparagingly with what you and your competitors are doing.

We must always take our hats off to the clever retailers in the large cities. By their progressive ideas and spirited methods of advertising, buying and boosting, they make money for themselves, for their growers and, by force of example, for their brother retailers in small towns. But the man who is content to talk of these and not to strive to emulate the best he has seen or heard of, is not the one to get far ahead. Be first in your town, not in talking, but in doing—in showing your customers that you have ideas a little above the common ruck and that you can carry out these ideas for their benefit.

Advertising, Good and Bad.

Just a word as regards local advertising: Why so many retail florists neglect this great aid to business, it is difficult to say. Printers' ink, made to talk and not simply to fill up space, is a valuable asset to any business man, and to none more than the retail florist. But the time for the ad that runs, "John Jones, florist and decorator; flowers for funerals, weddings and all social events," or something along that line, is gone and a man who spends money in that way is either careless or a dead one. Everyone knows that a florist handles flowers. Don't waste people's time by telling them that. Rather tell them that you put up the best wreath for $2 or $5 that can be purchased in your town for that amount, or note some special line of flowers on which you are long and can make some tempting price.

"Flowers will be cheap for the rest of the week; see our display," is a line that brought a crowd of customers to a live retailer at a time when business was dull. "Flowers for all occasions," or "Funeral wreaths a specialty," would not have touched the spot like the simple and direct story told in the foregoing few words.

The Dollar Box of Flowers.

A leader like the dollar box of flowers all the year around, which was started by a well known retailer and copied in many places all over the country, is a big drawing card at all times. Yet failure and all it implies has been foretold time and again by the croaking brotherhood for the men who thus offer their customers the best the market affords at a reasonable price. In times of plenty this dollar box shows a good profit and clears out a lot of stock. At other times the profit may not be so large, but it is advertising of the most practical character.

In short, the offering of flowers at a reasonable rate stimulates demand and creates a larger flower-buying public everywhere. Thus the retailer reaps an immediate benefit, while that accruing to the grower is just as important. The man who is first in his own town itable to most florists if they would wait, and use up the odds and ends in such cheap work as we all get orders for occasionally. Or, if the flowers will not keep until cheap work comes in, better put them in the waste barrel.

THE LYRE OR HARP.

The accompanying illustration shows a design made by Fred W. C. Brown, of the S. A. Anderson establishment at Buffalo. It is the lyre; most people would call it a harp, though the harp design is entirely different in form. However, the sentiment and principles of construction are the same. The lyre is better than the harp, because the proportions are better. The width of the harp is greater at the top than at the bottom, and it makes a rather awkward piece to handle, with big base, narrow bottom and wide top. A harp must necessarily be a large design.

In this lyre the instrument was made solidly of white carnations. The trimming was of selected cattleyas, with chrysanthemums for the base.

UNDERTAKERS' COMMISSIONS.

Are They Reasonable?

A recent issue of The Review contained an inquiry, received from a subscriber, in regard to the rates of commission usually paid by florists to undertakers. The subscriber expressed his doubts as to the reasonableness of the twenty per cent rate and asked for the opinions of other readers on the subject. The inquiry is here reprinted, followed by two replies:

Is it a general custom among the florists of the United States to allow undertakers twenty per cent discount on orders for funeral flowers? It seems as though this percentage is more than it ought to be, when we take into consideration the small effort put forth by the undertaker. Our wholesale men ask fifteen per cent and run a large part of their business on that percentage. It means plenty of hard work for them. We should like the opinion of several florists in this matter. Should not the percentage allowed be one generally used throughout the country?

S. & S.

Thinks the Rate Excessive.

It seems to me that undertakers expect a high percentage because the florists are willing to give it. I know of florists in New England who offer twenty-five per cent and even thirty-three and one-third per cent on all orders, and, if an order amounts to $10 or over, telephone, telegraph and express charges are paid in addition. Now, I do not consider such business as that to be any credit to any florist. The rates I have just mentioned were quoted to me by a prominent undertaker, who wished to give me his orders, as I was nearer to him than Boston and shipments could reach him more quickly, but I absolutely refused to do this, for I do not believe such rates should be allowed to any undertaker.

I think fifteen per cent should be a reasonable consideration to give any undertaker, for he only takes the order and delivers it, with no expense to him. When the florist has to give away such high commissions, the undertaker gets the cream and the florist the skimmed milk, and I believe the florist is entitled to his own profits.

If the florist is giving the customers what they are paying for, he cannot get his living during these times of high prices and give away such high percentages. Either the customer must have a tremendous imagination as to the good quality of what he receives for his money, or the florist must come far short of his proper income.

I hope many of the readers of The Review will carefully consider this question and that a profitable discussion may be brought out, so that ultimately a universal rate of commission for undertakers may be established among the florists of this country.

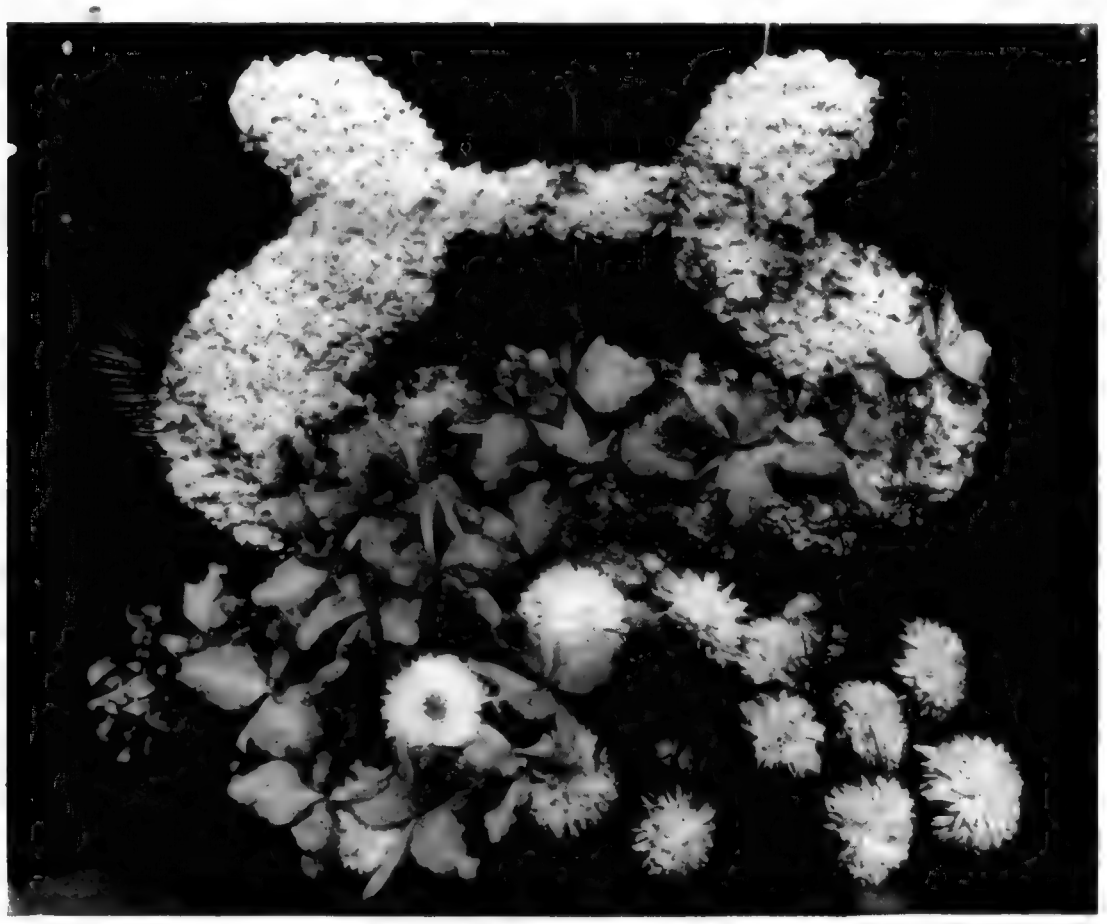
G. J. Benedict.

The Other Side of the Subject.

Apropos the subject of "Undertakers' Commissions," as introduced by S. & S. in The Review of July 25, the writer is of the opinion that the rate of twenty per cent is a result of competition among the retail florists, and is so nearly in universal use now that a general change downward could only be effected by a close agreement among all the florists in a given territory or district. The possibility or probability of such an agreement, or its observance by all the parties thereto, is so remote that it would hardly encourage one to take the trouble to work it up.

It is just another of those conditions in business that we have to meet as they are, and not as we should like them to be or even as they ought to be.

However, there are some relieving features in the case. The bulk of the business from the undertakers is funeral work, and the profit on this class of work will stand twenty per cent better than the business resulting from a general line of petty sales, which would largely include loose flowers in dozen counts, with green, etc., and at an average price per item much less than on a list of funeral items.



Another point is that it is often "emergency business," inasmuch as, if the undertaker did not know where he could be reasonably certain that flowers could be had, and was not able to give information as to prices, suitable designs, etc., the bereaved family or friends would pass up the matter as out of the question, owing to lack of time to get proper information as to where and what to buy. This applies especially to communities in territory tributary to the city or town in which the florist is located.

Another point is that the florist has an opportunity to pass upon the credit standing of the undertaker, and this will cover all the deals coming through him, as he is charged directly with the goods and is responsible for the payment. He, being on the ground, can make his own arrangements with the customer, and the florist is relieved from the bother of a number of accounts that are thus covered by one account with the undertaker.

Besides, we find that our business with the undertakers is a source of new customers, who buy from us direct, having first known of us and our work through orders filled for the local undertaker. When they want flowers for a party, wedding or other social function they often wish to make some preliminary inquiry and make it direct to the florist.

All the foregoing points apply mainly to out-of-town business. Locally, the business done with the undertaker does not show the same arguments so strongly; nor does he, as a rule, turn in so large a proportion of business, as the local buyers are usually at least as well informed about your business, name and location as they are about that of the undertaker. However, the local undertaker is the source of most of the orders for grave decorations, handling of flowers at important church and residence funerals, etc., all of which helps in the business, especially from an advertising standpoint.

In the matter of looking after the flowers at a funeral, and taking care of their transportation from residence to

Although it may look like it, I have not written this article to defend the undertaker or his twenty per cent, but to present for consideration the points which occurred to me when I began to look around to see what we florists were getting for the twenty per cent which it seemed the undertaker was getting with so little effort. The fact is, the undertakers are a pretty good bunch of fellows, and with the doctors and florists they make an aggregation that would be sadly missed if removed from any community.

W. H. Culp.

THE PILLOW.

Next to the wreath, the pillow is the most frequently called for design the florist makes on a wire frame. The accompanying illustration is a particularly good pillow. It lacks the solid regularity that usually is the principal characteristic of the design. The pillow ought either to be solid and smooth, with nothing more than a spray of the finest flowers thrown across it, or else it should be made with the flowers on sufficiently long stems so that a soft effect will be produced. Naturally, when this is done, the design must first be filled solidly to afford the proper background. The space for the inscription which almost always is required should be no larger than necessary.

to thus feel the public pulse will always retain the reputation of being up-to-date and progressive, no matter how many others follow his lead.

The Window Displays.

There is nothing that indicates originality or the lack of it so clearly as the windows of a florist. Too many retailers retain practically the same display year in and year out, the only change noted being that the jars or vases are filled with different flowers, according to the season.

Foreshadowing of local happenings by window displays is a sure card to play. When you have an idea, work it out. Don't be afraid to let your competitors see it and don't hide your light under a bushel. Only by such means can you be first and let others tail along in the procession.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Lorraine Begonias.

Probably you have noticed how much faster the Lorraine begonias are now growing. They do not move much during the hottest summer weather, but now that the nights are cooler, they, in common with many other plants, are making much more rapid headway. Lorraines—and when we mention them we would wish to include, also, that grand addition, Glory of Cincinnati—like a tolerably warm house to make their growth in. When once the flowers are well opened, it is better to keep them much cooler. The strongest plants should now be well established in 6-inch pots or pans, and it is to be hoped that the necessary staking has not been forgotten. Be sure to use stakes which are light, painted green and as inconspicuous as possible. You will have discovered before now, if you have been growing along these beautiful begonias yourself, that they succeed best in a light but moderately rich compost. Plenty of flaky leaf-mold, well decayed cow manure and loam, with sharp sand, makes an ideal medium.

Schizanthus.

If you have never grown any plants of the charming annual, schizanthus, you should try some for the coming season. Whether as a pot plant or for cutting, it is one of the most useful subjects we have. It is often referred to as the "poor man's orchid," as the flowers so closely resemble orchids, but, unlike the real aristocrats of the floral kingdom, they require but a few months, and not five to ten years, to flower from seed.

Schizanthus grows best under glass and is in every way the most satisfactory during the cool months of the year. August is as early as it is advisable to sow the seeds, as in hot weather they run rapidly up to flower and, in spite of persistent pinching, never make really shapely plants. The best of all varieties for pots is S. Wisetonensis. Some improved, large flowered strains are offered and they are fine, but such sorts as S. retusus albus and grandiflorus oculatus grow too tall for pot culture. Sow the schizanthus in a flat, pot off singly, pinch out the top when three inches high and keep the plants out in a coldframe for a month or so yet. Then give them as cool and light a house as you have, in order to get the best results from them.

Bouvardias.

The one-time prime favorites, bouvardias, are not grown as they once were. Like many other plants, they have had their ups and downs and a turn of the tide in their favor will soon be due. As they will not stand much frost, they should be lifted and potted now; or, as some growers prefer, they may be planted in benches. If taken up with a little ball of damp earth, they will lift quite well. If all earth is shaken away, they will wilt badly and be slow in recovering. Shade for a few days after lifting and the plants in pots will establish themselves more quickly under glass than outdoors. That fine white, sweet scented variety, Humboldtii, will now be starting to flower freely and it will pay to stake and tie up a row of the plants outdoors, in order to keep the flowers clean. The roots of these can be lifted before they get any sharp frosts, and can be stored in flats of soil for stock, or they can, if desired, be planted in the bench of a warm house, where they will give a fine winter crop in February and March.

Annual Larkspurs.

Crops to follow chrysanthemums are fairly numerous. Popular ones are snapdragons, sweet peas and bulbous stock, including lilies. For the sake of variety, annual larkspurs are worthy of a trial. Quite a few florists now appreciate them and more will do so when once they have grown them. They are splendid for cutting and work in finely in funeral designs. The leading colors are all desirable and include pure white, soft pink, rosy pink, lavender and dark blue. Sow the seeds in a coldframe or in flats, pot off singly and stand them on the bench of a light, well ventilated house. Plant out as the mums are cut over, placing the plants a foot apart each way. Do not try to force them, or they will rot off. A minimum of 50 degrees should not be exceeded in winter.

Stevias.

If you have not lifted and potted your stevias, do so now. The plants, as all growers know, are tender, and the least frost will spoil them. They are also extremely brittle and easily broken, and when left too long in the field they are often badly broken by the heavy winds and thunder rains which we frequently get at this season. Keep the plants outdoors as long as safety permits, and when housing is done give them the coolest possible quarters, as flowers early in the season are not wanted, while in midwinter they are of the greatest value to every country florist, and the grower who has not a good-sized batch of this old, reliable standby will wish he had grown more. Those who are short should therefore try to procure some extra stock as soon as possible.

Berried Solanums.

Berried solanums do not mind a few degrees of frost, but they are, or should be, heavily berried before now, and should be lifted and potted. If a little soil is left on the roots and the plants are kept freely syringed, they will soon establish themselves. Some growers prefer to grow their plants in pots, thinking that they get better plants in this way. I have tried both plans and have proved beyond question that the planted-out stock is immeasurably superior, giving larger plants, bushier and more heavily fruited than such as are pot-grown.

(The Remainder of the Exhibition was in the Municipal Building, Under the Belfry Tower.)

Furthermore, when grown in the field they need no watering, an occasional cultivation being the only labor involved. Plants should not go into larger than 5-inch or 6-inch pots. I always manage to get the biggest into the larger of these two sizes.

CHARLES C. YOUNG.

Charles C. Young, vice-president elect of the St. Louis Florists' Club, is treasurer of the C. Young & Sons Co., and son of James Young, president of the company. He was born in St. Louis and is 24 years of age, married and has two children. President-elect Weber also is a young man and they should make a good, lively team. The members have pledged themselves to support them by attending, and many interesting meetings can be looked for during the autumn and winter months.

SHOW AT BRUGES, BELGIUM.

An International Exhibition.

Under the auspices of the Royal Horticultural Society of Bruges, an international exhibition was held, August 11 to 18. As the ancient city of Bruges holds a prominent position in the export horticultural trade of Europe, the exhibition was one of considerable importance and attracted a large number of visitors from various countries engaged in the horticultural trade. On the jury there were leading horticulturists from England, France, Germany, Sweden, and, from America, T. Tyson, of Madison, N. J. On the completion of their duties, Belgian hospitality was bountifully extended and an enjoyable time was spent in the exhibition and nurseries of Bruges.

Where Bay Trees Flourish.

Bay trees, palms, orchids and dracænas were special features. The spacious Market Square, adjacent to the famous belfry, was surrounded by a belt of bay trees of various forms and sizes, five or six rows deep. Beds of begonias, cannas, geraniums, etc., were nicely laid out, and the effect was enhanced by the judicious grouping of palms, araucarias, dracænas, etc., illuminated in the evenings by electric lights.

Under the belfry, the municipal halls were filled with cut flowers, orchids, crotons, ferns and exhibits of new and rare plants. Altogether it was a collection worthy of the ancient commercial and historical city, and its present-day great plant-growing establishments.

No one can visit Bruges without being impressed with the enormous quantity of bay trees grown, and at the exhibition the finest specimens of the nurseries were on view, in columnar, pyramidal and bush forms, many of gigantic dimensions. The leading prizes were awarded to Sander & Sons, the Flandria Co., Vincke-Dujardin and B. Lindig.

Magnificent Palms.

Palms in all sizes, from two feet up to twenty feet, in many varieties, were magnificent. Perfection seemed to characterize every plant. The exhibitors already named were again in the prize list; also V. Story, Ghent. One could not help being impressed with the elegance of Phœnix Roebelenii, it was so admirably shown by the Flandria Co., V. Story, Sander & Sons and others.

In seven or eight classes for new plants and plants of recent introduction, Sander & Sons led the way, but in nearly every instance the specimens appeared to be more adapted for botanic gardens and gentlemen's establishments than for general market purposes. In orchids, also, Sander & Sons were at the top with fine examples in a great collection. The Flandria Co. was in the front rank with crotons and V. Story figured well in the Araucaria excelsa classes, as did also the Flandria Co. and Vincke-Dujardin.

Flowering Plants.

In flowering subjects, tuberous begonias, double and single, took a leading position, and fine groups were shown by Sander & Sons and the Flandria Co. C. Walraet, Steenbrugge, led in classes for cannas, and M. Ballego, Leiden, in dahlias. In roses, W. Sabbe, Bruges; C. Kerkvoorde, Wetteren; M. Braekman, Wetteren, and De Coninck-Dervais, Maldegem, were leaders.

Apart from competitive classes, many awards to non-competitive exhibits were made. Among these were a silver gilt medal to Louis Van Houtte, Ghent, for begonias; silver medal, first class, to Sander & Sons, for begonias; gold medal to Vincke-Dujardin, for anthuriums, and gold medals to the following for orchids: Charlesworth & Co., England; C. Vuylstehe, Loochristy, Belgium; Jules Hye, Ghent; M. Dietrich, Brussels; F. Lambeau, Brussels, etc.

HOOF-PARINGS IN MANURE.

We have bought some cow manure that contains some sweepings from a blacksmith's shop where a good deal of horseshoeing is done. Would the hoof-parings be injurious to carnations? We wish to put the manure in the bottom of the benches, but, before doing so, we should like to hear from someone who has used such sweepings. F. C.

It would be inadvisable to use the manure in question, unless you have some means of determining how much of the hoof-parings is mixed with the manure. Better save this manure and use it to top-dress with later. The horn shavings are rich in ammonia and should not be used in much larger quantities than you would use ground bone. If this is all the cattle manure you happen to have, do not hesitate to use stable manure on the bottom of your benches instead.

While cattle manure is about as complete a manure as you can get, yet it is not so indispensable as we were at one time wont to believe. For several years past, we have had little of it on our place, simply because it has been impossible to get it at a reasonable price. We are using stable manure, supplemented with sheep manure, wood ashes, etc., and we are growing better carnations than we did when we had all the cattle manure we wanted. Not that cattle manure is not good, but you can grow flowers, and good ones, without it.

TREATMENT FOR BULBS.

Should tulips, hyacinths, Paper Whites and daffodils be potted all at the same time if one wants to bring them out a few at a time? Our basement is not very dark and cool. Would it be better to use outside pits for them? Any information in regard to this matter will be greatly appreciated.

L. A. E. & S.

Tulips, hyacinths and daffodils should be placed in the soil as soon as possible after arrival. They will have been out of the soil for a considerable time before you receive them, and the longer they remain out of the soil, the poorer they will bloom. Paper Whites are less hardy than the other bulbs named and do not need to be placed in a dark cellar or pit. The bulbs of these can be kept out of the soil if you want a late batch, but I prefer to pot all when received, as they fritter away so much of their strength when out of the soil.

As your basement is rather warm, outdoor pits will answer admirably. Soak well after potting or placing in flats, then cover with coal ashes and leave exposed to the weather until protection is necessary to prevent freezing. Paper Whites can, after potting, be placed below the benches in one of the greenhouses. They should not be buried in coal ashes, like the other bulbs named.

DRAINAGE OVER ALKALI SOIL.

We should like to get some definite information regarding sub-irrigation. We are building two new glass houses for vegetable forcing. Our soil in this part of Washington state is somewhat alkaline. For this reason we remove fourteen inches of the top soil, which we replace with soil suitable for our purpose. Before hauling in the new soil we lay two strings of 4-inch tile the full length of each 15-foot house. This tile is laid on the level and we place a tee at regular intervals of thirty feet in each string. In these tees we fasten a 1½-inch pipe with cement. This pipe comes through to the top of the new soil, protruding about two inches above it. Each of these pipes is capped to prevent clogging when not in use. These standpipes are used to supply our tiles with water from the top. About half of the tile is placed below the level of the old soil. On top of this, and covering the entire surface of the old soil, we fill in about three inches of medium-coarse river gravel. This completely covers the tile, leaving only the standpipes protruding. Over this layer of gravel we haul fully eleven inches of good soil. What we want to know is, whether this system will give us the best results in sub-irrigation and, if not, how can we improve it? Our ground is high and naturally well drained. Do you think it would be wiser to omit the gravel, or will the water work its way through it and the soil above it as well? Are we using sufficient tile and is the size right? Should the supply points be more frequent? Our primary idea in using this gravel was to keep the alkali from working up through our new soil. The advantage of additional drainage was also considered. We are planning more construction and if you can suggest any improvement in our present method, taking into consideration the alkali with which we have to contend, we shall be pleased to have your reply. W. W. F. C.

I have had no experience with an alkali soil, but would advise that provision be made for carrying off the surplus water after irrigating. Whether gravel should be used over the tile would depend upon the nature of the soil, but I would not think it necessary if it is adapted for growing lettuce. The only change we can suggest is the use of three instead of two lines of tile in each house.

DOUBLE AND SINGLE.

Violet plants in the field are at last beginning to move a little. They stand still and appear to barely exist during spells of drought and heat, but we do not mind this if that arch enemy, red spider, will only leave them alone, knowing, as we do, that after the middle of August, with the arrival of cooler nights, they take on a new lease of life. The best doubles are now grown under glass all the time, the new crop being planted soon after the old one has been cleaned out. The advantages of indoor culture are that the plants can be kept moist at the root and clean of spider, this making larger, healthier and more vigorous plants than field stock, also starting to bloom earlier than the lifted plants. All growers, however, do not cultivate even doubles under glass through the summer, and some who lift from the field are successful growers. It is necessary to house doubles earlier than singles for best results. The plants are less hardy and are more susceptible to disease in the fall. The dreaded spot, which has caused so many growers to abandon the culture of double violets, usually comes with the first heavy night dews. These may not cause it, but if the plants are under glass they are less liable to attack, and for this reason we always like to get doubles all planted before September 1.

With single violets, indoor culture would result in absolute failure. There would be no trouble about getting big, healthy foliaged plants, but when the blooming season arrived the flowers would be small, of poor color and few in number. Plenty of growers have proven this by experience. Singles should never be housed until they have had a few degrees of frost to check their leaf growth. If planted during warm weather, before the advent of frost, they will simply produce a wealth of foliage at the expense of flowers, and the only way to improve them under such conditions is to let some frost into the house on two successive nights.

The plants are now starting away to grow and runners should be removed from them. There is ample time in which they can make large plants, as September and early October is the period of most rapid growth. Keep the cultivator constantly at work among them and you will be surprised to note the rate at which the plants will grow from this time onward.

LAND FOR ASTERS.

We have about three-quarters of an acre of ground we wish to plant in asters next spring. The ground slopes to the east and is a red clay soil. It was sown down last spring in sorghum millet. This has been cut and we want to prepare the soil for the asters. This is our first attempt to grow asters and, as cow manure is not to be had, will you please tell us what to do to put the soil in good condition to grow first-class stock? The asters are for the market here, in central Alabama.

H. A. C.

If you can secure any well decayed horse or hog manure, do so and give the ground a liberal coating. Plow the ground and leave it rough over winter. When the soil has sufficiently dried in spring, harrow it thoroughly and keep it well stirred with the cultivator until planting time. Of course, you can hardly stir the ground too often after the planting is done. If you can not procure any of the animal manures conveniently, plow as advised and broadcast a good commercial fertilizer at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre, harrowing this in well before planting. Fine bone, you will find, suits asters well; so does pulverized sheep manure. In order to free your clay soil somewhat, give it a liberal dressing of air-slaked lime in the fall, before plowing. This should not be applied, however, at the same time as manure, as it releases too much of the nitrogen into the atmosphere.

CONVENTION AFTERMATH

THE OUTING.

Last week's issue of The Review covered the convention so completely that nothing remains but to say a few words for the outing. The closing day of the convention, while the exhibition was maintained open for the benefit of the general public, was devoted to a picnic at Ravinia park, twenty-one miles from Chicago, on the North-Western railroad. Two special trains were required to carry the party, leaving the city at 9:20 a. m. Nearly 800 persons were on these trains and many others came by later trains, by automobile or by electric car. The forenoon was devoted to races and other contests. After luncheon there was the annual ball game between the local florists' club and the All Stars, which Charles Graham has pitched to victory these many years. At 6 p. m. a dinner was served to all who cared to remain for the evening affair, and these numbered almost 700. Those who did not care to watch the ball game had the opportunity in the afternoon of listening to the Theodore Thomas orchestra, widely known as one of the finest in America. In the evening the Ravinia Park grand opera company and the Thomas Orchestra gave the fourth act of Rigoletto in the open air pavilion. A special train of sixteen coaches took the crowd back to the city, arriving at 10:50 p. m.

The baseball game between the Chicago Florists' Club team and the All Star aggregation recruited from the out-of-town S. A. F. members resulted in a ninth inning victory for the latter squad, 11 to 10. The score:

FINAL RESOLUTIONS.

The committee on final resolutions got no chance to present its completed work to the convention and supplies the following to the press:

The committee on final resolutions desires to present the following for approval:

WHEREAS, The twenty-eighth annual convention, now closing, will, we believe, live in the annals of the society as one of the most successful and enjoyable in the history of the organization, and desiring to recognize the efforts made to achieve these results, we therefore submit the following:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the thanks of the society are hereby extended to the officers and members of the Chicago Florists' Club for their lavish hospitality, the splendid efforts made for our comfort and pleasure, and their untiring care of us while in their midst. We desire to couple with them, in this recognition, the men of the allied trades in Chicago who worked hand in hand with them. Our special thanks are due to the Board of Park Commissioners for the great interest manifested in the exhibition, and their splendid display of plants which was such a feature. We also desire that the thanks of the society be extended to the various exhibitors and the advertisers in the souvenir album. Our thanks are also due to the daily press of Chicago for the notices given of the convention and exhibition.

In closing, we wish to specially express our appreciation of, and tender our heartfelt thanks to, the ladies of Chicago and the Ladies' Society of American Florists for all they did to entertain the visiting ladies. We recognize that the work done by them was a potent factor in the social success of the gathering.

THRIPS ON ASTERS.

I herewith enclose some aster leaves which are infested with some pests that are destroying a fine bed of asters for us. Please tell us what they are and how to get rid of them.

A. N. S.

The aster leaves are badly attacked by thrips, which breed and spread rapidly in hot, dry weather, such as you have probably been experiencing. This is a hard pest to fight. All you can do will be to keep the plants as moist at the roots as circumstances will permit and spray with nicotine extract, directing it below the leaves as much as possible with a spray nozzle, which will throw the spray upward. One spraying may not check the pests, but if gone over two or three times and also hosed overhead on warm evenings the plants should soon show an improvement. C. W.

FUMIGATING WITH SULPHUR.

Please let me know how to fumigate with sulphur without blackening the paint, and how much sulphur should be used to do a good job in a house 26 x 150, six feet to the gutters and eleven feet to the ridge. P. J. S.

A simple and safe way of fumigating greenhouses with sulphur is to mix it with an equal quantity of slaked lime and, after adding enough water to make a thick paint, apply it to some of the heating pipes, covering about one-half of them when hot water is used for heating, but not more than one-fourth of the steam pipes.

Another way is to boil and evaporate about one pound of sulphur once a week during the winter for from 10,000 to 15,000 cubic feet of space, the amount varying according to the plants and the need of the house. The evaporating can be done in a double boiler, such as is used by carpenters as a glue pot, with safety and little trouble.

USE FOR VACANT SPACE.

We have a bench the entire length of one house, 34x80 feet, thirty-two inches from the bottom of the bench to the ground. The glass at the back is sixteen inches from the ground, with steam pipes between the glass and the bench. Is there anything that we can use this space for? Could we grow anything in it profitably? We will plant this house with lettuce and radishes. C. B. G.

The space referred to could be used for forcing rhubarb, or onions, and at the edges might be used for parsley, beets, radishes, etc., if not too near the steam pipes.

NAME OF FLOWER.

Will you please give me the name of the flower which I am sending you under separate cover? J. G. W.

This is a form of Hibiscus Moscheutos, commonly known as the swamp mallow. It is a fine subject for planting on the edge of streams and ponds, and also succeeds well in the hardy perennial border. C. W.

The Fat Men's Race at the S. A. F. Outing.

The Ravinia park pictures in this issue were made by Fred Lembke, of W. W. Barnard Co.

The name of Otto Abele, of New Orleans, was incorrectly printed last week as Eble. The editor feels even worse about it than Mr. Abele does.

Charles Balluff won the diamond medal as the best bowler. All the other bowling matters were fully and exclusively reported in last week's issue of The Review.

W. R. Pierson states that the new rose of A. N. Pierson, Inc., has been named Miladi, suggested by F. E. Dorner, La Fayette, Ind., who, in case the name is accepted for registration, receives $100 as a prize.

At the suggestion of Harry A. Bunyard, the men who bought space in the trade's display made up a purse with which to purchase a handsome watch for Superintendent John Young, whose work had been thoroughly pleasing to the exhibitors.

The members presented R. Vincent, Jr., and Mrs. Vincent with a handsome cabinet of silver as a token of the esteem in which they are held. The presentation was made at Ravinia park August 23, President-elect Farquhar being the spokesman.

R. E. Jones, Richmond, Ind., last week became a life member of the S. A. F. He is 18 years of age and, except for F. H. Traendly's son, who became a life member while still in baby clothes, he enjoys the distinction of being the youngest person who ever has become a life member of the society.

The gate receipts at the convention amounted to practically $1,000, but the rent was increased $500 because the general public was admitted and advertising and other extra expenses ate up the bulk of the income. It looks as though the society might well recognize the wishes of the exhibitors in the matter of excluding the general public.

Joseph Heacock, treasurer of the Hail Association, made a record trip to the convention. He left home at 5 p. m. Wednesday, August 21, on the 18-hour train, attended the meeting of the Hail Association, the closing session of the convention, looked over the trade's display and at 2:30 took the 18-hour train back to Philadelphia, reaching home for breakfast Friday morning.

The Chicago convention was one of the best the exhibitors have had. Business was good so long as the people were about the convention hall. The attendance of the general public was not large enough to interfere. There was nothing doing in the trade's display Wednesday afternoon or Friday, which gave the exhibitors really only two days and a half in which to do business.

In the basement refreshment room nearly 1,600 lunches were served in the three days. A. I. Simmons, the Sixty-third street retail florist, had charge. He is a captain in the Seventh regiment, I. N. G., in charge of the commissary department. When the regiment goes into camp or on duty, Captain Simmons feeds a thousand men three times a day, so providing for the convention crowd was mere play for him.

W. R. Pierson is thoroughly in earnest about his publicity campaign. He has the right idea, for he will not countenance the press agents' "bunk" that constitutes so large a part of what the daily papers print about flowers. Mr. Pierson is one of those who believe that anything of a fake nature, while it may swell the box office receipts at a flower show, is harmful to the trade in the long run. His idea is that the press matter must not only be true but actually helpful to be valuable. That is right.

DECORATIVE PLANTING.

There are certain general rules governing ornamental planting that, when violated, offend good taste. These rules, known only to the initiated, may be broadly defined as making the best possible use of the surroundings, or natural landscape. Where that landscape is strikingly deficient, the shortcomings must be remedied. There are modifications of this broad rule, where, for instance, it is desired to make flat country hilly, or to import an Italian garden. Such changes require complete alteration of anything that nature may have done. These changes are so complicated in their exhaustive detail as to be of interest only to the few. The average woman or man wants to know how to assist nature, not how to change it. Valuable ideas, useful in their entirety or modified, may be gathered from the work of those who have given careful study to the production of the most pleasing effects. I do not mean by this only the college-bred landscape gardener, but it must include also that larger army of natural landscape gardeners whose work teems with originality and adaptability to difficult surroundings. It is said the science of law is simply good common sense, so it may be said that the science of landscape gardening is simply good taste. Good taste may be best defined as an appreciation of the beautiful. The proof of good taste in landscape work is shown in beauty of effect, suitability of purpose, and harmony of surroundings. Good taste is offended by what is ugly, what is unsuitable, what is out of keeping with the environments.

In the once popular old-time style of planting known as carpet bedding, color combination and surroundings, while important, are of far less consequence than mathematical exactitude. The level of the bed, the exact position and size of every plant, the evenness in planting, are paramount. When you gaze at one of these beds, perfectly planted, you feel that you are gazing on a masterpiece, something so perfect that there is not a flaw. The cactus, the euphorbia, the agave, each is in its place in the pattern; the groundwork of sedum, of echeveria or of alternanthera is so even, so perfectly trimmed, that it resembles a carpet. With graceful line and proper color combination these beds excite admiration.

The weakness of carpet bedding lies in its inability to satisfy a large love of the beautiful. It is perfect in itself, but its sphere is limited. It is as though you gazed on a sparkling diamond, a gem of rare luster and perfect finish, perfect in itself but wholly insufficient to satisfy for any length of time. You tire, you long for something on which the eye may rest without effort. This want is filled by the natural landscape of tree and shrub and grass, with, it may be, pond or stream or lake, a vista here, a garden there, each with due regard for perspective. Natural colors, in tree, in shrub, in grass, were at first sufficient; then these were enhanced by planting with regard for foliage, then by planting for foliage and for flower. Not the dwarf plants of the carpet, but eulalias, spruces, maples, then cannas, sage, geraniums, bold effects made necessary by greater distances.

Between these two styles is that vast field inhabited by most landscape work. It ranges from the cottage and the bungalow to the moderate sized home, or hotel, in suburb or in country. The work here must be done in conjunction with the architect; his aim, his thought, his idea, must be shared and furthered in every detail of the work. This field is vast; to it come the tree, the shrub, the plant, the vine in never ending combination. Knowledge of the conditions required by each to secure perfect growth, their height, their breadth, their color, is essential to success. It is a field worthy of our best efforts.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Gateway of the West.

The market continues to present its remarkable continuation of unusual summer business. Stock is somewhat limited, and there is no difficulty in disposing of it. The quality is finer than experienced for many seasons, which partly accounts for its being movable at all times. The local weather conditions throughout the summer have been ideal for every department of the business.

Vacations are almost a thing of the past. The last of the pleasure-seekers will soon be back at work.

Various Notes.

James S. Pepper, proprietor of the Linwood Floral & Nursery Co., has completed his new greenhouse. This additional space has long been greatly needed.

Kansas City's representation at the convention included W. L. Rock, Samuel Murray, Henry Kusik, Mr. and Mrs. Parker and the Misses Hayden, of S. Murray's. Mr. Kusik returned early, owing to the demand of duties at home. He says the convention was much to his liking. His firm is now receiving supplies for the new quarters, to which they move next week.

E. H. Frandsen, of Independence, Mo., was in town recently and expressed his satisfaction with the business for the summer season. He sees a prosperous year ahead, and is making preparations for it.

Fred Groschke, Sugar Creek, Mo., is now cutting nice asters and sweet peas. For the sweet peas he finds an especially quick market.

James A. Biggam continues to be about the busiest man in the city. His decoration at the Garden theater disclosed new possibilities in spectacular work, and was greatly admired.

The moose design made by Mr. Atkin, of the Alpha Floral Co., is now in the window and is attracting an unusual amount of attention. Miss Pinkerton has returned from her vacation with a beautiful coat of tan and a cheerful smile. Mr. and Mrs. Elberfield and Miss Lela Brunk, of the firm, were at the convention, at the close of which they expected to take a trip over the Great Lakes to the east, visiting many places of interest. They expect to return September 10.

Patrick Larkin, our new florist, continues to have a good run of trade. Though he started at an unusual time of the year, he has demonstrated his business-getting ability.

The Star Floral Co. has opened a neat little store at 7½ West Twelfth street. The head of the new firm is Mrs. William C. Davis.

The S. Bryson Ayres Co., of Independence, Mo., expects to have three new houses, 27x110, ready in about three weeks. The construction is also being rushed on the other parts of the range.

E. H. H.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Business in general is dull, with a faint hope of improvement soon. The principal outlet for the stock is an occasional wedding or funeral.

The florists and representatives of the allied trades met in the offices of the McVay Seed Co., August 16, with the view of forming an organization among themselves. It was decided to give a barbecue and picnic, after the return of those attending the convention. Hugh Seales and Andrew Hauge were at the convention.

Theo. Smith, with his wife and little daughter, has just returned from a sojourn at the Springs, much improved.

The Elmwood Cemetery Corporation has ventured into the field, with Ernest Kolenberge in charge. They are just completing two handsome steel frame greenhouses, a propagating house and a number of coldframes.

Hugh Sealés has added two first-class houses to his range and planted them with carnations.

John L. Parker has as fine prospects for carnations as have ever been seen in this section. The housing of these plants is well under way, under the able management of Andrew Hauge.

Frank Scott, formerly with John L. Parker, is now employed in the well-equipped store of Hugh Seales.

H. W. Luther is cutting a fine lot of summer stock and is now running a neat and up-to-date store at Ensley, our sister city.

Charles Skewes, of Bessemer, has a fine lot of ferns and general stock. He is making several improvements in his houses.

Our venerable florist, Geo. E. Luffman, has a fine lot of Glory of Cincinnati and Lorraine begonias. With the attention which he gives them, these will be good money-getters this winter. He reports business as excellent for the season.

The Summers Flower Store, which took over the flower department of the Amzi Godden Seed Co., reports a good July business, under the skillful management of John A. Lambert. Collections, however, have been somewhat slow. They report several good weddings for August. Mr. Lambert was recently elected secretary of the old established Wiley Candy Co., which has moved its plant from Atlanta to Birmingham. The concern has a capital of $55,000. Mr. Lambert will continue to act as manager of the Summers Flower Store. The local florists join in extending to him their best wishes.

Miss Black, of the Five Points Floral Co., is planning extensive improvements in her well appointed store.

W. D. Summerfield reports a highly successful season in the plant line.

A. J. Koenig reports a first-class season. He has a fine showing of carnations, all benched.

The McVay Seed Co., which has succeeded to the Amzi Godden Seed Co. in the retail store, reports fine prospects for early fall planting. J. B. Dolsen, president of the company, is spending a few days in the east, in search of new stock and new ideas. The Amzi Godden Seed Co., which is now confining its operations entirely to the wholesale seed business, is reporting large sales and on a more satisfactory basis than usual. Field seeds and bulbs are beginning to move at a decidedly satisfactory rate. J. A. L.

...NEWS NOTES...

Cleveland, O.—Lloyd F. Charlesworth, of D. Charlesworth & Son, and Miss Jessie W. Foote, also of this city, were married August 7.

Lake Forest, Ill.—Maurice Fuld, of the H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, Pa., lectured before the Garden Club August 27, on dahlias and gladioli.

Winsted, Conn.—Mrs. John O'Neil, mother of Daniel O'Neil, the Mooreville florist, died at Torrington, August 19, at the age of 74 years.

Greensboro, N. C.—C. W. Moorby has resigned his position with the J. Van Lindley Nursery Co. and will return to Philadelphia September 1.

Worcester, Mass.—Frank Connors, for five years employed at the greenhouses of George W. Knowlton, in West Upton, has now taken charge of the greenhouses owned by Denholm & McKay, in this city.

Clarksville, Tenn.—The Evergreen Lodge Greenhouses were sold August 7, at public auction. The sale included four vacant lots and the greenhouses proper, and a new cottage. The entire property was bid off by Dancey Fort for $5,500.

Helena, Mont.—Leon I. Milot, of the Mills-Milot Florist Co., of Wenatchee, Wash., and Miss Emma Latsch were married at the bride's home here August 12. Prior to removing to Wenatchee three years ago, Mr. Milot was a florist in Helena.

Shelburne Falls, Mass.—W. E. Shaw has nearly completed his new greenhouse on Creamery avenue, and will soon be fully equipped for business. The greenhouse is 40x130 and is pleasantly situated on the west bank of the Deerfield river, at the rear of Mr. Shaw's residence.

Salina, Kan.—A recent fire at the greenhouses of Edward Tatro caused a loss of about $700. The garage, in which the flames originated, was destroyed. The automobile was somewhat scorched before Mr. Tatro succeeded in removing it, and the wind shield was broken by the heat. Part of one greenhouse was also ruined.

Davenport, Ia.—Frank Davis, formerly a member of the R. R. Davis Co., of Morrison, Ill., has entered into partnership with his brother, James W. Davis, of this city, and the new firm has been incorporated under the name of the Davis Floral Co., with a capital stock of $25,000. They will grow both flowers and vegetables, making a specialty of cucumbers. Frank is president and James is secretary of the new company.

Rochester, N. Y.—To commemorate the consolidation of the various Vick concerns as announced in The Review for August 15, plans are being made to hold a Vick-pick-nick, the officers for which are announced as follows: Chairman, George Arnold; chairmaness, Miss Burns; chairmanee, Miss Klotz; chairmanest, Miss Gage; vice-chairman, Albert Vick; assistant chairman, Morton Hogan; lieutenant chairman, Stephen Peachy.

...NEWS NOTES...

Des Moines, Ia.—The Society of Iowa Florists is holding its tenth annual meeting here this week.

Pembroke, N. Y.—The W. E. Kirchhoff Co. has received word from England that the National Gladiolus Society there gave Gladiolus Princepine an award of merit July 30.

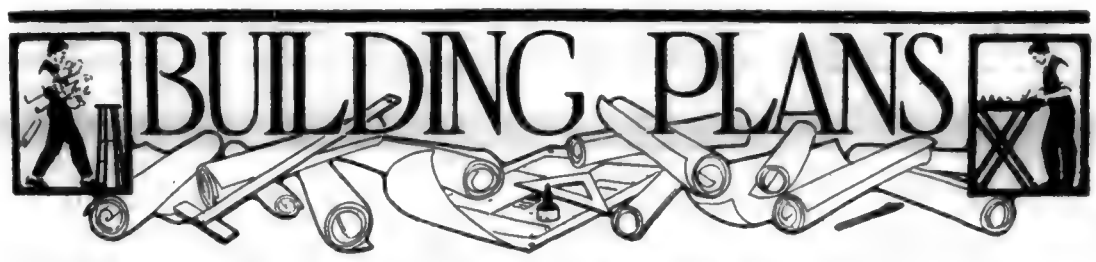
Millington, Mass.—A new fern shipper has entered the field, called the Millington Fern Co. It has recently bought the buildings and the premises of the New Salem Coöperative Creamery Co. and is to buy and ship ferns in large numbers.

Albion, Mich.—Arthur H. Dew purchased a new touring car this summer and spent his vacation autoing with his family. Mr. Dew reports that the Albion National Bank failure of last winter, instead of crippling, has apparently increased business in Albion, judging from his own trade.

Parsons, Kan.—The uptown store of the Wirt Floral Co., known as the Store Beautiful, is closed for a month or more this summer, as usual, so as to permit the owners and their assistants to have a vacation. Miss Mabel Modlin, the young lady who has charge of the store, is spending her holidays near the Walnut river, in southeastern Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. Wirt are camping and fishing for a month among the Ozarks. The store will be reopened early in September.

...NEWS NOTES...

North Yakima, Wash.—Arthur Judges, president and treasurer of the State Floral Co., recently returned from a vacation trip to Alaska.



Grand Rapids, Mich.—The Norton greenhouses, on Plainfield avenue, have been purchased by J. Baker, who will make extensive alterations and additions.

Battle Creek, Mich.—Leo C. Aldrich has purchased the flower store of H. A. Fisher Co., in the Ward building, and will continue the business under his own name.

Rockford, Ill.—The Sullivan greenhouse, at the corner of North Main street and Auburn street, has been sold to Charles E. Rogers, who will continue the business.

Goshen, Ind.—Miss Dora Brown and H. F. Powell and family recently returned from a six weeks' trip to the Pacific coast, going by the Canadian route and returning by the southern route. Miss Brown is manager of the Colonial Flower Shop.

South Hadley Falls, Mass.—The greenhouses and nurseries of Joseph Beach have been sold to Reginald S. Carey, of Holyoke, formerly landscape gardener in the employ of Joseph A. Skinner, of South Hadley. Mr. Carey will take possession early in September. Mr. Beach has conducted his florist business in the Falls since 1898. He was the first to open a greenhouse here.

Winchendon, Mass.—Wm. H. Rhuland is building a greenhouse 30x75.

Marquette, Mich.—E. R. Tauch is adding another greenhouse to his range.

Lyons, Ia.—George E. Dallam is building another greenhouse, 12x50, making four.

McGraw, N. Y.—W. D. Gates is building an addition to his greenhouse, 21x40, for carnations.

Baraboo, Wis.—E. T. Ross has had so much business that another greenhouse is being erected.

St. Joseph, Mo.—Mt. Mora Cemetery Association has taken out a building permit for an iron frame greenhouse, to cost about $4,800.

Farmington, Utah.—The Miller Floral Co. is pushing the work of adding to its range. It is said the plant already is the largest west of Denver.

Ogden, Utah.—The new greenhouse at the State School for the Deaf and Blind is almost completed. It is 22x55 and will be in charge of W. T. Stilwell.

West Bend, Wis.—Fred C. Kesting is adding 18x40 to his glass, which will give him 6,000 feet. He also is putting up a shed 10x26 and installing a new boiler.

Enosburg Falls, Vt.—J. H. Mears, on Orchard street, is erecting another greenhouse, 21x60.

Pontiac, Mich.—Mrs. L. C. Lewis has material on the way from Chicago for two greenhouses 22x80.

Auburn, Ind.—C. M. Ten Eyck & Son are building a large addition to their greenhouses in North Auburn.

Pittsfield, Ill.—Mrs. George Hansen's business has outgrown her facilities, so she is remodeling the plant, putting in an up-to-date heating system and adding three houses.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The park board is planning an enlargement of the greenhouses at the Lyndale farm, and Superintendent Theodore Wirth has asked that an appropriation of $8,000 be made to cover the work. It is hoped that the work of construction can be started before November.

River Forest, Ill.—The three new Moninger greenhouses, 28x133, being built by E. C. Waller, are nearing completion. Mr. Waller is the agent of the Rookery building, in Chicago, which has as tenants many well known concerns in the construction trades, and these houses are said to have been selected as models of permanence.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

FIELD-GROWN carnation plants are selling well. Anyone who has a surplus can turn it into cash by offering it in The Review. But don't wait too long.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

GREENHOUSE building is progressing at a wonderful rate in the middle west—not many large plants, but an infinite number of small ones. The country florists are not able to keep up with the demand.

REMOVING HARD PUTTY.

In answer to A. M. B.'s question in The Review of August 15, page 45, with reference to removing hard putty from sashbars, I would say that I have used concentrated lye and water, very strong, and also oxalic acid and water. Either of these should be applied with a cloth wound around the end of a long stick, or with a stiff brush. Rub it in thoroughly and let it stand a short time. If one application is not sufficient, give it another. Then go at it with a sharp chisel. Be careful not to get the lye or acid on the hands, or on any painted surface which you do not intend to repaint. After the putty is removed, give the sashbars a thorough hosing, so the lye or acid will not soak into the wood.

I have also known of a hot iron being used quite effectively, running it back and forth along the grooves in the sashbars. Lewis H. Wise.

In a recent issue of The Review I noticed an inquiry as to how to remove putty from sashbars. Last year we had considerable of it to remove and we found that we could do it much faster and better by heating square pieces of iron in a forge and running these on the sash; another man would follow with a putty knife. This method of procedure requires three men to do it successfully.

ENGLISH GLADIOLUS SHOW.

At the August exhibition of the National Gladiolus Society, held in London, England, there were grand exhibits from British, Canadian, Dutch, German and United States growers. The society made no claim to the title "international," but the exhibits warranted it.

The gold medal and silver cup for the finest group were awarded to Kelway & Son, Langport, England. The silver gilt medal and second prize went to Wilhelm Pfitzer, Stuttgart, Germany. A silver trophy for the best collection of twelve varieties went to Warnaar & Co., Sassenheim, Holland.

The silver cup for two spikes of a new seedling was awarded to Goldfinder, a splendid yellow from W. Pfitzer.

E. E. Stewart, U. S. A., was awarded a silver gilt medal for Michigan, bright red. K. Velthuys, Hillegom, Holland, received awards of merit for Empress of India, very dark, and Baron Hulot, purple.

The Dutch Gladiolus Society contributed to the exhibition a splendid stand of grand spikes.

The awards for premier spikes were as follows: Yellow—Schwaben, from W. Pfitzer; Golden Measure, from Kelway & Son. Pink—Panama, from W. F. Banning, U. S. A.; Evolution Perfection, from H. H. Groff, Canada; Blue—Badenia, from K. Velthuys, Hillegom, Holland; La Nuit, from Kelway & Son, Langport, England.

PERSONAL JOURNALISM.

When people praise us overmuch
We do not think they flatter;
We do not think their words are such
A lot of idle chatter.

Although we know it is not true,
'Twould not be kind to grieve them;
It is a wicked thing to do,
But we think we deceive them.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

The last week brought about a decided change in the local market, and with the opening of business August 26 the counters showed a surplus in almost everything in season. Roses, gladioli and asters were in such large supply that the prices asked and received were in direct contrast with a week ago, when values held steady. Roses arrived in large quantities, and, while of excellent quality in most cases, the market was so flooded that it was hard to clear the tables at even reasonable figures. American Beauties, Killarneys, White Killarneys and Marylands were in big supply, and other varieties were not far behind in either quantity or quality. Asters also flooded the market, and the improvement shown in these during the last week was notable. The warm weather brought them around in fine shape, and the better grades that are now being cut are all that anyone could ask. While the supply of the good stock is large, the supply of the inferior grades is even greater, and these can hardly be disposed of at any price. Gladioli are in about the same shape as asters, there being plenty of good ones to go around and a large surplus of the mixed stock that does not find either much favor or a profitable price.

Carnations are being cut in small lots, but not enough to have any great effect on the market at the present time. Indoor stock with good blooms but short stems is to be seen in some of the wholesale houses, with outdoor stock with not so good flowers but better stems, but no demand has been noticed.

Of the other items, valley is in good supply, and some fine stock is being cut. Lilies show better quality than they have for a week or two, and, while there is not an oversupply, there is plenty to go around. Cattleyas are about the only scarcity; hardly any of these are to be found. Sweet peas are gone, or practically so. Chrysanthemums never were so good or so plentiful at this date. Both white and yellow are available in quantity, ahead of any real demand, for prices are below what such good stock should bring. Greens of all kinds are being received in large shipments.

Monday, September 2, is a legal holiday. The wholesale houses will close at noon. Orders either should be mailed to reach Chicago early, or should be wired.

Beginning Tuesday, September 3, the wholesale houses will keep open to 6 p. m.

Various Notes.

W. E. Lynch, who recently joined the staff of A. L. Vaughan & Co., says it feels good to be back on the market again after being away from the routine for a year and a half. "Everybody is happy, and it seems great to see so many old friends again," was his comment.

Bassett & Washburn have signed a contract for the season's coal supply with the M. C. Moderwell Coal Co., for 15,000 tons of No. 2 and No. 3 grades, an order that amounts to nearly $35,000.

Lubliner & Trinz were busy all day August 27 making up eight massive designs for the funeral of Mrs. James E. Cagney, 6325 Sheridan road, the wife of a prominent local liquor dealer. The orders for this one funeral amounted to nearly $1,000, according to Mr. Lubliner, and a special auto truck was engaged to deliver the huge designs.

Otto W. Frese, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., says he looks for a big season, but thinks it will be largely shipping business and principally apparent in the houses that cater specially to this branch.

Weiland & Risch have completed their ten new houses, and roses and carnations are now being benched.

Erne & Klingel say that the shipping trade has picked up nicely in the last two or three weeks, and, with the new season coming on, Mr. Erne says they have made elaborate plans for handling out-of-town orders.

H. Van Gelder, of Percy Jones', reports that his Killarney shippers are cutting in full force from the young stock, both pink and white.

Allie Zech, of Zech & Mann's wholesale establishment, celebrated his first wedding anniversary August 26.

John Kruchten anticipates a good season. He has added to his list of shippers, and says he never knew the stock in general to be so good at this date.

Tim Matchen illustrates the way the supply has increased by saying that Peter Reinberg's shipments to the store for August 26 totaled fifty-three boxes. One wagon could not carry all the cut made Monday morning.

N. J. Wietor reports most of the convention committee's bills paid. He has devoted the greater part of this week to auditing the accounts.

A shipment of novelties in Chinese baskets was received by E. H. Hunt this week. C. M. Dickinson, of this firm, says they have found favor wherever samples have been shown.

Joseph Foerster, of Kyle & Foerster, says August business has run ahead of last year, but has not been satisfactory because of the unprecedented quantities of stock on the market.

Phil Schupp, of J. A. Budlong's, says the call for valley this month is far ahead of August of last year. Mrs. Schupp, who came in to attend the S. A. F. convention, returned August 26 to Lake Geneva.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., left August 27 on his annual eastern trip. He will visit the violet district before returning.

Mrs. W. E. Horton, of Bassett & Washburn's office force, is again attending to duties, after a two weeks' vacation.

Winterson's Seed Store is this week mailing its retail bulb catalogue.

Canger & Gormley celebrated convention week by opening their new store in the Fine Arts building, 410 Michigan avenue. The business done was more than double what was done at the old place in the corresponding week last year. The new store is not large, but still is adequate as a salesroom, while there is a big, light basement that has been used by previous tenants as selling space. Mr. Canger hopes he may need it for that purpose also, but for the present it will be used only for work. The office is in a balcony overlooking the store. The fixtures are all new, in the mission style. Two windows give good opportunity for display.

A. L. Randall returned to his Michigan fruit farm August 27. The Randall travelers are taking to the road this week for the fall campaign.

The Chicago Carnation Co., while not cutting its own crops, is doing a considerable commission business in roses, asters and gladioli.

George Asmus is taking his annual vacation this week. Last week also was part of his vacation, but didn't rest him up any.

The Raedlein Basket Co. reports being well satisfied with sales at the convention. Orders for baskets amounting to over $2,000 were taken.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

With most of the convention party back home, the wholesale district looks more natural, and those who did not go are being told what they missed. The wholesalers passed through another dull week, with plenty of stock on hand to supply any size of order that might come in.

There is a fine, large supply of roses, the bulk of them being Killarneys in all grades, though some excellent Marylands and Richmonds were also noticed. Asters in white, pink, lavender and purple are abundant, and are sold in big lots at low prices. Tuberoses and gladioli are dull, arriving in much greater numbers than can be disposed of in any one day. Carnations meet with a good call, and the best are cleaned up daily. The cool nights should improve them greatly from now on.

American Beauties have been quite plentiful in all grades, but have been confined mostly to one house. Easter lilies and valley sell well and are not overplentiful. A lot of outdoor stock is coming in, and the recent rains had a good effect on this kind of stock.

Various Notes.

The American Apple Growers' Congress held its annual convention at the Planters' hotel last week, being in session for two days. The State Horticultural Society held its meeting at the same time. The attendance was large. Resolutions were adopted to improve the packing, marketing and refrigeration of apples. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, J. W. Stanton, Richview, Ill.; vice-president, Louis Erb, Cedar Gap, Mo.; secretary, T. C. Wilson, Columbia, Mo.; treasurer, Wesley Greene, Des Moines, Ia.; statistician, L. A. Goodman, Kansas City, Mo. It was also decided to again hold the convention here, in August, 1913, the dates to be determined by the executive committee.

W. P. Brazill, one of our cemetery superintendents, attended the meeting of the National Association of Cemetery Superintendents, at Milwaukee, Wis., last week, and was elected vice-president of the association. Mr. Brazill is well known here among the trade, and his friends were much pleased about the honor conferred on him.

Frank A. Weber, of the H. J. Weber & Sons Nursery Co., says that his firm expects an extra busy fall season in shrubs and in fruit and shade trees, as heavy orders have already been booked. C. C. Sanders, Emil Rothenheber and J. W. Schuette also expect to put in a busy fall.

William Ossick and Paddy Patton, of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., put in a busy week rearranging the cut flower and supply departments in order to provide more room.

The Kirkwood florists report that violet plants are in poor shape and the majority of them have died in the field. Some of the firms will grow no violets this year. W. J. Pilcher and his brother-in-law, Robert Wolfsberger, who grow only the new Mazzura violets, say they have a good lot of them for this season, but that their stock suffered greatly this summer and their loss was great in plants, though they saved enough to insure a good crop. At any rate, violets from this locality will be scarce this coming season.

The J. F. Ammann Co., of Edwardsville, Ill., who consign their output to this market, will be in good shape this season for a big crop of roses, carnations and other cut stock. The stock from this firm is always in good demand in this market.

James W. Wade, manager for the estate of Lemuel Ball, Philadelphia, spent Monday, August 26, in this city, calling on the florists and interesting them in decorative plants.

erator has just been installed, nine feet six inches long, ten feet high and six feet wide, and is one of the finest boxes of its kind in the city. Mr. Waldbart's private office, all in white, was also built by the Brecht Co.

The big wind, rain and hail storm on Sunday, August 25, caused a great scare among the greenhouse men in the southern part of the city and out in the country, but no damage has been reported, and it may be considered lucky that the hailstones were small.

George S. Walters, the wire worker, has moved his shop from Sixteenth and Olive streets to 1531 Pine street, near the wholesale district.

Wm. F. Nichol, who was president of the St. Louis Seed Co., has severed his connection with this firm. He is still in the city and has not, as yet, made any plans for the future. The firm will continue as usual, under the leadership of Mr. Rau.

The Metropolitan Floral Co. is installing a large window refrigerator, nine feet high, four feet wide and six feet long, all in white. This is being fitted up by the Brecht Co.

Fred Riegel, who has had charge of Alex. Siegel's place during his absence this summer, expects the boss back any day. Mr. Riegel says that transient trade has been exceedingly good all summer.

W. C. Smith, president of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., who, with his wife, spent two pleasant weeks at Blue Springs lodge, returned August 17. He was known as a light weight, but has gained a few pounds during his vacation.

Frank Windler, John Held, F. H. Meinhardt and Miss Meinhardt were the first to return from the S. A. F. convention on Saturday morning, August 24, and they report a great convention and a splendid reception.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

The cut flower market is dull. The outlet for the flowers coming into town is insufficient. Asters and roses are plentiful and other flowers are in moderate supply. The quality is fair for the season. There is no special demand, either out of town or in the city.

Mr. Zirkman's Return.

Arthur Zirkman reached this city early this week, after traversing the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again. He reached Chicago August 19 and humorously describes the convention from a business standpoint: "I had been asked by Mr. Eschner to send in each evening all orders received during the day. We were so busy that it was impossible to do this. We worked hard all day and late into the evening. By bedtime we were all too tired to write. Mr. Eschner, of course, did not know this. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday passed without a word from Chicago. Everyone in the store kept asking him how we were getting on at the convention. Saturday he became desperate and wired me something like this, 'Are you all ill? We are a little interested. Wire.' My telegram in answer was, 'Too busy to write.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Zirkman are to be congratulated on their narrow escape from what might have been an awkward mix-up with the Mexican rebels on the border near El Paso.

The Palm of Today.

The most casual glance through Charles D. Ball's place at Holmesburg shows that the kentia is still without a rival. There are other fine palms, there are other fine foliage plants, there are pretty ferns; they are merely "the fixings for this turkey," as it were, or the chorus; anything you please to bring out the strength of the central figure. The kentias are extremely well grown. They are clean, with sufficient diversity in sizes to afford necessary variety. The stock is as well grown as in the past, which is saying a good deal. There is one innovation; the cedar tub for the decorative sizes has arrived. Of the other varieties, the Cocos Weddelliana were particularly nice, just rounding into form. The atmosphere in and about the entire place bespoke thrift and cleanliness.

Various Notes.

There is one important fact that brings pride to the heart of every true Philadelphian. It is that one-half of the splendid exhibition that filled the Coliseum at Chicago last week came from the City of Brotherly Love.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co. received their convention orders by express August 26.

Miss Lucy Davis, of Jacksonville, Fla., returned home last week, after a fortnight's visit to New York city, looking over and selecting floral fashions for the store of her father, N. Davis, the New York Floral Co. When it is remembered that J. Austin is a great admirer of the ladies, it is obvious that Phil has been greatly favored in securing this note, and it is to be hoped that Miss Davis will select her floral fashions in Philadelphia in the future.

George D. Clark says that the aster is the most important flower seed on the list.

The Robert Craig Co. sold nearly 5,000 crotons at Chicago last week.

BOSTON.

The Market.

No particular change in market conditions has taken place since a week ago. Outdoor flowers continue to fill the center of the stage and arrive in abundance, although rains and excessive humidity have spotted many. The main crop and late asters are fine. The best easily bring $2 per hundred, and some a trifle more. On the other hand, many smaller flowers are going begging at 25 to 50 cents. The Comet varieties are now quite prominent; quite a few singles are also seen. Gladiolus America brings $6 per hundred for the best. Augusta is next in favor. Colored sorts like Brenchleyensis are hard to move.

Carnations are now practically out of the market, but roses are abundant, there being large quantities of small flowers from the new plantings. Many of these go at 50 cents per hundred, some less. There are some really fine Beauty, Christy Miller, Taft and Kaiserin for the season. Valley and lilies have each been in fair demand. Sweet peas are still plentiful, but the quality is poor. Dahlias are more prominent, but are not good sellers here. Orchids are practically nil. Cosmos is abundant, but is small yet. Sweet sultans and cornflowers do not sell as well as a month ago. There is an abundance of asparagus and adiantum, without much demand.

Various Notes.

The Boston delegates to the S. A. F. convention started to return August 25, and all were loud in their praises of Chicago and the treatment accorded them. Everyone considered the trade exhibition the best they had ever seen, and the absence of the usual convention hot wave made their visit most enjoyable. Everyone here was delighted to hear of the election of our worthy and esteemed Bostonian, John K. M. L. Farquhar, to the presidency, and we are convinced that he will make good in this office.

William H. Elliott, at Madbury, N. H., is growing nearly 20,000 of the Christy Miller rose. It proves an excellent summer rose. Mr. Elliott will run it until the new year, then rest it and start up for a spring crop. Mrs. Aaron Ward has also proven itself a good summer bloomer. Some Lady Hillingdon and Sunburst are also planted this season. Some half dozen varieties of Killarney are being grown, but Bon Silene and Safrano have been dropped. Quite a few varieties have been tried as summer bloomers. Outdoors Mr. Elliott has grown a quantity of asters and sweet peas. He is particularly proud of his large acreage of mangel-wurzels grown for his cattle, many of which will average seventy-five tons to the acre this season.

The Sutermeister estate, of Readville, is busy boxing and potting off bulbs. They received a consignment of Dutch narcissi ahead of the French ones this season.

The Montrose Greenhouses, through E. A. Stickel, has for the season unusually good Deep Pink, White and Double White Killarney roses, also nice Perles and Wards.

Peter M. Miller left August 25 for a week's business trip to New York in the interests of his firm, the T. J. Grey Co.

The Flower Growers' Sales Co. has several new growers of roses for the coming season, including Charles Holbrow, of Brighton, and Peirce Bros., of Waverley, each of whom have several houses devoted to them.

The Eastern Nurseries, of Holliston, are erecting two new greenhouses and a packing shed to replace those recently burned.

William Turner, the Woburn violet and sweet pea specialist, is building a new greenhouse 35x100.

H. F. Calder, of Neponset, who is well known as a first-class grower of double violets and sweet peas, is now sending in superb asters, which easily bring top market prices.

quent waste of such quantities of cut flowers are most discouraging to every branch of the trade.

The flood of gladioli and asters shows no diminution. Prices are unmentionable. Dahlias are already abundant, and of hydrangeas and all the outdoor seasonable stock there is no end. Rubrums can hardly be given away. Tritomas are here and quite a quantity of mums are arriving daily. Sweet peas are becoming plentiful.

Yellow roses are abundant. There is no shortage of any of the new and popular varieties. Sunburst is especially fine. Of the older varieties of roses the shipments of the new stock, short-stemmed and with opened buds, are already tremendous. Few carnations are seen. August 24 the market was completely depleted of orchids. The scarcity has now lasted over two weeks. There is no scarcity of valley, but the best of it holds the higher rate persistently. Lilies are in oversupply, all varieties.

Various Notes.

The returning New York conventionites are unanimous in their appreciation of the grand reception and attention given them by the Chicago boys.

The season for the fall flower shows opens August 31, continuing over Sunday. This will be a gladiolus exhibit, and the Museum building, at Bronx park, will be utilized. Geo. V. Nash, secretary of the Horticultural Society, has returned from Washington and Oregon.

Wadley & Smythe had the decoration at Newport last week for the Vanderbilt oriental ball, the most beautiful affair of its kind ever seen in this country. The floral effects were elaborate and a large part of the firm's staff were busy a week on the work.

Mrs. Muir, of Scranton, Pa., was a recent visitor.

A. Pappas now has two stores, one at Eighth street and First avenue and the uptown one at One Hundred Twenty-fifth street and Eighth avenue.

Fred W. Schroeder, of Bayonne, N. J., was married August 21, his bride being Miss Katheryn C. Sunderman, of Bath Beach.

The Prospect Park Bowling Green Club, David Mellis, of Flatbush, president, was defeated by the Fall River Club Saturday, August 17, at the Prospect park grounds, by ten points. W. J. Elliott is a member of the New Jersey Bowling Club, and will take part in the game shortly against Hartford, Conn.

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

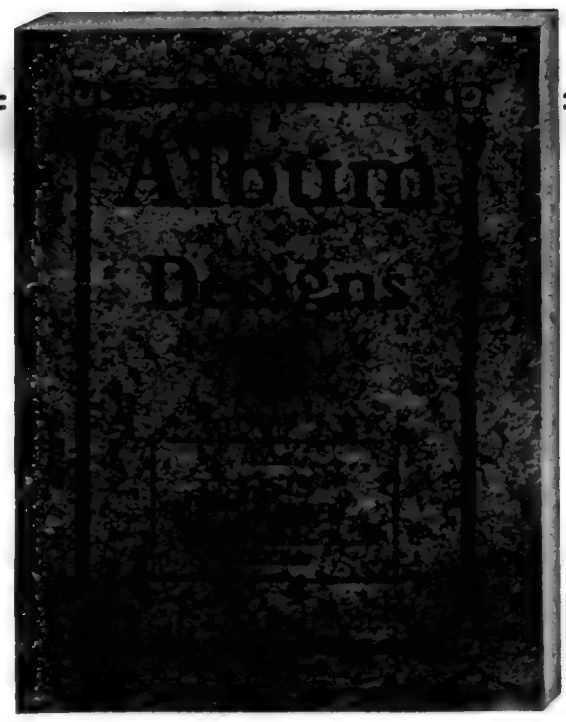
A rainy day is a common occurrence in Dayton now, for in the last two weeks not a day has gone by without giving us a heavy shower, and, while it has its bad effects, it also has its good ones. Too much rain is hard on outside stock; consequently there is not so much coming into the market now, and that which does come in is mostly of poor quality. Thus the florist has a better chance to dispose of his stock. Last week was a good one all the way around; for one thing, the funeral demand was good and everybody seemed to get his share. Many of the vacationists who sought a cooler climate are coming home. Thus parties, receptions, etc., are gradually increasing to help things along. Lilies still are scarce. Roses and carnations are cropping abundantly, while the aster season is more than half through.

Various Notes.

Henry Ehrhardt, of Sidney, O., was in Chicago at the convention last week. This was Mr. Ehrhardt's first convention, and he tells us that he likes them so well he would not miss another.

The Miami Floral Co. is cutting some fine Kaiserin and My Maryland.

Miss Minnie Graham reports an exceptionally good week in the flower department of the Rike-Kumler Co.



John E. Stelzig, of Bellefontaine, O., was the largest exhibitor at the Logan county fair and was a heavy prize winner.

Frank E. Wiles, of the Peters & Reed Pottery Co., of Zanesville, was in town last week, introducing their latest novelty in pottery. The ware is known as the Moss-Aztec, being fashioned after the ware made by the Aztec Indian tribe, with the moss finish. The work is beautifully put up and is taking well, as it is something entirely new in the line of pottery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stitsworth and son Freeman, of Paulding, O., were guests at the home of George Bartholomew last week.

Miss Katheryne Young has returned from her vacation, reporting a fine time.

FOR SALE

THE FAMOUS ULLRICH GREENHOUSES, OF TIFFIN, OHIO.

Sale made necessary by the death of the owner, Lewis Ullrich, well known to the floral world. Tiffin is one of the most progressive towns in northwestern Ohio. Good shipping facilities, good schools, in fact, an ideal place to live and do business in. There are on the Ullrich lands sixty thousand or more feet of glass, and well stocked. Two substantial residences, one recently completed, barn, sheds, bulb and cut flower cellars, wagon shed, tools, wagons, in fact, a complete equipment. Located on one of the principal streets of the city. Land for growing stock. Floral store, white enamel fixtures, located down town, and everything there required by a first-class floral store, and practically new. Everything must be sold to settle up the estate. A bargain for the right man. No others need apply. For further information address

EDMUND J. ULLRICH, Administrator,
Sycamore Street, Tiffin, Ohio.

Floral Plant For Sale

To close up the estate of Ivend Krohn, deceased, the floral business conducted by him at Morris, Illinois, sixty miles from Chicago, will be sold at a bargain.

The business has been long established as a wholesale and retail plant. It contains six acres of ground with three new greenhouses, 125 feet by 28 feet, and twelve smaller houses. It is stocked with 5000 fine Pink and White Killarney roses, 800 Richmond, 3500 carnations, 7000 mums, 5 benches of Sprengeri, a lot of calla lilies and bedding plants. On the premises are one twelve-room house with all modern conveniences, and one five-room cottage, in good condition, big packing shed, cellar and barn, 2 artesian wells, wind mill and steam pump; three boilers; about 600 fruit trees and all kinds of small fruit.

Only the death of the proprietor places this plant on the market.

Title to property will be shown good, and easy terms of payment given.

SECOND EDITION

THOROUGHLY REVISED AND BROUGHT UP TO DATE

NO SCIENCE, BUT LOTS OF PRACTICAL COMMON SENSE

"I have several times been consulted by those who would make a beginning in the Florists' business. In each case I have said that the first step is to subscribe for a Trade Paper, and the next to procure a copy of the Florists' Manual." —J. A. VALENTINE, Pres. Park Floral Co., Denver, Colo.

"Find enclosed $5 for the Florists' Manual, by William Scott. It is the best book of the age on commercial floriculture and should be in the home of every gardener."—CONRAD FORBACH, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Market.

The heat and the abundance of rain in the last two weeks have made outdoor plants look much better than they did a year ago. The nurserymen and florists have had an unusually good growing year, and now crops are well enough matured so that, even if conditions should be unfavorable in the future, a good year is assured.

Because the ground has been so full of water at planting time and has remained so most of the summer, almost all the trees and shrubs that were set this spring have lived. This will mean more business this fall, for the people like to plant when they feel that things will grow.

The supply of cut flowers is good, both in quantity and quality. A few good carnations are beginning to appear. The generally cool summer has made the asters large and well colored, while the roses have been better than usual all summer. The demand is fair at good prices. Cut flowers have not been cheap in Nashville all summer, or rather since the peonies were done. Our many schools and colleges will open soon, and already many are returning to the city to get things in readiness.

Various Notes.

Mr. Ewing, of McKay, Reece & Co., the seedsmen, is away on rather an extended trip, inspecting crops and buying supplies. They report the fall business as opening better than ever before in the history of the firm. The day I called they had just sold to one farmer 600 bushels of seed wheat, to be sown on his own farm. More and more our farmers are learning the value of good, pure seed.

McIntyre Bros. have purchased a new place about two miles out of town, on one of the principal car lines, and are building a range of houses on it. They will transfer all their vegetable growing to this new plant and devote the old place entirely to flowers. The move had become necessary, as they were unable to secure more land adjacent to the old plant to accommodate their growing business.

Mr. Odell, at one time proprietor of the Cumberland Seed Co., in this city, has started business near the L. & N. freight depot and seems to be getting a nice trade.

Geny Bros. report business as rather quiet at present. They are cutting a good supply of roses of all the summer varieties, with a fine cut of Killarney just coming in. They have been able to clean up pretty well on everything that they did not need, at wholesale. Oscar Geny attended the S. A. F. convention at Chicago, and reports a fine time.

The Joy Floral Co. reports business as quiet, with just enough funeral work to keep things interesting. Their Mr. Smith attended the Chicago convention in the interests of the firm. They still have a fine supply of good gladioli and are cutting some good carnations. Their supply of the standard flowers is adequate and the quality is fine. They have just potted up a bench of Hallii ferns that are certainly all right. Floyd Bralliar.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

There has been a slight improvement in the conditions of the local market during the last week, with considerable funeral work and some decorations. There have been an unusual number of weddings, but the call for flowers has not been so general as is the case during the June and winter nuptials. Asters are coming in more plentifully and in better quality. Roses are of good quality and sufficient in quantity, though short-stemmed in many instances.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Charles N. Page, Des Moines, Ia.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THERE is agitation for a pure seed bill in Texas.

CARROT is one of the best crops of the season in the Santa Clara valley.

THE Ohio Valley Seed Co., Evansville, Ind., is getting bids for the erection of a new brick warehouse.

THE California growers are in the midst of the harvest. In general the yield is light, notably so in sweet peas.

IT is reported that the Lake Shore Seed Co. and the Dunkirk Seed Co. have amalgamated and will erect a warehouse 45x100 at Welland, Ont.

THE Marshalltown Seed Co., Marshalltown, Ia., has been incorporated with $10,000 capital, by T. C. Cartwright, Fred S. Hynds and F. G. Pierce.

THE seed business of R. M. Oglesby, Bartow, Fla., recently purchased by Dr. E. E. Conant, will hereafter be conducted under the name of the Florida Seed Co.

EVERETTE R. PEACOCK, formerly with the Leonard Seed Co., has set up for himself at Chicago, dealing in onion sets as the Everette R. Peacock Seed Co., not incoporated.

NOT only are the sweet pea crops in California extremely disappointing this year, but the yield on radish also is far below par. On these items prices are due for a boost.

THE Superior Seed Co., Sacramento, Cal., has been incorporated with $10,000 authorized capital, by W. C. Born, George J. Born and L. P. Driesbach, who are the directors.

NOW that Congress has adjourned, W. Atlee Burpee will be able to start his 1913 Farm Annual. For the last two months practically all his thought and time have been given to his work as chairman of the Seed Trade Association's committee on postal affairs.

APPARENTLY the Harrisii bulbs are about all in. The boat from Bermuda that reached New York August 21 brought only a dozen cases, eleven consigned to L. D. Crossmond & Co. and one to Wells Fargo & Co., making total arrivals to date only 2,760 cases.

THE William Galloway Co., Waterloo, Ia., has purchased a tract of five acres which adjoins the Galloway property on the west, and work will be started at once on a three-story cement structure, to be used for a seed storehouse by the Galloway Bros. Bowman Seed Co. The improvement is estimated to cost between $10,000 and $15,000.

THE Champaign Seed Co., Champaign, Ill., which has been in business here a year, has met with success in both the retail and the wholesale departments. A corporation has been formed with $10,000 capital, by Geo. B. Ransom, Mary B. Ransom and B. C. Heyness, and a store and warehouse 22x100 feet, two stories and a basement, will be ready for occupancy early in November.

YEA, VERILY.

Let us rejoice! Congress will prob-

FRENCH SEED CROPS.

The French seed growers still are suffering from the vicissitudes of the weather; the early part of the season was excessively hot and dry, but recently the opposite conditions have prevailed, when sun was wanted to mature the crops. The experience has been general throughout France, but especially bad weather has been had in Anjou, which is one of the most important seed growing sections in the north of France.

Carrot is one of the important crops for which the American trade looks to France. Because of the shortage and high prices last season, it was difficult to make contracts for growing carrot for the 1912 crop, but a large acreage was planted at the growers' own risk. In the south of France it is said weevil has done much damage, but in the northern sections the crop is fairly good. One trouble will be that the crops have been grown without the usual care. It is not thought that carrot will attain last season's record prices.

JAMES VICK'S SONS

Beet is another important crop as affecting the American trade. These suffered much from the dry weather early in the season and a short crop again is certain, with the probability of an exceedingly strong demand and high prices. Turnips are a good crop, but reports of short crops elsewhere are causing the stock to be held at high prices. Parsnip is good, but the acreage is small. The breadths of parsley also are restricted this year, and there appears to be no prospect of any seed surpluses.

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" CHRISTMAS FLOWERING SWEET PEAS

WE ARE SUPER-HEADQUARTERS

¶ All true stocks of Winter-flowering Sweet Peas will be scarce this season. Some varieties are a total failure owing to the exceptional season in California this Spring. Our advice to intending planters is to order at once. ¶ Mr. William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., the great Winter Sweet Pea specialist, sows our seed almost exclusively. ¶ Our stocks of Christmas-flowering Sweet Peas have stood the test for years, and we can refer you to the largest growers of this increasingly popular flower, as to the trueness and quality of our seed, earliness of blooming period and strength and habit of plants. ¶ The following varieties are the "best by test" and include Zvolanek's and our own introductions, grown for seed from selected stocks by the leading California grower and specialist in Sweet Peas. ¶ Our output last year was nearly 3000 lbs. Few kicks and plenty of testimonials as to quality, germination and trueness to type. ¶ We can make immediate delivery of the following:

BODDINGTON'S EXTRA-EARLY CHRISTMAS WHITE SNOWBIRD. An exceptionally early Sweet Pea for indoor flowering—will bloom six weeks after sowing. Color, clear white, upon long stems; habit fairly dwarf and of exceptionally free flowering qualities. Without doubt the finest early white for indoor planting. We sell one grower in Pennsylvania 35 lbs. of this variety every year; name on application. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

BODDINGTON'S CHRISTMAS PINK. This is the earliest and most profitable and useful Sweet Pea in cultivation, as by sowing the seed under glass in latter part of August, flowers can be cut from Thanksgiving on during the Winter months. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

BODDINGTON'S CHRISTMAS WHITE. A companion to our Christmas Pink. Just as free and profuse a bloomer. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

ANGELINO. Self pink; new variety. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $4.50.

CANARY. Similar to the above, but flowers of an exceptionally good yellow. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.75, lb. $3.00.

CHRISTMAS METEOR. Scarlet; fine open red flower. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

CHRISTMAS STELLA MORSE. Creamy buff standard, wings slightly tinged with pink. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $4.50.

FLAMINGO. Color scarlet; free flowering and early. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $5.00.

FLORENCE DENZER. Pure white. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

LE MARQUIS. This is the same color as Princess of Wales, violet; has very large flowers. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

MRS. ALEX. WALLACE. Lavender; very scarce. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

MRS. F. J. DOLANSKY. Daybreak pink. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.25, lb. $4.00.

MRS. GEO. LEWIS. Large, pure white, wavy flower. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

MRS. E. WILD. Carmine or dark pink. Oz. 15 cts., ¼-lb. 50 cts., ½-lb. 85 cts., lb. $1.50.

MRS. HANNAN. Deep rose-pink; very pleasing shade. Oz. 40 cts., ¼-lb. $1.25, ½-lb. $2.00, lb. $3.50.

MRS. W. W. SMALLEY. Satiny pink. Oz. 35 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.75, lb. $3.00.

MRS. WILLIAM SIM. Salmon-pink. Oz. 30 cts., ¼-lb. $1.00, ½-lb. $1.50, lb. $2.50.

MRS. ZVOLANEK. Blue, variegated. Oz. 50 cts., ¼-lb. $1.50, ½-lb. $2.75, lb. $5.00.

MISS HELEN M. GOULD. White, open flower; standard lilac, marbled. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

MISS JOSEY REILLY. Lilac; very large flowers. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

WATCHUNG. Pure white. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

WM. J. STEWART. Blue self. Oz. 25 cts., ¼-lb. 75 cts., ½-lb. $1.25, lb. $2.00.

SEEDS :: BULBS :: PLANTS

72 Cortlandt St., NEW YORK CITY

says A. L. Jones, of Kelway & Son, Langport, England, in a letter written August 13. "However, rutabagas are a poor crop and will most likely not yield more than a quarter the normal. Turnip will also be decidedly short, but not to the same extent as rutabaga. The absence of sun, with more than the average rainfall during the last few weeks, makes it extremely difficult to form anything approaching an accurate forecast of the yields. Mangolds are represented by a small acreage standing and the recent and present rainy weather will cause further shortage. Peas promised well a little while back, but have been attacked by green fly; mildew is prevalent in some varieties and the continued rains will affect the harvest adversely. We think it is generally known in the trade that all biennials will be a short crop.

"There is a lively, world-wide demand for most things and seeds will not be a drug in the market this next season at any rate. Those who ordered at early prices are fortunate."

French Grown Golden and Silver Spur NARCISSI

(For Immediate Delivery)

N. B —Do not confuse these with French Trumpet Majors; they are entirely different, and flowers are much superior. For Early Flowering they are exceedingly useful, blooming as they do two to three weeks before the Holland grown stock.

Somerville, N. J., Jan. 19th, 1912.
Mr. A. T. Boddington. Dear Sir:—The "Silver Spur" Narcissus bulbs received from you last August flowered on the 10th inst. They are a welcome addition to the list of early-flowering Narcissus. Being earlier than Empress—which it resembles in color—will undoubtedly make it valuable commercially. We think so well of it that it will partly displace the early trumpets on our future Bulb list. Very truly yours,
(Signed) A. A. Macdonald.

"THE KENILWORTH STRAIN" of

GIANT PANSY SEED

Must not be compared with the flimsy Trimardeau

It is much larger and of good substance; the immense flowers, of 3½ to 4 inches are of perfect form, and every tint and shade is produced in striking combinations and endless variations of beautiful colors and markings. The Stock Plants are most critically selected. It is rich with shades of brown, bronze, red, mahogany, and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures. Read what Growers say about my strains of Pansy Seed in the Florists' Review of June 27, Page 55.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

In the last three months Tacoma and vicinity have experienced the greatest rainfall that has been recorded in eighteen years. This, with the unusually favorable spring, has produced an abundance of all kinds of outdoor flowers. Roses, especially, were never before seen here at this season in such perfection. Business has been dull, as might be expected under such conditions. Outside of an occasional funeral, there is little business being done through the stores. Sweet peas of fine quality seem to be the best sellers, but the sale of even these has been somewhat overdone by one of the department stores, which has been running a regular bargain sale on them. Vegetables continue to be the best paying crop. Tomatoes, especially, are holding up to a good price.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club and the trade generally were invited to spend the day, August 25, at Henry Benthien's place in Gardenville.

Fred C. Smith spent Saturday and Sunday of last week in Seattle.

The next regular club meeting will be held September 4.

The Dahlia Society is working out plans for a flower show, to be held in this city in September, and to be open to both amateur and professional exhibitors.

J. L. S.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

There has been little material change in the market since last report. While there is a variety of business, it is of small proportions. Asters are the best selling commodity on the market; the quality has been up to expectations and good prices are maintained, except on the lower grades, which are disposed of at any reasonable offer. Roses are coming in nicely, Kaiserins being the best in quality. The new crop of Killarneys, Maids, Gates and Richmonds is producing some nice flowers, but only in short lengths. Lady Hillingdon promises to be a winner; it fills the long-felt want of a good yellow rose. Rubrums and gladioli are plentiful; yet good prices prevail and a surprising quantity of this stock is moved. Sweet peas are out of the race; the recent rains have spoiled them.

Out at the greenhouses, carnations are all benched and are looking fine. Mums are also in good shape and the indications are for a banner crop.

Various Notes.

W. Brown, of Brown Bros., Vancouver, B. C., spent several days in this city last week.

J. A. Wilson has added 11,000 feet of glass, of semi-steel construction, this season, which will be devoted principally to carnations, greens and vegetables.

The Walter Thompson Co., a local firm of greenhouse builders, is building some houses for the city of Seattle, in one of the prominent parks.

S. Lubliner is making a special window feature of Boston ferns as a drawing card. He reports business as highly satisfactory.

At the last meeting of the Florists' Club the subject of holding a flower show was discussed. While nothing definite was determined, the matter will be taken up again at the next meeting. This is a move in the right direction. It would mean a great deal to the growers and to the business in general.

Montello Coe, of Bend, Ore., is building greenhouses. This is the first glass to be erected in that section.

E. R. C.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Up to the middle of the month of August, business held up well, but quite a little stock has gone to waste during the last two weeks. Funeral work has been the mainstay of the trade, but has not in all cases been sufficient to keep the staff busy. Many are away on vacations and hunting trips, and, altogether, the stores have a quieter appearance now than for a long time.

Outdoor roses of the second crop are coming in, and are excellent in quality. Pink and White Cochet, Ulrich Brunner and a few Lady Battersea are the best varieties. Cecil Brunners are small and poor in color, but appear to be in fair demand. Indoor roses keep up well in quality, both from new and old stock. Radiance is again showing its class as a summer rose, some elegant stock being shipped in. My Maryland and Prima Donna are also fine. Carnations are poor in quality, with few exceptions, though some fairly good Corbetts are shown, as well as a deep red seedling which is grown to a considerable extent by the Japanese around Long Beach. Gladioli continue to arrive in large quantities, and are excellent in quality. The market is flooded with asters of every imaginable shade. Smaller flowers are plentiful and good.

Various Notes.

The Abercrombie brothers are shipping in elegant small stock of Whitmani ferns, begonias of the foliage section, and coleus.

H. Reeve Darling, of the Hayward Floral Co., says that business at the store during his absence was away beyond his expectations. He saw a lot of interesting country up on the high Sierras during his trip, and speaks highly of the beauties of the ferns, the big trees and other vegetation there. A recent improvement in the store was the removal of the office desks to the rear, where they are more private and give more room in front.

The H. N. Gage Co. keeps busy at the store, and a lot of elegant bulb stock is being lifted, showing that bulbs can be grown as well in this section as anywhere. Paper White narcissi and ornithogalum are grown in immense quantities.

The new plantings at Glendale being made by Tassano Bros. are looking fine. Tony and Angelo take turns at the store and the ranch, which gives both of them a change.

Ed. Howard is preparing for another Mexican trip.

Morris Goldenson left recently for Bear valley, in San Bernardino county, for a hunting and fishing trip. A 12-hour stage ride is necessary to reach these grounds, but the sport is fine when there. Deer are plentiful and Morris will also have plenty of chances at the speckled beauties in the streams.

S. Murata reports business as elegant, and is showing exceptionally fine outdoor Cochet roses and Lilium rubrum.

Business at the Los Angeles Flower Market keeps up as well as can be expected at this time of year. Mr. Morton says he had an exceedingly pleasant time on his recent automobile trip to San Diego. He says that a day spent with John Morley, of the city parks, was particularly interesting, and we were all glad to hear that things are coming Mr. Morley's way. Large quantities of excellent valley are being handled at the store; also fine Belladonna lilies.

The Freeman-Lewis Co. turns out a lot of attractive work, and a standing wreath of purple asters recently made up by Charles Lewis was a truly superb piece of work.

The Star Nursery, at Montebello, must be going ahead; a fine automobile truck, bearing the above name, has been added to the equipment.

The cut of roses keeps up well at the Dieterich & Turner range, at Montebello. Large orders continue to arrive for the new red Cherokee rose, which will be sent out early in the new year. At least 100,000 have already been propagated by Henry Turner since this time last year, from thirteen little plants raised from the original sporting shoot, and on some of the larger plants it looks as though double that number of cuttings could still be taken. This is a creditable performance, of which Mr. Turner may justly be proud. Mr. Dieterich has built a residence for himself on the place.

Frank Lichtenberg has so far recovered as to be back at the store, but is not by any means right yet.

H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

There is little to record with reference to business. The August dullness is still with us. Though the townspeople are gradually coming back from the country, there has been no resumption worth mentioning. However, as soon as the schools are in full blast again, which will be in a couple of weeks, we can look for a change for the better.

Chrysanthemums are in fair supply, and several good lots of Appletons have been shown. They cost the stores from $1 to $2 per dozen, which is not expensive, considering the earliness of the season. Violets have been in evidence for several weeks, but they are in poor form and color and do not keep well. The growers are receiving $1.50 per dozen bunches for them. Of the other outside flowers, America gladioli are making the best showing in the windows. They wholesale at from $2.50 to $3.50 per hundred. It is still useless to give quotations on asters; they arrive in such quantities that they can be bought for little money. Of the other stock, dahlias and amaryllis are in the greatest profusion, and neither of them move rapidly.

Some of the more sanguine of the retailers look for an early resumption of fall trade, and it is to be hoped their predictions are correct, as trade in general is in a demoralized condition at present.

Various Notes.

A visit to the nurseries of J. H. Sievers & Co. shows a splendid lot of tuberous begonias and gloxinias in bloom, and a big, healthy lot of poinsettias and begonias coming on for the holiday trade.

Charles Abraham, of the Western Nursery, has returned from a week's outing in Contra Costa county.

H. Kempf will remove his nursery to Colma, Cal., in the near future. The condemning of the old site by the World's Fair Commission, to be used in the coming exposition, made this step necessary.

J. Fotheringham, representing the F. R. Pierson Co., of Tarrytown, N. Y., who has been in town for several days interviewing the local dealers, has left to continue his western trip.

W. H. Wolters, of the Dwight-Way Nursery, has completed the new building erected by him for his flower and seed department at Shattuck and University avenues, Berkeley. G.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Business in all lines of the flower trade is exceedingly quiet. Stock of every kind except, possibly, roses and carnations, is in excess of demand. Carnations are scarce and are selling wholesale at 3 cents. Some good asters are coming in, but there are also so many other flowers that it is difficult to get fair prices for even the best. Gladioli never were so plentiful. Speciosum lilies are far too common. The rains last week spoiled the early sweet peas; all we have now to depend on is the late sown stock.

Various Notes.

Mrs. L. W. McCoy made a wreath to the order of the United States government, for the funeral of the emperor of Japan. It was composed of magnolia and cycas leaves, with a bow of red, white and blue ribbon, and was to be conveyed to Japan by Secretary Knox. Mrs. McCoy has bought the store in the Pike Street Market recently occupied by L. Friedlander, and means to continue it. She purposes to dispose of the cheaper grades of stock grown at her greenhouses at South park and Madison park. To look after the delivery department, she recently purchased a Flanders automobile van. J. Roney has charge of the growing department, and will have his hands full to grow sufficient stock to supply the two stores.

Rosaia Bros. report good progress on their flower farm at Thomas, in the White river valley, under the management of Eugene Victera. They have

It Pays

To Pacific Coast Florists:

What stock have you for sale to the trade?

Is it moving as it should?

No?

Then tell the trade about it by using the Pacific Coast Pages of The Review.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash., June 26, 1912.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results.—Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

their greenhouses planted with mums, carnations and roses, with Henry Bornhoft as grower. Their intention is to erect more glass next winter. Their boiler has a capacity of 100 horse-power and will take care of three times as much glass as they now have. Mr. and Mrs. Felix Rosaia have gone to California on a two months' vacation. Another brother, Silvio, is here from California.

The Hollywood Gardens had some fine blooms of Cattleya Dowiana in their store last week. They have ten plants of this expensive variety, and, judging from the way the blooms have sold, the investment seems to have been a good one. T. B. Pritchard says they will be cutting carnations from their new plants in less than three weeks.

H. B. Burdett's brother, Cecil, started August 21 on a trip to England. H. B. was tempted to go along, but had to stay at home to look after the fall rush.

On the morning of August 22 the house of Harry Risdon went up in smoke. Mr. and Mrs. Risdon were preparing to move to Orcas island, and had taken out some of their furniture, etc., but many valuables were burned.

Ira Wilson, of the Bryn Mawr Greenhouses, has joined the ranks of the benedicts. When last heard of he was on his wedding trip.

Prices on cucumbers were almost nothing the last of the season, but on the whole it has been a good year for them. Tomatoes still bring a good price. C. L. Wilcox has some young tomato plants in his houses at Houghton, and expects good prices along in November.

J. Brown, of Brown Bros., Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., was a caller here on his way to California last week.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1912-1913: Pres., Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.; Vice-Pres., J. B. Pilkington, Portland, Ore.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-eighth annual meeting, Portland, Ore., June, 1913.

THE Sweet Home Nursery has been opened at Luling, Tex., with Mrs. D. Gregg as proprietor.

WELL, the federal quarantine bill is on the statute books at last. It has had the President's signature.

VISITED CHICAGO: John C. Chase, of the Benj. Chase Co., Derry, N. H., on his way to Augusta, Ga., for this week's convention of the Southern Nurserymen's Association.

A GOOD many large nurseries have had traffic managers, and now the multiplicity and diversity of state laws appears to call for adding a legal expert to the staff.

THE U. S. Department of Agriculture recently has issued as Farmers' Bulletin No. 489 "Two Dangerous Imported Plant Diseases," one of them being the white pine blister rust.

THE annual meeting of the Southern Nurserymen's Association is in progress this week at Augusta, Ga., August 28 to 30. R. C. Berckmans, of Augusta, has charge of the local arrangements.

THE Wichita Nursery, W. F. Schell, proprietor, Wichita, Kan., has bought most of the big plant of Bates Bros., of Floral, Kan. It has been an excellent growing season and a fine fall business is anticipated, both wholesale and retail.

THE Kirkman Nurseries, Fresno, Cal., recently acquired three lots, 75x150 feet, at O and Tulare streets, at a cost of $20,000, has removed the old structures and is spending $5,000 for an office building 30x65. The rest of the space is to be covered by greenhouses.

GEORGE W. FINLAY, of Minneapolis, and F. A. Ward, of Fairmont, doing business under the firm name of the Royal Nursery Co., have brought suit against George D. McKisson, proprietor of the Fairmont Nurseries, claiming $10,000 damages for alleged libelous publications injuring them in their business.

GENERAL APPRAISER WAITE has sustained the protest of Ammeman & Patterson against the assessment of duty on evergreens grown from seed which were held dutiable as nursery stock. The general appraiser holds that the term evergreen seedlings "should include all evergreens grown from seed, regardless of age, size or treatment subsequent to germination."

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Trade is quiet, with little doing outside of funeral work, and that has been rather light. Stock is not plentiful and most of it is not extra good.

Asters are the mainstay in the cheaper flowers. A few good ones are coming in, but the majority are of inferior quality, though they work in well for funeral work. Roses are somewhat better and the quantity has increased considerably in the last few days. The varieties are mostly Killarney and White Killarney, with some Mrs. Ward. Gladioli are still quite plentiful, but are moving more slowly as the season advances. There is some good valley in the market, but the demand for it is slow. The supply of lilies is quite heavy and the demand is only fair. Carnations are rather short-stemmed as yet, but are improving right along, and will soon be in good shape again.

Various Notes.

The State Fair and Centennial, coming this week, are bringing big crowds to the city. The parade on Monday was quite large, and some pretty floats were seen. The Livingston Seed Co. had two floats, one representing a store window, with potted plants and cut flowers, and the other a small greenhouse filled with potted plants, and there were potted plants all over the bottom of the float. They also had their auto decorated prettily with cut hydrangeas and paper decorations.

S. F. Stephens had a float of potted plants and a booth, and was passing out asters on the line of march.

E. Metzmaier's auto was handsomely decorated and made an excellent showing.

One of the finest of all the floats was from the Hartman stock farm, carrying two Jersey cows, with fences, and all decorated in fine taste.

There will be something doing every minute of this week, between the State Fair attractions and the Centennial.

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

A rather peculiar civil war is being carried on at the corner of Third street and Springfield avenue, with the possession of the greenhouses as the spoils of war. A suit for possession was recently fought out in Justice Cummins' court between John E. Yeats, the owner of the greenhouses, and Gus Johnson, who holds the lease. The legal battle resulted in favor of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Yeats has now made a new move in the fight. He has placed "For Sale" signs in different prominent places on the greenhouses. Mr. Johnson countered by having signs made which gave "all people to whom it may concern" due notice of the fact that he had a five-year lease on the property and that he would undoubtedly continue in the florists' business during that entire time. What the next move will be nobody knows, but the neighbors are watching the proceedings with great interest.

Cedar tub	High	Spread	Each
7-inch	18-inch	24-inch	$2.00

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green.

These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to Look Us Up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

ST. PAUL.

The Market.

Business continues quiet. Stock is in fine shape and so abundant that there is a slump in nearly all outdoor stock and little indoor stock is moving.

Various Notes.

The florists who attended the convention at Chicago are again at their work and all were well pleased with the trip.

C. N. Hanson is cutting an abundance of Killarneys, but he says there is a poor market at this time.

E. W. Reed, of Holm & Olson's landscape department, left last week for Glacier Park, Mont., with a crew of men. The Great Northern railway is improving that country and Holm & Olson will put in all the landscape work, to begin with spacious grounds surrounding the depot.

The Minnesota State Fair is creating quite a little enthusiasm among the florists of the Twin Cities. The State Fair Board offers $1,853 in premiums for plants and cut flowers. Gustave Malmquist, of Minneapolis, will have charge of the staging of the exhibits.

The St. Paul Floral Co. is busy remodeling and getting shaped up for the fall.

Victor Huot, of Duluth, spent a few days in St. Paul last week. He was en route to Montana. C. R. F.

Scranton, Pa.—John W. Beagle has bought the greenhouses on Capouse avenue formerly conducted by Ira G. Marvin, of Wilkes-Barre, for whom Mr. Beagle worked.

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

Last week's market was good in some respects and decidedly otherwise in some other respects. It was good because the demand was steady, but it was otherwise when some lines of stock that were in large supply did not get their share of the call.

All good asters were sold easily during the entire week. In the first day or two they ran short, especially the white ones, and there were hardly enough of the latter at any time. Nearly all the receipts of asters are now of excellent quality. Roses came in more heavily, but did not enjoy their usual popularity. It is true that the best sold easily, but there were a good many that did not move at all. While Beauties continued to sell well, they failed to clean up completely at the close of last week, for the first time in several moons. It seemed an off week for the roses. Gladioli continue in oversupply; the good ones sell easily, but only at the lowest prices, and the smaller ones move in job lots, if at all.

Other offerings include Easter lilies and carnations. The lilies are not in large supply and hence are realizing a better price. The carnations are cut from plants in the field. They are mostly Enchantress and are rather short-stemmed. The green goods supply is ample.

Various Notes.

After the convention at Chicago, C. E. Critchell departed for New York. From there he will take a month's trip through Canada.

Alex. Ostendarp, of the Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange, had an extra busy week last week while his partner, A. C. Heckman, Jr., was in Chicago.

Joseph Beran, of J. M. McCullough's Sons Co., stopped at New Castle, Ind., while returning from the convention. While there he was royally entertained by Messrs. Gardner and Lynch.

C. E. Critchell is receiving large shipments of sphagnum moss. The storing of this article is proving quite a problem for his force.

Mrs. Joseph Volz died on Saturday, August 24, after a lingering illness.

Al. Horning is visiting his folks at Toledo, O.

Among the callers were the Papworth boys, from New Orleans, and John F. and James P. Keller, of Lexington.

C. H. H.

D. Rusconi left on Tuesday, August 27, for a trip abroad to bring back his family, who have been sojourning in Italy. He expects to return early in October, in time for his fall business to open.

Geraniums

VINCENT and Geraniums, Geraniums and Vincent, are two names that have become so intrinsically linked together in the minds of a great majority of the florists that to think of one is to think of the other, and the reason for this is that they have learned by actual experience that it is to their advantage for them to secure their raw material from a specialist in that line, the same as other manufacturers do, rather than to go to the expense of carrying a lot of surplus stock of their own. It is our business to produce the raw material in the shape of 2-inch stock, so that the finisher can get what he wants when he has the room and is ready for it.

Last season we had to disappoint a great many of our customers who failed to get their order in on time. Although we have doubled our stock this year, we would suggest that you place your order early.
